PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Well Spring is almost here once again but, the cold weather keeps us thinking that Spring will never get here.

The society has been busy with the cemeteries, census, obit.books and the new surname register that will go on sell sometime in June. The society has had a very nice donation given to it to help pay for the new flag pole and light by the U.S. Shoe Company with the South Shore V.F.W. giving us a very nice new flag for the pole that will be put into the yard here at the building when weather promits cement to be worked with.

The building will be getting a face lift on one of the ceiling in the building, with the badly needed repairs on the walls being done at the same time. The repairs were planned to start last fall but , the project will be completed in the very near future.

We the Officer's , Staff, and other Member's would like to thank the people that work at the building and, also the one's that work at their homes on society bussiness, but not to forget the people that send in the nice donation that keep the society going. We would like to say thanks for your time and support to our society.

The President Sue Wood, has had and is still having major illness in her family. Sue's mother is fighting with brain cancer and the it does not look good. We all hope Sue and her family the best of luck and God's blessings for her and her family.

Terry R. Polley
Editor of Shakin and Diggin

P.S. Sue Wood's Mother passed away on the 24th of February 1993 at her home in Ribolt, KY. May God Bless Sue and her family at this sad time.

HISTORY OF MORRIS HILL CHURCH AND CEMETERY

The following story and correction was sent in by one of the member's to help the rest of us out. The story behind the so-called Morris Hill church.

The so called Morris Hill is not Morris Hill. The correct name is Mar's Hill. That is a Bible name taken from the book of Acts 17:22, back about 1890 ?

When Mary Bruce Mackey, was selling graves lots to raise money to build the church building.

Also one omission. On the large monument facing the two graves is the wife's name. Which is Amanda Wilcox Bruce.

The omitted husbands name is on the back of the monument and that is Perry G. Bruce, 1840-1926. An old Civil War Vet.

Submitted by Fuller H. Truitt, 3999 Mayfair St. Dearborn Hts. MI. 48125.

Picture submitted by: Ina Carol Wilson, Garrison, KY.

MURDER

A Lewis County Farmer Waylaid in a Field Peculiar Circumstances Connected with the Deed - The Murderer at Large

Lewis county, Kentucky, contains a great many public spirited and well-to-do people, but the fair name of the county has been stained with blood and one of its citizens that rank with that class has met a tragic death by being slain in a field hard-by where he resided.

William Mayfield, the murdered man, resided with his son-in-law, Elijah Engles, about one mile above the mouth of Kinnikinnick.

He was found on Tuesday evening on the farm of his son-in-law, within thirty yards of the residence, cold and dead, with a club or ax wound in his skull. The body was lying face upward, a large flat rock supporting the small of the back. The son-in-law attributed this peculiar attitude to the fact that the old gentleman never laid down upon the ground unless he supported himself in that manner. No other member of the family ever possessed those facts but him. This is strange.

A search in that vicinity revealed a place where the rock had been freshly removed and carried to the spot where the murdered man was discovered.

Mr. Mayfield was 83 years of age and owned about $20,000 of real estate. His remains were interred on Wednesday.

A coroner's inquest was held, and a verdict was rendered in accordance with the above statements. No arrest has as yet been made, but ere the TIMES makes another appearance, the perpetrator of the foul deed will be incarcerated behind the iron bars of the Lewis county jail, charged with the crime. Suspicion is very strong.

The Portsmouth Times, August 27, 1887.

Correction on the spelling of "Engles", this should be spelled Ingles.

Obituary.

Miss Lena Dunbar, whose death occurred, Sunday, April 7th was a very estimable young lady. Born of Mr. and Mrs. Lon Dunbar, citizens of Fearis, Ky., on the East Fork of Cabin Creek, in Lewis county, she received that influence and training that only devoted parents could give, whose ambition and love for the best things of this life created such interest. Her protracted illness was borne with great patience, and her Christian fortitude in the endurance of severe pain and the sorrowing of loved ones at her departure for her heavenly home, mingled now and then with kindly wishes and tender warnings from her pale lips upon which death was stealing, gave evidence of her faith in her Savior, and bore a blessed testimony for Him to those whose path to the grave will not be far hence. Her many friends miss her, and the vacancy in the home can never be filled until the happy eternal reunion takes place in the Home of Glory above.

OBITUARY.

(From the Vanceburg Times.)

Miss Lillie E. Biggar, daughter of Mr. Thomas Biggar, of Manchester, Ohio, died Monday, the 15th, inst of dropsy, having been an intense sufferer for the past year.

She was just entering womanhood and was an accomplished young lady. She was modest, amiable, interesting and possessed all those traits that so beautifully blend and harmonize in the true woman. She gave an example of christian fortitude by her patient suffering that is seldom witnessed, even in one of more mature years. She was a loving and obedient daughter, a devoted sister and a true and faithful friend. Death is sad at any time of life and it is extremely difficult for us to become reconciled when one so young, and whose life gave such promise, is taken from our midst. It is true that in the literature of mourning we can find no expression to fittingly tell our sorrow, yet I know of nothing which more nearly approaches a just tribute to her memory than the following:

"No field of war ever witnessed greater valor, more perfect, smiling courage, than this poor, weak woman displayed upon the bed of pain and death. Her life was gentle and sublime. She loved the good and all the good loved her; but there is this consolation: She can never suffer more; she can never again feel the chill of death; never again part from those she loves. Her heart can break no more, she has shed her last tear, and upon her stainless brow has been set the wondrous seal of everlasting peace."

To the family and relations I would say, although in the hour of unutterable grief, your sorrow is too sacred to be shared and too deep to be reached by any earthly comfort that I express to you.

Obituary.

Eliza Lee Dunbar was born September 1, 1877. At the early age of 13 she became a member of the Ebenezer Presbyterian Church, of which she remained a member until the time of her death, which occurred November 5, 1901.

On April 10, 1901, she was married to Mr. C. T. Carr, to whom she proved herself a most faithful, loving and devoted wife.

During all the long weary weeks of her suffering which terminated in her untimely death she always manifested that patience and gentleness of Christian grace that drew her friends closer to her, and made all who knew her love her more devotedly.

It is difficult for human wisdom to understand the ways of divine Providence, and to know why such a life should have been brought to a close in its very bloom. Indeed it may truly be said of her, "Her sun hath gone down while it was yet day." Yet all the sorrowing friends who walk now "under the shadow," have the assurance that God knows best, and that "His judgments are true and righteous altogether."

"For we shall shortly know the lengthened breath
Is not the sweetest gift God sends
To a friend,
And that, sometimes the sable fall
Of death
Conceals the fairest boon His love
Can send."

DEATH OF MISS MARY BIGGAR.

Mary J. Biggar was born at Maysville, Ky., March 5, 1858, and died at her home near Trinity, Ky., Tuesday morning, July 16, 1912, being 54 years, 4 months and 11 days old. She united with the Sand Hill Christian church in childhood. When the family moved to Manchester her membership was moved to the Presbyterian church, this place. When they returned to the farm her membership was taken back to the home church. She has been a lifetime member and worker in the churches. At the time of her death she was a teacher in the Sand Hill Sunday school and was a prominent member of the Ladies' Aid Society at that place. She was always ready and willing to do her share in the work of the church. She was liberal in the support of the Lord's work and in the care of the poor and unfortunate. Her home life was ideal. The influence of her life will always be a benediction to her family and friends. She came to the end of life peacefully. Only a short time before her death she told the family that if it was the Lord's will she would like to be spared a few more years to the family, church and friends; if not, she was ready and willing to go. Thus, there passed from time to eternity, and from the preparatory life to the life everlasting one of God's chosen children, and may the sweet incense from her memory ever remain to cheer and point us heavenward. She is the daughter of the late Thomas Biggar, Sr., and is survived by two brothers, Thomas Biggar, Jr., of Trinity, Ky., James Biggar, of Saint Peter, Minn., and one sister, Mrs. J. D. Williams, of West Union. The funeral services were held at the home Thursday at 1 p. m., conducted by Rev. Dampier, assisted by Revs. Dapp and McIntire, of Manchester. Interment in the Odd Fellows cemetery.

The below story was taken from Dr. William Talley's newspaper column that ran in the Lewis County Herald that were removed from THE SUN dated June 27, 1912 and the other was removed from THE SUN Feb. 6, 1913. The copy in this paper is a little different than the one that was carried in THE SUN but, there is not a whole lot of differences in the two stories.

There.. June 27, 1912 issue:

MURDER: Crit Miller was shot and almost instantly killed, and Charles Miller was shot and dangerously wounded by Tom Shaw, near the Valley, Sunday. Shaw said he had taken a blanket out in the year and was asleep under the shade of a tree when Crit and Charles Miller came along the road and began abusing him, and calling him names. He told them to go on as he did not want to have any trouble with them. They had evidently been drinking and commenced to throw rocks at him and said they would kill him. He ran into the house and secured his shotgun and they followed him to the door.

He fired two shots. One took effect in the right side of Crit Miller's face and neck and he staggered away and fell in the bed of the creek, dying in a few minutes. The other shot struck Charles Miller in the face but he managed to run away. He was attended by Dr. Talbot Ginn, who found 26 shot in his face. He will recover. Coroner Wells found 75 pellets in Miller's face and neck and an open knife in one of Miller's pockets and a rock in the other. Immediately after the shooting Shaw came to town and gave himself up the Sheriff. Shaw is about 35 and married. He is the son of Capt. Eugene Shaw. His brother was killed at Valley by John Ryan about 15 years ago. Crit Miller was about 25 and unmarried. Charles Miller is about 35 and is married.

The Cincinnati Enquirer stated the quarrel started over the borrowing of a shotgun by Mrs. Charles Miller from Mrs. Thomas Shaw. It is alleged that Mrs. Miller borrowed the gun for the avowed purpose of killing her husband but he destroyed the weapon.

"Death of the Pioneers"

Another one of our old citizens is gone. One by one they pass away, until there will soon be not one left of those who were of the first settlers in this part of the country.

James Cox was born in Lewis County, Kentucky, Oct. 26th, 1815; and died at his home in Wabash County, Indiana, three and a half miles south of Roann, March 24th, 1880.

Amanda Cox (nee Davis) was born in Greenup County, Kentucky, December 16th, 1818; and died at her home, as above given, March 22nd, 1880, having preceded her husband by only a few hours. The disease was lung fever.

More than a mere passing notice would seem to be appropriate of these persons, as they have been so intimately connected with the development of the two counties of Wabash and Miami; for, although they lived in Wabash County, their farm was on the line, so that outside of the bare terms of voting and tax-paying they were regarded as belonging as much to Miami as to Wabash.

On the 11th day of January, 1838, in Rush County, Indiana, they were united in the holy bands of wedlock, and seldom if ever, do we find a happier union. They twain were indeed one.

At the time of their marriage, the chances for a young couple, with small capital, to secure a home for themselves in the older parts of Indiana, and as they had heard glowing accounts of the Wabash country, they determined to seek their fortune and build up for themselves a home in .... new country. Mr. Cox had secured 160 acres of land a year or two before he was married. His brother-in-law, Robert Miller, moved in the fall of 1837 to a tract of land adjoining the piece which Mr. Cox had secured. In the spring of 1838--just a few weeks after his marriage--he left his young and beautiful bride with her mother in Rush County, and came out and rented a piece of ground of Mr. McClure, four miles below Wabash, for corn. After the crop was tended, he sent for his young bride, who joined him in the latter part of the summer. This trip was not much by rail, as would be likely to be done now, nor in a nice, comfortable buggy, but in this wise; Robert Miller had business which called him back to Fayette County, Indiana. Mr. Cox provided an extra horse, which Mr. Miller led with him. When his business was attended to, he started for home, going by where Mrs. Cox was staying with her mother and putting the saddle (furnished by the mother as a part of her outfit) upon the extra horse, she started to join her husband over 100 miles away, completing the journey in some four or five days. I will not attempt a description of the scene when they met; it may be imagined, perhaps, but not described. Such heroic devotion is seldom equaled and never surpassed.

Mr. Cox then cut logs and built himself a cabin (12 x 15) on their own land, where he and his young wife commenced housekeeping. If it would not make this article too lengthy, many incidents might be related to show what kind of courage it required in the early settling of this Wabash and Eel River country. When they moved into their cabin, the nearest neighbor was a mile and a half distant, and in all other directions, from four to six miles to the nearest house. All a dense woods in every direction, where the wolves were heard to howl almost constantly by night, and bands of Indians were frequently seen roaming about by day. Here they toiled and labored and rejoiced together, and success attended their efforts. Let on one say this was a sad and lonely home; far from it--this grand and heroic woman made everything sunshine about where she was; her sweet, clear voice rang out through the dense woods as she took up the milk pail in the summer evening and went to milk the cows. So it was about her work in the house, and so it was everywhere; humble as was the home, it was always filled with sunshine.

By their united exertions, a large farm was opened up, the cabin gave place to a more convenient and substantial home, and the old stable was replaced by a good, substantial barn.

James and Amanda Cox were blessed with quite a large family of children,-- three boys and five girls, all but one of whom are still living. Their son, George F. Cox, served his country faithfully as a soldier in the 8th Ind. Reg., and died at home some twelve years ago. This was the only death in the family for 42 years.

Their last illness was of short duration. Mrs. Cox was taken sick on Tuesday morning, March 16th, and her husband on the evening of the same day--both with lung fever. They were not thought to be seriously sick until Saturday or Sunday. On Wednesday, many of the neighbors and friends were shocked with the news that "Aunt Amanda" as she was familiarly called, was dead and that "Uncle Jim" could last but a short time at the farthest. He lingered along till Wednesday evening, when he also died, at a few minutes past six. Mrs. Cox died the Monday evening previous, a few minutes before nine. Thus they labored together, rejoiced together, and died almost together.

The most beautiful and impressive scene that was ever witnessed by this community, presented itself at this home of sorrow and bereavement; when the mother died, there was a bare possibility (but no probability) that the father might recover, so the funeral of the mother was deferred, and when the father died, they were laid out together side by side, and so they were taken to the church together at Paw Paw, where a very impressive sermon was delivered by Rev. L. W. Munson, assisted by Rev. D. Markley, to the largest audience ever brought together on a similar occasion in this vicinity. The entire congregation was wonderfully moved during these solemn services. They were then laid away together side by side in the church-yard, where they await the sounding of the trumpet of God at the last day, "when all who are in the grave shall hear his voice, and shall come forth," "when the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God, and they that hear shall live."

They were both faithful and consistent members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, having connected themselves with the same nearly 50 years ago. They were members of the first class of seven organized in the Paw Paw neighborhood, and, remarkable as it may seem, only one of the seven died before them, and three others still remain connected with the class; the class was formed over 40 years ago. They will be greatly missed by a large number of friends and relatives, both in the social and religious circle.

May their children emulate their example of piety and devotion, that they may meet them in the fair, shining sphere. The most appropriate remark which suggests itself to my mind with regard to "Aunt Amanda" is what was said of Dorcas, "This woman was full of good works and almsdeeds, which she did." (Written by: S. C. Miller, Paw Paw, Miami Co., Ind., March 17, '80).

AUBREY RENCHEN

My country 'tis of thee,
Sweet land of liberty.

Just as the sun had set in the golden west and the shades of night were approaching on Mother Earth, Saturday, October 26, 1918, the sad news came to another mother of the death of her son, Aubrey. He, being the youngest son of Joseph and Mary I. Renchen, was born September 1, 1900.

He enlisted in the U.S. Army service July 27, 1918. He was in camp only a short time and while on board the vessel, Otranto, sailing over that briny sea for France, death overtook him, October 6th, 1918. This indeed was a shock to the entire community as Aubrey was liked by all. He had a very sweet disposition and always a ray of sunshine went before him. We can say that he is one among many brave heroes that have given their lives for their country. And what more could one do than lay down his life for his fellowmen. He has three brothers in the service, Custer in France, Russell in camp, and Desmond either in camp or in France.

We cannot tell why that Aubrey's life should be so brief, but God knows best. And we feel assured that there is One who will lead him across the silent river and that the pearly gates will be in readiness. Our heartfelt sympathy goes out to the grief stricken mother, sisters, and brothers. Our prayers are that God will comfort this sorrowing family and may they realize that all things work together for good to them that love the Lord.

Dearest, Aubrey, thou has left us,
And our loss we deeply feel.
But it's God that has bereft us,
He can all our sorrows heal.
Yet, again, we hope to meet thee,
When the day of life is fled
When in Heaven in joy to greet thee,
Where no farewell tear is shed.
(In tears, His Relatives)

MRS. ROCH HENDRICKSON

Friends and relatives here were certainly shocked to hear of the death of Mrs. Roch Hendrickson at her home at Martin of heart trouble Friday morning about 6 o'clock. She was the daughter of Mr. Tom Blunt and although not having lived in this community but since her father moved here some few years ago, she would visit here quite often and made many acquaintances that are sorry to know of her passing away. She is survived by her husband, one son and several grandchildren and her aged father, one brother, Elmer Blunt, of Tollesboro. (Note: May 1928, buried Salem Cemetery.)
