OUR LEGACY: MILLENNIUM MOMENTS

ON DISPLAY: Utt's peanuts formed a cornucopia for the parade of products.

Santa Ana parades peat and blind pigs

You'll find all kinds of products at the fair, from slicers and dicer to cleansers.

Back when the fair was just starting to roll, the choice of products was more limited. But not the enthusiasm Fruits, vegetables and legumes were arranged in novel ways when the first "Parade of Products" rumbled down Fourth Street in Santa Ana on Nov. 22, 1905.

A walnut bear stood on a throne of rocks. Ears of corn formed a miniatore Mission San Juan Capistrano. Four pyramids, made of bags of sugar, were trimmed by sugar beets. A cornucopia of peanuts made the point that Orange County produced two-thirds of that crop in California.

Chili peppers represented a Pacific Electric trolley car, whose coming was the impetus for the parade. A was the impetus for the parade. A miniature orange grove showcased miniature orange Similar artistry showed off celery flowers, honey, pumpkins, beans, allowers, honey, Not everything on display grew on Not everything on display gre a farm. A network of wires and phones urged people to get that lates convenience, the home telephone. An thracite peat came from the county's own peat beds.
Politics also was on parade. Boys chanted "Never! Never! Never! San Ana free forever" from the Anti-Saloon League's float. The Liberal League countered with a blind pig (a porker with eyes bandaged, not a speakeasy) and a man drinking whis key.

Hiskey, Samuel -- Another sacrifice has been added to the many who before have fallen in the defense of our much loved country against the most wicked and terrible rebellion this world has ever witnessed, and which must be calculated to awaken in the hearts of many friends, a deeper hatred toward that institution which is the cause of such an unnatural and bloody war. Samuel Hiskey, son of Rev. Geo. Hiskey of this county, died March 5th., 1862. in Lebanon, Ky., of typhoid pneumonia. He enlisted in Captain R.C. Brown's Company, 64th. Regiment, O.V., with which he went to Kentucky, where he fell a victim to disease, and $\qquad$ an illness of nearly seven weeks closed the mortal conflict. Although far from home and principally among strangers, such care and attention, as the circumstances would admit, were bestowed upon him, receiving, also the best medical aid that could be rendered, and from the 3rd. of February until his spirit left its earthly habitation, was kindly and tenderly cared for by his father, who afterward brought his remains home for interment. The deceased was a pious and devoted Christian. During the time of his afflictions he enjoyed a calm and peaceful state of mind, and especially a day or two before his departure, a serene happiness filled his soul, and he appeared, in is mortal measure, "to enter into the joy of his Lord." Thus he passed away to receive, we trust, the Christian victor's crown. His burial occurred on the 10th. inst., when a large congregation assembled to express their esteem for him and to honor his memory. May the consolations of Him who gave his life for the world fill the hearts of the bereaved. -- S.K., Lexington, O., March 22d. [Mansfield Semi-Weekly News: 26 March 1862]

CUMMUNICATIONS

ANOTHER SOLDIER GONE HOTER.

Samuel, son of Rev. G. Hiskey, departed This life at Lebanon, Kentucky, March 5th, 1862, after an illoess of some seven weeks. with typhoid premnonia: Bro. H , soon after hearing of his son's sickness in the hos pital, went to Lebanon to see and take care fot him, and watched with him until death rerelieved the sufferer; after which he brought frome (near bexington, Ohio) the, cold remains of his loved one; and on the 12th of March, after a sermon by the writer, from 1 Peter 1: 3-F, to a large congregation, his tody was con-igned to the tomb, to wait the secoted coming of Christ, who shall quicken the dead, and clothe his saints with immortality.

Samrel's death, with the circumstances thereof, made a deep impression upon the minds of his neighbors.

- He was one among the many young men who when their country and liberties became endangered by wicked and unchlled-for rebellion, rallied to their country's call. Prompted by Chrisfian patriotism, he forsook father and minther, brothers and sisters, wife and child, and took his life in his hand and went forth to assist in putting down unhallowed rebellion. He enlisted in October, 1861, in Lhe Gith Regiment, Company C. Ohio Volan teers, who were sent into Kentacky.

He experienced religion some three years ăgo, and united with the United Brethren chureh, of which he lived a worthy member, and was at the time of enlisting class-leader fof the class in his neighborhood. His sick. ness, though long and severe, was borne with great patience and submission; and he retained his reason until death. Occasionally during his sickness he was very happy, and especially so the second evening pre. ceding his departure-he exclaimed to his: father, "I love every body; Ilove you, father, and abore all I love Jesus !" The day pre, ceding his death he was thought to be betTer, but the follaiving morning he began to to sink, and in three hours te quietly fell Fasleep in Jesus. Yes, asleep in Jesus. $O_{2}$ how blessed thus to die!

He leaves behind him, to mourn bis early departure, parents, brothers and sisters, and a large circle of friands, slso a young wife and child. This is a heavy stroke; but God is too wise to err and too good to do wrong. Let the bereaved took to him for divine con. solation in this the hour of their a ffliction. I

The deeeased was aged 21 years, 5 months, and 5 days.

Doath of Prof. W. 0, Hiakey.  Lexingtos, Oct. 15, 1871 .

To the Editors of the Herala:
The funeral obsequies of the late Prof. W. o. Hiskey, son of Rev. Geo Hititey, took place from his father's residence two miles weat if Lexington, Thursday Ocf. 1eth. A/f ter a ohort prajer at the house, the procession proceeded ta the Presbyterian church in Lexington, where were aseembled many of his former associates* and triends of his youth.
Divine services were conducted by all the ministers of the different denominations uniting,Rev. S. Gailey, Fry, Proctor and Downey in the pulpit. Firxt in order was the reading of Minneapolis papers by Rev. Proctor, giving account of the death of Prof. Hiskey and the torrible shock that perraded the whole community.
1 Singing of the 1086th hymn.
Reading of the 27 th P Palm by Rev. Gailey, with attention being directed to the 4 th

Prayer was offered by Rov-Downey. Singing by the choir "He is gone." Abstract read by Rev. Proctor of the funeral services held at Mrnneapolis showing the marked reepect of the peopie of that city.
Singing by the Sabbath Schools, "They are going down the Valleg."
Next in order was shoft addresses by the clergymen, who spoke very feelingly of the deceased. All were admonished of the uncertainty of life, and the importance of making the preparation needful to meat our blessed Lord, and urging old and young to come to Jebus now. After singing his favorite hymn "Shall we gather|at the River," the audience jnining in the same by rring to their feet, the friends were invited to look up. an him for the last time. After singing one verse, "Thou art gone to the grave but we will not duplore zhee" inat thapla oot the relatives for kindness shown, and benediction by Rev. Fry, the concourse dispersed. Prof. Hiskey was born in the year 1838 and was, at the time of his death, 34 years of face He was a graduate of Otterbein aniversity at Weaterville, O. Educated for The ministry, after preaching some time chose tur his profession that of teacher. He bad charge of the Davenport Iowa schools, and at the time of his decease was Superintendent of publie schools at Minnespolis, Minn. numbering over 2000 pupils and 40 teachers. He was also President of the Young Mens Christian Association, and Superintendent of the Methodist Epiocopal Sabbath Schoodr (rar 600 During his vacation, rather than rem main at home and seek that rest.which his arduous labors required, he chope to go as mis. sionary along the line of the Northern Pacific FR $R$ and plant the standard of the Cross fomong the many who are there deprived of GOospel privileges. It was doubtless by his fuatiring zeal and energy in the vineyard of the Lord that his disease was contricted.

A post mortem pxamination disclosed the fact that Prof. Hiskey died of apoplexy, caused from ovar exertion of the nervous syetem.
We can join in expressinis of heartfelt sympathy with the people of Minheapolis and hia surviving relatives at their loes.

Thus has passed away one of the purest youpg men that ever lived upon the earth. Ono whose whole life had been dedicated to the service of his Master, and who was found at has post wher he went tô bo with Jesus. HISTORY IN THE FLESH - Orange County's champion Silkwood, a great harness horse of another era, raced in the 1890 s at the fashionable Santa

Part Of History

Downs and his racing secretary, Sam Mewilliams, have been putting names on racing history and Orange County's colorful past. With one such race, "The Silkwood

SILKWOOD . . . . Jacob Willits Driving Pace," set for Saturday night, they really hit it, Downs and McWilliams found a Silkwood he Silkwood Pace because there is a picture a horse named Silkwood hanging on the wall in "Sam and I were looking for names," Downs explained. "And we used Silkwood because of the painting. Then I got to wondering about this Silkwood and I think I got everybody a little worried when I suggested he might have been somebody's milk-wagon horse.
The "milk wagon"'scare sent Los Alamitos publicity director Bruce Rimbo scurring to learn about Silkwood. First he contacted a couple of amateur Southern California historians, Tom Johnson and Joel Leanse, who turned up a plethora of material on the horse. The research not only put the fears of the officials to rest by proving Silkwood was indeed a race horse, a pacer no less, but revealed that the horse may have been one of revealed that the horse may have been one of the most famous, if not THE most famous, in the history of Orange County

Outdrew Population

Just prior to the turn of the century, Silkwood was one hot item in the Southland in general and Santa Ana in particular. A't the height of his career, Silkwood drew crowds almost equal 1890) and three times Orange County ( 13,589 in Ana ( 3628 , same year) Ana (3628, same year.)
the area was gleaned from a number of sources including Jim Sleeper's "Turn The Rascals Out," Rose Jackson's "Rawhide and Orange Blossoms." Charles D. Swanner's "Sant Blossoms," Charles D. Swanner's "Santa Riggs "Horse Racing in the Santa Ana Valley, Orange County History Series." Atty Swanner wrote in his "
Narrative of Yesterday" that during the year 1886 Nick Covarrubias of Los Angeles conMabury Ranch on 17th St. near the Sack on the River. It was used for training horses but races were run there, Swanner records "However," he chronicled, "match races were run and oldtimers recall cattle parked out in the river bottom, waiting to be claimed by the

Old Settlers Wild About Silkwood  (Second of two parts)

"Almost without exception, Orange County's founding fathers maintained the highest moral standards and frowned severely on such nefarious pleasures as horse racing, which of course was always accompanied by that othe tremendous sin, gambling. ...But there was one period during the early days before the citizens of Orange County fell from grace. The cause for their downfall was a beautiful black pacer named Silkwood."
The above is an excerpt from Rose Jackson's book, "Rawhide and Orange Blossoms," recounting the days when Sts of Orange County. As a tribute to those days and that horse, The Silkwood Pace will be the feature race at Los Alamitos Harness Racing Saturday night. The whole idea for such a race began as the result of a picture of Silkwood hanging on the wall in th office of Southern California As the column recounted yesterday, Downs and racing secretary Sam McWimiams named the race, then began to wonder just who Silkwood was-a real race horse or someone's milk wagon nag. A search by amateur disclosed that Silkwood was indeed a race horse, probably the best-ever in the history of Orange County_ Accounts from the Jackson book, Jim Sleeper's "Throw the Rascals Out, Charles D. Swanner's "Santa Ana-A Narra tive of Yesterday," and Charles A. Riggs" consistently describedy Silkwood as the horse: that aroused enthusiasm for racing in the breasts of Orange County pioneers.
Imported From Kansas Silkwood arrived on the county scene from Kansas in 1888 with his owner, Jacob Willits. Kansas in 1888 with his owner, Orange County built a one mile track on. South Bristol St. near what is now Edinger St. In Santa Ana. The Blee track soon became known as the fastest on the Pacific Coast and with Silkwood as its No. 1 ttraction, drew tremendous crowds during the early 1890 s
A Silkwood appearance at the track gave a closed and business was often suspended completely until after the races," Swanner wrote. "Silkwood was a bit of a ham who knew fans by strutting voluntarily to the judge's stand after winning a race."

The old-timers say his driver-owner, often described as looking like Methuselah in a bowler hat, was every bit as colorful as the horse. Together they burned the track. Silkwood was black, sleek and fast; Willits, although flamboyant in his orange colors, usually appeared to be just a decrepit oid man with a long beard that flowed in the breeze-if any. 1892, Silkwood was matched against the great McKinney, the pride of Los Angeles County. The rivalry between the counties led to for the race. ( $$ 1,500$ WAS monumental in those days. According to the record, the Blee track was sold by R.J. Blee to the 32nd District Fair in 1891 for $$ 6,000$ and he threw in 55 acres, two Orange Ties, Ribbons also turned out to see its beloved McKinney. The attendance almost equalled the population of Orange County. The pride of Orange county shot to the front and stayed there right to the finish line. Silkwood and Willits ruled both counties for the next three years, with the horse setting a $2: 07$ record and willits, looking more embalmed all the time according to most accounts, getting married at the age of 69 to Eureka Ruble, age 29.

Eventually Silkwood's reign came to end. At the fair in 1894, Silkwood lost three of four to W. Wood and, as Charles Riggs so-aptly summarized, "When Silkwood lost, the crowd started home and never came back." By 1900, the Santa Ana track was bankrupt after many attempts to revive interest in the sport failed. Many an ex-pacer wound up pulling a went back to Kansas and spent his last days as a buggy horse for an elderly lady in Topeka. Harness racing has, of course, returned to Orange County and, thanks to the picture hanging on Dan Downs' office wall, it hasn't Orange 'County's first great pacer tomorrow inght when the SCRA features The Silkwood Pace at Los Alamitos.

Silkwood was sibling of SIE. HISKEY'S race horse SaTinwood.

In 1892 the directors of the Or

MARTIN YANT said Friday that publication will begin Sept. 11 of the Ohio Observer. The morning tabloid newspaper will be circulated Monday through Saturday and is expected to have an initial circulation of 20,000 , Yant said. Yant said his purpose in starting the paper was to give the area an alternative to the News Journal, the city's only daily. Yant was editor of the News Journal from January until May. He previously was editor of Suburban Week in Chicago.
