Dear Mrs. Berger:

This is in response to your letter of October 29.

I enclose a photoduplication order for the reproduction of Joseph Anthony's letter in the Thomas Jefferson papers.

If you wish to order copies of this material, please complete the address portion of the order form, and return the form, with your remittance, directly to the Photoduplication Service, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C. 20540. Inquiries about your order should be directed to the Photoduplication Service, and reference should be made to any number in the upper lefthand corner of the order form.

Perhaps you saw the Index to the Thomas Jefferson Papers (Washington: Library of Congress, 1976). In this index are entries for C. Anthony, January 15, 1825, and J. Anthony, November 27, 1780. Since the Jefferson papers have been microfilmed your local libraries may request reels 13, 25, and 54 from one of the following libraries which hold this microfilm edition:

University of California, Davis
California State College, Hayward
University of California, Los Angeles
Stanford University, Stanford.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Mr. Berger,

Recently, I found in the library in Ft. Wayne, Indiana, a copy of a document written about Joseph Anthony and printed in the OCCGS Quarterly. Joseph Anthony is my 4th great grandfather.

My sister had obtained a copy of this document a number of years ago from a gentleman in Florida. He told her at the time that a lady in California had sent it to him.

I was elated to finally find your address. I am so interested in learning how we are related. Can you tell me more about the document? Do you know who wrote it?

I assume that the Dr. Rush who was mentioned was Benjamin Rush, Quaker. Do you have information on their relationship? Has Dr. Rush eulogized Joseph Anthony? I have tried to find where Joseph is buried but have been unsuccessful.

Dear Mrs. Berger:

This is in reply to your letter of May 3. I passed the problem over to my assistant, and he reports that Jefferson and Joseph Anthony did correspond. Jefferson also had dealings with Christopher Anthony, Joseph's father. There is in the Library of Congress a long letter of Jan. 22, 1802, from Joseph Anthony to Jefferson, written from Richmond. We could not find Jefferson's answer. What is quoted in the obituary might be taken from that letter. Joseph's letter suggests the settlement of free blacks in the West. He was an anti-slavery advocate. The obituary was probably copied from the newspaper.

I hope this information may be of some help to you. I am returning the documents, since I assume you want them back.

Most sincerely,

Dumas Malone

Died on Sunday the 20th of October 1833 Joseph Anthony in the 65th year of his age after 8 months of severe illness and two years and a half since the onset of his disease which was that of a swelling of the prostate gland, of all the diseases this is the most distressing in its effects and mostly of fatal consequences.

It may be consoling to the friends of the deceased to know that he met his stern fate with manly calm, dignified, christian resignation and even looked forward with anxiety for this event to terminate his suffering--in the loss of this gentleman society is bereft of one of its most upright intelligent enterprising active philanthropic citizens. He was an early settler in Ohio having left the State of Virginia in consequence of his aversion to educating his family where slavery was tolerated and where the influence of its principles might be instilled in the minds of his children. He was unostentatious of the many virtues he possessed and careless of public honor an office but ever busy in the exercise of his mind for the advantage of his country or such persons alone in a private view as he deemed worthy of his assistance. Dr. Rush in expressing his opinion of him pronounced him to be one of the most efficient clear headed and sound hearted men of the day and as deserving the thanks of his country as the original of many noble ideas and great monuments to his country's good. His company and advice was sought by Thomas Jefferson and the ablest politicians of the time. Testimony of the esteem in which he was held may be seen in Thomas Jefferson's own handwriting in addition to several political events which marked his career among which is the purchase of a large portion of the Western territory which prevented war and which was thus acknowledged in a letter written by Jefferson... "When your epistle was received on the purchase of the Western Territory I was struck with the plausibility of your scheme. You may make your mind easy... your plans will be adapted to and I shall never know how sufficiently to thank you for your kindness. The measures you propose are these of firm philanthropy and sound policy and have at once received the sanction of congress. It is with the greatest reluctance that I obey your request keeping as a secret from the public your name as the original of this grand scheme 'for I want no honors for myself but what I am justly entitled to.'"

The deceased was governed by strict religious principles and although not at the time of his death united with any religious denomination his partialities were in favor of the Baptist persuasion. He will long be remembered by those who knew him as a firm believer in the christian religion, an exemplary and benevolent friend and neighbor and a kind husband and an indulgent Father. For many weeks and months before his departure he looked forward to it as a happy release from all his sufferings and prepared for it as one taking a journey and even when he felt Death was upon him the same quiet christian resignation marked all his moments. His loss will long be felt and mourned.

This Joseph Anthony is the father of Sarah T. Anthony, my great-great grandmother. He is No. 2 on my chart number five.

Mr. Dumas Malone of the Alderman Library University of Virginia and famed biographer of Thomas Jefferson reports that "Jefferson and Joseph Anthony did correspond. Jefferson also had dealings with Christopher Anthony, Joseph's father. There is in the Library of Congress a long letter of Jan. 22, 1802 from Joseph Anthony to Jefferson, written from Richmond. We could not find Jefferson's answer. What is quoted in the obituary might be taken from that letter. Joseph's letter suggests the settlement of free blacks in the West. He was an anti-slavery advocate."

I have the original handwritten copy of this obituary in my possession and am sending you a xerox of the original as well as a typed transcript.

This Joseph Anthony moved from Virginia to Ohio about 1811. His family was well educated, one a physician and another son a lawyer and state legislator. One son was a merchant in a nearby city.

Many of the Anthony family left Virginia for other parts in the late 18th and early 19th century. Joseph Anthony's grandmother, Elizabeth (Clark) Anthony, with some of her family, moved to Georgia in about 1786. She supposedly died in 1825 at the age of 105 in Wilkes County, Georgia.

They were Quakers who left Virginia for religious and economic reasons as well as the opportunity to prosper in newly opening frontiers.

Joseph Anthony's father Christopher also went to Ohio, founding the first Quaker meeting in Cincinnati, Ohio in about 1813. He was a Quaker minister.

Miss. Helen L. Wikoff at 357 Arden Road, Columbus, Ohio 43214

I Joseph Anthony of Clinton County in the State of Ohio being advanced in years and somewhat weak in body but of sound and disposing mind and memory and having the free use of all my natural faculties do make and publish this my last will and testament contained on two sheets of paper, that is to say

Item It is my wish and desire, that all my just debts shall be discharged out of my personal estate; among the debts which I now owe are the following viz to my daughters, Rhoda Rachel Penelope^{son} Christopher & Elizabeth, each the sum of one hundred and thirty eight dollars and fifty cents being the precise amount of the legacies due them respectively out of their grandfather's estate, and as I have kept no charge against any of my children with a view to meet this debt to them; should any of my children either those above named or any of the others dispute the accuracy of the above amount or demand any more than the sum above named it is my will that such child or children so disputing the amount or demanding more shall take no benefit whatever of my estate for of this will other than what may legally and strictly be his her or thirs due as a debt arising to them on accounts of my guardianship of the moneys of the estate above referred to

Item I being desirous to make such provision for my beloved wife Rhoda as she may need should she survive me as far as my estate will enable me to do so, I bequeath to her during her natural life all that tract of land containing one hundred and thirty one acres be the same more or less together with the farm and improvements thereon which was deeded to me by my son Thomas b. Anthony the boundaries of which will appear by reference to said deed which is of record in the recorder's office in the County of Clinton State of Ohio. And that after her death the said tract of land shall be sold and the proceeds of such sale shall be distributed to the same persons and in the same manner as my general estate as herein after provided. And when said sale is made, my executors are hereby authorized and fully empowered to sell the same either at public or private sale and either for cash in hand or upon a limited credit and to execute and deliver such conveyance as may be necessary and proper in the law to the purchaser thereof

Item I give and bequeath unto my beloved wife Rhoda the sum of two hundred dollars to be paid to her by my executors as soon as may be done conveniently after my decease

Joseph Anthony

I also give and bequeath unto her all my household and kitchen furniture including all beds and bedding and ready made cloth which may be on hand at my decease or such of them as she may choose to hold also my riding carriage and harness, my farm waggon and gear, ~~two~~ such horse beasts as she may choose to keep for her own use.

Item Having at the time my oldest son Samuel P. Anthony in arms and settled in Lincoln at his own expense as a merchant and since that time contributed in arms and by my own personal attendance to his advancement I am of opinion that he has received more from me than I am now able to give to each of my other Children. It is therefore my will that my said son Samuel shall not have any part of such estate as I may have at my decease.

Item Having shortly after the marriage of my son Thomas C. Anthony given him by way of advancement being a part of the purchase money of a tract of land in the the same land above mentioned, which I consider fully equal to what will be left at my decease for any of the children who remain unprovided for, it is therefore my will that my said son Thomas shall not receive any part of such estate as I may have at my decease.

Item It is my will and desire that all the rest and residue of my estate, real, personal and mixed of every nature and description whatever wherever or however situated shall be converted into money by my executors and for that purpose my executors are hereby authorized and fully empowered to sell such part thereof as may consist of lands and real estate either at public or at private sale and either for cash or on a limited credit and to execute deed and deliver all such deeds of conveyance of such land and real estate as may be necessary for the conveyance thereof to the purchaser or purchasers in fee simple in as full and ample a manner as I myself might or could do and also to sell such parts thereof as may consist of personal property at public ven=dure

Joseph Anthony

Item Whom, and as fast, as the rest and residue of my estate shall be reduced to money as last above directed = it is my will that it shall be divided, and I do hereby bequeath thereof as follows, namely to my sons
Charles Anthony, Joseph Anthony, and Christopher Anthony, and my daughters Jane W. Huggin,
Rhoda Anthony, Sarah Fletcher, Rachel C
Anthony Penelope Anthony and Elizabeth Anthony to each an equal part thereof share and share alike with the following exceptions namely I had promised to give my daughter Jane W. Huggin a tract of land containing one hundred and twenty five acres for her advancement which tract of land I afterwards sold by her consent at the price of = two hundred and fifty dollars in ready money for her use, which sum is to be deducted from her dividend of my estate it is my will that that the amount sum of two hundred and fifty dollars shall be treated and considered as so much advanced towards the bequest hereto last above made to my said daughter Jane

Item As there is at this time an amount on my books of money by me advanced for my son Joseph Anthony which is therefore a debt due from him to me, if that debt or any other arising out of dealings and transactions between him and myself should remain = unpaid and unsatisfied at my decease it is my will that such amount shall be remitted to him and he entirely released from the payment thereof

Item It is my will, that in the event of the decease of any of my children above named before he, she, or they have arrived at the age of twenty one years and without issue then, and in that case, the share or portion above devised to such child or children so dying, shall go to and be equally divided among the other legatee share and share alike, and should any of the legatees above named die before my decease but leaving issue of their bodies it is my will that the share or shares above bequeathed to the child or children
Joseph Anthony

so dying and having issue shall go to and vest in the issue, the heirs of such child or children so dying in the same manner it would have vested in such child or children so dying had he she or they remained in full life

Item I have heretofore sold to James Leonard and James Dayle to each a piece or parcel of land situate in Brown County in the State of Ohio for which the above named persons severally and respectively hold my bonds for conveyance of said lands when the same shall be fully paid for it is my will that if the said lands or either of them shall remain uncon-veyed at my decease that my executors be and they are hereby fully authorized and empowered to execute seal and deliver unto the said purchaser or purchasers such deeds of conveyance as I am bound by my bonds aforesaid to make to the said purchasers, when on the said purchasers shall fully comply with their contracts and they by making full payment

Lastly I do hereby appoint my son
Charles Anthony and my friend Elisha Noble executors to this my last will and testament

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my seal this the seventh day of October

Item

Incidentally, I am a descendent of Joseph's son, Thomas Clark.

I have a statement passed down stating that all of Joseph's children were prominent (doctors, lawyers, teachers) except Christopher. That fascinates me. Do you know anything about poor Christopher? All I have been able to find is a record of two marriages.

Joseph's apparent friendship with Thomas Jefferson is of great interest to me. I have written to Monticello and their research organization (is greatly interested). They sent a copy of a letter from Joseph to President Jefferson which is in the Library of Congress. They asked for more information from me. I really have nothing to send them. Do you?

Please, let me hear from you.

Sincerely,

Jessie Ann Blair

Green Bouldin; 6. Sally Watkins Bouldin, m. Col. Henry Spencer, of Charlotte county. James Bouldin's brother, Wood Bouldin, m. Joanna, sister of Governor Tyler. They were sons of Thomas Bouldin, the immigrant.

William "the younger," d. 1821, living in Chestertied, 1745, probably married into the Osborne family, moved, perhaps, to Charlotte and then to Dinwiddie county, 1768, when William Watkins was justice (the names of his descendants desired). A daughter married Lipscomb Ragland, of Halifax county, Va., and wrote of her father's death, in 1821, to Dr. John Watkins, of Burnt Corn, Alabama, son of Richard.² Her descendants moved to North Carolina, Mississippi and Alabama.

Note.—What Spencer branch did Richard Watkins, above, marry. Information desired especially of John¹ and William,² and the Breedlove² descendants.

WALLER—Mr. Hayden, in his Virginia Genealogies, quoting R. M. Conway, in the Fredericksburg Star, in 1885, as to the children of Colonel John Waller, gent., the first clerk of Spotsylvania county, says:

"Edmund Waller, Gent., 1st son, though named last in the will of Col. John, was 2d clerk," &c.

Now this is not the fact, as will be seen from the order of the court admitting the will to probate, viz:

"At a Court held for Spotsylvania County, on Tuesday, October the 1st, 1754.

"The last will and testament of John Waller, Gent., was exhibited

"And John Waller, Gent., eldest son & heir at law to the testator, appeared, and desired time to contest the validity of the said will, &c. *

"Teste: WM. WALLER, Cl. Court."

"A true copy from the record.

"Teste: J. P. H. CRISMOND, C. C."

It is not reasonable to suppose that the court and John's own brother William, the clerk, all should be mistaken in saying that John was the "eldest son."

ANTHONY—COOPER (IX, 229)—Permit me to enlarge, and slightly correct, the publication of Mrs. P. H. Mell, Auburn, Ala., on page 220 of this Magazine for October, 1901.

The will and the inventory and administration of the estate of Joseph Anthony, are recorded in the clerk's office of this (Henry) county, Va., in Will Book No. 1, beginning on page 120. He was born in Henrico, afterwards Goochland, now Albemarle county, Va., May 2, 1713, married 27th April, 1741, Elizabeth Clark, as stated, who was born February 15, 1720, and lived on "Lawyer's road," in what is now Franklin county, near Staunton river, and died November 23, 1785. After his death, she, with most of her children and their families, removed to Georgia, as stated by Mrs. Pell, where she lived to be more than a hundred years old.

This Joseph Anthony has sometimes been confounded with a Baptist preacher of the same name, living contemporaneously with him, in this county, and whose will is also recorded here. I fear that the Rev. Samuel Boykin, in his History of Georgia Baptists, has fallen into this error. The Joseph of the text was a Quaker. Joseph Anthony, the Quaker, by his will, makes ample provisions for his widow, and then proceeds to devise and bequeath his large landed estate, his numerous negro slaves, and his personal property, among his fourteen surviving children, his son Charles Anthony having died unmarried and without issue. These children were:

I. Sarah Anthony, born August 15, 1742, married, February 6, 1762, Captain Thomas Cooper, Sr., member of the House of Burgesses, captain of militia in the Revolutionary period, and with John Marr, represented this county in the Virginia Convention of 1788.

II. Christopher Anthony, born March 24, 1744, married, first, Judith Moorman; and second, on the 5th June, 1775, Mary Jordan, daughter of Samuel Jordan and Hannah (Bates), his wife, and died in Cincinnati, Ohio, October 28, 1815.

III. Elizabeth Anthony, born March 10, 1746, married in 1761, William Candler, who was born of English parents at Belfast, Ireland, in 1738, and with him removed to Georgia in 1762, where in 1771 he was made a deputy surveyor, and in the Revolutionary war served under Colonel, afterwards General, Elijah Clarke, in the attack on Augusta, at King's Mountain, and Blackstocks, and rose to the rank of colonel. He was a member of the Georgia legislature, 1784-85, and appointed to a judgeship. He died at his seat in Columbia county, September, 1789, and was the great grandfather of the present Governor Candler, Bishop Candler and Judge Candler, of Georgia.

IV. Penelope Anthony, born July 26, 1748, married James Johnson, and died a widow in Leesburg, Ohio, July 26, 1822.

V. Joseph Anthony, Jr., born 28th March, 1750, married Elizabeth Clark (?), and moved to Georgia.

VI. James Anthony, born 18th December, 1752, married ———, and moved to Georgia. He, with Colonel George Hairston, in 1790, donated the fifty acres of land as a site for the courthouse and public buildings, where the central part of the town of Martinsville is now situated. He was the father of Dr. Milton Anthony, the distinguished physician, who founded the Medical College in Augusta, Ga.

- VII. Mary Anthony, born 17th November, 1754, married — Carter.
 VIII. Charles Anthony, born 20th March, 1757, died as above stated.
 IX. Micajah Anthony, born 23d February, 1759.
 X. Agnes Anthony, born March 7, 1761, married William Blakeley.
 XI. Rachel Anthony, born March 8, 1762.
 XII. Wineford Anthony, born April 8, 1765.
 XIII. Mark Anthony, born October 8, 1767, married Nancy Tate.
 XIV. Boling Anthony, born August 23, 1769.
 XV. Judith Anthony, born October 23, 1771.

Sarah Anthony (I) by her marriage with Captain Thomas Cooper had nine children, viz:

1. Elizabeth, who married Thomas Stoval, of Henry county, Va. He died in Hancock county, Ga., leaving six children, viz:

1. George; 2. Sally, who married Benj. Simmons; 3. Polly; 4. Joseph; 5. Pleasant; 6. Ruth. John Weeks married their mother, the widow.

2. Joseph Cooper, Jr.

3. Agnes, who married George Hamilton, of Henry county, Va.

4. Thomas Cooper, Jr., born in Henry county, Va., 1767, who married Judith Harvey in Georgia. Their children: Patsy, Obadiah, Patterson, Mark A.

5. Polly, born August 5, 1774, married, November 30, 1790, John Waller, of Henry county, Va., born October 12, 1765 (not — Williams as Mrs. Mell has it), where he died, near Horsepasture Store, March 7, 1842; she died December 23, 1853. There were fifteen children, viz:

1. Penelope, born August 12, 1791.
2. George, born September 22, 1792, died September 27, 1875.
3. Sarah, born March 12, 1794.
4. Nancy, born June 12, 1795.
5. Thomas, born February 5, 1797, died November, 1868.
6. Elizabeth, born May 6, 1798.
7. Polly, born July 13, 1800.
8. Edmund, born March 16, 1802, died July 31, 1890.
9. Margaret Henning, born May 17, 1804.
10. John, born April 14, 1806.
11. William B., born January 28, 1808.
12. James A., born January 18, 1810, died April 25, 1872.
13. Patsy, born November 7, 1811.
14. Winston, born January 17, 1814.
15. Judith, born January 24, 1816.

6. Penelope, who married Dr. James Nisbet in Georgia.

7. John, Jr., who married — Weeks in Georgia.

8. Sarah, who married — Lancaster in Georgia.
 9. Micajah. I have no record of any James Cooper.

I would be glad if some one in Georgia or elsewhere would take up this genealogy and perfect it. Mr. A. H. Pugh, an accomplished genealogist, of Cincinnati, Ohio, is at work upon one, but needs information since the family removed to Georgia. My wife is a great grand daughter of Captain Thomas Cooper, and Sarah (Anthony) his wife, and the facts here stated have been mainly gathered from family Bibles preserved in her family.

ANTHONY—COOPER—Joseph Anthony married Elizabeth Clark, on April 27th, 1741. Her parents were Christopher and Penelope Clark, of Louisa county, Va. The will of Christopher Clark is dated August 14, 1741. In it he gives to his son Bolling "my trooping arms and my great Bible and all my law books." In 1742, C. Clark was a justice of Louisa county, Va. In the will of Nicholas Meriwether, his law partner, he is called "Captain." In 1749 he was appointed an "overseer" of a meeting of Quakers near Sugarloaf Mt., Albemarle county, Va. His will was recorded May 28th, 1754. He joined the Quakers in 1743 or 1749. He had many descendants; one was a Governor of Kentucky. Thomas Cooper, Sr., married Sallie Anthony, first daughter of Joseph Anthony and Elizabeth Clark, to whom were born the following children: Agnes, married George Hamilton; Thomas, Jr., born in Henry county, Va., in 1767, died in Eatonton, Ga., in 1842, married — Harvey. Thomas, Jr., was the father of Hon. Mark A. Cooper, of Georgia; Polly, married — Williams; Penelope, married — Nesbit; John, married — Weeks; Sallie, married — Lancaster; Elizabeth, married — Stovall; Micajah and James.

Thomas Cooper, Sr., was a member of the House of Burgesses. His descendants have in their possession a certified copy of a military warrant made to him for his services.

From 1722 to 1739 Joseph Anthony patented 4,926 acres of land in his own name in Hanover county, Va.

The Rev. Samuel Boykin says in the History of Georgia Baptists, p. 138, that Thomas Cooper, Sr., "married Sally Anthony, the daughter of — Anthony, who came from Holland. Thomas Cooper, Jr., married Judith Harvey, daughter of James and Sarah Harvey, whose maiden name was Clark. These families all came from Virginia to Georgia; the Anthony family settling in Wilkes county, the Harveys, Clarks and Coopers in Hancock county on the waters of Beaverdam creek about three miles above Powelton.

James Anthony, probably a son of Joseph, is mentioned in the history of Wilkes county, as one of the early settlers of that county; he was the father of Dr. Milton Anthony, the distinguished physician who founded the Medical College of Georgia located in Augusta.

AARON BURR IN PETERSBURG—When Aaron Burr killed Alexander Hamilton he fled South, and Petersburg was the first place in his Southern tour in which any public notice was taken of Mr. Burr. He stopped here at a place called Dodson's Inn, and was entertained at a public dinner by the Democratic citizens of Petersburg, or rather the Democratic-Republican citizens. This Dodson's Inn is still standing here to-day, and is one of the most comfortable dwelling houses in the city. It is owned and occupied by Mr. Geo. Pegram, who married a Miss Dodson. The house has belonged to this Dodson family since sometime in the 18th century. The house is also referred to by Dr. Alexander, the Presbyterian preacher, who traveled in this part of Virginia early in the last century on the business of starting congregations of Presbyterians.

The Dodson house is on High street.

JACOB—VINAL—BRAXTON—(1) Wanted, any information concerning Mr. Henry Jacob in Virginia. He established the first Congregational church in England, at London, in the year 1616, and in 1624 removed to Virginia and Mr. Lathrop became his successor in London. That church held their meetings privately for some time; at length, April 29, 1632, they were discovered by Tomlinson, the pursivant of the bishop, holding a meeting for religious worship at the house of Mr. Humphrey Barnet, in Blackfriars. Forty-two of them were apprehended, and eighteen only escaped. Mr. Lathrop, with others, was imprisoned for two years and then set at liberty on condition of departing the kingdom. Mr. Lathrop and about thirty of his church came to Scituate, Mass., on 27th of September, 1634. Did Mr. Henry Jacob establish a church in Virginia? Did he have any connection with the Smithfield church, built in 1632? All information or any concerning the following chapter taken from the book "Events in United States," 1648: The Congregational Church and its Pastor ordered to depart from Virginia by the Governor of that Colony.

(2) Information of Jo: Vynall (John Vinal), age 20, in ye Merchants Hope, from London, July, 1635, bound for Virginia; or any Vinals in Virginia, for Vinal genealogy.

ANTHONY-CLARK-COOPER.—At the solicitation of many of the descendants, I have undertaken to enlarge upon my note published in Vol. IX, p. 328 of this Magazine, by which it is proposed to notice the ancestry of Elizabeth Clark, and the family of Mark Anthony, the emigrant, and to include the descendants, Anthony, Cooper, Nisbet, Boykin, Branham, Hamilton, Stovall, Candler, Waller, Harvey, Blakeley, Johnson, Tate and others connected, in which the error made as to the children of Hon. Mark A. Cooper will be corrected. I shall expect aid and information from each and all of the several branches, and especially dates and localities of births, marriages and deaths of these descendants. FITZHUGH CORRECTION.—I find it necessary to correct certain statements in the Virginia Magazine of History and Biography, Vol. IX., p. 99.

It is stated that "Samuel, son of Peregrine Fitzhugh, married Helen Chisholm, and had issue: Henrietta, Katherine and Peregrine, who all died single, and Robert."

As Samuel Fitzhugh was my grandfather, and I have just made application to enter the Society of the D. A. R., you may readily see how awkward a reference to said magazine will prove.

I judge the mistake arose from the fact that my branch of the family removed to Maryland, when Colonel William Fitzhugh married, for his second wife, the Widow Rouseby, of Calvert county, Md., and Peregrine, of Revolutionary fame, was one of the sons of this marriage.

Will you kindly refer this corrected data to the Editor of the Virginia Magazine of History and Biography.

Samuel Fitzhugh, son of Peregrine, married Ellen Chisholm, of Annapolis, Md., and had issue: Alexander and Henrietta, who died single.

Robert Rose, who married Anna Hyde, in Georgetown, D. C., May 3, 1849, and has one son, Samuel Fitzhugh, now living in New Orleans, La.

Peregrine Archibald, who married Sarah Luckett, of Loudoun county, Va., November 23, 1859, and three children of this marriage are now living: Ellen, single, living in Washington, D. C.; Nannie, the wife of Lucien Powell, now living in Washington, D. C.; Peregrine, who married Eva White, of Michigan, and lives in Chicago, Ill.

The two male representatives of this branch of the family are: Samuel Fitzhugh, office So. Pac. R. R., New Orleans, La., and Peregrine Fitzhugh, with Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, Ill.

THE SOCIETY OF THE MOORMANS OF VIRGINIA
P.O. BOX 552, WOODBURN, OREGON 97071

The Society of the Moormans of Virginia had its beginnings on Sept. 10, 1966, when after a search of the records of the College of Arms and consultation with L.G. Pine a noted authority on heraldry and genealogy and editor of Burke's Peerage, nine representatives in the direct male line of all the branches of the descendants of Zachariah Moorman (b. 1620), who came to Virginia in 1670, signed a document, now in the archives of the Society, claiming the ancient usage of the arms: OR, A CROSS ENGRAILED CHEQUY GLUES AND ARGENT.

The organization was registered with the State of Oregon on August 30, 1976 and its aims are: 1) To preserve the lineages, heraldic rights, and history of the family, 2) To assist in genealogical research pertaining to the Moormans and their early allied families, and 3) To collect and preserve documents and other family memorabilia.

Membership is open to those who wish to share these aims with other members and is of three equal types: ARMIGEROUS, open to those who according to heraldic law may use the arms of Capt. Zachariah Moorman, above, REGULAR, open to those who are able to prove simple direct descent from him, and AFFILIATED, open to those who are married to one of his descendants.

The archives of the Society contain a large amount of genealogical records, especially of members of the family born before 1850, and some very interesting documents, manuscripts and seals of early ancestors. There is a charge of $5.00 for a simple search of the archives with a report given for non-members.

Those, who feel that they qualify for membership may submit an application with the $20.00 membership fee. An application may be submitted with what information an individual has regarding his ancestors, but if the direct line may not be verified from the records already in the archives, the $5.00 search fee applies. A descendant may also request membership for his unmarried children and spouse for an additional $10.00 fee, if sent with his or her own application. With membership one duplicate original of the application is returned certified, with a certificate in the family colors of red and gold of membership and a copy of the coat-of-arms. Both are suitable for framing. Membership is for life and there is no due.

Members are given the opportunity from time to time to purchase at cost, publications of the Society. A new edition of THE DESCENDANTS OF ZACHARIAH MOORMAN IN THE MALE LINE is being prepared. Members may also place family documents etc. or copies of them in the archives of the Society.

The charter of the Society provides that such funds that are not needed for its expenses and the furthering of its purposes are to be given to the use of an Oregon non-profit corporation for the sole purpose of assisting the poor and needy. The current activity of this corporation is the assisting in the resettlement in Oregon of a very large community of Christians, who have fled Soviet persecution for religious freedom. In this they are very much like Capt. Zachariah Moorman and his Quaker family, who sought religious freedom in Virginia in the eighteenth century. The aims of this charitable corporation then should be something that each of their descendants might be able to identify with. More information regarding this corporation may be had upon request.

Assistance may be given by the Society to its members in joining other societies and organizations such as The Sons of the American Revolution, The Daughters of the American Revolution, and The Descendants of the Washington Family.

Since Coats of Arms are granted to individuals for personal use and the use of their descendants, they may not be used by other people bearing the same surname, the Society wishes to protect the heraldic rights of its members whenever possible. One who would use the arms of Capt. Zachariah Moorman without being his direct male descendant would be implying so, and thereby misrepresenting himself. For this reason the Society has armigerous membership, which certifies the right to his arms. Application for armigerous membership must be submitted with a copy of birth certificates and other documents proving descent at least for those generations which are not already recorded among the genealogical records of the Society. In the case of regular membership this is optional. In both cases, however, a sworn statement that the information is correct must be given as provided on the forms.

In preparing application papers the following should be noted: a) It is important that all blank spaces be filled in whenever practicable, since the information requested is required to differentiate each person from others of the same name and to insure the identity of each with the records in which he or she appears. b) Full names, not initials, and the maiden names of wives must be given for each person in the line of descent. c) The dates and places of birth, marriage, and death of parents, grandparents and great grandparents should be given. d) In the remaining generations, all dates and places should be supplied, as far as practicable, at least as to year and state. An application with so few dates and places that the person cannot be definitely identified or distinguished from others of the same name is obviously not acceptable. This is for the protection of the applicant as well as the Society.

The application does not provide for the names of spouses or children. These may be given on another sheet and in duplicate. Names in full and dates and places of birth must be given.

Since many descendants of Capt. Zachariah Moorman have more than one direct line of descent from him, other lines may be given on another sheet in the same manner as the line given for membership. Such lines will also be recorded among the genealogical records of the Society.

JOSEPH ANTHONY

SECOND GENERATION IN AMERICA

Of this generation we know much and there is quite a lot of romance connected with it. It is further the foundation of many substantial families of the United States today.

Joseph Anthony, born in what is now Albemarle County, Virginia, probably at his father's trading post on the upper James River about seventy-five miles above Richmond Va., when twenty-eight years of age married Elizabeth Clar, twenty-one, whose home was in the then famous Louisa County. They evidently lived in this section at first, but their home later was on Lawyer's Road near the Stuanton River, in Franklin County. Joseph's will is of record at Martinsville, Henry County, Va. which is indicative of a very comfortable fortune for those days. He was a planter and merchant, and the records show many instances where he furnished the Revolutionary Army supplies, for which it is said the Tories cut off his silver knee buckles.

Captain Christopher Clar, the father of Elizabeth, was also a staunch patriot, and a man of great energy and forcefulness. He was also wealthy. He was a lawyer, and in 1742 was made a Justice of Louisa County. In his later life he became a Quaker, and was as active and aggressive in that church as he was in his business affairs. He and his son, Bowling, were overseers of the Friends Meeting House at South River, near Lynchburg, Va. In his will of August 14, 1741, recorded May 28, 1754, he gives to Bowling—"My trooping arms, my great bible, and my law books". It is said that his wife, Penelope, who was either a Massie or Bowling of Fairfax County, Va., was a granddaughter of Lord Ashley, Earl of Shaftesbury. Rachel Clark, a sister of Elizabeth, was the grandmother of Rhoda Moorman (Anthony), wife of Joseph Anthony, of the fourth generation. It is said that each of these daughters received from their parents at marriage one-half dozen solid silver spoons ("Sketches and recollections of Lynchburg" by the oldest inhabitant—Mary Couch Anthony, daughter of Christopher Anthony, Jr., and Ann Woolston Couch, of the third generation.), and that some of them are still treasured heirlooms.

A number of noted men came from this Clark family among them Governor James Clark of Kentucky, General John B. Clark and General John B. Clark, his son, both also Congressmen from Missouri, and Charles Lynch, founder of Lynchburg, Va. who married Sarah Clark, another daughter of Captain Christopher and Penelope Clark.

Also, the "History of Col. William Candler of Georgia" says that no less than fifteen prominent families in Georgia, and probably as many more in Virginia, are descendents of Joseph Anthony and Elizabeth Clark, among them-

Bishop Warren Akin Candler, of the Southern Methodist Church.
Governor Allen D. Candler of Georgia
General Joseph E. Johnston of Virginia.
Dr. Ignatius Few, founder of Emory College, Oxford, Ga.
Dr. Milton A. Anthony, founder of Medical College of Ga.

In the marriage of Elizabeth Anthony to Col. William Candler there is both a touch of romance and tragedy. He was the son of an officer in the English Army stationed in Ireland, who had incurred the displeasure of the royal house, with which he was distantly connected, by marrying an Irish girl. William was lining out a royal grant for Joseph Anthony, and meeting Elizabeth, who was only fifteen, fell in love with her and married her. This, for some reason displeased Joseph, and he seems never to have forgiven Elizabeth. The union, however, proved a happy one, for Col. William Candler became a prominent citizen and an officer in the Revolutionary Army, and their descendents are among the first citizens of the South today.

From Joseph's will, also, he seems to have had a decided disinclination to have his wife marry again, and she did not. She, with James, Joseph, Jr., Micajah, Mark and probably others of her children, after Joseph's death, moved to Wilkes County, Georgia. She became a Quaker preacher, making many trips back and forth between Georgia and Virginia on horseback, and lived to be over one hundred years old. Her family, the Clarks, who came from the Isle of Wight, England, were undoubtedly of very excellent lineage, and to her I attribute in large measure the stability of her descendents. A woman who could have fifteen children, live over one hundred years, and ride horse back through five hundred miles of wilderness preaching the gospel, certainly deserves our lasting reverence and respect.

From Joseph's will, further, I am of the opinion that he was not in sympathy with Quakerism. There was the tendency to free slaves by those who embraced this faith, and he explicitly stated that if any of his children refused to keep the slaves he willed them that they were to go back to the estate and be distributed among the rest of the children. This will is cited in the Virginia Magazine of History and Biography by Col. C. B. Bryant, who was of great assistance in obtaining this data. His wife was a descendent of Sarah Anthony and Capt. Thomas Cooper, a prominent Virginia citizen and a member of the House of Burgesses.

Our line goes to the next generation through Cristopher Anthony (born March 24, 1744) and Judith Moorman (born June 26, 1748.) The Moorman family came to Virginia in 1670 from the Isle of Wight, England, with the Clarks. They were intermarried with the Candles in Ireland, where they served under Cromwell, and entered our line in the third and fourth generations.

CHRISTOPHER ANTHONY

THIRD GENERATION IN AMERICA

Christopher Anthony, born March 24, 1744, and second child of Joseph Anthony and Elizabeth Clark, was appointed an Elder in the Society of Friends, or Quakers, August 19, 1769, and recorded as Minister February 21, 1778. He was also a merchant and planter in Virginia.

Jusith Moormen, born June 26, 1748, daughter of Charles Moorman (1715-1778) and Mary Adams, was the first wife of Christopher Anthony. She could not have been over sixttn years of age and he not more than twenty, when they were married, and she died when twenty-six, after bearing four children—Mary, Joseph, Elizabeth and Charles. I cannot pass her life without dwelling on the sacrifice she made for her family. To have been married so young, to have borne her husband four children, and to have died at the age of twenty-six seems particularly pathetic, and I regret to find that her name has not been carried down in succeeding generation. I hope she may be enshrined in our hearts for all time to come. There is a letter, written by her in 1764, when she was sixteen, to her cousin, Lucy Clark, and I hope to get a copy of it.

This generation is also very interesting, as it brings into the Anthony family several fine old Virginia Families—The Moorman, Adams, Lewis and Reynolds Lines, with possibly the Candles through the Mooremans in Ireland. We are also entitled to use the Mooreman Coat of Arms.

The Mooreman family goes back to Zachariah Moorman, born 1620, Isle of Wight, England, who was a Captain in Cromwell's army, and married the sister or daughter of William Candler. He, with his family, embarked in 1669, from Southampton, England, in the ship "Glasgow" to the Baradoes, West Indies, and thence to Charleston, S.C. Thomas, son of Zachariah, moved to the Green Springs section of Louisa County, Virginia, in 1670.

Following is the Moorman genealogical chart to Judith Moorman of this generation and Rhoda Moorman of the fourth generation of our family.

Thomas, son of Zachariah Moorman (1620), married Elizabeth _____ about 1670.

Children Mary, Andrew, and Charles (1684-1756).

Charles, (1684-1756) son of Thomas Moorman, married Elizabeth Reynolds (1688-1765), daughter of Christopher Reynolds. Their children were—Thomas (1705-1766), who married Rachel Clark (1714), daughter of Captain Christopher and Penelope Clark, who were the great grandparents of Rhoda Mooran, wife of Joseph Anthony (1767), of the fourth generation.

Judith

Charles (1715-1788), married Mary Adams, daughter of Robert and Mourning Adams, of Goochland County, Va., and were the parents of Judith Moorman (born September 6, 1748) who was wife of Christopher Anthony (1744-1815), of this generation.

Achilles (1713), married Elizabeth Adams, sister of Mary Adams, daughter of Robert and Mourning Adams.

Thomas Moorman (1705-1766), son of Charles Moorman (1684-1756) and Elizabeth Reynolds (1688-1765), married Rachel Clark (1714), daughter of Captain Christopher and Penelope Clark in 1730, and their children were:

Clark Terrell, who married Rachel Harris, and were the parents of Rhoda Moorman, wife of Joseph Anthony (1767), of the fourth generation.
Andrew, who married (1) Molly Gill, (2) Prudence (Goode) Anderson.
Achilles, who married Frances Herndon.

Pleasant.

Charles (1734-1803, who married (1) Rebecca Leftwich, and (2) Nancy Hancock.
Rachel (1754-1803), who married Stephen Goggins, and the great grandparents of Samuel Clemens (Mark Twain).

Zachariah, who married (1) Elizabeth Terrell, (2) Betty Johnson.

Micahah, who married Susan Chiles.

Mary (born March 2, 1731), who married (1) Benjamin Johnson, and (2) John Miller.

Lady Astor, nee Nancy Langhorne, is the descendent of Mary Moorman and John Miller.

Mildred (born February 5, 1743), who married James Johnson.

Agatha (born November 29, 1749), who married William Johnson.

Robert, who married Dorothy-----

Clark Terrell Moorman married Rachel Harris. He was the son of Thomas Moorman (1705)-1766) and Rachel Clark, (1714). Captain Christopher Clark of Louisa County, Va., and Penelope Bowling or Massie, of Fairfax County, Va., were the parents of Rachel Clark (1714), grandmother of Rhoda Moorman, wife of Joseph Anthony of fourth generation, and also the parents of Elizabeth Clark, (1720) wife of Joseph Anthony (1713) of the second generation. The children of Clark Terrell Moorman and Rachel Harris were -Sally, who married (1) Matthew Peatross Terrell, son of Thomas and Rebecca Terrell, and (2) James Rhodes.

Rhoda, who married Joseph Anthony (1767) on May 15, 1791, at Golansville, Caroline County, Va. (Quaker ceremony) Therefore, Judith Moorman, wife of Christopher Anthony, was Rhoda Moorman's second cousin and also her mother-in law, and Elizabeth Clark, wife of Joseph Anthony, of the second generation, was her great Aunt and also the grandmother of Rhoda's husband, Joseph Anthony of the fourth generation.

Christopher Reynolds, the grandfather of Judith Moorman, and great grandfather of Rhoda Moorman, was a planter, and lived in Isle of Wight County, Va.

Robert Adams, Sr., grandfather of Judith Moorman, was the grandson of Robert Adams, a prominent man in Virginia and a member of the House of Burgesses about 1620. This family came originally from Anglesea, North Wales.

Mary Mourning, wife of Robert Adams, Sr., and grandmother of Judith Moorman, was the daughter of William Lewis, a descendent of John Lewis, the founder of the Lewis family in Virginia, who is said to have married Lady Lynne, a daughter of the Laird of Loche, Lynne, Scotland. (Historical Collections of Virginia, P. 181, by Henry Howe.)

Christopher Anthony's second wife was Mary Jordan, and they had eight children, Christopher, Jr., of this family, who married Ann Woolston Couch, was a prominent attorney in Lynchburg and Richmond, Va., and he was on the jury that tried Aaron Burr. A very interesting account of his life is given in "Sketches and Recollections of Lynchburg" by Mary Couch Anthony, his daughter.

Christopher Anthony and Mary Jordan Anthony, his wife, and many others of the Anthony family and their friends, who were Quakers, moved to Cincinnati, Ohio, and vicinity in 1814.

Christopher Anthony died in Cincinnati, Ohio, on October 28, 1815.
Mary Jordan Anthony died January 16, 1838.

Our line goes to the next generation through Joseph Anthony, born December 8, 1767, son of Christopher Anthony and Judith Moorman.

JOSEPH ANTHONY

FOURTH GENERATION IN AMERICA

This generation gets within the range of our family records, the letters kept by Samuel Parsons Anthony of the next generation giving many interesting experiences in the lives of the children of Joseph and Rhoda Moorman Anthony.

Joseph was undoubtedly born in Campbell County, Va., in the vicinity of Lynchburg, as the births of all the children of Christopher and Judith Moorman Anthony, also Mary Jordan Anthony, his second wife, were recorded at the South River Meeting House of the Quakers or the Society of Friends, which was about four miles south of Lynchburg. He was the second child of Christopher Anthony and Judith Moorman, his first wife, and was born December 8, 1767.

Rhoda Moorman, Joseph's wife, lived in Caroline County, Va., about forty miles north of Richmond, and they were married by the Quaker wedding ceremony on May 15, 1791, at Golansville, in the southwestern part of the county. The marriage certificate, a copy of which is still a part of the Quaker records in Virginia, is of the same general form as that of Samuel Parsons Anthony, exhibited under the next generation. It gives Joseph Anthony as a resident of Campbell County, Va. and Rhoda Moorman as a resident of Caroline County, Va. and, in accordance with their custom the members present signed the wedding certificate. The following names are given—Clark T. Moorman, M. P. Terrell, Thomas Terrell, Ann Stevens, Pleasant Cobbs, John Peatross, Anthony New, Isaac Winston, Joanna Terrell, Lucy Wainston, Sally Chiles, Judith Cheadle, Rachel Moorman, Sally Terrell, Rebecca Terrell, and Rhoda Terrell.

Rhoda Moorman was from the same line as Judith Moorman, wife of Christopher Anthony, of the third generation, and they were second cousins. Her father, Clark Terrell Moorman, was the son of Thomas Moorman (1705-1766) whose brother Charles Moorman (1715-1778) was Judith Moorman's father.

The Moorman ancestors were from the Isle of Wight, England, but although they fought under Cromwell, they were exiled because they opposed the beheading of Charles I. They, with the Clark family, went first to the Barbadoes, West Indies, then to the vicinity of Charleston, S. C., where they founded the first permanent colony in South Carolina, then to Louisa County, Virginia.

Rhoda Moorman's grandmother was Rachel Clark, sister of Elizabeth Clark, both of whom were daughters of Captain Christopher Clark from the Isle of Wight, England and Penelope Bowling of Massie, of Fairfax County, Virginia. This brings six more of the Christopher Clark silver spoons into the family.

We have no definite information as to the ancestry of Rachel Harris, Rhoda Moorman's mother, but the Harris family in Virginia was very substantial and prominent, and being that vicinity it is reasonable to assume that she was of that line.

Joseph and Rhoda evidently settled in Campbell County, Joseph's home, for I find in the Quaker records where the Cedar Creek Monthly Meeting, held August 27, 1791, in Hanover County, the county adjoining Caroline, granted a Certificate of removal to Rhoda Moorman Anthony to unite her to the South River Meeting, Bedford County, adjoining Campbell County. Then I find another Certificate of removal on September 10, 1796, for Joseph Anthony and Rhoda and Samuel Parsons, their son, from South River Meeting to Henrico Monthly Meeting. This was in the vicinity of Richmond, and I believe that Joseph moved there and engaged in the mercantile business. He must have prospered for the children were well educated. Samuel Parsons was a physician and Charles a lawyer.

We next hear from the them, which comes from our family records, is that Samuel Parsons Anthony drove supply wagons through the Allegheny mountains during the War of 1812 and that the family settled in Clinton County, Ohio, about 1814. Letters from various members of the family indicate that Joseph and Samuel Parsons Anthony engaged in business in Cincinnati, Ohio, and the directory of Cincinnati for 1819 shows Samuel P. Anthony & Co., Merchants and Tobacconists, 88 Main St., which was at the corner of Main and Fourth Streets according to the map in this directory. It is said they had the first tobacco warehouse west of the Allegheny mountains, and also that because of unfortunate endorsements on commercial paper "to accommodate friends" by Joseph, that their business became involved, after which Samuel Parsons Anthony settled in eastern Indiana, practicing medicine and starting numerous trading posts.

We have no record of the death of Joseph, but a letter from Samuel Parsons Anthony to Edwin Clark Anthony, dated July 22, 1832, says "Thomas arrived at home last night and informs us that my father is yet alive but very low". We have letters also from Rhoda Moorman Anthony, written in a firm hand, in 1835, which indicate that she was a fine woman and a zealous, loyal mother.

Of the children we know the following-

Thomas Clark Anthony settled in Iowa, and his son Clarke Anthony was Congressman from the State of Kansas. His letters indicate prosperity.

Charles Anthony was a prominent lawyer and settled in Springfield, Ohio. His letters to Samuel Parsons Anthony indicate a very keen mind.

Rhoda Townsend lived in New Vienna, Clinton County, Ohio, and I think her husband was a farmer. We have a letter from her in 1863 to Samuel Parsons, and I think she was his favorite sister.

Jane Hussey, I think, lived in Ohio. I knew her son, Stanton J. Hussey, who lived in Florida for a number of years, and to him we are indebted for much of this family history.

Rachel Baker, I think, lived in Delaware County, Indiana, and her husband was a farmer.

Sarah Terrell Fletcher lived for several years in Burlington, Iowa, but after her husband's death, she moved to Chicago with her daughter, Alma Orndorff. It was my pleasure and good fortune to know well the Orndorff family, and especially, Guiletta, Aunt Sarah Fletcher's granddaughter. Now they are located in the locality of Los Angeles, California.

Penelope Allen seems to have been the pet of the family, and also the unfortunate. Her trials brought out many high lights in the temperament of the Anthony family.

Christopher Anthony, I think, lived in Ohio, and his oldest son, Mark, was killed at the battle of Pittsburgh Landing during the Civil War.

Joseph Anthony lived in Delaware County, Indiana. He was a lawyer, and County Judge.

Elizabeth Crew, wife of Dr. Crew, lived in Warren County, Ohio.

SAMUEL PARSONS ANTHONY

FIFTH GENERATION IN AMERICA

Although Florence Virginia Anthony (Swain), my mother, who was the granddaughter of Samuel Parsons Anthony and very closely associated with him until locating in Marion County, Florida in 1876, states that he was born in Richmond, Va., the Old South River records of the Quakers or Society of Friends in Bedford County, Va., indicate that his father, Joseph Anthony (1767), after his marriage to Rhoda Moorman, of Caroline County, Va., in 1791, settled in Campbell County, Va. near Lynchburg, where Samuel Parsons Anthony was born the next year, and that they did not move to Richmond or that vicinity until 1796. This is also confirmed by a letter of his.

Of his childhood we have no record, but he, as well as his brothers and sisters, were well educated. My mother said on account of his religious belief he chose to drive supply wagons during the war of 1812 and was sent over the Allegheny mountains to Cincinnati, Ohio, with an ammunition train, where after the war he decided to locate. A letter to him from his Aunt Sally Terrell, written on January 2, 1814, is addressed to him "living near Vanmeter's, Clinton County, Ohio".

On January 9, 1817, at Old Town, Green County, Ohio, he married Narcissa Haines, daughter of John Haines and Elizabeth Allen. This marriage was by the Quaker ceremony, and a copy of the marriage certificate taken from the original now in our possession is attached. The Haines genealogy dates back to 1636 in Northampton County, England, and the line is as follows-

Richard Haines, born 1636, married Margaret---in 1659, joined the Society of Friends 1676, and came to America in 1682.
John Haines married Esther Barton in 1684.
John Haines, Jr., born 1685, married Jane Smith in 1728.
Robert Haines, born 1730, married Elizabeth Horseman.
John Haines, born 1762, married Elizabeth Allen, born 1768.
Narcissa Haines, born 1791, married Samuel Parsons Anthony.

This family settled in the Shenandoah Valley, Va. about 1730, removing probably about 1814 also to Ohio.

The Cincinnati directory for 1819 shows "Samuel P. Anthony & Co., Merchants and Tobacconists, at 88 Main St.," which is now the corner of Fourth and Main Streets. Old letters indicate that Samuel's father was interested with him, and it is said because of unfortunate endorsements "for friends" they failed, and that all Samuel had left was enough to buy a horse and wagon, while Narcissa made up some Quaker bonnets from a shawl for traveling expenses. Samuel did not need a second lesson, however, as his business experience from that time on indicates.

The Miami Medical College was founded in Cincinnati in 1819, and Samuel evidently used up some midnight oil studying medicine, for a letter addressed to him at Morgantown, Clinton County, Ohio, August 10, 1827, by his brother, Joseph, refers to him as "Dr. Samuel P. Anthony" and indicates that he was then practicing and an established physician. A letter also from his brother, Charles, a lawyer in Springfield, Ohio, dated October 23, 1824, is addressed to him likewise, consequently he must have attended Medical School about 1820. I have a letter from his young wife, who had gone with Edwin C. to visit her parents, complaining that she was not getting sufficient attention, which may have some bearing on this matter. A copy of this letter is given, but unfortunately Samuel's reply is not preserved for posterity. He undoubtedly did answer it, for he prized her letter enough to keep it all his life. Probably the answer, wet with tears, went into the fire, for the man has not yet been born who can explain to his young wife why business should take precedence over his attentions to her.

From this point Fortune seems to have favored Samuel P. Anthony. He settled about 1825 in Delaware County, Indiana. Being a Physician, he commenced practicing over a large territory because it was so sparsely populated. He established a trading post at Munseytown, Indiana, or what is now Muncie, and as this new territory increased in population he started trading posts at different points. He then started a line of traffic with Cincinnati, being compelled to use six horse teams because the roads were so bad. This difficulty prompted the idea of good roads, and he organized various "turn pike" Corporations, with toll gates to collect fares at certain intervals. With the advent of the Iron Horse, he helped organize what is now the section of the New York Central Lines from Bellefontaine, Ohio to Indianapolis, Ind., and the Lake Erie & Western Railway from Ft. Wayne, Ind. to Connersville, Ind., being President of the latter and Director of the former. A very interesting letter is given showing how he was engineered out of control of the road from Ft. Wayne to Connersville. He had banking interests in Muncie, and acquired large landed interests in Delaware, Blackford and Jay Counties, Indiana, which afterward proved to have very valuable deposits of Natural Gas and Oil Fortune dealt to him with a lavish hand.

While in a thankful mood, probably, for the generosity of Dame Fortune, or possibly remembering the lean days in Cincinnati, he deeded to his six grandchildren six lots in Muncie, Indiana, comprising the South-east corner of the block cornering on South Walnut and Jackson Streets "to have and to hold" for their children, and many in the present generation have cause to bless him for his foresight in fortifying against the fickleness of human endeavor.

Those were bounteous days for the wonderfully fertile fields yielded most generously the fat of the land. My mother has told me of her family making dozens of delicious mince pies which were kept out in the cold and brought in, when the spirit weakened and the appetite assumed command, to be thawed out before the big back log fire crackling in the immense fire places of those days before the Civil War. As a boy I can remember the dozens of crocks of milk with cream an inch thick, the three or four refrigerators filled with delicious pies and sweetmeats, making maple syrup and sugar in the big maple groves, the nutting parties, and the all in all ideal existence and environment for a young American of some ten full years.

The old home place was on the north lot of the South-west quarter of the block cornering on High and Jackson Streets, facing on High Street in Muncie, Indiana. It was a generously proportioned two story frame house, made principally of black walnut timber, and one room was padded on all sides with tan bark for a Masonic Lodge, which Samuel organized, and which afforded a safe harbor of refuge for the "goat". Then, in the days of greater prosperity, the broad acres south of Muncie were taken over for the paternal abode and a massive pile of brick and stone fashioned into a rendezvous in keeping with the family exchequer. This home was on a track at the corner of Willard and Walnut Streets, and is now a part of the Muncie Hospital on South Jefferson Street, Here Samuel Parsons Anthony died on July 22, 1876, leaving his estate to his son, Edwin Clark Anthony, and his wife, Emily Vanneman Anthony. His life was one of the romances in business of early America, and his fight to regain his financial prestige must have been a glorious adventure. He has set us a good example.

This brief would not be complete without reference to Emily Vanneman, the second wife of Samuel Parsons Anthony and sister to Rebecca G. Vanneman, wife of Samuel Parsons Anthony's son, Edwin Clark Anthony. Aunt Emily, as we all knew her, was a woman of sterling and most wonderful qualities, and I believe the children of Rebecca, her sister, as well as many of the grandchildren, loved her as much as they did their own mothers. Her whole existence seemed to center in the happiness of those about her, and many were the wounded feelings and bodily hurts that were made whole by her comforting words and her God-given power to smooth out the rough places in life's pathways. She, and later, her sister, Amanda Vanneman (Haines), another woman of extraordinarily fine character and temperament, after the death of all of their husbands, shared the Anthony home with their sister, Rebecca, and it was the Seventh Heaven of delight for all the grandchildren to visit.

Mr. Michael G. Bright -

Sir - We have had an election for directors in the Ft. W. & S. R.R. Co. which has resulted in the election of the following persons, viz., Hon. W. Rockhill, I. Studebaker, I. Brough, C. Carter, Joseph Holman, Wm. I. Holman, E. T. Hickman, I. L. Robinson. I give you their names so that you may be aware of the power they possess.

The directors elected W. I. Holman, the former Engineer of the Company, for President, as by their act at that meeting it was resolved that the number of directors should be increased from 10 to 13.

I do think that that Company have acted towards me, to say the least, in a very ungenerous manner as I took hold of it when no other man would.

A charter had been obtained and lay dormant for a year and a half.

The Company organized and I, at the solicitation of all concerned, took hold of it, accepted the Presidency, got up the books, systematized the whole matter, brought it before the public and now when the stock subscribed amounts to nearly a million and a half in the short space of one year I suppose they thought it would re-rebound in the end to some credit to me more than they were willing with their jealous dispositions aroused to permit the public to award me. It must have been the fame which I should have acquired on the completion of the road and not the salary I was getting, as that was only one thousand dollars per annum, not one cent of which has been received by me in money, as I have taken a part in stock and the balance is yet due me from the Company. Instead of drawing money from the Company I have loaned them both money and my name as security for all the moneys borrowed to pay the expenses up to this time.

The facts are that I have done so much for the Company that the north end from Muncy to Ft. Wayne were very much afraid lest I should acquire a credit for management of the affairs of the Company which they could not offset although they were aspiring to the rules of the Company for their own private interests and came to the conclusion that it could not be done unless they first should get me out of their way and thereby appropriate to themselves the benefit of my exertions to effect that.

Joseph Holman, father of William Holman, the Engineer, by the aid of Wm. Rockhill of Ft. Wayne, managed to place all the salaries in their own hands, the Directors having the control of the proxies of the entire line all of which will, without doubt, be made very liberal after the laborious part has been done by me. They wish to pocket and take the credit for having made the road which is justly due me, the Company having been made by my exertions and the stock taken under my administration, which now amounts, as before stated, to about fourteen hundred thousand dollars.

I have no doubt but that they came to the conclusion that I had placed it in such a situation that they could now make the road and that "Might was right" and by using that right they could at least get the offices and fees for awhile and if they should be so fortunate, even by making the greatest sacrifices, to finish the road they will secure to themselves the reputation of having made the road, while it would be by my efforts that the whole foundation was laid.

There is no doubt but that the location of the business will be removed to some point south before long as the controlling vote will be south next year and it is already a settled question with the Directors south that it will be moved.

Now, for my part, I feel disposed to make an extra effort in accordance with my first views of the road, as have been fully and frankly expressed, which is to make a road to Jeffersonville, by Columbus, by which, if practicable, an office could be located at this place which would result in some interest to me, as my object is to benefit myself or at least to place myself in a position to regain my proper standing as to railroad matters which they have so unjustly deprived me of and appropriated to their own benefit and the benefit of their particular friends, and in accordance with those views I would say to you that with proper exertion and management it is at least possible that a new project may yet be set on foot, notwithstanding the great number already sprung, by which your road may be made to cost all it is worth on the original cost. My suggestion of the plan is to unite the Jeffersonville, R.R. Co. with Craven from Columbus to Shelbyville and your road from Shelbyville to Knightstown and continue the Union road to Toledo in Ohio by Muncy, Portland and such points as observation may point out as most proper.

The contract made by the committee of the Board of Directors with the Albany corporation committee was laid on the table by the now Board of Directors of the Company, which was in part right and would have been entirely right if it had acted on or rejected at once. In that contract the Albany men had overreached the Committee clearly and entirely. Instead of a subscription to the Railroad Co., it would have resulted in a direct tax on that Company of One Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars.

If the matter can be attended to soon before further steps are taken by the Company and with a perfect understanding between the three Companies fully made and settled, I think that Albany and Louisville can both be served in their own way and to their full satisfaction so as to adopt the plan and aid in the work at the same time that not only Louisville but the interests of Madison will be promoted to a sufficient amount to induce her to aid in the work.

I have now given you my situation and my views very briefly. If you think them worth notice at all, answer at your earliest convenience and make such suggestions as you may think proper. If there is nothing contained worth alluding to, give your reasons please why they are not. If I could see you I could explain more fully.

Yours-

Sam^l P. Anthony

EDWIN CLARK ANTHONY

SIXTH GENERATION IN AMERICA

Edwin Clark Anthony, the only child of this generation, and son of Samuel Parsons Anthony and Narcissa Haines, both of Virginia, was born in Cincinnati, Ohio, May 29, 1818, at the South East corner of Fourth and Main Streets, as the Cincinnati directory gives this location as the home of Samuel P. Anthony in 1819.

The first record we have of him is at the age of fifteen months, when his mother visited her parents in Greene County, Ohio. She says "Edwin C. A. is mending very fast indeed since he cut two teeth. He can run everywhere and chases the chickens. He eats very heartily and I hope he weans himself." Within the next five years, after the failure of Samuel P. Anthony & Co., at Cincinnati, Ohio, the family moved to Bellefontaines, Ohio and then to Muncie, Delaware County, Ind., where Samuel P. Anthony commenced the practice of medicine and established various trading posts, and our next record of Edwin is when he was a lad of fifteen years in Richmond, Indiana, at school. His father had written to him telling him he would send him a horse at the end of the school term to ride home, but Edwin entered an objection stating that he could not bring his "big books" by horseback. Books were precious in those days, and the Anthonys all seemed to treasure them. We have many other letters to him during his youth and early manhood and he seems to have been a very popular young man with his many relatives, among whom were the Terrells, Ellens, Haines, Coneleys, Davis and Anthonys. Although inclined to wear his heart on his sleeve, and there was ample reason, being rich and an only son, with countless charming cousins about him, he, when about thirty years of age, and judging from the letters we have, fell very deeply in love with a young lady from Centerville, Indiana, a Miss Rebecca Garwood Vanneman, whose parents were lately from Philadelphia, Pa., and they were married in 1848. Their courtship, judging from Rebecca's letters, was quite a romantic one, and the wedding trip was fraught with many mishaps because of the difficulties in traveling during those pioneer days.

His father, also, seems to have started him early assisting him in his various enterprises, and there are numerous letters by him from different points on business. This undoubtedly instilled in him the desire to be "on the go" for never during his life did he seem content to be located permanently. He went to Texas and the West and shipped train loads of wild ponies and horses to Indiana and Florida, and after the Civil War had large development projects in Florida, while in Muncie, Indiana, he had a large mercantile business and landed interests of large proportions.

At the time of the Civil War, he organized a Company of cavalry and was made Captain in 41st Regiment, 2nd Cavalry, Indiana Volunteer Militia, Army of the Cumberland. Soon after the war, however, he seemed to dislike the cold winters and took a trip to Florida, where he purchased land in Marion County, and began a development project. A short time after his oldest daughter, Florence Virginia Anthony (Swain) and her husband and family located there, and very soon all the Anthony family were spending their winters in Florida. At this time there were no railroads within seventy-five miles and all transportation and travel was on the St. John's and Ocklawaha Rivers, and it took a full week or longer to get back and forth from Indiana. The post office of Anthony Place was established and mail came once a week, but soon the railroads, following the trend of civilization, came through this section, bringing with them the modern conveniences, and rapid development of this territory. For the six children of this generation, the environment of affluence made a very enjoyable existence and it is fraught with many precious memories for the writer, who was the oldest grandchild and the recipient of many favors and attentions.

The children were-

FLORENCE VIRGINIA, who from her earliest childhood seemed imbued with the spirit of God and the impress of several generations of rigid Quakerisms, and her whole life up to the day she was stricken, was spent doing the Master's work. Her father, as well as her grandfather, was very fond of her, and built her a mission, naming it Florence Chapel. This chapel was on West Willard St. in Muncie, Indiana. When she moved to Florida she at once took a prominent part in local and state church work, as well as foreign missions. She had also obtained much information from her grandfather regarding medicine, and during the pioneer days in Florida she was a ministering angel, often taking complete charge of the sick and nursing them back to health. She also raised all her children and grandchildren, with the exception of one, which speaks well for her ability in combating the diseases of the tropics. And with it all she always took the blessing of the Spirit, and her crown will have many stars in the next world for the lives she made better and happier. She and her husband, Elihu Henderson Swain, were great singers, and they always led the meetings, after which the minister, and often many of the congregation, were invited to our home to partake of the yellow leg chickens, of which the coop was always full. Let it be said here, however, that these Sunday dinners were always prepared on Saturday.

SAMUEL PARSON, JR. the oldest son, married Fannie Fern Bayless of Ft. Wayne, Indiana, and after living on South Walnut St., Muncie, Indiana, for several years, located in Sumpter County, Florida. They later returned to Indiana, but afterwards returned to Ocala, Marion County, Florida permanently. Mrs. Louise Mayo Webb and Samuel Perry, children of this union, are located in Houston, Texas. Edwin C. in New Orleans, and Frank G. in Los Angeles, California.

EDWIN CLARK, JR. died when twenty-eight years of age from malaria contracted while clearing land in Florida, and was unmarried.

ELLA AMANDA married George R. Gamble. She died at the age of twenty-five, from a life long disease which made her life one of self sacrifice, but with it all she had a large coterie of friends, of whom, she was always the jolliest.

CHARLES HAINES married the daughter of a pioneer physician of Delaware County, Indiana, Dr. Harvey Mitchell. His interests were large and he was a lover of fine race horses. They had one child, Harvey Mitchell Anthony, who married the daughter of Judge Joseph Leffler, of Muncie, Indiana.

ADELIA MARCISSA, when a girl of seventeen years and spending the winter in Florida, married, after a romantic courtship, C. Frank Robinson, of Providence, R. I., a banker and merchant in Ocala, Florida. This marriage while the most romantic in the family was at the same time the saddest. It was burdened with many sorrows, tragedies, and unfortunate misunderstandings, and the Robinson interests through fire and financial losses dissipated a large portion of the Anthony holdings, Endorsed paper amounting to over eighty thousand dollars, together with the deaths of both Edwin Clark Anthony and C. Frank Robinson, took over three times that amount in Liquidation. Further the properties sold to meet this indebtedness now amount to many times the value at that time in actual acreage to say nothing of the gas and oil that this territory has produced. Adelia Narcissa was a woman of wonderful poise, beauty, temperament, and culture, and the center of an admiring throng at all times. Her husband, though insanely jealous of her, idolized her and gave her everything she could ask, except to curb his jealousy, and we have a ring she gave him in which is engraved "Trust me". After they had been married seven years, her husband died leaving a trail of disaster behind him and she returned to the home in Muncie, Indiana. She was an excellent horsewoman, and two years later while visiting in Florida, a spirited horse reared and fell on her, causing a cancer later on which brought an agonizing death at the age of twenty-six years.

Edwin Clark Anthony continued handling his interests in Florida, and on June 7, 1884, after a short illness, died there. He was taken back to Muncie, Indiana and buried in Beech Grove Cemetery, the funeral being probably the largest ever in Delaware County. He was a man of wide popularity and many friends, and although he did not succeed in conserving the wealth of his father, he was untiring in his energies and endeavors, and "died in the harness". His father was conserving and often execting to the last dollar, but he was "hail fellow, well met" and generous to a fault. It is said once a man passed him on the road and said "Co.. Anthony, I have a horse I want to trade". and he answered "All right. Take him out to the farm and get any one you want". never looking to see if the horse was good, bad or indifferent.

Rebecca Garwood Vanneman (Anthony), the wife of Edwin Clark Anthony, was born enroute when her parents moved from Philadelphia, Pa. to Centerville, Indiana, on January 10, 1822- a cold day, I dare say. She was a wonderful wife, enjoyable, indulgent, generous, but still rigid in her beliefs. The Dutch in this family was glorious to behold when it took its stride in the culinary department of the household. The inherent ability to cook scorned a measuring cup, and once when the writer asked Aunt Amanda, Rebecca's sister, how much sugar she put in her cherry pies, she laughed and said "I put in till I am ashamed and then shut my eyes and put in another handful". And such pies! If I live to be a thousand years old my vision will never be dimmed when I think how that stalking giant of an appetite I possessed sated itself from the product of those magic hands turning flour, mixed with cream and golden butter, into pastry like a snow flake, with "filling" like the nectar of the Gods.

The three sisters, Rebecca, Amanda, and Emily, lived to the end, together and were like the three graces - Faith, Hope and Charity.

Dear Mr. Orndorff,

Our LDS microfilm library has a small amount of film and we must order most everything we need. However, we can also look at film that others have ordered. It is not unusual to find information on film someone else has obtained and not on what one has ordered.

Additionally, our microfilm reels are labeled according to the item we have ordered but they often contain many other records on the same reel.

I picked up a reel of microfilm that someone else had ordered recently, church records of Northampton Co., Pa. It was one of those times when I found something unexpectedly.

Among other items was a record of the Reformed Church, East Vincent, Vincent Township, Chester Co., Pa. 1758-1833. These were not original records, but transcriptions, some handwritten and some typewritten. A note at the beginning indicated that the church was 1 mile from the Schuylkill River across from the Trappe church of Montgomery Co.....Records were translated by Rev. Kreider, President of the Pennsylvania German Society. The Church was used as a hospital during the war. At that time (about 1929 I believe) there were 2 typewritten copies of this records, one placed with the Washington DAR.

The first church there was founded c. 1740, a union church. The Lutheran and Reformed church separated before the Revolution and the Lutherans kept the old building. Later the Reformed church split over temperance. Record was kept beginning in 1758 but baptisms entered from 1753.

There are some things that will be of particular interest to you:

Baptisms:

John Philip	born March 23, 1767 bapt July 30, 1767	parents: John Brendorf (sic) & Eva Barbara
Susanna	born Sept 21 1767 bapt Oct. 30 1767	parents: Henry Hencken & Anna Margaret (sometimes just Margaret)
John Peter	born Feb. 19 1769 bapt May 7 1769	same
Phillip Henry	born Nov. 5, 1770 bapt Dec. 2 1770	same
George	born Aug. 15, 1771 bapt. Sept 20 1771	same

I understand that the York Co., Pa. wills are being abstracted and indexed and this should be very helpful. No early Orndorffs left wills there, but there was that Henry Ohrendorff and we don't know for sure who he is. My best guess would say he is Johann Henrich, son of Christian I.

Incidentally, I reported to you of a Bill Orndorff mentioned in deeds of Ann Arundel Co., (deed indexes) ... In checking the deeds themselves, it was realized that the indexes were a little deceptive. names were listed thus Orndorff, Peter
Orndorff, Bill

But really the second one was Bell, not Bill and it was a surname not a Christian name; it was an easy mistake to make. These deeds were in Ann Arundel Co. so that William Orndorff or Ohrendorff of Baltimore Co. was not necessarily connected to Peter Orndorff. The microfilm quality is not always good and sometimes letter are hard to make out. I think that the Popular Springs or Poplar Springs where probably Peter had a tavern is now in the section of Howard Co. (formerly Ann Arundel) which lies just below Carroll Co. and is just across the county line. Not really far at all.

Of course, now I am wondering just who was this John Bell who purchased land with Peter Orndorff. Incidentally when THIS Peter Orndorff sold land, his wife never signed the deed, unlike Peter and Rosanna Orndorff. This may be a way to tell them apart.

Back to the "Brendorf" name, I think it is obvious that this could well be the Orendorf name. I have never heard of the Brendorf name before and this was not the original copy but a translation. I wonder what happened to poor Ludwig. He probably perished in the Revolutionary struggle. He was the right age. If these Orndorffs are connected to the 1753 emigration then this Ludwig was born in Europe and his father was surely old enough to have been enumerated on the passenger lists and oaths (unless sick) and he could possibly be that Philip Henrich Arndoff person. John O. could be Ludwig's older brother. I am sure that later on when you are free to travel you will want to check, or have checked by someone competent, the original records of these churches. If these are Orendorffs, in trying to reconcile them with the Virginia group, there are about as many questions raised as answers, it seems. I note the name Eva Barbara as a wife of John which does not square with the John who supposedly married Elizabeth Muentz or Mentz. But Elizabeth could have been a second wife, I suppose.

That's all for now. Write back this summer when you have lots of time. Oh yes, before I forget, Margaret is ~~springing~~ encourage a big Centennial Orndorff Reunion in 1986 so put that on your calendar. We would like to publish a book for the event and hope you will have your Virginia line in some kind of order by then. Nine years should be enough time for all of us if we hurry!

MARK ANTHONY

FIRST GENERATION IN AMERICA

Apparently there is no conclusive evidence as to the origin of this branch of the Anthony family in America. There are, however, many conjectures and legends.

One starts with the Romans introducing coinage in Germany where we find William Anthony, of Cologne, Germany, an engraver, and later Derrick Anthony, "Chif Graver of the mint and seals to King Edward, Oweens Mary and Elizabeth" in England, whose son, Sir Charles Anthony, was knighted and given a grant of land in Virginia for services to the Crown. The Virginia Historical Magazine, Vol. 12, Page 396, shows the will of Charles Anthony, proved Nov. 21, 1615, listing his stock in the First and Second Virginia Companies. Richard, Charles, James, Andrew, Edward, and Mary. Then I find where Thomas Anthony came to Lower Norfolk County, Va. in 1652. Other brothers, I believe, went to New England. There is a similarity of features and temperament between the New England Anthonys and our family, and numerous genealogists think our ancestry lies in this line.

A legend persists however, through the entire Anthony family that we are of Italian origin. In the "History of Col. William Candler of Georgis" by Gov. Allen D. Chandler, of Georgia, Dr. Ignatius Few, founder of Emory College, Oxford, Ga., and a grandson of Elizabeth (Anthony) Candler, quotes her as saying that Mark Anthony, her grandfather was a Genoesse Italian. This is substantiated by letters from the Clark and Moorman families, who intermarried with the Anthony family in the second, third and fourth generations.

The legend is that Mark Anthony's father was a merchant of Genoa, Italy, and emigrated to Holland. He sent Mark back to Italy to school, but being an adventurous soul, he ran away on a trading vessel, which was captured by Algerian pirates and Mark was sold into slavery in Algiers. He escaped, however, by killing his guard, and getting to an English vessel in the harbor. The captain concealed him in a large cask till out at sea. This vessel was sailing for Virginia, and on arrival Mark was bound out in New Kent County, Va. for three years to pay for his passage across. The Virginia Quit Rent rolls of 1704 show 190 acres to Mark Anthony in Parish of

GENERAL CHARLES ANTHONY.

General Charles Anthony was born at Richmond, Virginia. He came to Ohio near the beginning of this century. He was a member of the Springfield Bar from 1824 to 1862. He was elected three times to the State Legislature, and served in the position of Speaker of that body, an office that he administered with much ability and dignity. He also served in the Senate. He was widely known as a campaign speaker, and had many invitations to address the people on the questions of the day. He held the office of United States Attorney for Ohio from 1841 to 1845. General Anthony was a noted Mason, and was elected Grand Master of the State. He was a man of integrity and force of character, and was popular with all classes. He died in 1862.

Police Court fines. In order to increase the usefulness of the library and secure the purchase of more books, in 1892 the Clark County Bar Association was incorporated and shares of stock of fifty dollars each were issued. In these various ways, and from time to time, funds were secured, with which the excellent library now in the Court House was procured. A complete set of the reports of all the important States of the Union are now on its shelves, together with modern digests and encyclopedias. A subscription has just been made for the English Reports. W. F. Bevitt and Charlotte Cross have been the accommodating librarian and assistant librarian for some time. The present trustees are: Judge J. K. Mower, Judge A. N. Summers, Judge F. M. Hagan, Oscar T. Martin, J. E. Bowman, J. F. McGrew and W. W. Keifer.

The following is given by our Court Docket as a list of the present practicing members of our bar: Edwin L. Arthur, George Arthur, John C. Bassett, Jr., George A. GENEALOGY DEPARTMENT

The following general references have been given: "American Ancestry" by Virkus; "History of Accomack County, Virginia," by Wood; deeds, marriage and will records and family Bibles. Many other references can be furnished.

According to the late Mr. Jesse Bryan, of St. Louis, Mo., Zachariah Moorman was born in Isle of Wight, England, in 1670. At 15 he joined the British army and became a captain in Cromwell's army in the invasion of Ireland. After the subjugation of Ireland, he lived there a few years, probably near Belfast, and married a Miss Candler, a sister of daughter of William Candler, a lieutenant in Cromwell's army, who was awarded estates in Ireland.

Exiled From Britain

Zachariah Moorman returned to the Isle of Wight and lived there a few years, but being a sympathizer with Charles I., he became an enemy of Cromwell for having the king beheaded, and was exiled from the British Isles. In the spring of 1680 Zachariah Moorman and his children, Thomas, Charles (7) and Sally Ann, who married Micajah Clark, embarked at Southampton, England, in the ship Clary and sailed to Barbadoes Island, in the West Indies. Others who sailed with the Moormans were: Michael and Margaret Clark and their sons, Micajah, Francis, Edward, Roger, William, Thomas, Christopher and David Terrell. Early next year Zachariah Moorman and family and Micajah and Sally Ann (Moorman) Clark joined the immigrants who sailed to South Carolina, landing near the site of Charleston and forming the first permanent colony in South Carolina.

The record that I have is not clear as to whether Charles was the son of Thomas or the son of Zachariah, but the dates would indicate that he was the son of Thomas and the grandson of Zachariah.

The above Thomas Moorman came to South Carolina, where he was a landed proprietor, having been granted land by the London Company. He later moved to Nasemond County, Virginia, where he was a vestryman in 1670. He moved in the same year to Green Springs, Louisa County, Virginia. He married Elizabeth, whose maiden name is unknown. Their children are recorded in New Kent County, Virginia: Mary (baptized August 29, 1688), Andrew (baptized November 4, 1689), and Charles (1684-1739).

The above Charles Moorman (1684-1756) married Elizabeth Reynolds (1688-1755), daughter of Christopher Reynolds. They settled near Green Springs, Louisa County, Virginia, where he was justice of peace. It is said that Charles was 15 and Elizabeth 13 when they married, and that Elizabeth was 15 when their oldest son, Thomas, was born. They were Quakers, but owned slaves. With his son, Thomas, Charles was overseer of the "Friends." Their extensive possessions upon the Moorman River accounts for its name. The children of Charles and Elizabeth Moorman were: Thomas (born September 14, 1705), who married (1) Rachael Clark, daughter of Capt. ANTHONY OF VIRGINIA

Apparently there is no conclusive evidence as to the origin of this branch of the family in Virginia. There are however, many conjectures and legends.

One starts with the Romans introducing coinage in Germany, where we find William Anthony, of Cologne, Germany an engraver, and later, Derrick Anthony "Chief Graver on the Mint and Seals to King Edward, Queens Mary and Elizabeth" of England, whose son Sir Charles Anthony, was knighted and given a grant of land in Virginia, for services to the Crown.

* The Virginia Historical Magazine, Vol. 12, page 396 shows the will of Charles Anthony, proved 21 Nov. 1615, listing his stock in the First and Second Virginia Companies. His wife's name was Elizabeth; and his children were: Thomas, Richard, Charles, James, Andrew, and Mary.

There is a record of Thomas Anthony coming to lower Norfolk County, Virginia in 1652. Other brothers apparently went to New England. There is a similarity of features and temperament between the New England Anthonys and those in Virginia, and numerous genealogists think their ancestry is the same. A legend persists however, through the entire Anthony family, that they are of Italian origin. Dr. Ignatius Few, founder of Emory College, Oxford, Ga., and a grandson of Elizabeth (Anthony) Candler, (wife of Col. Wm. Candler) quotes her as saying that Mark Anthony, her grandfather, was a Genoese Italian. This is substantiated by letters from the Clark and Moorman families, who intermarried with the Anthony family in the second, third, and fourth generations.

The following is a legend in the family. Mark Anthony's father was a merchant in Genoa, Italy and emigrated to Holland. He sent his son, Mark, back to Italy to school, but being of an adventurous disposition he ran away on a trading vessel, which was captured by Algerian Pirates and Mark was sold in Algeria. He escaped however, by killing his guard and getting to an English vessel in the harbor, was concealed by the Captain in a large cask until they were out to sea. This vessel was sailing for Virginia, and on arrival Mark was bound out in New Kent County, Virginia for three years to pay for his passage.

* The Virginia Quit Rent Rolls of 1704, show 190 acres to Mark Anthony in Parishes of St. Peters and St. Pauls, New Kent Co., Virginia, and he later settled on the upper James River in what became, Bedford County Virginia, and established a mill and trading post of considerable importance.

Mark Anthony's wife was Isabella Hart, said to have been of Scotch ancestry. There is no record of their children, except of Joseph and John.

1. Joseph, b. May 2, 1713, died Nov. 23, 1785 in Henrico County Virginia.

* 2. John married Elizabeth Banks and had four children.

Joseph Anthony, son of Mark and Isabella (Hart) Anthony, was married April 27, 1749 to Elizabeth Clark, (b. Feb. 15, 1729,) dau. Capt. Christopher Clark, of Louisa Co., Va., originally of Isle of Wight, England, and Penelope Massie-Bolling, of Fairfax County Va. She is said to have been the granddaughter of Lord Ashley, Earl of Shaftsbury, England.

Of this generation much is known and there is quite a lot of romance connected with it. It is further the foundation of many substantial families in the United States today.

Joseph Anthony, born in what is now Abermarle County Va., was properly at his father's trading post on the James River about seventy-five miles from Richmond, but their home, later was on Lawyers Road, near the Staunton River in Franklin County.

* Joseph's will is of record at Martinsville, Henry County, Va., which is indicative of a very comfortable fortune for those days. He was a planter and merchant, and the records show many instances where he furnished the Revolutionary Army Supplies, for which it is said the Tories cut off his silver knee buckles.

Captain Christopher Clark, the father of Elizabeth, was also a staunch patriot, and a man of great energy and forcefulness. Rachel Clark, sister of Elizabeth, was the grandmother of Rhoda (Moorman) Anthony, wife of Joseph Anthony, of the fourth generation. It is said that each of these daughters received of their parents at marriage, one half dozen solid silver spoons, and that some of them are still treasured heirlooms. "Sketches and Recollections of Lynchburg" by the oldest inhabitant, Mary Couch Anthony, dau. of Christopher Anthony and Ann Woolston Couch of the third generation.

The Clarks and Anthony's were neighbors as far back as 1704. A number of noted men came from this Clark Family, among them being, Gov. James Clark, of Kentucky, Gen. John B. Clark, his son, both also were Congressmen from Missouri.

Christopher Clark 1681-1754, was a Quaker from England, who came via the Barbados in 1710. He purchased or patented 30,000 acres of Crown Lands in Hanover, Alvermarle, and Louisa Counties in Virginia. He was Captain of Hanover Co., Militia, 1727; High Sheriff, 1731; Justice of Louisa County, 1743; Overseer of Friends Meeting House near Sugarloaf Mountain, 1749; Law partner Nicholas Meriweather. He married ca. 1709 to Penelope Massie or Bolling (d. aft. 1753) first Earl of Shaftsbury, Lord High Commander of England, and father of # Hebeas Corpus. Ref. Compendium of American Genealogy.

The History of Colonel William Candler of Georgia, " by Gov. Allen D. Candler of Georgia, says that not less than fifteen prominent families of Georgia and probably as many more in Virginia, are decedents of Joseph and Elizabeth (Clark) Anthony, among them, Bishop Warren Akin Candler, of Georgia, Gov. Allen D. Candler, also of Ga., Gen. Joseph E. Johnson, of Virginia, Dr. Ignatius Few, Founder of Emory College, Oxford, Ga., Dr. Milton Anthony, Founder of the Medical College of Georgia.

In the marriage of Elizabeth Anthony, (dau. of Joseph) to Colonel Wm. Candler, there is a touch of both romance and tragedy. He was the son of an officer in the English Army stationed in Ireland, who had incurred the displeasure of the Royal House with which he was distantly connected, by marrying an Irish girl. William was living out a royal grant for Joseph Anthony, and meeting Joseph's daughter, Elizabeth, who was only fifteen fell in love and married her. This for some reason displeased Joseph, and he seems to have never to have forgiven Elizabeth. The union however proved a happy one, for Col. Wm. Candler became a prominent citizen and an officer in the Revolutionary Army, and their decedents are among the first citizens of the South today.

From Joseph's will, also he seemed to have had a decided disinclination to have his wife marry again, and she did not. She with James, Joseph II, Micajah, Mark and properly some of her other children, after Joseph's death moved to Wilkes County Georgia. She became a Quaker preacher, after making many trips on horseback, back and forth, between Georgia and Virginia, lived to be over one hundred years old.

Elizabeth Clark Anthony wife of Joseph

Her family, the Clarks, who came from Isle of Wight, Eng., were undoubtedly of excellent lineage, and to her, we may attribute in large measure, the stability of her descendants. A woman who could have fifteen children, live more than a hundred years, and ride horseback through five hundred miles of wilderness, preaching gospel, certainly deserves our lasting reverence and respect.

It appears from Joseph's will, further that he was not in sympathy with Quakerism. There was a tendency to free slaves by those who embraced this faith, and he stated explicitly that if any of his children refused to keep the slaves he willed them, that they were to go back to the estate and be distributed among the rest of his children. This will is cited in the Virginia Magazine of History and Biography by Col. C.B. Bryant, who was of great assistance in obtaining this data. His wife was a descendant of Sara Anthony and Capt. Thos. Cooper, a prominent Virginia citizen and a member of the House of Burgesses.

Through the marriage of Christopher Anthony (b. Mar. 24, 1744) to Judith Moorman, b. June 26, 1748, another prominent family becomes allied with the Anthony's. The Moorman family came to Virginia in 1670 from Isle of Wight, England with the Clarks. They were intermarried with the Candler's in Ireland, where they served under Cromwell, and entered the Anthony line in the third and fourth generations.

That Micajah Anthony, Jr. was the same as Micajah Tate Anthony of Wilkes County Ga., is established by court record as recorded in deed book 600 page 12, Wilkes County by Davidson. See wills of Sara Anthony Stokes, Micajah Anthony, and reference to Mary Rembert DuBose Anthony; Her will is in Wilkes County.

Mark Anthony # of the third generation was First Lieutenant Co. Lower Battalion Wilkes County 1793.

There is a tradition that Joseph Anthony, Sr. did serve several terms of Militia duty during the Revolutionary War, but there is no record of it, because he had to serve secretly with troops of other counties else his Church would disown him. Joseph Anthony and his sons, are listed with those who took the Oath of Allegiance in 1777.

Joseph and Elizabeth Anthony had fifteen children, seven boys and eight girls. The authority for this list is an article by Dr. C.B. Bryant of Martinville, Va., in the Va. Historical Mag., Vol. IX page 328:

He was a bold and marvelously skilled surgeon as evidenced by a case in which in 1812 successfully excised portions of the 5th and 6th ribs and removed portions of lung tissue. The case was reported in the Philadelphia Medical Journal Vol.. VI p 108, 1823. His body was interred in the college grounds. DR. SAMUEL P. ANTHONY.

In nearly all the earlier and later improvements inaugurated and carried to successful termination in Muncie and throughout Delaware County, Dr. Anthony bore a conspicuous part. He came to the village of Muncietown when it was scarcely more than a clearing in the wilderness, and throughout a number of years was one of its most active and worthy citizens, and was long identified with its mercantile and commercial interests. He was born December 2, 1792, at Lynchburg, Va., and, at the age of twenty years, removed with his father to Ohio. During the war of 1812, he served as a teamster in the United States Army, and, after the close of the war (in 1814), went to Cincinnati, Ohio, where he and his father started the first tobacco manufacturing establishment west of the Alleghany Mountains, and conducted a very successful tobacco and general merchandise trade for several years. While at Cincinnati he studied medicine, and, after completing his medical education, removed to Clinton County, Ohio, where he was engaged for three years in the practice of his profession. At the end of that time, he removed to Cedarville, in the same State, where he was engaged in the practice for an equal length of time. He then located at Muncie, Ind., in 1831, where he spent the residue of his life, practicing medicine and selling merchandise. He invested largely in real estate, purchasing thousands of acres in this and adjoining counties, and, by close attention to business, amassed a large fortune, which, at the time of his death, was variously estimated at from $250,000 to $500,000. He opened a general merchandise store at Muncie, shortly after his arrival here, and for more than forty years was identified with that branch of the public interests of the town. He practiced medicine for twenty-five years, and, during that time, established a fine reputation as a successful physician. He could not retire from the practice altogether, for there were many who refused to have the administrations of any other physician in case of sickness. When called out upon such a mission to one of his old patients, he always responded cheerfully, and never took a fee for his services. He was himself a man of robust health, and, up to the day of his death, was engaged in active business life. Although he had almost reached the age of eighty-four years, his physical and mental faculties were unimpaired.

He was active in all public enterprises which seemed to him calculated to promote the interests of this city and county. When the Bellefontaine & Indianapolis Railroad was advocated, he at once enlisted to help the project along, by taking stock to the amount of several thousand dollars, and personally soliciting subscriptions to the road. He served as one of the Directors of this road, and, when elected President, in which capacity he served about a year. He then resigned, and was succeeded by Hon. John Brough, of Ohio, and again became President. He was President of the Fort Wayne & Southern Railway, and a Director of the Lafayette, Muncie & Bloomington Railway.

By proceeding his death, he had transacted his business as usual, and, when he departed to the residence of his son, with whom he was then living, he was ignorant of what was to come until late in the night, when he was seized with violent pains, which culminated in paralysis, and, at 1 o'clock on Saturday morning, July 22, 1876, he died. In his death Delaware County lost one of its most substantial citizens and one of its best financiers. He seemed to possess a natural talent for making money, while he was never penurious or unwilling to contribute his share to public or private charities. In all his dealings with the world, he was strictly conscientious and honorable, and never took an unfair advantage. He was prompt in the fulfillment of his own obligations, and expected others to be so when they were the debtors. In many cases he found it necessary to be exacting, hence he was called by some "a hard man," but those who understood him knew that in his nature there was more of kindness than any other trait, and his life was replete with kind deeds performed away from the public gaze and known only to the recipients. While engaged in the practice of medicine, the most impecunious patients were attended as promptly and as tenderly as the wealthiest, and he responded to their calls at all hours, even after he had nominally retired from the practice. He was a man of strong character and intellect, and was independent in his methods. He was known and honored throughout Delaware and adjoining counties, and his death caused universal sorrow.

He was twice married—first in 1817, to Miss Narcissa Haines, who died in May, 1858, leaving one son—Edwin C.; in 1859, he married Miss Emily G. Venaman, who still survives.

His son, Edwin C. Anthony, was born at Cincinnati, Ohio, May 29, 1818, and received his education at Richmond, Ind. He then engaged in business with his father at Muncie, and, prior to the late war, took the entire management of the business upon himself, as his father had retired from active life. At the outbreak of the rebellion, however, he was compelled to resume business life, as the son had enlisted in the Union army. Capt. Anthony raised Company D, of the Forty-first Regiment Indiana Cavalry, and was mustered into the service as Captain of the company in 1861. He met with an accident by which his arm was broken, and, shortly after the battle of Shiloh, was compelled to resign on account of his injury. He returned to Muncie and again engaged in mercantile life, which he continued successfully for a number of years. Since the close of the war, he has been engaged in shipping live stock to the Southern States, and, several years ago, purchased extensive orange groves in Marion and Sumter Counties, Fla., in the supervision of which he now spends the greater portion of his time.

Capt. Anthony inherited much of his father's ability, and has been a successful man all his life, while he has always been liberal with those less fortunate than himself. He is highly regarded and universally respected in this community and wherever he is known.

On the 30th day of September, 1849, he was united in marriage with Miss Rebecca G. Venaman, who has proved a loving and devoted wife throughout the years that have followed. They are the parents of six children, viz., Florence, Samuel P., Edwin C., Jr., Ella A., Charles H. and Adelia. Florence is the wife of E. H. Swain, and now resides in the State of Florida. Samuel P. married Miss Fannie F. Bayless, and is engaged in manufacturing at Muncie. Ella A. (now deceased) was the wife of George R. Gamble, and resided at Muncie. Adelia is the wife of C. F. Robinson, and resides in Florida.

any of my children either those above named or any of the others dispute the accuracy of the above amount or demand any more than the sum above named it is my will that such child or children so disputing the amount or demanding more shall take no benefit whatever of my estate for of this will other than what may legally and strictly be his or their due as a debt arising to them on account of my guardianship of the moneys of the estate above

Being desirous to make such provision for my beloved wife Rhoda as she may need should she survive me as far as my estate will enable me to do so, I bequeath to her during her natural life all that tract of land containing one hundred and thirty one acres be the same more or less tract of land shall be sold and the proceeds of such sale shall be distributed to the same persons and in the same manner as my general estate as hereinafter and deliver such conveyance as may be necessary and proper in the law to the purchaser thereof

I give and bequeath unto my beloved wife Rhoda the sum of two hundred dollars to be paid to her by my executors as soon as may be done conveniently after my decease
