THE TERM "WAPENTAKE" EXPLAINED

The term "Wapentake" was one of the earliest terms used by the Saxons in northern England and the Midlands for a subdivision of a shire or county and corresponding to a hundred. It is a term still used in Delaware, so if you are researching in England, Delaware, etc., look up this term before you proceed. It is related to the terms "Tredings or Ridings, Lests, Rapes, Hundreds, Half-Hundreds, and Half-Lests. Some think the Hundred to be "a Hundred Men".

For an extended discussion of this term, see Oxford English Dictionary, Volume 13, Page 78 and A General Introduction to Domesday Book, Volume 1, Pages 180-185, both found in the Huntington Beach Library.

From Social Security Death Index - RLB

From: US Social Security Death Index (as available on the Internet 1996-1997)
Format: Name (married name for women), Social Security#, where SS issued, birth, death, lr = last residence (zip usually correct, town may be wrong), lp = last SS payment to.
"--" comments following entered by Carol Malanowski
"m.b." = might be.
Issuance of Social Security numbers began in 1934 and was phased in gradually. Initially, the self-employed (including farmers) and government workers were not required to apply and seldom appear on this list in it's earliest dates. This is not a complete listing of those with SS#'s, individuals who died prior to 1950-1960 seldom appear on this computerized version. I have found that the zip for the last residence is usually correct, but not always the town. For example, zip 01844 is shown as North Andover, MA when it is actually Methuen, MA. (Tthe town seems to be is assigned by the first 3 or 4 zip digits, which usually gives the closest larger town to the zip).

HAVELOCK LEROY (LOCKIE) LANTZ was born at New Ross, N.S. on January 8, 1887. He arrived in Enderby in 1909 accompanied by his brother Lenley, a barber, who later settled in Vernon. Lockie purchased property on the west side of Mable Lake, most of the acreage followed the lakeshore from the Shusway River mouth south to Newman's Bay. At the rivermouth he built a log home and quite a large barn for his horses and for hay storage. He was a licenced timber scaler, was proud of his Licence #16, one of the early licences issued by the Provincial government. In later years he became an experienced timber cruiser as well.

Lockie was employed for many years by A.R. Rogers Lumber Co. of Minneapolis, owners of the large sawmill at Enderby. They maintained logging camps around Mabel Lake. Settlers along the road from Enderby to the Lake, and the Trinity Creek area also supplied logs for the mill. Logs from lake operations were enclosed in booms and towed to the rivermouth where they were driven down the Shuswap during high water to the mill. The company built a ware-house-cook-house on the north side of the rivermouth, directly across the river from Lockie's house. This was convenient spot from him to have his meals. He did not enjoy cooking for himself.

About 1920 when the mill at Enderby closed down, Lockie was employed by Clarke and Elliot, a local partnership firm. He lived at the King Edward Hotel in Enderby, kept production records of their timber operations and continued as an overseer of their camps. Clarke and Elliot were subcontractors of R. W. Bruhn Ltd., a Sicamous-based logging firm with extensive operations out of Sicamous in the Shuswap Lake area. Through them Clarke and Elliot production of logs went to the T.K. Smith Sawmill Co. at Enderby and the cedar poles were sold to B. J. Carney & Co. Ltd., the Enderby branch of the parent firm with head offices at Spokane, Washington. The Smith sawmill was built on the site of the former Rogers' mill which was partly dismantled. T.K. Smith Sawmill Co. also operated a large sawmill at Armstrong, B.C.

When Tom Elliot left the partnership Lockie took over his interest, forming Clarke and Lantz Ltd. They continued their timber operations, subcontracting for R.W. Bruhn Ltd. as in the past. After a few years William Clarke was forced to retire owing to a severe arthritic conditions. Lockie had married and with his wife incorporated the firm of H.L. Lantz & Co. Ltd. This time, however, there was no connection with R.W.Bruhn Ltd., the new firm being an entirely independent company, having a small office in Enderby.

The company was in operation from 1931 to 1944. These were the difficult depression years, but with careful management it continued to make headway, offering employment to many people. Eventually they owned timber limits in the Hidden Lake area, timber berths #575 and #640 in the Trinity Creek area and various short-term timber sales, one of which was in the Mara Meadows district.

The sawmill (T.K. Smith Lumber Co.) had closed down in the late 1920's and although several attempts were made by local businessmen to establish a smaller operation on the site of the former mill, these were not successful. With the closing of the mills there was no further local demand for logs. The production and sale of cedar poles kept the Lantz company afloat, railway ties were produced as well, also cedar fence posts. The post business showed very little profit, but as Lockie often mentioned, the production of posts created employment and some income for settlers in the Mabel Lake -Trinity area.

About 1936 Lockie set up, with the help of millwright Percy Ruttan, a smallsawmill and planer mill at the east end of Regent Street near the river bank in order to cut white pine match plank for a Nelson, B.C. firm. This was an interesting and profitable venture, but after three years the supply of white pine ran out and the mill was dismantled.

Ill health forced Lockie to retire in 1942. After many months in hospitals at Enderby, Verno , Kelowna and Banff he died at his home on July 4, 1944, leaving his wife Marion and two small daughters, now Audrey Lantz DeYoung of Armstrong and Myrla Lantz Kilburn of Toronto.

Lockie was a community-minded person. He was interested in politics, had been a member of the Board of School Trustees, a member of the Board of Stewards of St. Andrews' United Church for many years, a long-time member of Eureka Lodge #50, I.O.O.F., and in later years a member of A.F. & A.M. Lodge #40, as well.

He was a kind-hearted person, quietly helping others when he saw the need, a devoted husband and father to his children. At his funeral St. Andrews' United Church was filled to overflowing with people from all walks of life who paid tribute to his memory and his way of life.

Walter Lantz, creator of Woody Woodpecker, dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Walter Lantz is dead at 93, the taunting "Heh-heh-heh-HEHHHH-heh" laugh of his most famous creation, that pesky redhead Woody Woodpecker, still ringing in our ears.

Lantz, who made more than 800 cartoons, including 200 starring Woody Woodpecker, died on Tuesday.

"Some men never do learn what they want to do. I knew at 12. I wanted to be an artist," he once said.

Lantz also created Chilly Willy, Andy Panda, Smedley, Sugarfoot, Charley Beary and Oswald Rabbit. And in 1930, he produced the first Technicolor cartoon — the five-minute opening sequence of "The King of Jazz."

His wife, Grace, a former actress, helped conceive Woody Woodpecker, was his voice for a quarter-century and gave him the machine-gun laugh imitated by generations of children. She died in 1992.

Lantz created Woody after an obstinate woodpecker disturbed the couple's honeymoon in 1941, or so the story goes. Woody first appeared in an Andy Panda cartoon.

"Woody Woodpecker started out as a supporting player, but he became a star in his second picture. And he's been a nest egg to me ever since," Lantz said.

Mel Blanc provided Woody's voice before signing an exclusive contract to do Bugs Bunny and other Warner Bros. characters in the late 1940s.

Lantz's wife asked for a chance to replace him, but Lantz refused. So she secretly made a recording and placed it among the audition tapes of seven other applicants. Lantz picked her.

Lantz earned an honorary lifetime achievement Academy Award in 1978 "for bringing joy and laughter to every part of the world through his unique animated motion pictures."

In 1948, "The Woody Woodpecker Song" was nominated for an Oscar for best song. (It lost to "Buttons and Bows").

Lantz worked on "The Katzenjammer Kids," "Mutt and Jeff," "Bringing Up Father" and other cartoons based on comic strips before getting his own shop at Universal Studios in 1928.

Lantz also created Chilly Willy, Andy Panda, Smedley, Sugarfoot, Charley Beary and Oswald Rabbit. And in 1930, he produced the first Technicolor cartoon — the five-minute opening sequence of "The King of Jazz."

His wife, Grace, a former actress, helped conceive Woody Woodpecker, was his voice for a quarter-century and gave him the machine-gun laugh imitated by generations of children. She died in 1992.

Lantz created Woody after an obstinate woodpecker disturbed the couple's honeymoon in 1941, or so the story goes. Woody first appeared in an Andy Panda cartoon.

"Woody Woodpecker started out as a supporting player, but he became a star in his second picture. And he's been a nest egg to me ever since," Lantz said.

Mel Blanc provided Woody's voice before signing an exclusive contract to do Bugs Bunny and other Warner Bros. characters in the late 1940s.

Lantz's wife asked for a chance to replace him, but Lantz refused. So she secretly made a recording and placed it among the audition tapes of seven other applicants. Lantz picked her.

Lantz earned an honorary lifetime achievement Academy Award in 1978 "for bringing joy and laughter to every part of the world through his unique animated motion pictures."

In 1948, "The Woody Woodpecker Song" was nominated for an Oscar for best song. (It lost to "Buttons and Bows").

Lantz worked on "The Katzenjammer Kids," "Mutt and Jeff," "Bringing Up Father" and other cartoons based on comic strips before getting his own shop at Universal Studios in 1928.

Walter Lantz, creator of Woody Woodpecker, dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Walter Lantz is dead at 93, the taunting "Heh-heh-heh-HEHHHH-heh" laugh of his most famous creation, that pesky redhead Woody Woodpecker, still ringing in our ears.

Lantz, who made more than 800 cartoons, including 200 starring Woody Woodpecker, died on Tuesday.

"Some men never do learn what they want to do. I knew at 12. I wanted to be an artist," he once said.

Lantz also created Chilly Willy, Andy Panda, Smedley, Sugarfoot, Charley Beary and Oswald Rabbit. And in 1930, he produced the first Technicolor cartoon — the five-minute opening sequence of "The King of Jazz."

His wife, Grace, a former actress, helped conceive Woody Woodpecker, was his voice for a quarter-century and gave him the machine-gun laugh imitated by generations of children. She died in 1992.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Hannah Barss

In the passing away on July 27 of Mrs. Hannah Barss, the town of Middleton loses a highly respected and valued citizen, and the Middleton Baptist Church, a loyal and zealous member. Mrs. Barss had reached the advanced age of eighty two years, and passed away peacefully after a long illness.

Mrs. Barss was born at Barss Corner, Lunenburg Co., on April 21, 1849, the daughter of David Lantz. In 1861 she was baptized into the membership of the New Germany Baptist Church by Rev. Robert Morton. After finishing the prescribed school course she engaged in public school teaching for some time, meeting with success in this vocation. In 1872 Mrs. Barss became the wife of W. R. Barss and made her home at Barss Corner. In 1918 Mr. and Mrs. Barss moved to Middleton.

The above is a brief sketch of a life which has made a fine contribution to the communities in which it has been lived. Those who knew Mrs. Barss most intimately realized the charm, grace and dignity of her character, the breadth and depth of her intellect, and the unselfishness and fruitfulness of her service. She was a loyal friend, a warm-hearted hostess, a consistent Christian and a devoted mother. Her deep-seated faith in her Lord was a great comfort to her in the last days of her illness, and in the valley of shadows she leaned hard and confidently upon the "rod and staff" of faith.

When her summons came
"She was glad to go,
For the sweet oil was low
And rest was best."

And she has left with the living who knew her a heritage of inspiring memories, memories of a life "full of faith and good works."

Mrs. Barss is survived by three children: Prof. W. R. Barss, Ph.D., Belmont, Mass.; H. S. Barss, New Boston, N. H.; Mrs. G. F. Freeman of Middleton, N. S.; also two brothers and a sister: Paulus Lantz of Caledonia, N. S.; Emerson Lantz of Massachusetts, and Mrs. C. R. de-Long, Barss Corner.

The funeral service, conducted by Rev. T. B. McDormand, assisted by Rev. M. W. Brown, D.D., was marked by quietness and simplicity in keeping with the character of the deceased. Outlook 6 AUG 1931

Holiday traffic claims 3 lives; incidents are few

By BILL PORTER

Three traffic deaths marred what would otherwise have been a quiet Fourth of July weekend on Riverside County highways.

A Riverside man died yesterday in the La Sierra area when his car hit a palm tree, a Bloomington man was killed near Cabazon when his auto overturned and an Elsinore man was fatally injured late Friday when his motorcycle hit a steel pole at an Elsinore drive-in restaurant.

KILLED in the Riverside accident was 21-year-old Charles Joseph Jared, of 10951 Arizona. Police said his auto was headed west on Dufferin when it veered off the road and into the tree just west of Harrison.

The accident occurred at 12:40 a.m. and Jared was pronounced dead on arrival at Riverside County General Hospital. He is survived by his widow, Susan.

Jim Looney Boaen, 46, was the man who died in the one-car accident east of Cabazon, at 6:45 a.m. yesterday.

ACCORDING to California Highway Patrol reports, Boaen was thrown through the windshield of his eastbound car when it ripped through a number of barricades on the north side of Highway 99, veered back across the road and overturned.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at San Gorgonio Pass Hospital in Banning.

The motorcycle rider killed on the drive-in parking lot was Louis Edward Nunes Goulart, 42, of 113 Kellogg, Elsinore police said Goulart's motorcycle struck the pole supporting a neon sign and flourescent lights as he was turning to enter the restaurant about 11:30 p.m. Friday.

Obituary.

RHULAND

The death occurred at his residence Monday evening of one of this town's most prominent and esteemed citizens, Jacob M. Rhuland. The deceased who was 65 years of age was robust in health until four weeks ago, when he was stricken with paralysis of the throat. He rallied and apparently was improving until re-stricken early Sunday morning.

Squire Rhuland, as he was familiarly known, was the town's encyclopedia, being gifted with a most remarkable intellect and readily conversant, he was frequently called upon to settle arguments. Since incorporation he has been the town's chief assessor and the present equalization of the real assessment is due largely to his judgment and knowledge. He was a staunch supporter of the conservative party and an Anglican in religion. As a member of Court Transvaal, C. O. F. that court will attend the funeral in a body.

Besides the widow, deceased is survived by two sons John of this town and Charles of Jordan Falls, three daughters Mrs. Geo. Burton of Sawgers, Mass., Mrs. Arthur Oickle of Fobo, and Mrs. Kenneth Whynot of Indian Point one brother James at home and one sister, Mrs. Meriah Quinn of Halifax. His youngest son Wm. was killed at Vimy Ridge. We extend to the widow and family our heartfelt sympathy.
