EDITOR'S PREFACE

It is proper to state here that as the author, Amenzo White Baker, now deceased, did not live to oversee the labors of publishing his genealogical collections, this duty was entrusted to the writer, with instructions to revise the same, to compile and add thereto the records of all the descendants of Simon Baker, one of Utah's pioneers, as may be procured in time for publication, together with the liberal privilege of editor.

I wish also to add my testimony that the author was indefatigable in collecting the records of these families, and that all the descendants of the Puritan Ancestor whose genealogy has been traced in this book have reason to congratulate themselves in the fidelity with which he has executed his work.

Ogden, Utah, A. D. 1910.

MERLIN J. STONE.

INTRODUCTORY

The object of this Baker record is to collect the various and fragmentary records of the descendants of Rev. Thomas Baker, who came to America about 1650 from Dedham, Essex, England, and settled in Rhode Island, that the present and future generations may have better knowledge of their relations, one to the other, and that the links connecting us with our worthy sires, the Pilgrim Fathers, may not disappear altogether. With this in view, the compiler has spent many hours in correspondence, in personal interviews with many individuals of the Baker family, has listened to many a detail of family history, and has made such selections as should be preserved.

He took great pleasure in entrusting these records to his nephew, Albert Mowry Baker, Jr., with instructions to keep them sacred, and add thereto records of all descendants that should be presented, and that at some future time the genealogy might be completed and published.

Mr. A. M. Baker, Jr., worthy of the trust of the compiler, having kept the record sacred and intact from 1892 until June 15, 1909, not being in a position to give the work the necessary attention of a revision, through the advice and counsel of his father and aunt, Betsie Topham, the work was delivered to the writer to revise. The records compiled by Amenzo W. Baker, consisting of nearly all the records in this volume from the Rev. Thomas Baker, our English progenitor, down to Simon Baker, and on the receipt of the revised work—in typewritten form—December 13, 1909, through consultation with a number of the Bakers, it was decided to have the writer compile and add thereto the records of Simon Baker and his descendants, and publish the same, under the direction of Geo. W. Baker, Sr., Joseph Baker and A. M. Baker, Jr., as the Baker Genealogical Committee.

As a race the Bakers are intellectual and educated, and while they are somewhat reserved in manner and averse to much demonstration of feeling, they may be said to be genuine and honest, endowed with their full share of independence of thought and action, with tenacity of purpose (sometimes to obstinacy), fidelity to one another and to their country, and a high sense of honor, with a respect and reverence for the religion of their forefathers, while the most of them have manifested a spirit of deep and earnest piety.

Many of them have been graduates from our colleges and seminaries, and have filled posts of honor and usefulness; while others, without a college education, have served their country and generation faithfully.

The family have reason to feel proud, that among its members were the diplomatist, the journalist, the soldier, the statesman, the teacher, the divine, the missionary, the literateur, the dramatist, the physician, the manufacturer, the jurist, the inventor, the scientist, in short, no profession or department could be mentioned that is not graced and dignified by some one of our family.

We, therefore, may recall these facts, not in a spirit of vain glory, but as furnishing reasons for our recording the history of our ancestors. Sancho Panzo remarked: "Blessed is the man who has a father"; but there are none of us but can go back not only to our own father, but to his great-great-great-grandfather, how much more blessed are we than the squire of the renowned and redoubtable, Don Quixote!

Having an eminent ancestor will make the descendant ambitious to make himself worthy of his descent. Hence, a noble ancestry—not of wealth necessarily, but of deeds—tends to make its descendants anxious to emulate the virtues of their predecessors.

One of our sweetest and most delightful bards has sung:

"Lives of great men all remind us,
We can make our lives sublime,
And, departing, leave behind us,
Footprints in the sands of time."

And if this is true regarding the lives of great men in nowise related to us, how much more does the above sentiment of Longfellow apply to those of the Baker family, who know that many of these whose lives are so "sublime" belong to their own individual ancestors.

After an extensive research among the different branches of the family, we take pleasure in adding that no traitor to his country has been found among them, and that we need not be ashamed of the name that has been handed down to us, and which marks among the earliest of our beloved land such men as the Rev. Thomas Baker, guided by high and noble principle, whose allegiance was to the triune God, who dared the perils of the sea and life on a rocky, desolate coast, because the love of liberty in religion and government, demanded a fresher atmosphere than old England extended to them.

To all who have rendered assistance in contributing data and other information, we would return many thanks. If others who have been addressed had taken interest in the work, and contributed concerning their branches, our genealogical tree would have been more fully leaved; but with its imperfections, let the present generation of Bakers receive it, at the hand of the willing writer.

While there are but few volumes of the Baker Genealogy in excess of the number subscribed for, these may be secured, while they last, by communicating with Merlin J. Stone, at Ogden, Utah.

In addition to the Ancestral and Collateral branches of the Baker families as collected together by Amenzo W. Baker, the records of all the descendants of Simon Baker to April 15, 1910, were compiled by Merlin J. Stone, with the generous assistance of the Baker Committee.

These records were collected through correspondence with the families during three months time, a remarkable collection, considering that they cover this whole western country from Wyoming to the coast and from Canada to Old Mexico.

The descendants of Simon Baker were as follows:

PART FIRST

Thomas Baker and His Descendants of the Baker Name.

THOMAS BAKER, the earliest of the name to which we trace, was born 1638 at Dedham, Essex, England, and came early to America and settled on Rhode Island. December 17, 1653, the land of Thomas Baker is mentioned as adjoining that of George Kenrick of Newport, R. I., in a deed of the latter to William Field of Providence.

The church records of the First Baptist Church of Newport, of which he was a member, show that he was ordained in 1655. In 1656 he and William Vaughn and others left the First Baptist Church of Newport, and established the Second Baptist Church. He was made pastor. The reasons given for this separation are thus stated: "Said persons conceived a prejudice against Psalmody and against the restraints that the liberty of Prophesying was laid under and also against the doctrine of particular redemption and against the rite of laying on of hands, as a matter of indifference." In 1666 he removed to Kingston, and gathered a church together, of which he became its first pastor (officiating for many years in that capacity, his successor, Wm. Sweet, following in 1710). He married Sarah —. See Austin's General History of R. I.

- 3 Benjamin, b. 1676. X

Thomas Baker (1) was a tailor by trade, always signing deeds, etc., after he had been many years a minister, "Thomas Baker, Tailor."

THOMAS BAKER was born at Newport, R. I., where he married Mary —. In his will, made Feb. 20, 1743, he mentions all his children except Joshua, Joseph and Ruth, who probably died before. May 27, 1729, Thomas and five others bought 79 acres of the vacant lands in Naragansett. Executor Jeremiah gave Thomas £50, John 5s, Abner £40, Josiah 5s, Philip £45, Ichabod £5; daughter Sarah — and Elizabeth Greene all household goods, Anna 5s, Jeremiah homestead buildings.

MAP OF COMMON BURIAL GROUND, NEWPORT

PREFACE

From a genealogical point of view the Common Burial Ground in Newport is the most valuable cemetery in the United States in the opinion of the author. In support of this bold statement the author offers the following considerations:

GENERAL: In all the Colonial censuses and the 1790 census, Newport (rather than Providence) was the largest city in Rhode Island. On a broader scale the author recalls having read in a history book that the chief port in the Colonies was not New York, Philadelphia or Boston, but Newport. As a reference the Encyclopaedia Britannica (1948, page 327) states that "in 1770 Newport's foreign trade was greater than that of New York." The conclusion then be drawn that the chief port in the Colonies was also the main city in the Colonies. Because of its importance the British occupied Newport during the Revolution, and when they evacuated it they took with them the records of the town. The vessel in which they were being carried to New York sank off Hell Gate. The records were recovered in a town for three years. Only from about 1890 to 1900 an attempt made to restore and preserve what remained of them. Thus a large portion of the genealogical records of Colonial Newport were irretrievably lost. The thousands of ancient slate stones remained (about 3/4 of them in the Common Burial Ground) to form one of the most valuable genealogical records in Newport.

ANTIQUITY. The earliest date of birth of a person buried in the Common Burial Ground is 1590. The earliest burial (if we have not overlooked an earlier one) in the Common Burial Ground was in 1660 only 21 years after Newport was settled in 1639. This is the grave of Harte, wife of John Gardé, who died 16 Sep 1655 years (calculated year of birth 1605). Her husband John Gardé died 7 Aug 1665 age 61 years (calculated year of birth 1604). These two ancient platform graves are still legible after 3 1/4 centuries. In the Coddington Cemetery or Governor's Cemetery in Newport is the grave of a person born in 1592 and the grave of several persons born in the early 1600's. In the Settlers Burial Field in Lancaster, Mass. (where some of the author's paternal ancestors are buried) are several ancient graves of persons who died in the 16th century.
