The names Symonds, Symons, Simmons, Symmes and Sims are of English origin. Several of these names were in Ipswich, Mass. in the early days of the Mass. Bay Colony, including Samuel Symonds, who became Deputy Governor. XI-1170 MARK¹SYMONDS, born about 1584 in England was a planter in Ipswich in 1634. He was made a freeman 2 May 1638 and died 28 April 1659. His wife died 29 April 1660. Mark Symonds was constable in 1639 and held other town offices. He was a paternal ancestor of Johnny Appleseed (John Chapman), his daughter Mary having married Edward C. Chapman, third great grandfather of John Chapman. An item of interest is that Johnny Appleseed's maternal line began with William Simonds of Woburn whose son James, married Susanna Blodgett (daughter of Samuel). Thus both of these are ancestral lines of the author.

Children:

1. SUSANNA. See below.
2. Abigail, m. Robert Pierce, or Pearce.
3. Priscilla, m. John Warner.
4. Mary. m. Edward Chapman.

X-585 SUSANNA²SYMONDS (Mark¹) probably born in Ipswich; married Capt. John Ayers who was killed by the Indians at Brookfield 3 Aug. 1675.
