HUDSON, N. Y. SATURDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1841.

NUMBER 13.

SOUTH-WEST VIEW OF THE CHURCHES IN SALISBURY CENTRE, CONN.

The principal part of the township of Salisbury was sold by the governor and company of the colony of Connecticut, in 1737, at Hartford. It had been surveyed and divided into twenty-five rights in 1732, being at that time known by the government only as wild, unlocated land. Three of the rights were appropriated to public purposes; one for the support of schools, one for the first settled minister, and one for the support of the ministry. The charter of the town was given in 1745. "After it was located, and before the charter was given, it was known to the government by town M. Before this, it was known by no other than the Indian names Weatog and Oxatonic. It took its name from a Mr. Salisbury, who lived not far from the centre of the town."

It appears that about the year 1720, three families came and settled in that part of the town called Weatog. These were, one family of Dutchers, one of Whites, and one of Van Dozens. White was an Englishman, but had lived with and become connected in marriage with the Dutch. The other two were wholly of Dutch origin. About the year 1749, there were eleven English and five Dutch families, which were settled in different parts of the town. There were four families of Whites in Weatog; Bechee, not far from the falls; Lamb, at the forge in the hollow; Harveys, in the hollow; Newcombs, on the side of the mountain, east of the road that now leads from the hollow to Town Hill; Woodworths, at the ore bed; Allens, on the road from the hollow to the meeting house; and Baylies, at the meeting house. These were the English families. The Dutch were, two Dutchers, and one Van Dozen, at Weatog; Knickerbackers, at the stone house, on the Corwall road; Cornelius Knickerbacker, at the furnace; and Jacob Van Dozen, between the ponds, in the north part of the town.

The face of the township, at the period of its first settlement, wore rather an unpleasant aspect. In every fall of the year, it was burnt over, to destroy the old grass and other vegetation, and that there might be a fresh and tender crop the ensuing year. Fires also were often made to ring deer. These fires were made in a circular form, and all the deer included were driven by the fire to one place, where the hunters could easily kill them. A ring, for this purpose, was made in the north-east part of the town, and the fire ran with such rapidity, that an Indian lad was shut within the ring, overtaken by the fire, and burnt to death. These burnings, with the ponds, mountains and clefts of rocks, made the face of nature appear forbidding to those who were not apprised of the excellence of the soil.

Salisbury is situated in the north-west corner of the state; bounded north by the towns of Mount Washington and Shelfield in Massachusetts, east by the Housatonic, separating it from Canaan, south by Sharon, and west by the state of New-York. Its average length is 9 miles, and its breadth about $6\frac{1}{2}$, comprising an area of about 58 square miles. The face of the township is broken, consisting of elevated hills, and deep and extensive valleys. The valleys are generally limestone, and the hills granite. It is one of the best towns for grain in the state. It is also excellent land for grazing.

Salisbury, in addition to its being one of the best agricultural towns in the state, is also much celebrated for its very rich and productive iron mines. Of these, the one known as the "Old Ore Hill," located two miles west of the Wanquoan Lake, has been worked since the year 1732. At that time, and for years afterwards, the ore was found lying near the surface of the earth, and was carried off in considerable quantities by those who desired to make use of it. The site of the "Old Ore Hill" was owned by one Bissell, who obtained the grant several years before the town was incorporated. About the year 1732, one Thomas Lamb obtained a grant of fifty acres of land, and erected the first forge built in Salisbury. His grant was situated on the south-east part of the town, on Salmon river, now called Lime Rock. From that period until the present time, the demands upon the "Old Ore Hill" have been constant. Within the last ten or twelve years, from five to six thousand tons of ore have been dug annually. The ore is sold at the mine for $3 a ton. One dollar and twenty-five cents of this money is paid to the proprietors of the ore bed as a duty. The other dollar and seventy-five cents belongs to the digger, from whose pit the ore is taken. The first furnace erected at Salisbury was built about the year 1762, upon the outlet of the Wanquoan Lake, two miles east of the "Old Ore Hill." It is one of the oldest establishments in the country, and was erected by Messrs. Samuel and Elisha Forbes, Ethan Allen,* and a Mr. Hazeltine. During the Revolutionary war, cannon were manufactured at this furnace, for government; also cannon balls and bomb shells; Colonel Joshua Porter was at that time agent for the state of Connecticut, and superintended the castings.

The large and inexhaustible quantities of iron ore found in Salisbury, and the abundant supply of wood for charcoal, and other materials necessary for smelting the ore, together with the superior quality of iron, introduced other manufactures; and iron has continued from that time the staple commodity of the town. There are at present in Salisbury, 4 blast furnaces, 5 forges, with 20 fires, 2 puddling establishments, 1 screw shop, 1 anchor shop, 2 sylvic manufactories, 1 hose manufactory, 2 trip hammers, and 2 copola or pocket furnaces, for small castings.

From 5 to 600,000 bushels of charcoal are annually consumed at the different establishments. The puddling furnaces require from 2 to 3,000 cords of wood annually. The number of workmen employed in the different processes

*The hero of Ticonderoga. The articles of agreement entered into by these gentlemen are still extant upon the records of the town.

†The guns on board of the U. S. frigate Constitution, used by Com. Truxton, in the capture of the French frigate L'Insurgente, were manufactured at the old furnace at Salisbury. The Salisbury iron has been, and is still, used exclusively in the U. States and private armaments.

*Rev. J. W. Crossman's New-Year's discourse, 1833. The facts respecting the first settlement of this town were derived from this source. "It is currently reported, and by good authority, says Mr. Crossman, that this Mr. Salisbury, after moving from here, had an unsteady servant girl who had run away from him; that he went after her, bound her with a rope, and that her to his horse, then rode on as to pull her down, and dressed her in such a cruel manner that she died in consequence of the abuse. The matter was taken up in the state of New-York, and he, then in old age, was sentenced by the court to be hung when he should be a hundred years old. About four years ago, he arrived in this age. A reprieve was granted him for a certain time; and if he has not died lately, he is living to this day."

urns of Burns is heard at every hearth—it is familiar as a household word—and his undying verse lives in every heart, amazing and delighting all.

Burns, though a peasant, was as much superior to George the Third, as five guineas are to three shillings—you, infinitely superior to that ratio. Would that the world had done him more justice while he lived.

Scotland could spare a hundred kings, but could not spare one Burns.

ANECDOTE OF THE REVOLUTION.

An elderly clergyman, who was a soldier of the Revolution, is writing a series of interesting letters for the Philadelphia North American. Among other anecdotes he tells one of a militia general named Wines, we do not recollect to have seen before. Wines had seen service under the lamented Montgomery at Quebec, was a man of gigantic frame and strength, and no one doubted his courage; but the most remarkable thing about him was his voice: it exceeded in power and efficiency, for it was articulate as well as loud, every other human voice the writer had ever heard. He met a strong foraging party of British troops in the winter when New Brunswick in New Jersey was their head quarters. He came in sight of this party suddenly, as it was approaching a hill of which he had just taken possession with a far inferior force to that of his enemy—He made the best display of his troops that he could, and before the British came within musket shot, he thundered out at the top of his voice: "Open to the right and left and let the field pieces come in." The British were without field pieces, as well as himself, but expecting a deadly fire from the American artillery, they faced to the right about and hastily retreated.

DEATH.

What a strange thing it does seem, that, that very form which we prized so dearly, for which we prayed the winds to be gentle, which we lapped from the cold in our arms, from whose foot steps we would have removed a stone, should be suddenly thrown out of sight as an abomination that the earth must not look upon, a despicable loathsomeness, and to be forgotten! And this same composition of bone and muscle, that was yesterday so strong—which men respected, and women loved and children cling to—today so lamentably powerless, unable to defend or protect those who may lay nearest to its heart; its riches wrested from it—its wishes spat upon, its influence expiring with its last sigh, a breath from its lips making all that difference between what it was, and what it is.—Bulwer.

THE WAY TO GET ON IN THE WORLD.

To get on in the world, you must be content to be always stopping where you are; to advance, you must be stationary; to get up, you must keep down. Following riches is like following wild geese, and you must crawl after both on your belly; the minute you pop up your head, off they go whistling down the wind, and you see no more of them. If you haven't the art of sticking by nature, you must acquire it by art; put a couple of pounds of bird-lime upon your office stool, and sit down on it; get a chain on your leg, and tie yourself to your counter like a pair of shop scissors; nail yourself up against the wall of the place of your business, like a weasel on a barn door, or the sign of the spread eagle; or what will do best of all, marry an honest poor girl, without a penny, and my life for yours if you don't do business! Never mind what your relations say about genius, talent, learning, pushing, enterprise, and such stuff; when they come advising you for your good, stick up to them for the loan of a sovereign, and if ever you see them on your side of the street again, skiver me, and welcome; but to do any good I tell you over and over again, you must be a stickler. You may get fat upon a rock, if you never quit your hold of it.—Blackwood's Magazine.

A Dog.—James Hogg tells this story of his dog:—"It's a good sign of a dog when his face grows like his master's.—It's a proof that he's aye glowin' in his master's een, to discover what he's thinkin' on, then, without the word or wave o' command to be aff to execute the will o' his silent thocht, whether it be to wear sheep or run down deer. Hector got sae like me, afore he died, that I remember, when I was owre lazy to gang to the kirk, I used to send him to take my place in the pew, and the minister kent nae difference. Indeed he once asked me, next day, "what I thought o' the sermon, for he saw me wonderful attentive among a rather sleepy congregation." Hector and me gied ane another sic a look! and I was feared Mr. Paton would have observed it; but he was a simple, primitive, unsuspectin' and man a very Nathaniel without guile—and he jealousyed naething, tho' both Hector and me was like to split; and the dog after laughin' in his sleeve for mair than a hundred yards, could stand it no longer, but was obliged to loup awa owre a hedge into a potato field, pretending to have scented partridges.

SHARP SHOOTING.—A modern reformer, who had grown rich in the profits of a country store, and is now on the downhill of life, tried his hand at lecturing a besotted neighbor, formerly a man of respectability and one of his best customers. "Tom," said the retired trader, "you are a fool for such work: if it had not been for rum and tobacco, you might have rolled along in your coach and four." "True, Mr. —," replied the toper, as he gathered up his muscles; "and if it had not been for the same, you might have been my coachman."

A LITTLE girl who had been visiting in the family of a neighbor, hearing them speak of her father as being a widower, on her return addressed him thus—"Pa, are you a widower?" "Yes, my child—do you not know your mother's dead?" "Why yes, I knew ma was dead, but you always said you was a New-Yorker?"

A YAKAZO dining with a celebrated English author, made the following observation on beholding a statue of Venus, which he thought particularly well placed. "I say, mister, you've got a tarnation convenient fix for that 'ere stone gal."

WASHBURN RECIPES.

To REMOVE SPOTS OF INK FROM LINEN.—Take a small candle or some pure tallow, melt it and dip the spotted part of linen in the melted tallow, then put it in the wash, when it will become perfectly white.

CURE FOR SICK HEADACHE.—Take half a spoonful of finely powdered charcoal to half a number of water, and the cure, if the complaint arise from acidity of the stomach, which is usually the case, will be effected in a short time.

TOWN POWDER.—Mix well together half an ounce of cream of tartar, half an ounce of powdered charcoal, and a quarter of an ounce of powder of myrrh.

TO PRESERVE APPLES AND PEARS.—Wipe the fruit dry, then take a varnished crock or wide-mouth jar, at the bottom of which is to be a layer of sand, and so alternately fruit and sand, until the crock or jar is full. Put a very thick coat of sand on the top and place it in a dry place. Apples or pears thus treated, will keep all winter.

TO PRESERVE SEWAT, RIBS, BRIST.—Take some melted virgin wax and rub it over the article to be preserved. When dry, wear a dry cloth until the former polish is restored. By this means all the pores of the metal are filled up without injury to the appearance, and rust will not attack it unless it is very carelessly exposed to constant humidity.

WHOOPING COUGH.—Twenty grains of salt of tartar, and ten grains of cochineal, with an ounce of refined sugar, dissolved in a pint of warm water—take a tea-spoonful three times a day, for a child about four or five years of age, and a little every time when the cough is troublesome. The relief is immediate, and the cure, in general, from four to five days. It has cured many thousands, and may cure many thousands more. Also fresh air in dry and mild weather is advisable.

CHAPTER V.

Hayward's part in the Brown Jug—The Landlady's warning—Hetty Bell's presence—Mr. Foul, of Christian street—Disappointment—Meeting with an old College Chum—the Temptation.

When Hayward reached the Brown Jug it was already in light. The dingy lamp at the entrance of the lane, on the corner of which the inn stood, was already lighted, and a glare through the dusty panes in the window of the tap-room, showed him that Dame Southack had trimmed her lamps for the evening orgies of Bachelors, that were nightly held there. As he surveyed the wretched premises, he certainly felt that he had got into very disagreeable lodgings; but when he thought of his meagre purse, he resolutely opened the door and entered. The hostess' quick black eye fell upon him as he came in, and he saw that she gave him a warning and cautionary gesture, which her glance was turned in the direction of the box when he had sat with Red Fred the night before. His eyes followed hers, and he started at seeing this portmanteau there, half concealed from view by the faded curtain, in close conversation with another person, whose feet and hand only were visible; but they were enough to show that he belonged to a better class than his companion.

Surprised at the look of kind warning that the hostess had given him, and wondering what there was in him, or his instance, that could awaken an interest in her indignation, he returned her a glance of gratitude, and retreated behind a curtained screen, placed on the inside before the door, to prevent passers by from seeing who was within when it was opened. Red Fred had not seen him; yet Hayward had no particular reason for avoiding him, save a repugnance for his companionship, and a decided dislike for his physiognomy. He therefore resolved to leave the bar-room and stroll about until he had left. His hand was upon the door for this purpose, when Dame Southack came through an opening in her bar, and touched him upon the shoulder:

"Young man, if you have any regard for your life keep out of the way of Red Fred. He, and that other in the box with him, are here just waiting for you. I overheard them talking about you, and the stranger swore he would have your life. You know best who you have angered. I see you are a young man what don't know the ways of the world, and I have a son just your age away at sea; and so I do you a kindness, hoping it will be one day returned to poor Bill."

"I have given no offence to any one," said Hayward; "I thank you for your warning, however, and shall avoid them. What can be their motive?"

"Devil knows, except you have peached or got some secret they would rather have the sole keeping on."

"I can guess, I think," said Hayward, remembering Red Fred's close interrogations in reference to the robbery of the Ariel; "I have a secret of theirs, I now feel assured, and they apprehend discovery. I am sorry to have to go from your house, just as I find in you a friend."

"You needn't go. Just step out doors and go down the cellar, and you will come to a flight of steps that lead into my back parlor. I'll go and unlock the inner door for you. Stay here, and I'll find out what their intentions are, and what they are afraid of."

"Holla, there, dame Hetty! are you firing at your age behind a blind with a customer, hey?" called Fred, in a loud, coarse tone; "come, come give me and my comrade here another pint of true blue Jamaica. We have got money—gold and silver by the gallon, as you measure put here. Come, bear a hand, bear a hand!"

"Now go and you will find the back parlor door open," hurriedly said the hostess, quitting him and entering her bar.

Hayward hesitated an instant, and he left the tap-room. He paused on the sidewalk, and deliberated whether it were not better to leave so dangerous a spot altogether, and seek other lodgings, that remain in the vicinity of assassins, and under the doubtful protection of Dame Southack. But Hayward was no coward—on the contrary, he had a spirit that courted, rather than shrank, from danger. He felt a curiosity to know more about the parties in the box, and what motive they had in conspiring against his life. Yet he had suspected that he knew the truth.

His hand was in Dame Southack's charge, and as he had found a friend in her, he finally resolved to follow her directions. The cellar was dark, and he descended with care and suspicion, crossed the stone floor, and was looking for the stairs, to ascend, when a door was thrown open at his right, and the pleasant voice of a young girl bade him follow her. Surprised and more confident, he approached the spot and found a door open at the foot of a flight of stairs; but he could see no one. He nevertheless began to ascend, and had got half way up to a landing, when the same voice said, laughing, "you must be the little black parrot" and at the same instant a door was thrown open at the head of the stair case, and a large room leading into a passage way from a small room within, which he knew must be the "little black parrot" of hostess Southack. But who was his guide, who had made herself known only by one of the sweetest voices he had ever heard, and was there now where visible?"

While wondering at this little episode of mystery, Dame Southack entered from the tap, and quickly closed the door behind her, and locked it. She smiled, but seemed perturbed as she saw him, and said hurriedly:

"You did well to take the cellar, for Red Fred got up as you went out, and never I had been talking with you at the door, and waiting you off. The other jumped up at three, and both rushed out after you. One has taken the street and the other the lane. You are safe here! Oh, I know the land will remember the good turn I have done for you when my poor Bill gets into a scrape!"

"There is no doubt your goodness will meet its reward, good dame; but pray who was my invisible guide through the cellar?"

"Oh, that was my niece, Hetty Bell; a nice child she is too! I have to keep her out of sight to such a dangerous place for young girls in my house in. Red Fred has seen her, and I feel as if the honest Satan had laid eyes on her. That is what he keeps skulking about here for. But Hetty is a good girl, and mind you, though she is something wild, I told her not to be seen by you, for she's too pretty, if she is my blood, to be his cousin. But you may see her while I'm gone."

"Hetty?"

A door opened from an inner sleeping room, at her call, and a young, blooming girl of sixteen or seventeen, made her appearance. Her hair and brows were black as a raven's wing, and her eyes dark, and full of fire. She was a neat, round figure, with a charming bust and small waist. Her look was demure, but qualified by a playful smile. She looked like a girl who was graceful and beautiful, in spite of no education, and of evil circumstances, with a disposition of great gentleness, united to passions of the strongest character; a woman whose career would be marked by struggles of feeling, and wild impulsive passions! A girl to be loved, and to love again, strongly, but not to be trusted where her love was roused, or her jealousy awakened.

This home thrust at the Englishman set the whole table in a roar of laughter.

LIFE'S CHANGES.

THE transition from childhood to youth is not characterized by such strong mental changes as those which accompany the transition from youth to manhood. Childhood seems to glide almost imperceptibly into youth; our books, our associations and our companions, are to a great extent the same, and if our games and amusements are of a more what ruder and a rougher kind, they are still played on the old spots—the village green, the neighboring copse, the mill-stream, and the old family parlor. Our school days, too, are not yet ended—those days which our parents, as well as the old schoolmaster told us, in so many grave lectures, were the happiest days of our life. We didn't believe a word of it all then; to our minds it was a plain contradiction. What! to be shut up during all the long, bright summer days in an old school-house, among broken forms and dusty books, learning whole pages of grammar, geography, and propreia que maribus, with the fool's-cap, and still more awful "rod for the fool's back," in perspective, and then to be told that these were the happiest days of our life! Most willingly would they have forgone all these strange elements of happiness, and consented to have become miserable in our own way. It was then that hope began to whisper flatteringly in our ear of the time when we should no longer have frowns or flagellation to fear, but become our own masters, and go whither we would.

ANECDOTE OF A SINGER.

SIGNORA GRASSINI, the great Italian singer, died a few months since at Milan. She was distinguished not only for her musical talents, but also for her beauty and powers of theatrical expression. One evening, in 1810, she and Signor Crescentini performed together at the Tuilleries, and sang in "Romeo and Juliet." At the admirable scene in the third act, the Emperor Napoleon applauded vociferously, and Talma, the great tragedian, who was among the audience, wept with emotion.—After the performance was ended, the Emperor conferred the decoration of a high order on Crescentini, and sent Grassini a scrap of paper, on which was written, "Good for twenty thousand livres. NAPOLEON."

"Twenty thousand livres!" said one of her friends—"the sum is a large one."

"It will serve as a dowry for one of my little nieces," replied Grassini, quietly.

Indeed few persons were ever more generous tender, and considerate toward their family than this great singer.

Many years afterwards, when the Empire had crumbled into dust, carrying with it in its fall, among other things, the rich pension of Signora Grassini, she happened to be at Bologna. There another of her nieces was for the first time presented to her, with a request that she would do something for her young relative. The little girl was extremely pretty, but not, her friends thought fitted for the stage, as her voice was feeble contralto.—Her aunt asked her to sing; and when the timid voice had sounded a few notes. "Dear child," said Grassini, embracing her, "you will not want me to assist you. These who called your voice a contralto were ignorant of music. You have one of the finest sopranos in the world, and will far excel me as a singer. Take courage, and work hard, my love: your throat will win a shower of gold." The young girl did not disappoint her aunt's prediction. She still lives, and her name is Giulia Grisi.

THE STRENGTH OF A KIND WORD.

Some people are very apt to use harsh, angry words—perhaps because they think they will be obeyed more promptly. They talk loud, swear, and storm, though after all they are often only laughed at; their orders are forgotten, and their ill-temper only is remembered.

How strong is a kind word! It will do what the harsh word, or even blow cannot do; it will subdue the stubborn will, relax the frown, and work wonders.

Even the dog, the cat, or the horse, though they do not know what your say, can tell when you speak a kind word to them.

A man was one day driving a cart along the street. The horse was drawing a heavy load, and did not turn as the man wished him. The man was in an ill temper, and beat the horse; the horse reared and plunged, but he either did not or would not go the right way. Another man, who was with the cart, went up to the horse and patted him on the neck, and called him kindly by his name. The horse turned his head, and fixed his large eyes on the man, as though he would say, "I will do my thing for you, because you are kind to me!" and bending his broad chest against the load, turned the cart down the narrow lane, trotted on briskly as though load were a plaything. O! how strong is a kind word.

FACTS ARE BRIEF.

OUT of every thousand young men, twenty of them die annually. The number of the inhabitants of a city or country is renewed every thirty years. The number of old men who die in cold weather, is to the number of those who die in warm weather as seven to four. The men able to bear arms form a fourth of the inhabitants of a country.—The proportion between the deaths of women and men, is 100 to 102. One half of those who are born, die before they attain the age of seven.—Among 3,125 who die, it appears by the registers that there is only one person of 100 years of age. More old men are found in elevated situation than in valleys and plains.

SELF-MADE MEN.

COLUMBUS was a weaver, Franklin a journeyman printer, Sexton V. was employed in herding swine; Ferguson and Burns were plowmen; Æsop was a slave; Hogarth an engraver on pewter pots; Ben Johnson was a bricklayer; Porson was the son of a parish clerk; Akenside was the son of a butcher—so was Wolsey; Cervantes was a common soldier; Halley was the son of a soap-boiler; Arkwright was a barber; Blackstone and Southey were the sons of linen drapers; Crabbe a fisherman's son; Keats the son of a livery stable keeper; Canova was the son of a mason; Capt. Cook began his career as cabin boy.

ANECDOTE OF AN ARAB.

A BERBER, having obtained entrance surreptitiously into the house of a merchant, an inhabitant of Mecca, made up a convenient bulk of goods to decamp with, and was on the point of leaving the premises when he happened, in the dark, to strike his foot against something hard on the floor.—Thinking it might be an article of value, he picked it up and put it to his tongue, when, to his equal mortification and disappointment, he found it to be a lump of rock salt. Having thus tasted the salt of the owner, his avarice gave way to his respect for the laws of hospitality; and throwing down his booty, he withdrew empty handed.

A BEAUTIFULLY EXPRESSED THOUGHT.

IT is difficult to conceive anything more beautiful than the reply given by one in affliction, when he was asked how he bore it so well. "It lightens the stroke," said he, "to draw near to him who handles the rod."

LOST HIS GUARD.

A NEGRO asked charity on pretence of being dumb. A lady having asked, with equal simplicity and humanity, "How long have you been dumb?" He lost his guard, and answered, "From birth, madam!" "Poor fellow," said the lady, and gave him a dollar.

A "Peankey" JOKE.—"What is the reason of a blue leaving a blue mark after it?" asked an inquiring young gentleman. "It is easily accounted for," answered a medical student, who was reading Bell's Life; "for you know that blue in the perfect makes blue."

It is generally conceded now-a-days, that "tin" makes the very best kind of helle metal.

NORTHEAST.

POPULATION, 3,172.—SQUARE ACRES, 24,250.

NORTHEAST* was formed as a town, March 7, 1788. It derives its name from its geographical position in the county. Milan was taken off in 1818, and Pine Plains in 1823. A tongue of land nearly two miles wide extends nearly four miles north of the remaining part of the town. The surface is a hilly and broken upland. The Taghkanick Mountains, extending along the eastern border, are rocky and broken, and are from 1000 to 1200 feet above tide. The highest point in the valley west of the mountains, forming the summit level of the New York and Harlem Railroad, is 771 feet above tide. Ten Mile River, the principal stream flows south, nearly through the town. Shekomeko Creek flows north through the west part. Indian Pond, on the east line, Round Pond near the south part, and Rudds Pond, are the principal bodies of water. The valleys have generally a gravelly and clayey soil; the hills in many places are rocky and fit only for pasturage. Extensive beds of iron ore have been opened in the town. Northeast Centre, Millerton, Spencers Corners, Coleman Station, Mount Riga, Shekomeko, Federal Store, and Oblong, are hamlets. The pioneer settlers were mostly from Connecticut, and located here from 1725 to 1730. The first religious services were held by Moravian Missionaries, at an Indian mission house near the north borders of Indian Pond. The site of this mission house is yet shown on lands of Hiram Clark.*

The Dakin ore bed was opened in 1846, by the proprietor, who erected a furnace in the vicinity, and ran it until 1856. The mine is at the foot of the Taghkanick Mountain, where it makes a bend into Connecticut, about one-and-a-half miles above the Salisbury mines. An extensive furnace is located about one mile northwest of Millerton. A cupola furnace was erected here for the manufacture of car-wheels. A slate company was formed in this town in 1812. In 1851, there was no house where the thriving village of Millerton now stands. Baltus Lott and Adam Showerman first settled in the south part of the town.

The following are extracts from the early town records of Northeast:

Pursuant to an Act of the Legislature of the State of New York, passed March 26, 1823, for dividing the towns of Amenia and Northeast, in the County of Dutchess, and erecting a new town therefrom by the name of Northeast, and directing the first Town Meeting to be held at the house of Alex. Neely in said town; a Town Meeting was held at the house of the aforesaid Alexander Neely, in the town of Northeast, on the 1st day of April, 1823, Reuben B. Rudd, one of the Justices of the Peace for the County of Dutchess, residing in said town, presiding: The above mentioned act was read; Enos Hopkins was chosen Moderator, and Charles Culver and Alanson Culver, Clerks for the day. The following are the by-laws and regulations passed by the town of Northeast at the aforementioned town meeting:

That $500 be raised for the support of the poor during the ensuing year.

Voted, April 7th, 1829, that the town disapproves of uniting with the county in the erection of a County Poor House.

The Dakin family came from Putnam County. Elder Simon Dakin moved into this town about 1766, and formed the first Baptist Church at Spencers Corners. He had three sons—Joshua, Caleb, and Simon; also four daughters. Another prominent family were the Winchells. Jas. Winchell was a man of considerable property. He owned a farm and mill, and was one of the principal men of the Baptist Church. At his death, a portion of his estate was devised by will to the church. His brother, Martin E. Winchell, was likewise a member. Martin had represented his county in the Legislature, and was a man of considerable note. Philo M. Winchell, another brother, was a farmer, and had also occupied a seat in the Legislature of the State. Major Abraham Hartwell lived on the farm occupied by Orville Dakin. Philip Spencer, ancestor of the Spencers in this town, had three sons—Ambrose, Philip, and Alexander. Ambrose became a Judge; Philip was a lawyer of some repute, and was at one time Clerk for the County; Alexander was a farmer, and once elected to a seat in the Legislature.

Stephen Brown was a member of the Baptist Church. He had three sons—Joseph, Abner, and Ransom. Abner married a daughter of Philo M. Winchell. The Lawrence family descended from Uriah, who had one son named Martin. The old gentleman was Justice of the Peace. A man was brought before him and fined for swearing. He paid his fine, but continued to swear, and the penalty was again imposed, and as promptly paid. This was repeated until his friends took him away from before the magistrate.

The ancestor of the Rudd family was Major B. Rudd, who had four sons. One of them was a Justice in the town of Northeast. Josiah Halstead lived in this town on the farm known as the Wilcox place. He was a prominent member of the M. E. Church. He was a blacksmith, and worked at his trade. Before the year 1800 he removed to Ancram, where he engaged in agricultural pursuits. He had six sons and three daughters, Benjamin, John, Samuel, Joel, Joseph and James; Betsey, Lavinia, and Nancy. John was a man of good abilities, and studied for a physician under Dr. Dodge. He once delivered a Fourth of July oration at the Mountain Meeting House, near Col. Winchell's.

Samuel Eggleston was a farmer who lived about one and a half miles north of Millerton on the farm now owned by Noah Gridley. He had three sons, viz: Nicholas, David, Samuel, and seven daughters. Nicholas married Polly Stewart, by whom he had seven sons: Truman, Ambrose, John, Albert, Stewart, Hamilton, and Benjamin; also one daughter, Martha, who married Philip Jenks, a deacon of the Presbyterian Church. Ambrose became a Presbyterian minister. John was a physician, and the remaining sons were farmers. David married Olive Cartwright. He took an active part in religious meetings. Notwithstanding his earnest piety, he would sometimes allow his temper to get the mastery, as in the following instance:

He with several of his neighbors were on their way to Poughkeepsie, each with a load of pork. They fell in with a man of giant proportions, who felt his importance, and was disposed to abuse the whole party. They soon met a wagon in which were two little boys. The big man locked wheels with the boys, and then swung his whip, and uttered such profane epithets as frightened them. David Eggleston, being the nearest, came to their relief; and then, turning to the man upbraided him for his ungentlemanly conduct. Thereupon the fellow jumped out of his wagon for the purpose of giving David a sound beating for thus presuming to meddle in his affairs; but he soon found, to his sorrow, that he had got the wrong David, at whose hands he received a severe thrashing.

This was their first meeting. Their second occurred about twelve years afterward, at an auction at Paine's Mill, a short distance below Millerton, when the man said to David, "They tell me you are the man that abused me so on the road to Poughkeepsie." David, who was a little deaf, replied—"Abused you, did you say, or bruised you; I remember of bruising a man." "Well, both," was the reply; "you struck me with a stone." "Oh, yes," said David; and raising his fist continued, "that's the stone I struck you with, it was an Eggle-stone." Two of David's grandsons are now Methodist ministers.

Elder John Leland was a Baptist preacher, and came from the western part of Massachusetts. While living in Massachusetts, the people of his town made an immense cheese, weighing some five hundred pounds, and commissioned Leland to present it to Thomas Jefferson, then President of the United States. He received it graciously, and in turn sent a piece of it to the Governor of each State.

Joshua and Ephraim Hamblin owned the farm on which is situated the Mount Riga ore-beds. Wm. Tonkey came from France, and bought a large tract east of the center line of the Oblong, extending northward to Boston Corners. He had three sons, Daniel, Anthony, and Nicholas, and one daughter. Nicholas was a singular character. He was a firm believer in witches. They appeared to him in the shape of cats, woodchucks, and fleas. He believed all women having black eyes and black hair were witches. One Mrs. Hamblin, who joined farms with him, was the worst of the whole lot. This aged lady, then seventy-five years old, wished to go to the house of a neighbor, and took a back road to avoid going by a house in which some people were sick with the small pox. Tonkey met her, and cut her on the forehead so as to cause the blood to flow, for the purpose, as he said, of breaking the enchantment. It is supposed that he hid the money in the rocks that Byron Bishop found a few years ago. His affair with the old lady cost him several hundred dollars.

John and David Buttolph were brothers. The former was an influential member in the M. E. Church. He had six sons, viz: Asa; Warren; John, who was a Baptist minister, and preached several years in this town; Milton, a Methodist preacher in the early part of his life, but who afterwards joined the Presbyterians; Morris, and David.

Elder Truman Hopkins for many years preached in the Baptist Church of this town. He had three sons and two daughters. The sons were named Enos, Truman, and Joseph.

The ancestors of the Ketcham family bought a tract of five hundred acres in this town for five hundred pounds, a part of which is now owned by the Egglestons and Sheldons. Ketcham erected a mill on a small stream, the head of the Oblong River. He also kept tavern. He had twelve children. His son Noah became crazy, and cut his throat with a razor, at Pine Plains. The razor was afterward in possession of Josiah Halstead. Simeon Kelsey owned what is known as the Camp farm, and was a man of considerable wealth. He left three children, two sons and a daughter. To the latter, he gave at his death his whole property, except ten dollars to each of his sons.

Josiah Wilcox lived on the farm now occupied by Alanson Culver. Jonathan Close came from Putnam County. He had three sons, Jonathan, Reuben, and Solomon, and a daughter that married a Williams, a gunsmith at Boston Corners. Joel Rogers lived near Boston Corners.

Nathaniel Lathrop married a daughter of Elder Dakin, and lived near Mount Riga Station. He moved from this town before 1800.

Three brothers by the name of Culver came from France, and settled in this country. Elisha Culver was a descendant of one of the brothers, and settled near the old Baptist Church at Spencers Corners. Both himself and wife were members of the Episcopal Church. He was a Justice of the Peace under King George. He used to draw up many of the legal documents for the people. The family have preserved a deed written by him which is dated 1764. He had three sons and four daughters; Elisha, Jun., Joseph, and John; Hannah, Sarah, Martha, and Polly. Elisha had a son who became a sea captain, and who died on the voyage from Batavia to Philadelphia. John Culver became a Methodist preacher, having been received into the church July, 1788. He was licensed to exhort July, 1790, by Rev. John Bloodgood, and was accepted as a local preacher by Rev. Freeborn Garrettson, in August of the following year. When John Culver began to preach there was no Methodist Church in this town. He held his meetings in barns, school-houses, and private dwellings. He preached in Ancram, Pine Plains, Milan, Copake, Hillsdale, Mount Washington, Sheffield, Salisbury, Sharon, Canaan, Amenia, and Stanford.

According to his Journal, he solemnized over two hundred marriages, and probably preached over eight hundred funeral sermons. He preached at the time of the epidemic in Ancram, when the deaths averaged three a week. The Methodists then built their houses of worship very plain. When about to erect one at Salisbury, they asked John M. Holley to contribute for the purpose, who declared his willingness if they would "build anything but a sheep pen." The society have now two neat houses of worship in the town. In the year 1807, and for some time thereafter, one traveling Methodist preacher supplied the following places with preaching once a fortnight, viz:—Pine Plains, Milan, Ancram (where they built the first house of worship in that town), Copake, Hillsdale, Amenia, Salisbury, Sharon, and Canaan.

Elisha Driggs was a tanner, and came from Middletown, Conn., and lived on the James Halstead place. Thomas Haywood moved on the George Dakin farm about the year 1802. He had five sons and nine daughters that grew to years of maturity. Most of them were members of the Methodist Church. The traveling minister used to preach at his house once a fortnight. A resident of his vicinity died, who bequeathed his property to a school district, to be expended in the erection of a school-house. Haywood promised $50 more, provided they would build it large enough to hold meetings in, which they did. This was in the year 1807, and the building is yet standing, we believe.

Agrippa Martin lived on the David Eggleston farm. He married a daughter of Elder Hopkins. Holley had two sisters, who married, respectively, Philip Spencer and Elisha Colver. Holley had four sons, Luther, Josiah, John and Newman. Luther married a daughter of Elder Dakin, and lived in Salisbury. He left five sons: John M. was a merchant, and owned a furnace at Salisbury; Edward O. was Sheriff of Columbia County; Newman was a farmer; Horace became a Presbyterian minister, and Orville was a lawyer.

Josiah Holley lived on the Douglass farm, at the lower end of Rudds Pond, and moved from it during the Revolution to the town of Ancram. Newman belonged to the British Light Infantry, and at the close of the war emigrated to Nova Scotia. John Holley, Jun., took an active part in that struggle. He was at the battle of Saratoga, and a number of other engagements.

About one hundred and fifty rods from the west line of Northeast, in the town of Ancram, are the "Cave" and "Oven," two natural curiosities which attract numbers of visitors. The cave was discovered by a man named Holmes. He was hunting; and hearing his dog barking in a peculiar manner, he went up to him, but all he could see was a hole in the ground. Holmes pushed his dog into the opening, and went on, thinking the animal would soon follow him; but he never returned. This excited some curiosity; and one day some young men went to examine the cave. They advanced a few feet, got frightened, and scrambled out as quickly as possible. They said they saw some barrels in the further end of the cavern, and heard strange noises, and believed it to be a den of thieves. Afterward John Holley, Moses Dolph and John Culver, went into the cave, and at the farther extremity found a spring and the remains of a dog. After this it was frequently visited.

About this time the State appointed some men to examine it, to determine its fitness for a prison, like one in Connecticut. They decided it was too damp to be used for that purpose. The oven lies about eighty rods west of the cave. It is a piece of detached stone, and is so named from its shape, which resembles a large oven. A few years ago a geologist visited the locality; he gave it as his opinion that the oven was formed by the action of water.

At the foot of Winchell Mountain, near the Snyder tan yard, at the time of the Revolution, stood a log hut. Sixty rods from this stood another. In the vicinity dwelt the Hartwell family. These three dwellings were the only ones in that immediate neighborhood; they stood in the edge of the forest, each in a small clearing. Back of them the woods were filled with Indians, friendly and unfriendly to the white people.

These pioneer settlers were staunch Whigs. A little to the north of them in the town of Ancram, lived two or three families, who were Tories of the rankest type, who did not scruple to add murder to their list of crimes. A plan was matured, by which they were to surround the Whig dwellings in the dead of night, and assisted by some of the Indians, murder the families in cold blood. The night appointed for the execution of their horrible intentions at length came. Some friendly Indians having revealed the project to the Hartwells and their neighbors, the latter had armed themselves, and had all congregated at one point. As they numbered quite a formidable force, the attacking party did not dare molest them.

At another time the white people were advised by a friendly squaw, who had stolen away from the Indian village for that purpose in the silence of the night, that some Tories were lying in wait in the vicinity, to pick them off by stealth. The next morning the Hartwells to the number of three or four set out for the bush in which they were informed a Tory was secreted. They entered in different directions, and commenced to "beat up the game." The only avenue of escape left to the cow-boy was across a clearing, some rods in width. One man, an excellent marksman, was stationed to watch this point. Presently a shout announced the game had started; almost immediately he broke cover, and ran at full speed across the clearing. The man fired upon him, but the fleeing Tory only sped the faster, and was soon lost to sight in the opposite thicket. They pursued him for more than a mile, guided by the blood he left in his track, and then lost him. No information was ever received as to who their enemy was, or what was the result of the wound. The Whigs were never again molested from that source.

Connected with Spencers Corners is a tradition touching the untimely fate of a pedlar. He had been observed to have quite a large amount of jewelry, and was believed to have had considerable money besides. He was last seen near this village late one afternoon, and was never heard of more alive.

His sudden disappearance, together with the fact of his carrying so many valuables, gave rise to suspicions of foul play. His body was searched for, and inquiries made after him in the neighboring villages and townships, but all efforts proved fruitless. After the excitement had passed over, and the incident nearly forgotten, some parties had occasion to look into an old well in the village, and there discovered an object which proved to be the body of the missing pedlar. The poor fellow had been robbed and murdered, and for want of a better hiding place, his body had been thrown into this unused well. The murderers were never found out, and the case will probably ever remain a mystery.

After the Moravians the Methodists held the first religious meetings in this town. The first sermon preached was in a house which stood east of the present residence of William James, Esq., near Sharon Station. East of this stood the old Slawson Tavern; and still farther east was the stone house known as the Ray House. One of the early preachers was familiarly known as Billy Hibbard. He was once met by a Presbyterian clergyman, who rather sneeringly inquired to what order he belonged. "I belong to the kneeling order," was the prompt reply of the unpolished but honest Hibbard.

Probably the oldest house in town is the brick house built by Ezra Clark, grandfather of Hiram Clark, Esq., who came from Lisbon, in Conn., about the time of the Revolution, and is now occupied, we believe, by one Tanner. A family of Wheelers lived west and south of Indian Pond. The Goodriches located near Northeast Centre, and the Collins family towards Amenia. The Spencers owned the farm on which Hiram Clark resides. Spencers Corners is a hamlet named after that family, and was formerly quite a business place. The town meetings were sometimes held at Northeast Centre before the division of Northeast* was made.

* Northest, Milan, and Pine Plains, comprise the Little Nine Partners tract, which was granted by the Crown in 1766, to nine men, viz: Sampson Broughton, George Clark, Jip Van Dam, James Graham, H. Lurhing, F. Fauquier, Thomas Wehham, Richard Mompesson, and Richard Sackett.

In the vicinity of the Sharon ore-bed are several old dwellings, whose ancient style and dilapidated appearance show them to be centenarians. One of them stands on the very brink of the pit, and to the observer seems ready to topple over into the abyss at any moment.

Nov. 6th, 1751, nine persons constituted themselves into a Baptist Church, in the Philipse Patent, now Putnam County. Here they were much disturbed by outside trouble. They were invited to remove to Northeast Precinct. The pastor and others visited this locality, and were persuaded that "God was calling them to go up and possess the land." Here the very log-cabin overflowed with plenty, and here no standing order could bind the conscience. The reasons for removal seemed so weighty, and the invitation so cordial, that it was decided the change should be at once made. Previous to removal, however, they dismissed several of their number to form another church in the vicinity, over which Brother Cole was ordained as pastor. On the 1st day of May, 1773, they held their first covenant meeting in Northeast at the house of Rev. Simon Dakin, pastor, near "Spencers Clearing." Here again they set up their banner, and for three years held public religious services.

During the year 1775 occurred the events which led to the Revolution. Among those that signed the patriots' pledge we find the names of James Winchell, Benjamin Covey, Enslly Simmons, Elisha Mead, David Hamblin, the Knickerbackers, John Fulton, Ebenezer Crane, Smith Simmons, Israel Thompson, Nathaniel Mead, and others. The Maltby bed of iron ore, then known as the Dakin bed, had been opened several years before, but was abandoned. It was this year re-opened, and iron taken out for the casting of cannon for the patriot army.

In 1776, they prepared to build a sanctuary. Simon Dakin, their pastor, donated them the land now occupied by the old graveyard at Spencer's Corners, and on this they laid the foundation. While slavery was multiplying its victims, the church began to feel the promptings of humanity against the slave trade; and at a church meeting held Sept. 24th, 1778, they declared slavery to be contrary to the gospel, and voted they would do nothing to uphold it. This is the first public act for the abolition of slavery within the County, of which we have any knowledge.

In 1780, Elder E. Wood, and others, withdrew from the Northeast Church, and organized a branch in Amenia Precinct. Wood became their pastor.

After Elder Simon Dakin had served the church for nearly thirty years, he was permitted in 1782 to see the greatest revival known under his ministry. He baptized thirty-one candidates during that year. In 1786, a single case of "Woman's Rights" was brought before the church, and a sister was excluded for not obeying her husband, and usurping authority over him. A serious division of sentiment occurred the following year, and a council met at their house of worship to advise with them. As the result, fifteen were dismissed to form a new church, which they did at what is now Northeast Centre, on ground now occupied by the Methodists. In 1797, the church so many years blessed in the ministrations of Brother Dakin, followed sadly his remains to their last resting place.

During the five years subsequent to 1803, Rev. John Leland moved into the town, purchased land, and took charge of the church. He preached on the Sabbath at the meeting house, and on week-day evenings in the large kitchen of the house now the Presbyterian parsonage. In 1808 the church was visited by Elder Isaac Fuller, of Roxbury, Conn., and a great revival followed. Over one hundred conversions were announced, sixty-seven baptized, and the membership augmented to eighty-eight. Among the converts was James Winchell. The same year, Brother I. Allerton, from the Hillsdale Church, came among them, was invited to the pastorate, and afterwards ordained.

James M. Winchell, graduate of Brown University, was in 1812, licensed to preach. He was ordained the following year at Bristol, R. I., and soon after was installed as pastor of the First Baptist Church in Boston. The same year Brother John Buttolph was licensed to preach. On the 4th of May, 1814, he was ordained, and began his pastoral labors among them. He continued with them eleven years, when he removed west. In 1821 a revival came, and Buttolph baptized sixty-six, among them John I. Fulton, who was next year licensed and sent forth an approved minister of the Gospel. Seth Thompson was licensed to preach, and subsequently became a successful pastor in Connecticut.

The numerical strength of the church had again declined, when, in 1826, Elder Thomas Winter came among them, accepted the call of the church, and served them a period of nearly thirteen years. In 1828, Elder Winter led them to consider the matter of building a new house of worship. A cordial response met his call, and James Winchell, Martin Lawrence, and Samuel Brown, were appointed a building committee.

The house being completed it was, on the 12th of August, 1829, dedicated by appropriate ceremonies. Elder Thomas Winter preached the sermon, and Rufus Babcock, D. D., assisted in the services. The building cost about $5,000, of which amount James Winchell donated $1,700. It was built of brick, thoroughly constructed, furnished with an excellent bell, and was for many years a blessing and credit to the community.

In 1831, James Winchell and wife gave to the trustees a house and fourteen acres of land, for the use of the pastors of the church.

About the year 1866, the church voted to sell the old meeting house, purchase a new site, and erect a new sanctuary in the growing village of Millerton. On the 19th of August, they met for the last time in the old house at Spencers Corners. Precious, tender, and touching reminiscences filled their minds as they realized "It is the last time." Then with a solemn step they went out from the beloved place, and the old brick church became a thing of the past. Nov. 4th, 1867, one hundred and sixteen years after its organization, the church met to lay the corner stone of its fourth, and present house of worship.

Thus have we given, in brief, the history of a church which covers in its existence a century and a quarter, and is a record worthy of profound study. It opens the door into the hidden mysteries of the world's great life. In it we behold the motive power which influenced, controlled, and shaped society. In it we see a religious institution coming into contact with the pride and voluptuousness of the world.

The year 1642 appears, in the history of America in an aspect fitted to arrest the attention. It is a scene of religious bitterness, fury, and persecution, which rises to sight. A number of families, guilty of no crime, who simply stood up for the defense and enjoyment of religious liberty, were so disturbed, harassed, proscribed, that they left Massachusetts, and obtained permission of the "Dutch authorities" to settle in New York Province, there to reside and be favored with the free exercise of religion. This was, to some of them at least, but martyrdom in another form, for they were speedily attacked by Indians, and many brought to suffer death. In this section of country, among the descendants of these people, we trace the origin and progress of our spiritual ancestry.

The oldest mill in the town of Northeast was that built by James Winchell, already mentioned, and which stood at what is now called Irondale. The house now the residence of Orville Wakeman, Esq., was built over a century ago by the Buttolph family. John Buttolph had a consumptive sister. When living in this house a hook was driven into the wall; to this a rope was attached, by the assistance of which the invalid could raise herself to a sitting posture. The hook still remains in its place, and the proprietor says it shall remain there as long as he lives. Mr. Wakeman has in his possession a pair of spectacles belonging to the Hartwell family over two hundred years old, having been brought from the "old country" by the ancestors of the Hartwells. They were made, apparently, by a blacksmith, strong and durable.

A part of Indian Pond lies in the east border of this town, connected with which are some interesting Indian reminiscences, of which mention has already been made in the chapter on Pine Plains. The writer visited the locality in the autumn of 1876. The site of the Moravian Mission House near the west shore of the pond is now occupied by a field of stubble. The tombstones that once marked the graves of some of the early missionaries, in an adjacent burial ground, have been removed. Some of these slabs may now be seen standing against a wall in a neighboring field. One of these was a few years ago reset in a slate rock, near the site of the mission, but the cattle finally displaced the stone, and it broke in the fall. The mission house was afterwards occupied as a schoolhouse. It was removed previous to the recollection of the oldest person now living in the neighborhood. This locality together with that of Wechquadnack, on the opposite shore of the pond, are yearly visited by many, who find an interest in the "quaint but forgotten lore" of the earlier occupants of our country.

$5000. The interest is charged at seven per cent., and the same paid into the State treasury, less fees and expenses of collection, and by the comptroller distributed among the counties for the support of schools and academies.

The State loans were guaranteed by the board of supervisors, and after paying several losses, an order was passed to pay the principal back to the State as fast as the loans were paid in by the parties who contracted the same, and in 1850, the amount remaining of the loans of 1792 and 1808 was but $5510. Some portion of this fund is still running at interest on the original loans made in 1795. The amount reported on loan by the loan commissioners in November, 1877, was $69,013.70. Under the act of 1786, £22,000 was apportioned to Albany county, a portion of which was loaned to citizens in the territory now included in Columbia county.

CHAPTER XVII.

MILITARY.

Columbia County in the War of 1812-15, and the Great Rebellion.

WAR OF 1812 TO 1815.

IN the last war against Great Britain, in 1812 to 1815, Columbia county furnished a large number of troops (both volunteers and drafted men), though few of them saw actual service under hostile fire.

Of the military organizations existing in the county prior to that war we obtain some idea from an old brigade order, signed by Joseph Lord as brigade-major, and issued by command of Brig.-Gen. Samuel Ten Broeck, Aug. 10, 1806, directing that a review and inspection of his brigade be held near the tavern of Jacob Moul, in Claverack, on the 2d of September in that year. The different commands mentioned in the order as composing the brigade were as follows:

1. The regiment of infantry commanded by Maj. Robert T. Livingston, having attached to it the troop of cavalry commanded by Capt. Walter T. Livingston.

2. The regiment of infantry under command of Lieut.-Col. Jacob Rutsen Van Rensselaer; attached to which was the troop of horse commanded by Capt. Killian Hogeboom, and a company of artillery under Capt. Gilbert Jenkins.

3. The infantry regiment of Lieut.-Col. Cornwell; with Capt. John Whiting's troop of cavalry attached.

The brigade was still under command of Gen. Ten Broeck at the opening of the war, and as to the commands composing it, we find reference to the 15th, 41th, 56th, and 165th Regiments of infantry. In the 15th Regiment the following commissions were issued in April, 1814, viz.:

Lieutenant-Colonel Commandant, John Shaver.

A list of commissions, issued about the same time, for the 165th Regiment, was as follows:

First Major, Nicholas Robinson.

Second Major, John Finch.

Quartermaster, Philologus Holley.

Adjutant, Isaac B. Williams.

Ensigns: Richard Townsend, Peter Silvernail, Ebenezer Finch, Robert Kline, Cornelius Washman, Alvin Covey, James Conklin, John Kingman.

For the 5th Regiment of cavalry we find commissions issued in 1813 and 1814 to residents of Columbia county, as follows:

Lieutenant-Colonel Commandant, Walter T. Livingston.

First Major, Henry Brown.

Second Major, Reuben Ranney.

Captains: Robert H. Van Rensselaer, John P. Mesick, Esp.

First Lieutenants: Daniel B. Stranahan, Jeremiah Hoffman.

Second Lieutenants: Seth Mix, Adam Sagendorph, William I. Johnson.

Cornets: Aaron Beardsley, Amasa K. Center.

The following is a copy of the muster-roll of a company of volunteer cavalry under command of Captain Lodowick S. Babcock. Mustered into the service of the United States Aug. 25, 1812, for the term of one year, actual service, or for the term specified in an act of Congress passed Feb. 6, 1812:

MISCELLANEOUS SOCIETIES.

Among the earliest of the many societies of Hudson was the Society of Mechanics of the city of Hudson and town of Claverack, which was formed in the spring of 1791. We are unable either to state the objects of the society or to give the names of its first officers.

THE HUDSON MECHANICAL SOCIETY

was incorporated by act of Legislature, passed March 21, 1806; the incorporators being Jonathan Ames, Aaron Charlot, Abiel Cheney, Daniel Clark, Jared Coffin, Paul Dakin, Isaac Hathaway, Nicholas Hathaway, Charles Holt, Prosper Hosmer, John Keeney, James Nixon, Jr., Laban Paddock, Nathaniel Porter, William Rogers, Nathan Sears, Sylvanus Seely, Ashbel Stoddard, Robert Taylor, John C. Ten Broeck, Cornelius Tobey, Samuel Wigton, and William Wigton, "mechanics of the city of Hudson, in the county of Columbia."

The first officers of the society were Prosper Hosmer, city of stated supply until 1842, when the Rev. P. S. Wynkoop assumed charge until the fall of the year.

On the 18th of October, 1842, the Rev. John Van Derwoort was installed as the first regular pastor. This relation he maintained four years, and was succeeded, March 25, 1845, by Rev. John S. Himrod, whose pastorate extended until 1851. Rev. John H. Pitcher was installed to the pastoral office Jan. 28, 1852, and continued in that capacity until 1861. Oct. 22, 1862, the Rev. A. J. Sebring was installed, and has since that period rendered the church faithful and efficient service as pastor.

Under the ministrations of the foregoing more than four hundred and seventy members have been added to the church, most of them uniting on confession of faith; and although many changes have taken place, the membership yet numbers nearly two hundred, and the church is to-day a vigorous body. During Mr. Sebring's pastorate about forty thousand dollars has been raised for various church purposes, besides remodeling the meeting-house in 1868, at a cost of three thousand dollars. The edifice is neat and attractive without being imposing, and is estimated worth seven thousand dollars. There are sittings for five hundred persons. Convenient to the church is the parsonage, which was erected soon after the meeting-house, and which was put in thorough repair in 1874. It is estimated worth two thousand five hundred dollars.

The consistory is at present composed of President, Rev. A. J. Sebring; Elders, E. L. Demarest, Albert C. Ostrander, Almon Harder, and George M. Harder; Deacons, Wm. A. Harder, Jr., Henry Miller, James Rogers, and Eugene Gardner.

Two excellent Sunday-schools are maintained by the church,—one at Melleville, having Aaron Philip as superintendent, and one in Philmont, under the superintendence of George M. Harder. The aggregate attendance is about one hundred and eighty scholars.

THE WEST HILLSDALE BAPTIST CHURCH, AT MARTINDALE, IN CLAVERACK, was organized at Craryville in 1803, with eight members. A society was duly incorporated June 1, 1833, which, in 1854, erected the present house of worship. It is an attractive frame edifice, forty by sixty feet, very pleasantly located in the southern part of the hamlet of Martindale, and was dedicated in June of the following year by Rev. George C. Baldwin, D.D., assisted by Rev. Reuben Jeffrey, of Albany. Adjoining the church is a comfortable parsonage, and on the opposite side of the street the church cemetery. The property is valued at ten thousand dollars. The society also retains its interest in the old Hillsdale house, and has an interest in the chapel at Philmont, at both of which places services are stately held.

The church numbers ninety-four communicants, and is at present (1878) officered by Pastor, D. W. Sherwood; Deacons, Benson Simpson and Julius Snyder; and Church Clerk, Benson Simpson. The Sabbath-school was organized nearly thirty years ago, and at present has fifty-five members. A good library is maintained.

The church has enjoyed several notable revivals, the one in 1842 resulting in seventy-one baptisms, and at subsequent periods the church has been greatly strengthened by revival efforts.

The pastoral connection since 1803 has been as follows: Revs. John Gano, Calvin Philo, — Hart, — Orchard, Samuel Pomeroy, Milo B. Tremain, Samuel S. Mallory, Peter Prink, John W. Van Horn, J. W. Starkweather, Martin L. Fuller, Daniel Robinson, William Garnett, John F. Lagrange, John H. Kent, Solomon Gale, Wm. Isaacs Loomis, James A. Metz, James W. Grant, and the present, Daniel W. Sherwood.

THE PHILMONT METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

This body was organized in 1842, as the Melleville Methodist Episcopal church, with a board of trustees composed of Adam Miller, Jeremiah Jones, A. P. Whitney, John W. Knapp, and Daniel B. Stone. The same year a frame meeting-house was erected in the village of Melleville, which was used for worship until 1872, when it was demolished, and a part of the material used in the construction of a very fine chapel in the village of Philmont. The house is thirty-six by sixty-eight feet, and is surmounted by a shapely tower. There are four hundred sittings. The cost of the edifice complete was eight thousand four hundred dollars. Impressive dedicatory services were held Dec. 19, 1872, by Bishop Harris, D.D. At this time the corporate title of the trustees was changed from Melleville to Philmont. The trustees at present are L. B. Snyder, G. B. Nickerson, Edward Herrick, Marcus Sherwood, and J. S. Parks. The members number one hundred and seven.

The clergy of the church have been, since 1845, Revs. Adeo Vail, George C. Bancroft, John Campbell, Denton Keeler, John Davies, David Hervey, Jr., Aaron Hunt, Jr., David Lyman, James G. Bates, De Loss Lull, Amos N. Mulnix, Oscar Haviland, E. Ashton, and David Gibson. Until this period, 1868, the church was served in connection with the one at Harlemlive as a circuit. The circuits being re-adjusted, Philmont—then Melleville—was connected with Claverack in forming a new circuit. Since that time the pastors have been Revs. Quincy J. Collins, Thomas Lamont, G. W. Knapp, G. D. Townsend, and the present (1878), R. H. Travis.

A good Sunday-school is maintained by the church. John Philip is the superintendent, and there are one hundred and fifty scholars in attendance.

THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH OF CLAVERACK.

The present society was legally organized in 1860, mainly through the efforts of President Flack, of the Hudson River Institute, with twenty members. An unassuming but comfortable meeting-house was erected the same year in the village of Claverack, at a cost of nearly seven thousand dollars. It has sittings for three hundred persons. The church numbers at present about seventy-five members, and is connected with Philmont in forming a circuit, having sustained that relation since 1868. The circuit parsonage is at Claverack, and is a neat and tasty house.

As early as 1837 ministers were appointed to the Claverack circuit; the first appointee being Rev. Joseph B.

it in numbers, influence, and resources that steps were taken to secure the erection of a house of worship. As a preliminary step, due notice being given, a meeting was held "at the barn of Peter Miller," on the 19th of June, 1834, to incorporate the society. William T. Trafford and John Shaver, Jr., presided, and John Porter, John Shaver, Jr., George Niver, William T. Trafford, and Richard I. Vosburgh were elected trustees.

A subscription was raised and the first church was built at the upper or eastern corners, on lands donated by Elisha Wilcox, some time in this or the next year, 1834 or 1835. It was a plain building without tower or belfry, and cost about $2000. It was used till the new church was built, and was then sold for $400 or $500, and removed to the lower corners, where it was converted into, and has since been used as, a store. It is believed that this church was dedicated by Rev. Joseph B. Wakeley. The second or present church was built in the fall and winter of 1853-54, during the pastorate of Rev. Marvin R. Lent, and was dedicated by Rev. Joseph B. Wakeley, then of New York, in the following spring. This church was built by Jude Snyder, in the burying-ground, and cost about $3500. It will comfortably seat about three hundred and fifty persons.

Soon after, a parsonage was purchased of a Mr. Brown, at a cost of about $1400. It is still owned by the church and used for a ministerial residence. The present valuation of the entire church property is about $4000.

The trustees before named and John Williams, together with their several wives, were among the first members of the church. George Niver and Wm. T. Trafford were the first class-leaders.

The present officers are Darius Van Deusen, John P. Bain, William Northrop, James Peck, Ward Van De Bogart, John Lyke, Henry Lloyd, Charles Lloyd, Norman Decker, stewards; the six first named, Henry Niver, Ambrose Williams, Wesley Holsapple, trustees; William Northrop, Henry Lloyd, class-leaders. The membership is two hundred and ten, fifty-five of that number being probationers.

The ministers who have preached at this church, and all of whom, with the exception of the seven first named, have been regularly stationed here, are as follows, viz.:

Revs. Richard Hayter, Edward S. Stout, S. L. Stillman, D. B. Ostrander, J. Carley, W. Lull, Charles C. Keyes, D. B. Osborn, W. Lull, A. Bushnell, Jr., Alonzo G. Shears, David Holmes, David Plumb, Levi Warner, Matthew Van Deusen, William Gothard, Aaron Hunt, Jr., Loren Clark, L. Mc K. Pease, Loyal B. Andrus, Jeremiah Ham, Aaron Hunt, Jr., Cyrus G. Prindle, Marvin R. Lent, Isaac H. Lent, Alpheus C. Gallahue, C. Fuller, Charles Gorse, Loyal B. Andrus, B. M. Genung, Marvin R. Lent, Isaac H. Lent, Thomas Ellis, J. H. Phillips, J. G. Slater, and J. H. Michell, the present pastor, who is now serving in his third year.

The Sabbath-school in connection with this church is in a prosperous condition, having a membership of one hundred and seventy, and a library of about four hundred volumes. The officers are Rev. J. H. Michell, superintendent; William Northrop, assistant superintendent; Charles Burroughs, secretary; John Lyke, treasurer; Charles Roberts, librarian.

CHURCH OF ST. JOHN.

Previously to 1852 Episcopal services were held occasionally in the district school-house at Copake Iron-Works; Mrs. Aurelia Pomeroy and Mrs. Harriet Chesbrough being teachers.

The parish was organized in 1852, at a meeting held for the purpose at the residence of Isaac C. Chesbrough, Rev. N. S. Stoughton presiding and William L. Pomeroy acting as secretary. The following officers were elected, viz.: Lemuel Pomeroy, senior warden; Isaac C. Chesbrough, junior warden; William L. Pomeroy, Lemuel Pomeroy, Jr., S. H. Platner, Lee Chamberlain, Sylvester Melius, John D. Groat, Julius Snyder, J. G. Palen, vestrymen.

The minute of these proceedings was accepted May 24, 1852, and signed by Rev. N. S. Stoughton, in the presence of two witnesses. June 17 it was recorded, and the society was incorporated.

The land for a church site and parsonage lot was given by the "Copake Iron Company," and the members contributed liberally towards a fund to build a church. In this they were assisted by the Trinity church of New York, and a church was erected at a cost of $3000. The size of the main building is thirty by forty-five feet, with a chancel fifteen by twenty-two feet. It furnishes comfortable sittings for one hundred and fifty persons. It was consecrated on St. Peter's day, June 29, 1852, and received into the jurisdiction of the bishop of New York by the Rev. Carlton Chase, of New Haven, performing episcopal duties at the request of the standing committee of the diocese of New York.

Prior to the settling of a rector over this parish, service was held by various clergymen, among others by Revs. N. S. Stoughton, H. Wheaton, Dr. Berrian, — Haight, and — Anthon, the three last all of New York. The first resident rector was Rev. William T. Ludlum. He was followed by Revs. E. W. Hager, Peter S. Ruth, P. O. Barton, William A. Leach, J. H. Babcock, and Levi Johnston. Services have also been conducted at the church by Revs. Joseph Johnson, W. C. Brant, — Hale, and Rev. R. C. Terry, of Hudson, N. Y. The church is at present without a pastor. The membership is quite small. The present valuation of the church property is about $5000.

The present officers are Isaac C. Chesbrough, senior warden; Lemuel Pomeroy, junior warden; H. T. Goodale, William Wright, William A. Miles, Darius Weed, Peter N. Campbell, Asa Martin, F. P. Miles, Lott Cook, vestrymen; Wm. A. Miles, treasurer; Lemuel Pomeroy, secretary.

ST. BRIDGET'S ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH.

Religious services were held at Copake Iron-Works, in the house of Michael Herihy, by the Rev. James S. O'Sullivan, of Hudson, from 1855 to 1867. At that time it was thought best to build a church, and steps were taken to secure its erection. It was commenced in 1866, and finished in 1867. The mission was attached to Chatham parish in February, 1873, under the pastoral care of Rev. James J. Moriarty, A.M., who is still ministering to the people. Oct. 31, 1875, the church was formally dedicated, and seventy persons confirmed by Rt. Rev. Francis McNierney.

The following is a true copy of the record of the first town-meeting:

"GRANGER, APRIL 5th, 1803.—At the first anniversary town-meeting held in said town, at the dwelling-house of Jonas Miller, in said town, on the day and year first above written, present: Thomas Trafford, Daniel Toucray, justices of the peace. At which meeting the following persons were duly elected to the following offices, to wit: Jacob Decker, town clerk; Henry Avery, supervisor; Fite Miller, Philip P. Rockefeller, Nicholas Robinson, assessors; Jacob Feller, Tiell Rockefeller, Moses Rowley, commissioners of highways; Philip P. Rockefeller, Jacob Feller, overseers of the poor; Philip P. Rockefeller, collector; Calvin Lawrence, Michael Wheeler, constables; Jonas Miller, pound-keeper; John Washburn, Peter Bain, Fite Miller, fence-viewers.

"At the above meeting the freeholders and inhabitants of said town voted to raise $125 by tax on said town for the support of the poor the ensuing year.

"Recorded by me,
"JACOB C. DECKER, Town Clerk."

The town-meetings, until the town was divided, continued to be held at Taghkanic, but soon after they began to be held sometimes at West Taghkanic. This practice has been continued to the present; each town-meeting fixing the place at which the town elections shall be held for the year ensuing. The town forms but one election district. In politics the town is decidedly Democratic. The following list contains the names of the supervisors, town clerks, justices of the peace, and collectors since the organization of the town:

in the western part of Copake at the advanced age of ninety-one years.

Zaccheus Owen came to Ancram from New England, and settled on a place a little east of Boston Corners. The date of his settlement was probably about 1760. He was succeeded on the place by his son Charles, and he by his son Hermon. The place is now divided into two farms, occupied by John Silvernail and Archibald McIntyre. The latter occupies the homestead, and his house stands nearly on the site of the first one. Peter Owen, a great-grandson of Zaccheus, is living in Ancram, aged seventy-nine years.

William Lott first settled the place occupied by Harmon Johnson, and known as "the Eggleston farm." He sold to Mark Kryne.

Next north of Lott, David Eggleston settled. The place is now occupied by Charles Roberts.

Hans Adam Miller was a German emigrant who settled, about 1760-65, on a farm on the west side of Chestnut ridge, about a mile from Boston Corners. The place is now owned by Anson and Homer Vosburgh. His family, consisting of three sons and six daughters, were all born on that place. Their descendants, by the names of Miller, McArthur, and Wilkinson, are still among the residents of this county. One son—named John—married, and took a lease of the farm now occupied by his son, Benjamin I. Miller, about 1800. By some error of the clerk who transcribed the lease it was made for the unusually long term of nine hundred and ninety-nine years. The proprietor of the manor was very anxious to rectify the error when he found out what it was, but as he had refused "to correct mistakes" before he knew what the mistake was, Miller kept the lease, saying, that if it was good enough for Livingston, it was good enough for him. Benjamin I. Miller still has this remarkable lease in his possession, though the land has since been purchased and conveyed by deed.

Hans Adam Miller had two brothers, Benjamin and Matthias, who came to America with him, and settled in Ancram and Copake; Benjamin on the place now occupied by Mrs. Miller, near Miller's pond, and Matthias on the place now occupied by Mrs. Lampman, half a mile southwest of the Weed ore-bed. Benjamin B. Miller, living near Copake Flats, is a grandson of Benjamin Miller. John McArthur was a son of Neil McArthur, one of the first settlers. He had seven children. One of them, Mrs. Botsey Barlow, is living in Rochester. Peter McArthur, a great-grandson of Neil, and son of Charles, is now living in Copake, two miles south of Copake Flats.

Henry and David Wentworth, and a family named Steward, were early settlers near Ancram village, and Isaac Williams was for a long time agent of Livingston, in charge of the iron-works there.

Jacob Kiefer, on the W. H. Tripp place; John Tweedy, on the John M. Williams place; Reuben McArthur, on the Elias Austin place; Arthur McArthur, on the Sally McArthur place; two Burches, on the Jesse and Elias Reynolds place; John W. Pulver, on the William W. Tanner place; Martin Miller, on the John M. Smith place; and John Woodward, near the Woodward pond, were among the first settlers in their respective localities.

Among the other earlier settlers were Isaac Rogers, Duncan McArthur, Archibald and Duncan McIntyre, and families named Thompson, Fritts, Tanner, McDonald, Beleher, and Brandt.

This town was formed from Livingston, March 19, 1803, as Gallatin, and its name was changed to Ancram, March 25, 1814. Gallatin was taken off in 1830, and Boston Corners annexed April 13, 1857. Its first name was given it in honor of Hon. Albert Gallatin, and the present one after Ancram in Scotland, which was the native place of the Livingston family.

The following is a copy of the record of the first town-meeting:

"Town of Gallatin, April 5, 1803, Made choice of Ebenezer Kingman, clerk; Nicholas Klyne, supervisor; Henry Huffman, Esq., Jacob I. Strivel, Thomas Lomas, assessors; Rubin McCarter, Henry A. Holsrod, Silas Davis, commissioners; Allen Sheldon, collector; Christophor Shults, Henry Huffman, overseers of the poor; Peter Marks, Aaron Sheldon, Daniel Palmer, constables; George Row, Hans Peter Shoemaker, John Bates, fence-viewers; Isaac Williams, poundmaster.

"$150 for the use of the poor, to be Raised by Vote of the Town.

"Fences, 4½ feet High.

"No Ram to Run at large from the first of September until the first of November, Under the forfeiture of such Ram."

The first commissioners and inspectors of common schools were elected at a special town-meeting held May 29, 1813. They were Allen Sheldon, Henry P. Mink, and Rowland Sweet, commissioners; John I. Holley, Elisha Wilcox, and Hermon Vedder, inspectors.

The following persons have served in the most important town offices, as designated in the list:

Introduction

The transcription and compilation in this volume is extracted from two Hudson, NY newspapers, namely, "The Balance and Columbian Repository", and "The Rural Repository or Bower of Literature". The dictionary definition of what constitutes a newspaper and what these "sheets" actually are, probably does not qualify them as newspapers in the modern sense but they would more appropriately be called magazines since very little of local "news" was reported but rather they contained continuing stories and items of general geographical and biographical interest. It is in the death and marriage notices, quaintly called "The Knell" and "The Knot" in The Balance, where these periodicals hold their greatest value to the genealogist.

The Balance began as a weekly and was published in Hudson from 1802-1808. In 1809, the publication site was changed to Albany, NY and it became a twice weekly paper. Only Columbia Co notices were collected by the Compiler in the 1809-1811 time period.

The Rural Repository was a biweekly paper during its entire existence, 1824-1851. The first issue of Volume 1 is dated June 1824 and each volume consisted of 26 issues. Over the years, the publisher took short vacations and there were periods when publication was interrupted because of office renovations, etc, so that the 28th volume concludes in October of 1851. This is apt to give the appearance that the inventory of papers is incomplete when actually the number sequence of the paper is unbroken.

The Compiler acknowledges, with thanks, the following libraries and librarians of:

Adriance Memorial Library, Poughkeepsie
House of History, Kinderhook
Hendrick Hudson Chapter, DAR, Hudson
Hudson Area Library, Hudson
State Library, Albany

the five sources of the complete inventory which follows. Although the House of History and the Hudson Area Library have the largest collections of these papers, neither has a complete set.

The format used in extracting death information is intended to provide the vital statistics included in the item as well as genealogical relationships also stated. The date in parenthesis which follows the death date is the date of the paper. Other numbers or letters in parenthesis are placed there when a question of legibility was encountered. The "?" is used in place of "sic" and indicates "copied as read".

CLIPPING:- Notes pasted on fly leaves:-
 CLARK - Sept. 17, 1862, on the battle-field at Antietam or Sharpsburgh, Maryland, Charles Adelbert Clark, Esq. of Unadilla Forks, Otsego Co., N.Y. He enlisted in the 26th Regiment N.Y.S.V., April 1861, and from the time that noble regiment entered the land of battles to the day he received his death wound, he was one of the best soldiers in the regiment; always at his post, ready and willing to obey his officers in command. On the day of his death, his division had made one desperate dash at the enemy who were strongly protected by a trench, and the 26th, together with the other regiments in their division, had been driven back with terrible loss, yet when the division was about to rally for the second time, young Clark's voice was heard above the noise of the musketry, urging his fellow soldiers forward to the contest, shouting, "Victory or Death," and as they came within range of the enemy, a volley of balls was poured in upon them and young Clark was struck with a musket ball, the ball entering his forehead and passing out at the back side of his head. He died without a struggle. Again the division was repulsed, and the enemy occupied the ground where young Clark fell. Our men rallied again, and succeeded in driving out the rebels, and when young Clark's comrades came where he lay, they found that his pockets had been emptied of every thing. He had a good watch and $22 in money which the rebels appropriated. It was the universal expression of the members of the 26th that a more brave and valiant soldier could not be found.

With reference to your listing in the "GENEALOGICAL HELPER", by Everton I would like to correspond with you regarding the surname of COVEY.

Our Jonathan Covey was born in New York his Mother's people were most likely of Conn. He married Nancy Gray. They moved to Cleveland, Ohio about 1816.

Your Johnathan is the only other Jonathan I have ever heard of besides ours and I have a large record of Covey families from numerous locations in America.

We are publishing a "COVEY BOOK," which we hope to complete next year of the Desc. of "Walter Covey & Sarah Hatch," our (my) 2 g.g. parents.

Please send me your Covey pedigree and your Covey family groups prior to 1900 and it is likely that I can help you.

A Mrs Gamage may write you. I am also including her records in our book she is a descendant of Jonathan and I am of Benjamin, who were sons of Walter. See Walter's will inclosed.

I will expect to hear from you soon with reference to the above.

Sincerely yours,

Mary L. Quist

Dear Elizabeth:

Thank you for your letter of September 22nd.

While I cannot see how our Jonathan Coveys match up, I am including some sheets from my notebooks on the Covey family. This is not my family, but was belong to a friend who has had little experience in genealogy.

We have not done a great deal of work on the Coveys - most of the information on these sheets comes from the Jefferson and Lewis County census records. At present we have perhaps a dozen or so Coveys that we have not fitted into this particular group. There are still a number of Coveys living in Jefferson County but they are very valuable to their ancestry. The Coveys who matter - the Norton sisters are finished down to the present date. Through the Sarah Norton, daughter of Jonathan Holmes and Elizabeth Cook Norton, the local families are eligible for the title - since Elizabeth's father Abiel Cook was a revolutionary soldier.

I don't very well know the names of the first three daughters of Jonathan, his wife's family name, and his parents. We have not yet started any research in Connecticut on this besides going through the 1800 census, and noting the predominance of Coveys in Hartford County.

On the one hand where the children of Jonathan Jr, and Agnes are not carried past the birches, there is no record of them in the Jefferson County census beyond those points. The census records have been checked every five years from 1850 to 1880.

Finally, this summer we did more work on the Nortons, Cooks and Booths that carried into the family than on the Coveys, since some of the former entailed trips to Canada where the Booths were United Empire Loyalists and we wished to check these while the weather permitted.

Hope we can be of mutual help to each other,

Sincerely

Elizabeth K. Williams
(Mrs. E. C. Williams)

P.S. I am historian of the Town of Cape Vincent and have a large personal library on Jefferson County, if I can be of a help on other lines.

History of Oakland Co. Publisher 1877, P. 218 plate

Hiram Covey was born at Mount Washington, Berkshire county, Massachusetts, Jan. 17-1802. He remained there until 1814, and then removed to Oswego county, New York, where he continued to reside until 1837. This year he removed to Livingston county, Michigan, and settled at the village of Brighton. On the 1st of April 1839, he removed to Lyon Township, in which he has since resided.

In early life Mr. Covey was apprenticed to the carpenter and joiner trade, and after serving about three months, his "boss" informed him that he could teach him nothing further, but that experience would do that for him. He subsequently worked at the trade, and was eminently successful. He has for many years been a farmer, having had a farm in Lyon of two hundred and ten acres, one hundred and eighty acres he cultivated up to within a few years. He has recently sold his farm, and now only retains enough on which to spend his late time.

November 1, 1827, he was married to Hannah Fuller, at Dutchess county, New York, by Rev. John Culver. She was born in Columbia county, New York, March 15, 1802.

The family record is as follows: Juliet, born August 2, 1828, married George W. Butler, Esq. March 17, 1846; Hiram S., born March 31, 1830, married Margaret Marlatt, November 11, 1853; Nelson F., born January 25, 1832, married Harriet Curtis, January 1, 1856; Leonard, born August 20, 1833, married John T. Andrews, April 20, 1853; Mary E., born Jan. 17, 1835, married George W. Pennell, July 16, 1857; Frances A., born Oct. 31, 1835, m. John R. Sherman; Sarah, born 10-13-1843, m. George M. Tucker 12-20-1846. These all reside in the State, several of them in this county.

In politics Mr. Covey is a Democrat of the Jeffersonian School. In religion he is a Universalist, being one of the original members of the Universalist Church of Lyon Township, and to the support of which he has always liberally contributed.

The couple, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Covey, will have been married 50 years on the 1st of Nov. next. They have walked together through life's pathway, experiencing much of the sorrows and vicissitudes of life, and, also, many of its joys and pleasures. They carry almost fourscore years well, as the reward of temperate lives; and when called upon to pass to the world beyond will leave behind them a memory blessed by good deeds and hallowed by noble actions. Their large progeny will ever cherish their honored parents' names with filial affection and remember them with a fond regard.

SKETCHES

Now that the excitement of the Sandy Creek Fair has somewhat abated and the best cooks in the surrounding country are once more graciously wearing their laurels, Sketches may again resume its column.

Since the interruption of the series, Marshall P. Wilder dropped in to see us and to him we are grateful for the following interesting facts:

Moses Adams, of whom nothing had been learned heretofore, settled on the farm now owned by Marshall P. Wilder on the Kent road. Mr. Adams was born in Nelson, N. H. November 19, 1788, and was married on October 1, 1813, to Sally Scripture, daughter of Samuel Scripture. They came to Sandy Creek from Rodman, Jefferson county, between 1830 and 1833. Moses Adams died at Sandy Creek September 9, 1865. The children of Moses and Sally Scripture Adams were John, Samuel, Alvin, Mary, Nancy, Albert and Sarah. Samuel Adams was married to Lois Wilder, and Sarah Adams became the wife of Alvin Hadley. After the death of Alvin Hadley, she was united in marriage to Aaron Hunter. Alvin Adams was the father of eleven children who resided in Michigan. Mary Adams, another of the children of Moses and Sally Scripture Adams, was married in 1849 to Lewis Wilder. Three children were born to them: Duane and Anna, who died young, and Frank, who passed away in Florida in 1893. Ten years after Mr. Wilder's death, Mrs. Mary Adams Wilder was married to Richard M. Knollin, whom she survived, her death occurring in 1919. Marshall P. Wilder is the son of Frank Wilder.

Another of the 'missing' whom Mr. Wilder helped us locate, was Max Barnard, who lived beyond the Box farm on the North road into Pulaski.

Honorable Danforth E. Ainsworth informs us that Benjamin H. Allen was at one time associated with Thomas W. Dixon in the milling business in Pulaski under the firm name of Dixon & Allen. Mr. Dixon was the grandfather of the late Annie P. Ainsworth. Mr. Allen was an estimable citizen but did not always get along with the boys and some of his neighbors which gave rise to some neighborhood feeling and he sold the property to Mr. Ainsworth's father, Henry Ainsworth, and moved to Pulaski. The farm is now owned by George Rounds and was formerly the William Hinman home. The News was in error in stating that Mr. Allen built this property, it was built at an earlier date by another. Mr. Ainsworth also confirmed the tradition that much of the lumber found its way mysteriously to the premises.

Continuing the original material which was gathered with the assistance of Mr. Alvin Thompson, there

John P. ... died at the Salisbury House which before it was burned, was located at the site of the present People's O and Gas station, opposite the Sargent Block. It was said of Mr. Clark that he was a 'lonely fellow.' He owned the Ingersoll farm near the White school house.

Ed Conaland was in the store with E. H. Sargent. Peter Coon lived north of the Center Church on what was known as the lower state road leading from Oswego to Sackets Harbor. Among his living descendants are four grand children, children of his son, Nathaniel Coon. They are Dan, George and Herbert Coon who live in this town west of the Center Church, and Mr. Frank Pryor, who lives on the farm south of the Cobblestone school house. Mrs. Melvin D. Herriman is also a descendant of Peter Coon, being a great-granddaughter.

Asa Carpenter lived on the Orwell road. Ebenezer Carpenter was his son and Rev. E. D. Carpenter his grandnephew.

Oratio O. Clark was a blacksmith in town at that time. His son was the father of a Wyoming state senator.

Seymour Cornwall's descendants are now living in New Haven.

Ezra Corse was the son of Gad Corse, whose family first came to this country in 1690 and settled in Deerfield, Mass. From there they went to Wilmington, Vermont, and from that place to Hoosick. Leaving Hoosick, Ezra Corse, then a young man, started out with an ax over his shoulder, came through the Mohawk valley and finally stopped from his travels in Sandy Creek. At that time John Pierce kept a store on the Prytherch corner. Mr. Pierce owned a home on the bank of the creek on the Delos Carpenter farm. Mr. Corse was hired to clear the land of timber and underbrush. Later, he married Narcissa Pierce, a daughter of John Pierce, bought land and built a home on the present Rennie Pool farm. Ezra Corse died in 1898. His descendants are Henry Corse, Mrs. George Cook, F. Dudley Corse, Mrs. Ralph Trumbull, and Elwin Stevens, all of whom are his grandchildren, besides their children and grandchildren.

George Carpenter is the father of the late Mrs. Alice Newton and a grandfather of Hosea Newton, Miss Lucia Newton and Ora Newton.

John Crandall, who lived where Mrs. Henry Crandall resides, was the grandfather of Clayton Crandall.

Avory Cronkite lived in the Leach District. He is survived by his daughter, Mrs. Hattie LeFleur, of Pierrepont Manor, and by Will Cronk, the family having quite generally shortened the name.

Alexander Coulter lived on the Ridge road.

William H. Cottrell was the grandfather of D. D. Cottrell of North Cochocton, N. Y., Leon W. Cottrell of Boston, Mass., and H. Edward Cottrell of Portland, Maine.

As more names are added to the list of ancestors your cooperation is
