Notes for CHRISTOPHER CROUCH:

"Christopher and Richard Crouch both died in Hebron, Connecticut in 1781. Both were over ninety. Christopher left a will filed in East Haddam and records of five children born in Groton, Connecticut. Richard left no record but that of his death. These two men could have been sons of William Crouch of Charlestown, Massachusetts (who married 1675 and moved to a place unknown), but no proof nor disproof can be found, though the names William, David, and Richard keep recurring. A great-grandson of Christopher Crouch, Joshua Crouch of Hounsfield, New York, made a statement about the origin of his family which appeared thus in a Jefferson County, New York, history (1894): "Mr. Crouch's ancestors were of English descent, coming to America in 1632, and settling in Hebron, Ct." Since William Crouch of Charlestown [Massachusetts] is the only early Crouch in New England, this probably means Christopher of Hebron, Connecticut is his grandson and should be listed as such; but failing proof, we [do not list him as such]."
