Memorial Services for Charles J. Hammond were held Monday, February 14, 1977, at First Presbyterian Church of Fullerton, Calif. Hammond died on February 10, after a short illness.

As Principal of Richard Nixon School and Director of the Instructional Materials Center for the Yorba Linda School District, Hammond had been active until hospitalized in December.

Hammond had been an educator for 23 years. He began his teaching career as a coach, in the San Luis Obispo area, where he later served as elementary school administrator. He moved to this area in 1963, teaching in the Lowell-Joint District for one year before coming to Rose Drive School as a teacher in 1964. After serving as both a classroom teacher and team leader, he became principal of Rose Drive in 1966, where he served until 1973. At that time he was assigned to the organization of the new District Instructional Materials Center as director and to Richard Nixon School as principal.

During his years as principal in the Yorba Linda School District, Hammond involved himself with children as well as his administrative duties. He often went into classrooms to work with children in Holku writing, Physical Education activities, storytelling and discussion groups. He initiated call-home programs to share successes that children had experienced during the day and made a point of knowing each child in the school by name. The talent most remembered by many students was his ability to make square dancing an exciting activity. Teachers working under Hammond have responded to his positive, relaxed leadership. As one teacher at the Nixon School expressed, "He always brought out the very best of my abilities".

Hammond's community involvement included P.J.A. activity from which he received an Honorary Life Membership; Parent Advisory Committee; Citizen's Advisory Committee and special community activities.

He is survived by his wife, Sylvia, who also teaches in the Yorba Linda School District; a son Steve, of San Diego; a daughter, Cathy, of Orange; and a step-daughter, Connie Bebell of Glendale; his mother, Mrs. Cecil Hammond of Illinois, three brothers, Pat, John and Bob; three sisters, Mae Stroke, Alice Herbstreich and Nancy Bennett and two grandchildren.

The family requested that memorial contributions be made to Oral Roberts University, Medical Scholarships, Tulsa, Okla.
