Petitions to the County Commissioners for the setting off of Townships

Given below is an actual example for the township of Randolph. The texts for the other townships will be omitted as they all say basically the same thing. In those cases where the text has been omitted the list of petitioners has been given with the name of the township and date of the petition.

State of Ohio) To the Honourable the Board of County Commissioners.
 Portage County) The petition of the subscribers, inhabitants of Randolph and Suffield November 1810) humbly Sheweth

That the Settlement in Springfield township is nearly twenty miles in length--that bad roads and bad weather often render it almost impossible for a considerable proportion of the electors to attend elections--that the convenience of the inhabitants of Springfield township require a division of said township therefore

Your Petitioners request that Randolph and Suffield (i. e. No. 1 in the 8th and 9th Ranges) be set off as a separate township and be named RANDOLPH and your petitioners as in duty bound will ever pray

THE SHAKERS OF CUYAHOGA COUNTY, OHIO
Pioneers of the Western Reserve
Excerpts* by Esther W. Powell

For a period of two-thirds of a century there existed eight miles southeast of the Public Square, in Cleveland, Ohio, a community known as the Shakers, but calling themselves The Millenium Church of the United Believers. Their location they called North Union. The North Union community has passed into history. These people, who secluded themselves from society, should be remembered for many reasons, and especially because they may justly be denominated as pioneers of the Western Reserve. When the Society was dissolved and what year the land was sold is not exactly known. The land owned by them is now called Shaker Heights.

The signing of the Covenant was not only consecrating their own energies to the cause they had espoused, but also the absolute surrender of all their possessions to the church. The Society had absolute control of 1,366 acres. The Covenant was signed 28 September 1828 by the following persons:

Wm. Andrews		Emma Russell
Hannah Addison	Wm. Johnson	Esther Russell
Phebe Andrews	James S. Prescott	Jerusha Russell 1st
Clarinda Baird	Chester Risley	Jerusha Russell 2nd

Later in the fall of 1828 16 more brethren and 27 sisters signed the same document, making in all 80 members.

THE RUSSELL FAMILY: The origin of the North Union Community was largely due to the Russells, both in point of zeal and number.

There were three brothers who emigrated from England between the years 1730 and 1745 and settled in or near Hebron and East Windsor, Conrecticut. Their names were John, Jacob, and William Russell. William once lived in West Windsor, Connecticut. His son Samuel born ca 1714 died in Windsor at the age of 65 years and buried there. He had four brothers, Ebenezer, Ellis, Jonathan, and Hezekiah. Samuel had six children, Jacob, Stephen, Cornelius, John, Elizabeth, and Rachel. Elizabeth married Ebenezer Young a descendant of Miles Standish. Rachel married a man by the name of Cook of Cherry Valley, N.Y. John the fourth son of Samuel married Polly Thrall, had a family and died in Rodman, N.Y., 22 June 1844.

Jacob, the eldest son of Samuel was born in West Windsor, Connecticut, 26 April 1746; married Esther Dunham of Hebron, Connecticut where he lived for 66 years. They had:

In the year 1812 Jacob Russell with a number of his sons emigrated to Ohio and settled in Warrensville Twp., Cuyahoga County, Ohio, where he died 29 August 1821, aged 75 years and was buried there. His wife Esther died in Solon, 16 September 1835, aged 85 years, and was buried at Chagrin Falls. On his way to Ohio he was accompanied by families of Elisha Russell and Nathaniel E. Risley, his son-in-law, in all about 20 persons. They started to Ohio June 13th and arrived in Warrensville the latter part of August. Their neighbors were the families of James Prentiss, Asa Stiles, and Daniel Warren.

Notes on the Warren Family

THE progenitors of at least four distinct families of Warren have contributed to what may be called the New York Warrens. First, Richard Warren of the "Mayflower," some of whose descendants in the line of Samuel Warren, of Middleborough, Massachusetts (who was born 7 March, 1682, and died about January, 1750), are known to have removed to New York, and to have settled near the "Patent of Nine Partners," in Dutchess County. Second, Arthur Warren, of Weymouth, Massachusetts, whose grandson, Jacob Warren, born circa 1668, and died 3 September, 1727, became one of the founders of the town and church of Plainfield, Connecticut. Some descendants of the latter, through his son Ephraim, settled, about 1760, in Amenia, Dutchess County. Third, John Warren, of Watertown, Massachusetts, whose great-grandson, John Warren, removed to Newburgh, Orange County. Fourth, Peter Warren, the ancestor of General Joseph Warren, of the Revolution, who, through his grandson Ebenezer Warren, had descendants who settled in or near Yonkers, Westchester County. And to these must be added Richard Waring, of Brookhaven, Long Island, many of whose descendants, through his sons Richard, Edmund, Michael, and John, spell the name Warren, and among whom may be mentioned Eliakim Warren, of Troy (1717-79), and John Warren, of Southeast, in Dutchess (now Putnam) County (1736-1809).

Just when Samuel Warren', the ancestor of the Warrens of the Highlands, settled in Eastchester or Westchester has not been ascertained, but he was surveyor of highways for Long Reach, in the latter town, 6 May, 1728. (Westchester Town Records, v. 203.) Nor has his relation to the before-mentioned families been settled. There is a tradition among some of his descendants that he was of "Mayflower" stock, and still others hold that he descended from Peter Warren, of Boston. And the latter is the greater probability, though the destruction of the Warren papers, on the one hand, and the meagreness of public record of Peter Warren's descendants of that period, on the other, render the matter difficult of solution.

On 30 November, 1730, Samuel Warren, then of Eastchester, purchased of John Drake, of the same place, a certain parcel of land lying in the new patent of Eastchester, bounded by the road that led from Rattlesnake Brook to Bronx River (Westchester County Deeds, G, 75), and under date of 27 November, 1732, in consideration of £115 7s. 6d., he purchased of the executors of Thomas Gardner, all the lands that had been in the possession of said Gardner, together with a "twenty-five pound privilege of commonage," the land being described as lying "on the east side of Bronx River adjacent to the country road leading to Eastchester in that range of lots known by the name of Long Reach, together with a house standing thereon." (Westchester County Deeds, G, 213.) On 2 February, 1735, he purchased of John Jones, of Eastchester, certain other lands in that place. (Ibid., G, 347.) He also bought of Stephen Williams, of Eastchester, lands described in Mr. Warren's bill of sale of 7 January, 1737, in which his wife Sarah joins, as bounded by the country road leading from Boston to New York. (Ibid., G, 211, 230.) It was upon this highway that his house was situated. (Deed of Drake to Barnes, Ibid., G, 207, 208.) Prior to 16 July, 1742, he sold some portions of the lands thus purchased to Stephen Williams, as is shown by the will of said Williams of that date. Some time after this he removed to the Van Cortlandt Manor, and is supposed to be the Samuel Warren who was in possession of farm No. 3 in that manor, 1 May, 1767, and is so described in a deed of that date, from Michael Mekeel and Milche his wife to Nathan Whitney. (Westchester Deeds, H, 469.)

The date of Mr. Warren's death is not known, nor that of his wife's, and there seems to be no record proof of his family; but he is thought to have been the father of Daniel Warren, Peter Warren, John Warren, Samuel Warren, Elizabeth Warren, who married, 13 January, 1763, Richard Rogers (Rombout Church Records), and possibly of the Stephen Warren who enlisted in Captain William Gilchrist's company of Colonial Troops, 20 April, 1761, and was then aged twenty-two years, and entered as born in Westchester County. Of these, Peter, John, and Samuel are known to have been brothers.

DANIEL WARREN[?], above named, was of Cortlandt Manor, 12 May, 1761, when he appears as a witness to a deed from Andrew Johnson, Esq., of Perth Amboy, New Jersey, to Caleb Hall and David Stanley, of Cortlandt. He was pound-master in 1763, and constable in 1767, after which date his name disappears from the records of this manor. In 1771/72 his name is among the taxables of Philips precinct, Dutchess County.

PETER WARREN[?], supposed son of Samuel Warren, was of the Manor of Cortlandt, where he entered his cattle-mark, "a swallow fork in the near ear," 6 May, 1766. (Records of Yorktown.) In 1773, he was tax-collector and constable for the Southern (Philipse) District of Dutchess County, and he is on the tax-lists of that precinct until 1779, when his widow Thamer appears. He probably died about 1779, although his estate was not administered upon until 7 October, 1781. (New York Wills, ii. 188.) He married three times,—first, Ann, daughter of John Rogers, by his wife Hester Verveelen, who was living at the date of her father's will, 5 November, 1776, and deceased at the execution of a deed by the heirs of said John Rogers, 8 February, 1777. (See sketch of Samuel Warren.) He married, second, a daughter of Thomas Davenport of Philipstown. His third wife was Thamer, daughter of Elisha Covert, of Cortlandt Manor, whom he had married before 23 September, 1779, when both husband and wife are named in the will of said Covert. (Pelletreau's Wills.) She survived him, and married Captain Samuel Jefferds, a gallant officer of the Revolution, and a member of the Society of the Cincinnati, who after the war resided in Philipstown, now Putnam County. He died in August, 1804, aged fifty-two years, having but one child, Samuel Jefferds. Mrs. Jefferds died 8 March, 1829, aged eighty years, and is buried in St. Peter's graveyard at Peekskill. Peter Warren's children were:

1. Peter Warren^s.
2. James Warren^s.
3. John Warren^s.
4. Beverly Warren^s, who was called grandson in the will of Thomas Davenport, dated 29 September, 1797 (Dutchess Wills, B, 91, 92), by which he was left the "improvement of the farm he now liveth upon, lying at the fourth corner of the low field by the road and running a straight line to the fourth corner of Cat Hill field, from thence on the same line to John Warren's line." Beverly Warren^s married Margaret, daughter of Isaiah Krankheyt, by whom he had:
 1. John Warren^s, who removed to Rochester in 1829.
 2. James Warren^s.
 3. Henry Warren^s.
 4. Peter Warren^s.
 5. Margaret Warren^s.
 6. Louisa Warren^s.
7. Jeremiah Warren^s, who married Eleanor, daughter of Cornelius Thomas by his wife Elizabeth Libbey, and granddaughter of Captain John Libbey, and had issue:
 1. Sylvanus Warren^s, married Susan Birdsall.
 2. Eliza Warren^s, married William Hughes.
 3. Isaiah C. Warren^s, married Samantha Knapp.
 4. Eleanor Amanda Warren^s, married Edgar Brown.
 5. Maria Ann Warren^s, married Nathaniel Surrene.
 6. Athalinda Warren^s, married James Heroy.
 7. Henrietta Warren^s, married James, son of William Rogers.
 8. Christina Warren^s, married Frank Hanson.

MAJOR GENERAL GOVERNOR KEESLE WARREN. 1830-1882

Notes on the Warren Family

JOHN WARREN², the third named among the supposed children of Samuel Warren, was on the tax-list of Philipse Precinct for 1771 and 1779, and is he who enlisted, 5 May, 1778, for nine months in the Second Company, Second Regiment of the New York Line, Captain Benjamin Pelton, Colonel Van Cortlandt, and was discharged 17 February, 1779. Both John and Peter Warren made application for land bounty for Revolutionary service as members of the Seventh Dutchess County militia. (New York in the Revolution.) One John Warren, possibly he above, by wife Jerusha, had sons Peter and John, baptized at Crum Elbow, 9 November, 1760. (Records of St. George's, Hempstead, Long Island.)

SAMUEL WARREN², a brother of Peter², and presumably a son of Samuel, before named, was settled in the Highlands in the Southern District or Philipse Precinct in 1766, as is evidenced by the following letter from Mrs. Livingston to her husband, Judge Livingston:

"CLERMONT, July 12th, 1766.

"With joy I embrace this opportunity of conversing with you, by the 'Maner Sloop,' since it is the only way now left of conveying our sentiments to each other. We set out from New York in so great a hurry that I could not give myself the pleasure of seeing or the pain of parting with you. We had a very pleasant ride the first day, which brought us to Croton. Here we were detained until the next day by rain, but it is impossible to describe this day's journey; the crags, precipices and mountains, that we had a view of, together with the excessive badness of the roads, that were laid bare by streams of water taking their course through the midst, which made it very disagreeable to me. We could go no further that day than Warren's, who lives in the midst of the Highlands, but the next day made up for the fatigue of this. We had a most charming journey the remainder of the way. We breakfasted at Van Wyck's who lives at Fishkill; dined at Poughkeepsie, slept at Rhinebeck, where we arrived at six o'clock. The next morning which was Sunday, we came home at nine o'clock, and found the family all in good health and spirits. . . ."

The tax-lists of the Southern District of Dutchess County do not commence until 1771, in which year Samuel Warren's name appears, and continues until 1775, when "Samuel Warren's farm" takes the place of his name. His homestead was on the old post road to Albany, on the crest of the Highlands south of Nelson's Mills. Erskine's military map of 1781 locates a line of barracks along the post road near the Warren homestead and in view of West Point and vicinity.

Mr. Warren was killed in 1774/75, by a fall at Franklindale Bridge, and was buried in his orchard. He married, 13 January, 1763, Esther, daughter of John Rogers, of the Highlands, by his wife Hester Verveelen. Through her mother Mrs. Warren represented not only the early Dutch settlers of New York, but several

CAPTAIN JOHN WARREN^s, the eldest son of Samuel and Esther (Rogers) Warren, was born in the Highlands-on-Hudson, 15 March, 1765, was baptized 22 February, 1767 (Rombout Church Records), and died in the Highlands, 1 September, 1837. On 4 March, 1805, he purchased of Amos Belden two hundred and fifty acres of land in Philipstown, which he shortly afterwards reconveyed to the said Amos Belden. (Dutchess County Deeds, xii. 633.) He afterwards purchased sundry other tracts of land in Philipstown, one from Thomas Searles, bordering partly on the farm of Peter Warren, Highland turnpike, road leading to the river, and Cat Hill; another, under date of 28 June, 1821, from Frederick Philipse and Maria his wife (Putnam Deeds, B, 13-15); one from Edward Buckbee, sheriff of Putnam County, 9 October, 1826, which he conveyed to Joseph Parks, 30 November, 1832 (H, 164); and still another from Samuel Gouverneur and Mary his wife, by deed of 1 May, 1832 (L, 42-44; M, 245). His home farm, of several hundred acres, lay at the junction of Highland turnpike and the old post road. About 1805 he built a mill on the stream that flowed near by where the mill of James Nelson now stands. He executed his will 21 January, 1837, under which his legatees were sons Cornelius, Henry, and Sylvanus (who were also the executors thereof), John, and Samuel; grandsons Sylvanus D. and Isaac, children of son John; grandchildren Henry Blake's History of Putnam County, New York, published in 1849, ends a somewhat lengthy notice of John Warren, Esq., in these words: "He aspired to no higher distinction than that of a plain practical farmer, which he was. The purity of his motives and the honesty of his heart were never questioned; and in all the relations of life he never gave just cause of offence to his neighbor. He died, regretted and beloved by all who knew him, in 1837, in the seventy-second year of his age. His children, so far as we know them, inherit his virtues."

He married, in 1783, Sarah Nelson, daughter of Justus Nelson by his wife Mary Haight, born 1 January, 1766; died 2 November, 1833, and was buried beside her husband in St. Philip's church-yard. Children, all born in Philipstown:

PREFACE.

IN the earliest colonial times, from the arrival of Richard Warren, in the "Mayflower," at Plymouth, Mass., in 1620, and of his brother, John, with Governor Winthrop's company, in the "Arbella," in 1630, there are some six or eight men of the name of Warren recorded as settlers in different towns in Massachusetts, with no known relation between them.

The line that is here traced springs from one of the original immigrants, as Arthur, the first of the line that has been established, was in Weymouth, Mass., before 1638. A long and exhaustive research of the archives of many cities and towns has, thus far, been but scantily rewarded; neither his father's nor his mother's names could be found, nor that English home from whence he came. It was not until the family gathered in Townsend, Mass., and began to increase in numbers, and to be of weight in the community, that connected events could be collected. Of these, many a pleasant memory remains, and I have caused them to be gathered together and to be set forth here, for the benefit of those who may hereafter wish to hear all that was known of the lives, characters, and deeds of those from whom they have derived life, and the force by which that life is to be developed and controlled.

In this work, I have been largely indebted to the kindness of many of the members of our line, who have freely given me that which pertained to their families and to their own personal history. I have taken extracts from Sawtell's History of West Townsend, Mass., and from various other sources. To each and to all of these good friends, who have responded so cordially, I here offer my hearty thanks for their ready co-operation, and for their willingness to lend their aid.

But my warmest expression of gratitude is to be given to my cousin, Mary Parker Warren, who, only, was properly fitted to be the historian of the family by her strong, tenacious memory, exactness of record, and talent for keeping the time in which events transpired. Some of the incidents were related by her father, Levi Warren, of Newton, Mass., and many were told by her uncles and aunts in their frequent visits to their brother's home. These she carefully treasured, and then added them to some legal papers which had been gathered by an earlier member of the family to aid in tracing it back to its ancestral home in England. And, during these later years, although involved in the busy cares of a household, yet she spent a great deal of time in carefully searching out all matters needful to give a true picture of each of these, her immediate ancestors, so as to render the narrative as truthful and perfect as it could be.

I am also indebted to the courtesy of Mrs. Mary Collins Dwight, and to her sister, Mrs. Emily Warren Appleton, daughters of Dr. John C. Warren, for permission to use the copy of the Warren arms, which is here reproduced.

Just as the last sheets of this book were going through the press, Mr. Moses Conant Warren, after a brief illness, passed away from this life, Wednesday, Oct. 1, 1890.

This book had been one of the most absorbing interests of his life for some twenty years, and our regret is keen that he could not have stayed with us long enough to have seen its completion. A rheumatic affection, from which he had suffered for the last year, induced him to try the baths of Sharon Springs, N. Y. Recalled from there by business engagements, he returned to them in September, hoping to effect a radical cure. A short time after his arrival there, he had a severe paralytic shock, and came directly to his home in Brookline, where he was with us but three brief weeks before he gave up that good life which had been so great a happiness to us all.

The effect on his business associates will be well shown by the accompanying notice:—

DEATH OF MOSES C. WARREN.

It is with sincere regret that we learn of the death of our esteemed friend and associate, Moses C. Warren, "the senior member of the hardware trade in this city," who for nearly fifty years has been in active business life. We would hereby express our high appreciation of his character, and bear witness to his strict integrity and uniform courtesy in all his dealings with his fellow-men.

His genial influence and kindness, associated with a conscientious regard for the right, have always commanded the confidence of all, and inspired the feeling that in him were combined the honorable merchant and noble Christian man.

We extend our warmest sympathy to the family of our departed friend, and, as a further expression of our respect and regard for him, will close our places of business during the hour appointed for the funeral services.

A BRANCH OF THE WARREN FAMILY.

"WILLIAM, earl of Warren, a Norman baron of Danish descent, was the first of the name known on English soil. He accompanied William the Conqueror on his expedition to England, and took an important part in the battle of Hastings, fought Oct. 14, 1066. For his valor that day, he was rewarded with lands in Sussex, Surrey, Norfolk, Suffolk, and had conferred on him the earldom of Surrey, by William.

"Before the conquest, his residence was at Bellecombe, in Normandy; after it, he dwelt in the village of Lewes, County Sussex, England. He married Gundreda, the fourth daughter of William, and became the progenitor of the earls of Warren and of Surrey. From this ancestry, the Warrens are followed down through earls, knights, and commoners, to the period of the settlement of America."—Extract from Dr. J. C. Warren's Genealogy of the Warren Family.

The ancestors of that branch of the Warren family which took root in Chelmsford, Mass., brought with them wills, deeds, and papers which would have cleared many a doubt, had they not been carelessly destroyed by one who did not understand their importance. It was always told in the early legends that they started from Salem, Mass., but in default of the writing that would have corroborated this, recourse was had to State, county, and town records, and much to the surprise of all interested, Weymouth gave the first data.

Unfortunately, all the earliest accounts of Weymouth were neglected or unkept, in the struggles by the various companies to effect a settlement, and by those of the clergymen to make good their positions; so that any one who strives to make clear a line that begins in these years, meets with insurmountable obstacles.

A search in the Boston books and those of Weymouth brought to light the name of Arthur¹ Warren as a resident in the latter town before 1638. He was a petitioner for a grant in the Narraganset lands; owned land in Weymouth, 1651; in 1663, his widow had a lot; in 1668, Samuel Pratt bought land of Arthur Warren's children.

The date of his marriage, the surname of his wife, Mary, are unknown. The birth of his children, as found on the Boston books, was:

1. ARTHUR², b. Nov. 17, 1639.
2. ABIGAIL², b. Oct. 27, 1640.
3. JACOB², b. Oct. 26, 1642.

The other towns give the names of:

4. JOSEPH².
5. FEARNOT², b. June, 1655.

The children removed to Chelmsford, Mass. ARTHUR² married Abigail, the daughter of John Rogers, of Billerica, Mass. He died April 25, 1671; his wife died the 15th of the following June, and in her will she commends "her poor fatherless and motherless babe" to the care of her father, John Rogers, of Billerica, Mass. Their son, Arthur³, was born Sept. 2, 1668.

ABIGAIL² married John Wright, of Woburn, Mass., who was born in England, 1630, died in Woburn, April 30, 1714.

JACOB² removed to Chelmsford, Mass., 1666, and was made freeman 1674. He married (1st) Mary Hildreth, June 21, 1667.

THEIR CHILDREN, BORN IN CHELMSFORD, WERE:

1. JOSEPH³, b. Oct. 25, 1670; d. 1740.
2. ELIZABETH³, b. March 3, 1674.
3. EPHRAIM³, b. June 24, 1680.

Mary (Hildreth) Warren died —. He married (2d) Sarah —. They had:

SARAH², b. March 3, 1684.

Jacob removed to Plainfield, Conn., where he died Sept. 3, 1727.

JOSEPH³, the oldest child of Jacob and Mary (Hildreth) Warren, married Ruth Wheeler, March 11, 1696.

THEIR CHILDREN WERE:

1. ELIZABETH⁴, b. Dec. 9, 1696.
2. JOSEPH⁴, b. April 5, 1699; d. Sept. 30, 1769.
3. JACOB⁴, b. Dec. 13, 1700.
4. THOMAS⁴, b. March 5, 1704. his son Thomas⁵ = Sarah⁵ and Peter⁶ of Hanover N. H.
5. EPHRAIM⁴, b. Dec. 6, 1707.
6. RUTH⁴, b. Aug. 23, 1711.
7. JOHN⁴, b. July 25, 1714; chosen deacon of the church at Chelmsford, Mass., 1749; removed to Townsend, 1764.

EPHRAIM⁴, the fifth child of Joseph³ and Ruth (Wheeler) Warren, was born in Chelmsford, where the greater part of his life was passed. He married Esther, a daughter of Thomas and Esther Parker. The Parkers were one of the oldest and best known families in that town. About the year 1773, Ephraim⁴ Warren removed to Townsend, where he bought from his son, Ephraim⁵, who had preceded him, a lot of land which extended from the meeting-house to Thomas Warren's estate, for which he paid £200. He also purchased another piece of land, which lay on the east side of what was then called the Warren Road. He was an honest, upright man, of plain, unassuming manners. He died at an advanced age, in 1788.

HIS CHILDREN WERE:

1. EPHRAIM, Jr.⁵, b. Dec. 16, 1731; d. Nov. 10, 1812.
2. JOHN⁵, b. Sept. 14, 1733; d. about 1813.
3. ESTHER⁵, b. April 27, 1735; d. Feb. 13, 1812.
4. ISAAC⁵, b. Jan. 30, 1737; d. Oct. 14, 1812.

PREFACE.

THESE pages contain a fairly complete record of five generations, in the male line, of the descendants of Richard Warren, the twelfth Signer of the Mayflower Compact. Pages three to twenty-three are reprinted from the January and April numbers of the "New-England Historical and Genealogical Register," and those that follow are additions thereto. The writer would be glad to have her attention called to any errors or omissions, and would be sincerely grateful for further information concerning numbers 20, 25, 26, 27, 28 and 29, and she hopes that the data here collected may attract the interest and arouse the enthusiasm of members of the Warren family, and that valuable additions from private sources may be added to the all too meagre records now existing of the descendants of the first Warren of America.

Since it has been proven beyond question, that Richard Warren's wife Elizabeth was not Elizabeth Ivatt of St. Dunolph, Aldgate (as was claimed in the Warren Genealogy, published in 1854, by Dr. John Collins Warren), it is hoped that interest will be stimulated among his many descendants, to ascertain who she really was, and to rescue from oblivion the English records of "grave Richard Warren" and his wife "Mistress Elizabeth."

RICHARD WARREN OF THE MAYFLOWER, AND SOME OF HIS DESCENDANTS.

RICHARD WARREN, the first of the Warren name in America, sailed from Plymouth, Eng., in the historic "Mayflower," 6 September, 1620 (O. S.) He was not of the Leyden Company, but joined the Pilgrims from London,* and he was one of the signers of the Compact framed in the cabin of the "Mayflower" while in Cape Cod Harbor, which was the first plat form of civil government in the new world, and which converted the band of unknown adventurers into an immortal Commonwealth. Morton, in his New England's Memorial, prints his name as twelfth in the list of signers, and Prince, in his New England Chronology adds the honorable prefix of "Mr." from the Register at the end of Bradford's folio manuscript. He was one of the third exploring party which was surprised by the Indians,† 18 December, 1620, at the spot since known as "The First Encounter,"‡ and, technically speaking, he was one of the first to land at Plymouth, 21 December, 1620, on what might be called the birth-day of New England.

Under the land division of 1623, Richard Warren's allotment, as one of the "Mayflower" passengers, fell in the north side of the town with William White, Edward Winslow, John Goodman, John Crackston, John Alden, Marie Chilton, Captain Myles Standish, Francis Eaton, Henry Sampson and Humilitie Cooper§; and under those who came in the "Ann," his lands were "on the other side of the towne towards Eele River," where he made his home, in the section later known as Wellington or Hobshole, and where he died in 1628. He also owned land along the shore of the present Warren's Cove.||

He was one of the nineteen signers of the Compact who survived the first winter. A cotemporaneous authority described him as "grave Richard Warren," "a man of integrity, justice and uprightness, of piety and serious religion," and as "a useful instrument during the short time he lived, bearing a deep share in the difficulties and troubles of the plantation." ¶

He married in England, Elizabeth ——,* who followed him to Plymouth in the "Ann" in 1623, accompanied by her daughters. Mrs. Warren was rated in the Plymouth tax list of 1632-3, and was one of the first purchasers of Dartmouth. A study of the early Plymouth records leads to the conclusion that she was a woman of force and social position in the community, and she is therein usually spoken of as "Mistress" Elizabeth Warren, a designation by no means common. And she is one of the rare instances in that early colony of continued widowhood. A glimpse of one side of her domestic life is to be had in connection with the prosecution by the General Court of her servant, Thomas Williams, 5 July, 1635, for "speaking profane & blasphemous speeches against yo^r majestie of God." "There being some dissention between him and his dame, she after other things, exhorted him to fear God & doe his duty."† Upon the marriage of her daughters, Mrs. Warren conveyed to their respective husbands certain lands, variously located at Eel River and Wellingsly.‡ She died at Plymouth, 2 October, 1673, aged above ninety years. For some unknown reason, unless there is a mistake in the record, she was not buried until the twenty-second day after her death, when it was entered on the records that she, "haucing liued a godly life, came to her graue as a shoke of worn fully ripe."§

*Her maiden name is not known. In the Warren Genealogy, published in 1854 by Dr. John Collins Warren, her name is given as Elizabeth Juatt. While it is true that a certain Richard Warren of Greenwich in Kent married Elizabeth, daughter of —— Ivatt and widow of —— Marsh, as appears in the 1620 visitation of Devon, there is no proof that that Richard Warren is the one who came to Plymouth. The late Horatio Gates Soimerby, who supplied the abstracts and copies of English records used by Dr. Warren, told me not many years before his death that he did not see proof sheets of Dr. Warren's book, and that he did not identify the Richard Warren of Plymouth and the John Warren of Watertown as the Richard and the John Warren of the Devonshire visitation. In the tabular pedigree at the end of Dr. Warren's book, he has assumed that the Richard and John of the visitation pedigree were the New England men. At the time when that book was published it was not unusual to assume connection with English families on evidence as slight as the similarity of names. Modern critical researches have overthrown many of such assumptions.

In this same tabular pedigree Peter Warren of Boston (great grand-father of Gen. Joseph Warren, who was killed at Bunker Hill) is given as the son of John Warren of Watertown. The late Dr. Henry Bond, compiler of Watertown Genealogies, told me that he had found ample proof that Peter Warren was not the son of John of Watertown.—JOHN WARD DEAN.

In 1872 the Harleian Society published an edition of the Devonshire Visitation of 1620, and in this edition the much discussed Warren Pedigree appeared, with the statement, "Inserted by later hand." That is was not the work of the visiting heralds of 1620, and that the John and Richard, named as sons of Christopher Warren of the pedigree, are not identical with Richard Warren of the Mayflower, and John Warren of Watertown, is clear from the following facts: Christopher Warren married Alice Webb, 16 June, 1613. His second son, John, was born in 1617, hence not the John Warren, "aged about 45 years," who emigrated to Massachusetts in 1630, in the fleet with Saltoustaill, and became the founder of the Warrrens of Watertown. Richard, the third son of Christopher Warren, was baptized at Sydenham Danrell, 15 August, 1619, and was five years younger than his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth March, who was not licensed to marry her first husband until 1629. The license reads: "March, Francis, gent., of Stepney, bachelor, 25, and Elizabeth Ivatt of St. Botolph, Abigale, spinster, 15, daughter of Oliver Ivatt, deceased, consent of Hugh Bourman her father (in law), of Westham, Essex, 20 August, 1629." (London Marriage Licenses.) This first marriage of Elizabeth (Ivatt) March was one year after Richard Warren, the Mayflower Pilgrim, had died at Plymouth, Massachusetts.—J. GRANVILLE LEACH.

INTRODUCTION.

IN a rough way the following genealogy may be said to include all those related within the sixth degree to the children of Samuel Dennis Warren and Susan Cornelia Clarke. Rigidly to have applied this test, however, would have been too laborious to the compiler and both confusing and unsatisfactory to the reader. A rule, therefore, was adopted which, while simpler in its application, substantially carried out the idea. The children of Samuel Dennis Warren and Susan Cornelia Clarke have been taken as the nucleus. For convenience let me call this nucleus N and give it a masculine personification. N's ancestors for six generations have been included, together with all the descendants of his four pairs of great-grandparents.

The object has been to bring home forcibly to N all that genealogy has to teach in regard to his composition. As a river draws from its tributaries, so man from his ancestry. The chemist can predict the character of the river from the character of its sources, and much that is similar can be done in the currents of human life.

But although this has been my object, and although I believe that the true field of the genealogical philosopher is larger and more important than has been commonly supposed, considerably transcending even what has been here indicated, no attempt has been made in this volume to construct any philosophic induction. The compiler has endeavored to accumulate the necessary data,—that is all. The lesser part of the task has been done; the greater remains. Even in what it attempts I am aware that this work is deficient. A more extended scale would have been desirable. This was begun but abandoned,—too many gaps and omissions would have necessarily appeared. Some of the material so collected, however, has been printed as an appendix. Another deficiency is the lack of detailed information, but for this we have to thank the scantiness of accessible records.

The names of the persons composing the skeleton of this work as above indicated are entered alphabetically. A number follows each of these names, denoting the degree of removal, genealogically, from N.

The degree of removal, or, which is the same, the degree of relationship, is determined in the following manner: A parent is considered to have half the same blood as a child, and vice versa. Children of the same parents are held to be identical in blood with each other. $\frac{1}{2}$ blood is held to correspond to the first degree of relationship, $\frac{1}{4}$ to the second, $\frac{1}{8}$ to the third, and so on; the degree always corresponding to the power of 2 represented by the denominator of the fraction, its numerator remaining unity. Where there is more than one line of blood relationship the fraction for each line is computed and the sum of these fractions is taken as the basis for computing the degree, which then often assumes the form of an improper fraction. This improper fraction has been represented in the following pages by the nearest decimal. It is to be noted, however, that no attention has been paid to giving value to any lines of relationship whose links are not all included in this work.

When the condition is not affected by the intermarriage of relatives, the application of the rule makes N's mother to be $\frac{1}{2}$ blood, or in the first degree; his grandmother $\frac{1}{4}$, or second degree; his great grandmother $\frac{1}{8}$, or third degree. His female first cousin would be $\frac{1}{2}$ of her father (or uncle, N's father), and therefore $\frac{1}{2} \times \frac{1}{2} = \frac{1}{4}$ of N = second degree. Her daughter would be $\frac{1}{2}$ of her, or $\frac{1}{8}$ of N = third degree. But supposing that the cousin's daughter were related paternally to N in the fourth degree, or $\frac{1}{8}$, the correct statement of her genealogical propinquity to him would be $\frac{1}{8} + \frac{1}{16} = \frac{3}{16} = \frac{1}{(2)^{2.4}} = 2.4$ degree.

The following information has been sought in regard to each of the persons included:

1. Full name of father with years of his birth and death.
2. Full name of mother with years of her birth and death.
3. Place and date of birth.
4. Place and date of death; or residence, if living.
5. Full name of husband or wife with date of marriage.
6. Full names of children with dates of their birth.

At the end of this schedule a statement is made of the line of connection with N. In the case of ancestors this line is given in full. In the case of cousins only that part is given that connects the individual in question with one of N's ancestors.

It has been thought best, also, to give what may be called a fringe of collateral information concerning other individuals than those coming under the strict scheme of the work, but who, as husbands, wives, or children of those that do, naturally awaken some interest. These names have been entered with the others in alphabetical sequence.

Females appear in italics under their maiden names; ancestors of N appear in bold-faced type.

The information is brought down to January 1, 1891.

The Charts form a graphical representation of the main features of the work. The first shows the four pairs and the diverging lines of their ancestors; the next four are devoted to the descendants of the four pairs, one to each pair; and the last shows all the ancestral lines traced together down to N.

The division called Generalizations has to do only with those individuals named in the charts.

The Appendix contains a large amount of matter relating for the most part to ancestors and their families more remote than those embraced in the body of the work. This material was not collected by the compiler and its accuracy has not been verified. Information contained in this Appendix has not been brought down to a date later than January 1, 1890.

The Index contains all names occurring in the body of the work that are not found there in regular alphabetical order. The Appendix has not been indexed.

In the preparation of this work information has been derived from published books, manuscript records, an extended correspondence, and personal investigations. No small indebtedness should be acknowledged to Mr. George Warren Hammond, whose unpublished genealogical notes have been of much value.

The recognition of an obligation of a different kind is due to Mr. Henry Kendall, who in his book, "The Kinship of Men," has adumbrated new methods of genealogy, of which the present work is in some measure an exponent.

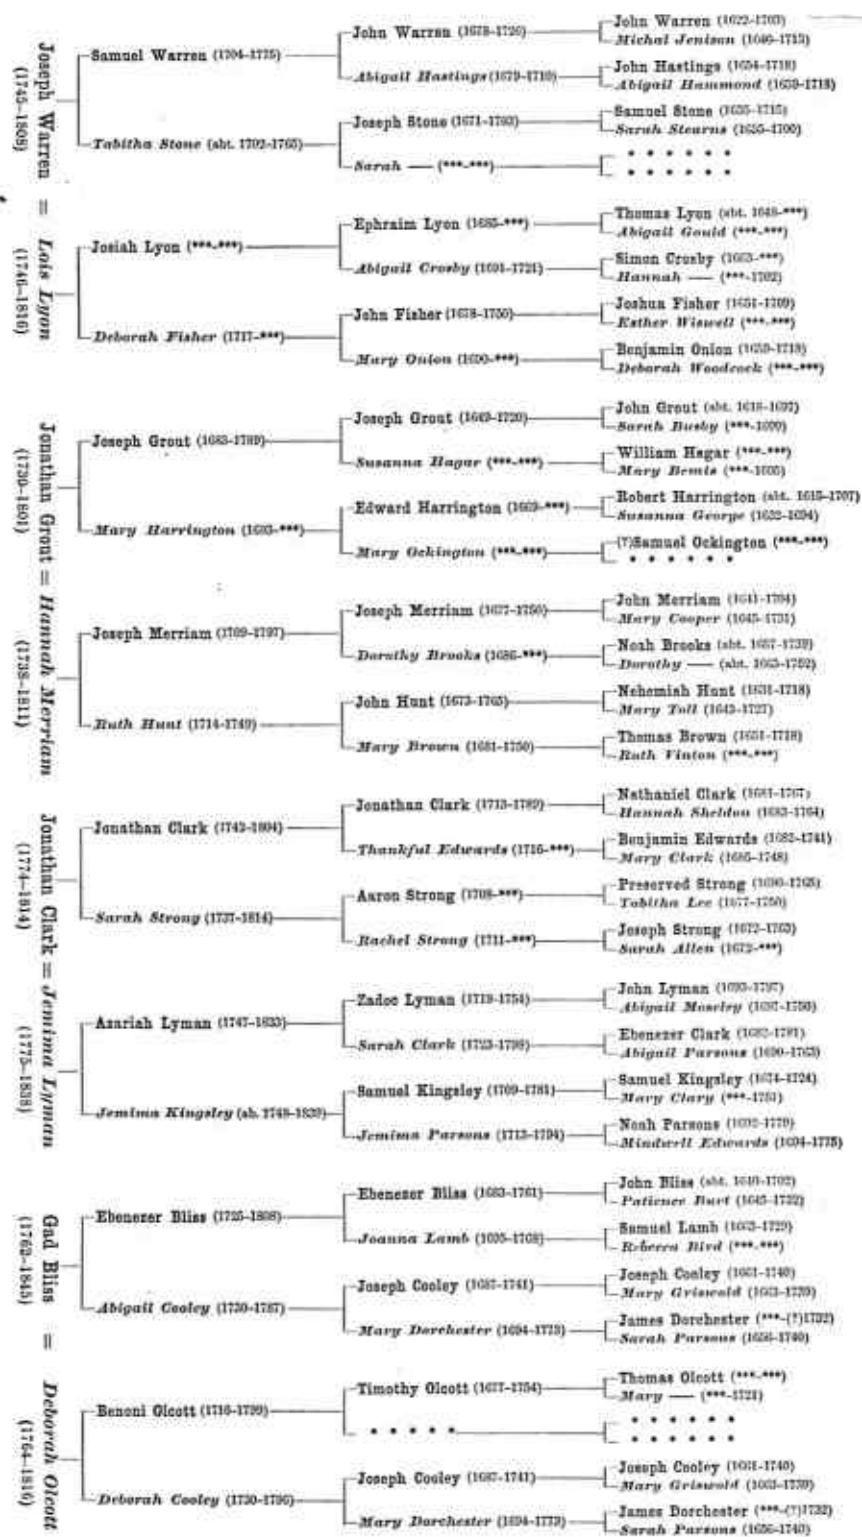

To Mr. Edward Knowles Butler, Jr., who first undertook for me the work of compilation, I owe special thanks. It is due to the fact that the work was entirely recast after leaving Mr. Butler's hands that his name does not appear upon the title-page.

To the Reverend Charles White Huntington, the compiler, I owe the largest thanks of all. The labor that he was obliged to put upon the work proved much greater than was at first anticipated, but not, however, I am thankful to say, preventing the prosecution of the work to a successful conclusion.

FOREWORD

The first record of the Warren family of Berwick, Maine, to appear in print is in the "History of Durham, Maine," by Everett S. Stackpole, 1899--a brief account--which he expanded in 1903 in his "Old Kittery and Her Families." The first genealogy of this line is by Orin Warren, Chase Press, 1902. This covers seven generations through the brothers James and Gilbert (sons of James²) and an eighth generation through John, the third brother, from whom Orin Warren stems. The descendants of Joshua Warren, believed to descend from the Berwick James are also included. This book is in many of our state libraries. William R. Cutter's "Genealogical and Family History of Western New York," 1912, summarizes the earlier Berwick Warren records and carries through with some of the descendants of Moses Warren (son of James³ and Mary (Goodwin) Warren) who migrated to New York. A recent account is that of Leon Hugh Warren, M.D., 1954, "Eleven Generations of the Descendants of James Warren Who Came from Scotland to South Berwick, Maine about 1652." Dr. Warren brings the family story down to his children through Samuel, son of James³. There are only two copies of this manuscript available to the public, one at the Maine Historical Society Library, Portland, Maine and a second at the Library of Congress, Washington.

The present account includes:

1. All records extant in the York County and Kittery and Berwick Town archives relating to James¹, James², Gilbert³, and Gideon⁴.
2. Use of Dr. Warren's genealogy, for which he has kindly given his permission, to make it available to the public.
3. Development of the story through Gideon (son of the above Gilbert), his son Adriel, of Vermont and New York, and his son Henry B. of New York, Maryland, and Illinois, whose children migrated to Kansas and Oklahoma in the eighties and the majority of whose descendants reside there to this day.

To McKinley H. Warren, great-grandson of Adriel Warren, and to our cousins who have contributed so much time and encouragement to assembling this material, the book is dedicated.

Chapter I

ELEVEN GENERATIONS OF WARRENS IN AMERICA

THE BERWICK BEGINNINGS: The state of Mainer is known for an unusual independence politically, economically and in religion. Those of us who migrate to Maine, if from choice, may have these qualities and make the move that we may breathe this ozone of freedom. Or if for other reasons than choice, before long, we will take on some of the native coloring. But your state of Mainer born, comes by this independence naturally from a singular, perhaps unique, set of circumstances in the very early colonization of our country. The Province of Maine was a Royalist, not Puritan Colony. Church membership -- the signing of the covenant -- was not a voting prerequisite. From the beginning it was a haven for those fleeing the persecutions by the clergy of the Massachusetts Bay.

In 1602, Capt. Bartholemew Gosnold set out from the Cornish port of Falmouth, England, with letters from Queen Elizabeth to be delivered to the Emperor of Cathaye by way of the mythical Northwest Passage. He skirted the coast of Maine, talked with Indians at present Cape Neddick, York, who used "divers Christian words" and returned. His letters were undelivered but two of his journals were printed and interest was aroused in the new land. In 1603, Martin Pring set sail from Milford Haven, landed briefly at Penobscot Bay, and later is said to have penetrated a few leagues up the Piscataqua River. In 1605, George Weymouth, by far the most important of these seafarers, returned from the coast of Maine with five Abenakis natives (of the Algonquin family) he had kidnapped. Three of these came under the care of Sir Ferdinando Gorges, captain and commander of the seaport of Plymouth. Thus exposed to the wonders and opportunities offered by the New World, Gorges was roused to an enthusiasm over colonization there which never abated until his death (1647). He invested some 20,000 pounds there, though he himself never set foot in America.

As a result of the interest aroused by these journeys, on April 10, 1606, King James granted two charters to two separate companies, the Northern and the Southern Virginia. Gorges was a charter member of the Northern Company, known also as the Plymouth, with its headquarters in Plymouth, England. Gorges and Sir John Popham, also a member, initiated expeditions to America under this charter, soon after. Popham, in two ships with one hundred colonists and supplies for a plantation, sailed from Plymouth in 1607, and settled at the mouth of the Kennebec, the first English colony on the New England coast. This effort endured for only one year. In 1614, Captain John Smith mapped the New England coast, named it and said the Indians called the northern part, "Mayne." In the winter of 1616-17, Richard Vines, steward of Gorges, remained a winter at the mouth of the Saco River and demonstrated that Englishmen could survive a Maine winter.

Though no permanent colonies were established in this period, Gorges and others continued to send out yearly fishing fleets under the charter which seem to have netted some profit.

On November 3, 1620, Gorges and others received an enlarged charter with more powers and privileges from the recently created Council of Plymouth and Gorges became associated with Capt. John Mason, secretary of the Council. The partners received a patent dated Aug. 10, 1622 which defined their lands as all the country between the Merrimac and Sagadahoc Rivers, extending from the Atlantic into the River of Canada (St. Lawrence) and including the savage nations towards the Great Lakes (later called Laconia). Under these charters, settlements were begun in 1623 at the mouth of the Piscataqua at Odiorn's Point, Strawberry Bank (Portsmouth), the Hilton's point, Dover on the west side, and at Kittery on the east side. In 1629, Gorges and Mason agreed to make the Piscataqua River the divisional line between their interests and thus were defined the Provinces of Maine and New Hampshire, which in turn gave their names to two of the New England states. Following this division Gorges received many patents from the King; that of 1639 made him a Lord Proprietor, his powers those of a prince.

The early settlement at Kittery Point was the nucleus which was to become Old Kittery or Kittery Parish, its early jurisdiction to extend thirty miles northward along the Piscataqua and up the Salmon Falls River to Stair Falls, and along the coast eastward to Brave Boat Harbor which marked the boundary between Kittery and York, where Gorges had his special interests.

Maine. The earliest settlement along the upper Piscataqua was near the head of navigation in an area called Newichawannock. This was just north of the juncture of the present Salmon Falls and Great Works Rivers, it being the private estate of the Indian Rowles, an important Sagamore under the renowned Pasaconway. The falls at the present bridge across the Salmon Falls River in South Berwick were named Quamphegan, and very soon the whole area was called Quamphegan--later Upper Kittery, Kittery Common, Upper Parish, Parish of Unity, and Quamphegan Landing. It was incorporated in 1713 as Town of Berwick, present Shorey's Brook dividing it from old Kittery. In 1814 it was set off from Berwick and incorporated as South Berwick. In 1831 the northern area was set off from Berwick and incorporated as North Berwick. To confuse things further, the Salmon Falls River was called the Newichawannock and the Great Works, first christened Asebenbeduck, became the Little Newichawannock, or Little Salmon Falls, and finally merely Little River, even when deeds were beginning to name it The Great Works.

On the present map of York county there are two Little Rivers, one entering the Salmon Falls River north of Berwick village and a second flowing into the ocean in the town of Saco. On the maps of Commonwealth Towns ordered made in 1795 by the General Court of Mass. Bay, (Mass. archives, Vol. I:1395), these two Little Rivers are named, as well as a northern branch of the Great Works (now called Neguntiquid), designated as Little Hobbs and a lower branch now called Frosts Brook, called Warren's Little River. These two branches became known locally as Little Rivers. A total of five rivers (perhaps more) were designated in deeds simply as Little River in the same decade. Imagine the difficulty in locating the hundred-acre homestead of Gideon Warren described as, "bounded on the east by the Little River so-called" under these conditions.

It is agreed by historians that Ambrose Gibbons, an agent of the Laconia Company with its headquarters at Strawberry Bank (Portsmouth), was in 1631 the first white settler in the Newichawannock area. In this period Mason and Gorges shipped mill machinery, workmen and Danish cattle to Gibbons in the little vessel, the Pied Cow, which anchored in a cove at tide water a little below where the present Great Works River enters the Salmon Falls River. William Wood in his "New Englands Prospect," 1634, page 20, mentions cattle and hay in this area, and "As early as 1638, Norton the agent drove more than one hundred oxen to Boston, where he sold them in the season of high prices at twenty-five pounds per head," (Wm. Weedon Economic and Social History, New England, Vol. I, pages 101-102). Perhaps from the Piscataqua we have the first American cattle drive.

The single saw mill set up in 1634, in Newichawannock called "Gibbon's sawmill" in deeds, eventually was increased to eighteen and caused such wonderment to Indians and settlers they called it "The place of Great Works."

In 1652, the Puritan authorities of Massachusetts Bay, long greedy for jurisdiction over the Province of Maine with her limitless forests and rich fur trade; also weary of this annoying Royalist neighbor who persisted in offering political and religious haven to her outcasts, brought the Maine settlers under their yoke. It came about in this way. The original charter granted to the Massachusetts Bay colonists defined their northern border as at a point on the shore three miles north of the Merrimac, meaning to all at the time, as the mouth of the river, and here a Bound House was built. But when Bay surveyors discovered that the Merrimac rose as far north as Lake Winnepesaukee, the Bay authorities now declared their northern limit was three miles north of the source and thence extended on a straight line east and west to each sea. Now in 1652, with Gorges dead, his grandson not yet of age and his appointed York representatives unable to prevail against the Cromwellian government in London with their petitions, the vast lands of Maine came under the Massachusetts Bay in a series of "submissions" signed by the settlers, the first being Kittery.

In 1661, with Charles II on the throne, the royalists in power, the young Ferdinando, now of age, petitioned the King for the restoration of royal authority in the Province of Maine. Though the Council for Foreign Plantations reported in favor of the heirs of Gorges in Maine and Mason in New Hampshire, there followed a period of political agitation wherein Massachusetts persisted in the attempt to govern the province, against the orders of the King. Again, in May 1675, the Privy Council confirmed Gorges' inheritance of his grandfather's patent, but in the end the Bay Colony won. They purchased the land from Ferdinando for 1250 pounds, and thus acquired a legal status in the province; lands were eventually granted to purchasers in fee simple, and the rebellion of the settlers to the Bay authority slowly died away. And so it remained under this jurisdiction until statehood, March 15, 1820.

Often today when asking a citizen of Maine whence he comes he will reply, "The state of Maine," which is supposed to indicate how proud he is even to this day that his is a

In 1651, a Richard Leader, recently resigned from managing the Saugus Iron Works, began with his brother George the management of the mills on the Great Works River for John Beex and Co., also part owner of the company of the Undertakers of the Iron Works in New England. Leader brought with him his bond-servants, the Scots taken by Cromwell at the battle of Dunbar, on whom we shall report in detail later. Five years later Leader sold out his interests, freed his servants, their terms of bondage completed, and in the same year, 1656, many of these prisoners were granted land by the town of Kittery--and here our story of James Warren begins. Here in Newichawannock between Thompson's Brook (Shorey's) and the Great Works, James with other Scot prisoners was granted land on Aug. 15, 1656. James received some fifty acres with 48 poles (660 feet) fronting the cove where the Pied Cow dropped anchor and known to this day as Cow Cove. And the land granted to James is now part of the South Berwick Vaughn Woods Memorial. At the entrance leading to the woods, painted on a rustic log sign pointing south is the following: ".8 miles to Cow Cove rest area." They could add, "And to the James Warren farm grant."

WARREN GENEALOGY

Persons born under the family name are numbered serially. Numbers enclosed in parentheses (--) are such serial numbers. Names of children shown in capitals will be repeated with full data under the succeeding generations.

Where two children in the same family received the same name, as was often done when the first died early, they are distinguished as (1) and (2).

(TSR) stands for Tomb-Stone Record. (YD) stands for York Deeds; (YP) for York Probate; (YCT) for York Court; (KR) for Kittery Records; (BR) for Berwick Records. Other abbreviations will be readily understood. (NER) for New England Historical and Genealogical Register.

First Generation in America

JAMES WARREN

1. JAMES WARREN came to America in 1651 and was granted land by the Town of Kittery, Maine, 15 Aug. 1656. He was born in Scotland 1620/1 and his wife, Margaret, was from Ireland. He made his will 9 Dec. 1700 (YP b 1:85) which was probated 24 Dec. 1702, leaving an estate of 1228-55-4. Margaret Warren, his wife, made her will 13 Dec. 1712, which was probated 15 Oct. 1713 (YP B 2:66). Neither James nor Margaret could write their names but used, not a mere X, but an individual mark, which no doubt had meaning for them. That of James was similar to a map, squarish, with cross lines. That of Margaret, smaller in the shape of an elm leaf, with vein markings. (See tracing of their marks with other signatures, Chapter III.) Margaret died in 1713.

James and Margaret Warren lived on their first grant fronting on Cow Cove below lower falls less than a mile south of where the Great Works River enters the Salmon Falls River. He bought an additional 40 acres of upland "betwixt ye sd. Davis Marsh and the bridge" (York River), 6 of 8th mo. 1662, (IV folio 159), located in Scotland area town of York where other Scotch prisoners lived. There is no evidence James ever dwelt in York. This land he gave his son Gilbert who, shortly after his father's death, sold it to another Scot, Daniel Mackentire, a known prisoner. There is no documentary evidence as to where James (1) is buried. One of the earliest cemeteries in South Berwick is on Vine St., near the site of the first meeting house in Old Fields area where they could have been buried. The chances are they are buried in the small burying ground on the Warren farm where can be seen a cellar hole and some dozen low mounds and a few scattered broken headstones. One stone has a letter J; if there had been a W, it has been broken off. Another has clearly P. W. and a third a faint G. N.

We approximate James Warren's year of birth and year of arrival in America from a deposition he made 13 Sept. 1701 in a controversy between his neighbors and Thomas Abbott who claimed the nearby salt marsh lands, called "The foulling marsh" were his by deed, and not to be cut in common. James testified that he remembered that for 30 years everyone had cut thatch from there. The Clerk states that "James Warren Sr. upwards of fourscore years doth testify and say that he has lived in ye town of Kittery and in ye upper part of ye town near fifty years, etc." (YC Records 1 h).

There is documentary evidence (in the Canadian Catholic baptismal record of their daughter Grisel) that James was a Scotchman, a Protestant, and that his wife Margaret was Irish and Catholic. To account for a Scot living with several score of other Scots in the Kittery-Berwick area even in a period when there is record only of English migrations, is not difficult when the Scotch prisoner story is evaluated. But to explain the presence of an Irish lass, one of few, in this same area and time, takes a little doing. But first to tell about our James, the prisoner.

There seems little doubt that our James Warren was one of the Covenanters under General David Leslie fighting Cromwell's forces at the battle of Dunbar, Scotland, September 1650; that he was one of the ten thousand Scots taken prisoner there; one of the five thousand able-bodied marched down to Durham Cathedral; one of thirty-five hundred who survived the march and the raw cabbages which killed with the "flux"; one of a hundred and fifty selected as "well and sound and free of wounds" on behalf of John Becc & Co. of the Lynn (Saugus) Iron Works to be delivered to Augustine Walker, Master of the Unity which sailed Nov. 11, 1650, for New England; and finally, one of the sixty or so bond-prisoners, bought for twenty to thirty pounds each for a term of 6 to 8 years' service and delivered at the iron works, late December of the same year.

There is no list of the Dunbar or Unity prisoners, but a tentative identification may be made from the earlier termination of their servitude and of the absence of their names from the over 270 listed in Suffolk Deeds Vol. I:6 who came the following year, same month, on the Sarah & John, Thomas Kemble, Master, and known as the Battle of Worcester prisoners.

Identification would be certain, of course, if James Warren's name were on indenture papers between master and servant, of which many are extant for English servants, not prisoners and therefore without bargaining power. One notable exception is the paper of John Stewart who made complaint in his petition to Gov. Anderson in 1688 that he was taken at Dunbar. (Burt, First Century of Springfield I-64). We would know if his name were among the 37 earlier Scots listed as working at the Iron Works. If he had been presented at court for wife beating, drunkenness, disturbing the peace, or like James Jackson, Scot servant of Valentine Hill, Dover, N. H., had lost a finger and was thus excused from military training or was brought to court for "abusing his master and Mrs.", threatened to be sent to Barbados if offence repeated as was the case with Alexander Maxwell, servant of George Leader.

The similarity of experience of James and Alexander, two Scots, is a strong link in the circumstantial evidence that James was of the Dunbar contingent. They both received fifty-acre grants from the town of Kittery the same day, earlier than any known Worcester prisoner, as did John Taylor, a Scot, located next south to James'. Alexander's "lott" was located next north of James' and neither of their names appeared as residing or having become citizens elsewhere. It is therefore possible that James and Alexander were among the five "unaccounted for" in the following inventory of the 62 prisoners first brought to the iron works and could have been taken by the Leader brothers to work at Great Works mills for Becx & Co. in 1651. John Gifford who replaced Leader as manager at Lynn (present Saugus), accounted for 62 Scots as follows: (Suffolk Court Files no. 225. 1653) 35 left at iron works, 17 to Awbrey (The company's representative in charge of warehouse in Boston), 3 to the commissioners (Company supervisors), 2 sold, 5 at 20 pounds each unaccounted for.

This we know, that at the time Richard Leader sold out his interests in the Piscataqua area - 1656 - and went to Barbados to experiment at salt making by a secret process developed by his friend, John Winthrop the younger, about 17 Scots very shortly thereafter were granted land in the immediate vicinity of Great Works, among them, as noted above, Alexander Maxwell and James Warren and John Taylor. Col. Charles Edward Banks, historian, and the authority to date on the Scot prisoners, on the above evidence lists James Warren as one of the probable Dunbar prisoners.

At this point the temptation to say: "See appendix for full account of the Scots prisoners - details of my search in the iron works papers and the Saugus Iron Works called Or better still, visit the Saugus Restoration off route #1, Saugus, Massachusetts where the same architects, the Boston firm of Perry, Shaw and Hepburn, Kehoe and Dean, who reconstructed Williamsburg, recreated the Ironworks.

Now for Margaret, the Irish Catholic wife of James. The earliest recorded migration of Irish to America is that of the Irish Protestants who settled Londonderry, N. H., in 1719. Margaret could have come as a servant with some English family, but extended search of lists of passengers arriving before 1656 and recorded by Banks, Drake and Hotten discloses no unidentified Margaret with an Irish surname--not conclusive evidence, but suggestive. Stackpole in his account of the Scotch prisoners of the Dover-Berwick area in "The History of Durham, N. H.," page 75 states: "Some Scots prisoners married Irish maids who had been kidnapped and brought over as house servants and to swell the population." In the Genealogy of the Stackpole family, 1920, in a note on page 54 he refers to the Goodfellow which brought such Irish to America citing Rev. Joseph B. Felt, "History of Ipswich, Essex and Hamilton," 1834. On page 319, appendix of this history, I found the following: "Among the crying wrongs to some of our race was that of stealing young people, transporting them to America and selling them into servitude. Two of such sufferers were sold in 1654 to a respectable gentleman of Ipswich (Samuel Symonds) for nine years, for 25 pounds in corn and cattle..... They were brought to Boston on the ship Goodfellow. They with others lived in Ireland, all of whom were forcibly taken from their beds at night by men dressed as English soldiers, and compelled to go on board the vessel on which they came. The persons who practiced such crimes were called 'Spirits'."

Mr. Stackpole comments on the above account, "Many Irish had come before 1654 in like manner. Gov. Simon Bradstreet conjectured in 1680 that there were then living sixty such Irish immigrants and one hundred twenty Scots, who had been sold as servants."

A definitive study of the shipment of "Irish passengers" (bond servants) between 1653-1660, by John W. Blake, M.A., is found in the Irish Historical Studies, Vol. III no. 11, March 1942, pages 267-281. Blake's account is fascinating, but only the barest outline can be included here. He believed that the stories in early histories by contemporary Irish historians of Irish men being torn from the arms of their wives and children to be sold as slaves in America could be exaggeration. His difficulty in making a critical study of the subject was to find any evidence of any actual transportation of the Irish to America, although there were ample records of civil and governmental plans to do so. These were mainly for transporting Irish vagabonds or disbanded Irish soldiers to Barbados or Jamaica to be exchanged for sugar or to the Virginias to work in tobacco and cotton fields. In short, the records of any transportation were fragmentary. He accounts for the misery and disorder and agrarian distress in Ireland as a backwash of the Irish Rebellion of 1641. Accordingly, during 1653, commissioners were appointed as overseers of the poor and were ordered to punish all who refused to devote themselves to some honest calling. One obvious punishment was to send refractory labourers to the tobacco and sugar plantations in America and the West Indies. However much they discussed sending children, he could find no proof of such shipments.

Blake says, however, "If we may infer that these children did not leave Ireland there is reason for believing that during the winter of 1653-4 a number of adolescents were shipped to Virginia." On Tuesday, 6 Sept. 1653, a petition was debated by the Council of State in London from David Selleck, a merchant of Boston, New England, to be allowed to transport 400 Irish children to New England and Virginia in the Goodfellow of Boston and the Providence of London. The Council gave permission on assurance the ships would sail to Ireland and really would embark the 400 children. In partnership with Richard Leader (the gentleman who had been instrumental in bringing across the Scotch prisoners, and who, at this time, 1653, was operating the Great Works mills) arrangements were made to sail from Kinsale in October. Says Blake, "They did not confine their attention to children. Agents were employed to apprehend 250 women between the ages of 12-45 and 300 men between 12-50, all were to be beggars and vagabonds and all were to be taken to Kinsale." Curious to learn if these ships ever arrived in Virginia, Mr. Blake searched in the High Court of Admiralty (where, by the way, are the records of passenger lists of our emigrant ancestors) but could find no reference to the Goodfellow. He found a dispute between Edward Wood, a London merchant, acting for himself and Selleck, now deceased, who was prosecuting the owners of the Providence, as of unsound condition

.... Mr. Blake could find no evidence that Irish were landed in New England, though some were landed in Virginia..and that, in the main, they were bartered in the Indies for sugar.

Which, of course, leaves us where we started. Leader could have brought Irish women to the Kittery area, on the Goodfellow, even though Blake could find no evidence of its sailing. But this study certainly explains why such stories of capture and sale of Irish women could have filtered down into the New England folk tales, and it is just possible they were based on fact. The historian of Ipswich, Rev. Felt, certainly knew the name of the Goodfellow.

Hoping to find a record of the birth of James or possibly an earlier marriage in Scotland (various of the prisoners had had wives there), I wrote to the Town Clerk of North Berwick, County East Lothian, Scotland, to the Borough of Berwick-Upon-Tweed, County Northumberland, England, and finally to the Scots Ancestry Research Society, Edinburgh, Scotland and had most courteous and prompt replies from all. Here is the resulting information:

From North Berwick, no record of a James Warren whatever.

From Berwick-Upon-Tweed, Baptism and marriages between 1572 and 1700, entries under Warren, were the following baptisms:

1649 April 23 Robartt, 's. John Warren, Gunner
1662 June 10 George, s. Thomas Warren
1682 November Magdalen, d. John and Elizabeth Warren

Scots Ancestry Society...dated 9th January, 1963.

"Of the thirty-one parishes which comprise the county of Berwick, only two have any extant records for the period in which you are interested ...The parishes searched were: Cockburnspath and Duns (the shire town) and also the Index of Testaments of Lauder (co-extensive with the County of Berwick) but no Warren entries were found." At the suggestion of the Research Society, since I did not know the town or County in which James Warren was born, my investigation was accordingly concluded. It would seem, however, from this search, that the name Warren was certainly of infrequent occurrence in Scotland at that time; while in Berwick-on-Tweed, England, it did occur.

A possible early marriage of James before 1656...Orin Warren states 1902 that James Warren married first Grizel Hull. Charles Edward Banks, in his manuscript, Bangor library, names Grisel as a first wife (no documentation). Stackpole in "Old Kittery" 1903 does not mention Grizel as a first wife, nor in Stackpole Genealogy, 1920. In his "History of Durham, N. H." he notes that the Hull Genealogy states that Griseld Hull married James Warren, then Stackpole adds, "but she married James Warren." In the "Hill (Hull) Family in America" by Col. Charles H. Weygant, 1918, the compiler states on page 249, referring to a privately printed sketch of 32 pages by Col. Robert B. Hull, U. S. A. retired, "Griselda Hull, b. 1630; m. James Warren." Griselda Hull was the 6th child of Rev. Joseph Hull who came with his wife Agnes and party to America sailing from "Waymouth ye 20th March 1635." Griseld was then aged five. The most recent account of the Hull family is by Winifred Lovering Holman who compiled "The Hull Line" 1941, who states pg. 56, "Griselda, b. about 1630; she did not become the wife of James Warren," and quotes the history of Durham, N. H. (pg. 224) by Stackpole as her authority. There the matter seems to end. No authority has further to say of the fate of Griselda Hull. Since the name Griseld with which James christened his daughter is so definitely Scot and the Hull family was English, there does seem to be something not quite right about the coincidence of these names in the two families.

James Warren was granted a total of upwards of 200 acres of land by the town of Kittery and bought 40 from John Davis in Town of York. He served his community of Kittery in various ways as cited in the Provincial and Court Records of York, Province of Maine. Four of the early volumes are printed. Volumes cited refer to the original Folio records, not to the printed volumes.

James Warren, Senior's name appears as follows:

- 1) On list of commissioners for the Town of Kittery, James Warrine. July 5, 1664, Vol. II:205.
- 2) At a court holden at York the names of Jurie of Tryalls who had their oaths given to stand upon the Grand Jury until the next court. No. 11: James Warrine. Dec. 28, 1665, Vol. III:42.
- 3) Under the King's Justices, western Division, names of the Grain Jury. No. 11: James Warrine. June 12, 1666, Vol. III:54.
- 4) "At a Trial by jury to inquire in the death of Denice Driland--no one guilty of his untimely death." James Warin one of jury. Aug. 19, 1668, Vol. IV:61.
- 5) In the Court of Common Pleas, holden 4 July 1694, York Deeds Vol. II:31, it was "ordered that the sheriff shall pay ten shillings to James Warren constable of Kittery out of the fines for his labour and charges about James Emery Senior and his sons." Am not certain if this refers to James Warren Senior or Junior. At this date their services to the town could overlap. The same can be said of the following: James Warren one of thirteen jurors, 5 Jan. 1696/97 recorded at Court of Quarter Session, York.

His name appears in various court actions, in the York Court Records. For his will, that of his wife, court citations and land grants, see Chapter III.

2. GILBERT² (James (1)¹), b. 1656 from depositions: Gave age 69 in Oct. 1725, age 73 in 1730, 76 on June 30, _____ when he deposed that he had known Flaisted Meadows for over 60 years. (Noyes, citing York Crt. Records) Gilbert was admitted to the South Berwick church, 1725. In his will, made 2 April 1728, calling himself Gilbert Senior to distinguish between himself and his nephew Gilbert, son of James (3), and "husbandman," gave to two daughters, Margaret Hearl and Jane Stockbridge, 5 shillings each, appointed his beloved wife Sarah and his son-in-law John Thompson, as Executrix and Executor, the remaining part of his estate for the use of his wife, Sarah. He died before April 17, 1733, when his will was probated. He signed his will with his mark, an interesting letter G. (See Chapter III). Sarah was the widow of John Thompson, the daughter of James and Elizabeth Emery, Newbury, Mass. Stackpole in "Old Kittery" believes that Gilbert meant "stepson" instead of "son-in-law" and does not list a third daughter, Mary Warren, as the wife of John Thompson. Banks' Ms. lists a third daughter, no name, as wife of John Thompson. I shall include a third daughter, Mary, from Orin Warren. One wonders why Gilbert would omit giving 5 shillings to her if he had the faith to name the said John Thompson as executor.

Gilbert received from his father, James (1), the forty acres James had bought of John Davis both by deed 25 Mar. 1701 and by will, with the stipulation that during his father's and mother's life he pay them 30 shillings annually. He sold this to Danl. Mackentire, one of the known Scot prisoners 28 Feb. 1706, (Y D B VII pg. 68). On 14 May 1728, by virtue of grant made him 16 May 1694 by Town of Kittery, he sold land located about 5 miles up the Great Works River, Warren Hill area, to the above John Thompson, "land and meadow."

PREFACE

The research for this book concerning the Warren family was started about 1950, when the author was researching THE DUTY FAMILY, published in 1972.

This work is mainly concerned with the descendants of Moses⁶ Warren of Acworth, NH who settled in Warrensville Township, Cuyahoga County, OH, and descended from John¹ Warren of Watertown, MA in 1630. It carries most of the lines down to about 1956, when the author gave all the records to the Western Reserve Historical Society because she didn't think she would be able to complete it. It was also impossible to trace some of the lines.

However, in 1983, she borrowed the notebook and has been trying to bring some of the lines up to date. The material has been completed from information furnished by the families concerned from family bibles, cemeteries, court records, genealogies, libraries, public records and especially Lyman A. Spencer's "The Duty Family of NH and Northern Ohio" 1911.

The book is in several parts. The first part briefly outlines the first five generations, which lists only the children and abbreviated dates. For further information, please consult the references. The second part is devoted to Moses⁶ Warren's descendants. The third part deals with the allied families, charts, and an appendix.

The author is most grateful for the cooperation of her late husband, Spencer Cummer Duty, the library staff of the Western Reserve Historical Society, especially Mr. Merideth B. Colket, director emeritus, and the relatives concerned, Mrs. LaVerne Bechtel, Mrs. Alice Robinson, Mr. Elwood Fronk, the Warren, Dempsy and Ward relatives.

Much appreciation is also extended to those ladies of the Genealogical Records Committee of Western Reserve Chapter, NSDAR, for indexing this genealogy: Chairman: Mrs. Herbert S. Boyle, Jr. and to Ms. Janis H. Miller for the typing.

The author regrets that it has been impossible to trace all of the descendants of Moses⁶ Warren up to the present time. Some of the data had to be deduced from available information and may not necessarily be correct. The writer welcomes any additional information and corrections.

SIXTH GENERATION

6 MOSES⁶ WARREN JR. & SR. (Moses⁵, Daniel⁴, John³, Daniel², John¹)
born Westboro, MA (VR) 2 Aug 1760, died Warrensville, OH 27 Sep 1851, ae. 91.

He married Westboro, MA (VR) 22 Nov 1781, PRISCILLA NURSE born
Westboro 29 Mar 1764 (VR), died Warrensville, OH 17 June 1842, ae 78.
Both bur. Warrensville West Cem. (1) (2).

He enlisted in the Continental Army 1776, remaining until near the close of the war (10).

In 1833 he received a pension of $60 per year for service as a private in the Massachusetts troops (8).

In 1781 Moses⁶ Warren married Priscilla Nurse in Westboro, MA. A year later they moved to Acworth, NH and settled a mile or so east of the center of the town where he cleared the land, and farmed until 1815 when he took his wife and family to Ohio. "He had a very hard time paying for his land, money was very scarce after the close of the Revolutionary War and what money there was in circulation was nearly worthless. Six hundred dollars, which came to him from his father's estate, became nearly worthless in his guardian's hands, so he had to borrow money until he could make it off the farm." (5)
[He was five years old when his father died.]

They joined the Congregational Church in Acworth when it was first organized. (3)

Until the late 1770's, the State of Connecticut extended from "sea to sea". When this state ceded most of her holdings to the new United States Government, she "reserved" a portion of her "western" lands along the southern shore of Lake Erie. This became Connecticut's "Western Reserve".

It was to this new "Western Reserve" land being opened up, that Ebenezer Duty traveled from Acworth, NH to Ashtabula County in Northern Ohio in 1808 to prepare a place for his family. His reports must have been very favorable because he sent for his family to join him. Moses Warren accompanied his daughter, Sarah Duty and her children, joined by his son Daniel Warren and his wife and child. He took with him a horse and saddle, intending to return to New Hampshire on horseback.
But on reaching Painesville, he gave them to Ebenezer Duty and made the long journey home on foot. (6)

About 1813 an epidemic killed two of their daughters, Persis, and Lovisa. About 1815 he, his wife Priscilla, and the remaining surviving four children started for Warrensville where their son Daniel had already built a cabin. They had a yoke of oxen and two large wagons drawn by four good horses, bringing most of their household furnishings with them. They reached their destination after seven weeks journeying.

They stayed with the Daniel Warrens a year until they bought 154 acres on lot 54 for $456.00. In 1817 he built the first frame house in Warrensville Township. This was an amazing feat, considering that there were less than ten families living in the entire township, and tools and building materials were very scarce.

The site which Warren chose for his home was ideal. Located on a ridge about 250 feet south of what was then Kinsman Road, it commanded a fine view of the surrounding countryside. A spring nearby supplied fresh drinking water. A small creek furnished additional water and drainage.

According to the late Charles A. Palmer, stone for the foundation was quarried from a deposit of sandstone on what is now Palmerston Road. Rough logs were used for the first floor joists and some of the other framing. The exterior woodwork was milled from the native forest trees. The stream was channeled through the cellar to supply refrigeration.

The fine large house which Moses Warren raised in the Warrensville wilderness of 1817 served as a home for himself and his descendants until 1865, 3535 Ingleside Road, on the south east corner of Ingleside and Kinsman Road (now Chagrin Boulevard). (9)

He was fifty-five years old when he came to the township, where he became a civic leader. He was one of the founders of the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1837. It soon became the Protestant Episcopal Church. He was a trustee and treasurer for Warrensville Township, an overseer of the poor. (6)

He died at the age of ninety-one and is buried with his wife in the old West Cemetery, Shaker Heights, OH.

SEVENTH GENERATION

7. SARAH⁷ WARREN (Moses⁶, Moses⁵, Daniel⁴, John³, Daniel², John¹)
born Acworth, NH 4 Feb 1784, died Painesville, OH 1 Sep 1818.

She married in Acworth 8 Dec 1803 EBENEZER DUTY, son of Mark and ABIGAIL WOODBURY DUTY, b. Derryfield (now Manchester) NH, died Cleveland, OH 7 Sep 1852. He married 2nd in Ashtabula, OH, 24 March 1819, Mrs. Judith Yeomans of Ashtabula, OH. Sarah Duty was buried first in the Washington Street Cemetery, Painesville, OH, and in 1882 removed to Lake View Cemetery, Lot 38, Sec. 1, unmarked grave in lower right corner.

He is buried in the East Cleveland Cemetery. His stone was destroyed in 1955. The inscription on his gravestone was: "Filial Affection has raised this monument in memory of Ebenezer Duty, born at Derryfield in NH June 2, 1782 and died Sept. 7, 1852 -- Blessed are the dead that lie in the Lord."

At Acworth, in 1804, a pair of twin boys was born, Andrew Woodbury and Daniel. The next year the family moved to Half Moon, near Troy, NY, at the confluence of the Mohawk and Hudson Rivers, a village named after the ship in which Henry Hudson discovered the river bearing his name. There Persis was born in 1806, and after a few years the family removed to Acworth.

Ebenezer Duty was attracted by the new lands being opened up in Ohio and in 1808 he went to Ashtabula County, in Northern Ohio, to prepare a place for his family.

In the meantime, the twin girls, Louisa and Lovisa, were born in Acworth.

When the twins were six weeks old, Sally Duty set out for Ohio accompanied by her father, Moses Warren, and her brother Daniel Warren and his family.

They came in a covered wagon, which Sally drove. There was a wide basket suspended from the top of the wagon which held the twin babies. Behind the wagon a cow was tied, shod for the long journey.

Instead of camping out at night, they "were fortunate to obtain the privilege from the settlers along the way to share their cabins at night, do their cooking there and spread their beds upon the floor."

Since Mrs. Warren had only one child to take care of, she did the cooking for the group. (2) When they needed bread she set a batch of sponge in a crock, and in the morning put it in a corner of the wagon to rise along the way, and baked it in loaves at their next lodging. They found the settlers very obliging and hospitable. (2) (6)

They reached Lake Erie at a point west of Buffalo and their road hereafter was partly in the forest and partly along the beach of the lake. At Elk Creek, near Erie, PA, they were met by Ebenezer Duty who took them to the cabin he had built for them at Painesville, OH.

Mrs. Duty's father, Moses Warren, who had come along to help her on the journey, gave Ebenezer Duty his horse and saddle, and then walked back to Acworth, NH, alone.

Ebenezer Duty was an expert in the making of brick and was probably the first settler to introduce that industry into Northern Ohio.

Gideon Granger, Postmaster General under President Jefferson, was one of the largest land owners in the Connecticut Land Company. He became the sole proprietor of Jefferson Township, which is Township 11, Range 3. In 1805, Gideon Granger came to Ohio and had new surveys made of the township in 1805 and of the town of Jefferson in 1806. (4)

Mr. Granger was very anxious to have Jefferson become the county seat of Ashtabula County, so he commissioned the two master brickmakers, Ebenezer Duty and Daniel Warren, to make the brick for the first courthouse to be built in the Western Reserve. It was stipulated that in payment for the brick, each was to receive three hundred acres of land of his choice, from land owned by Mr. Granger.

They moved their families to Jefferson, Ohio, for a year while they completed burning the brick and helping lay the foundation of the courthouse.

Daniel Warren chose his land, sight unseen, in Lot 42, Township 7, Range 11, a few miles southeast of Cleveland. This township, still known as Warrensville, was the place Mrs. Duty's father, Moses Warren, came to when he returned to Ohio in 1815.

Mr. Duty chose his three-hundred acre tract, worth $3.00 an acre, from land owned by Gideon Granger, in East Ashtabula on the north ridge two miles east of Ashtabula Creek. (7)

In 1812 he cleared off several acres of his tract, built a log house and moved his family there from Jefferson. They lived there about seven years, Mrs. Duty and the family looking after the farm work while Ebenezer Duty made brick in various parts of the country.

He was a lieutenant in the War of 1812. (5)

He is listed as a brick-maker and pettifogger (a lawyer who handles small cases for a local court) from New Hampshire.

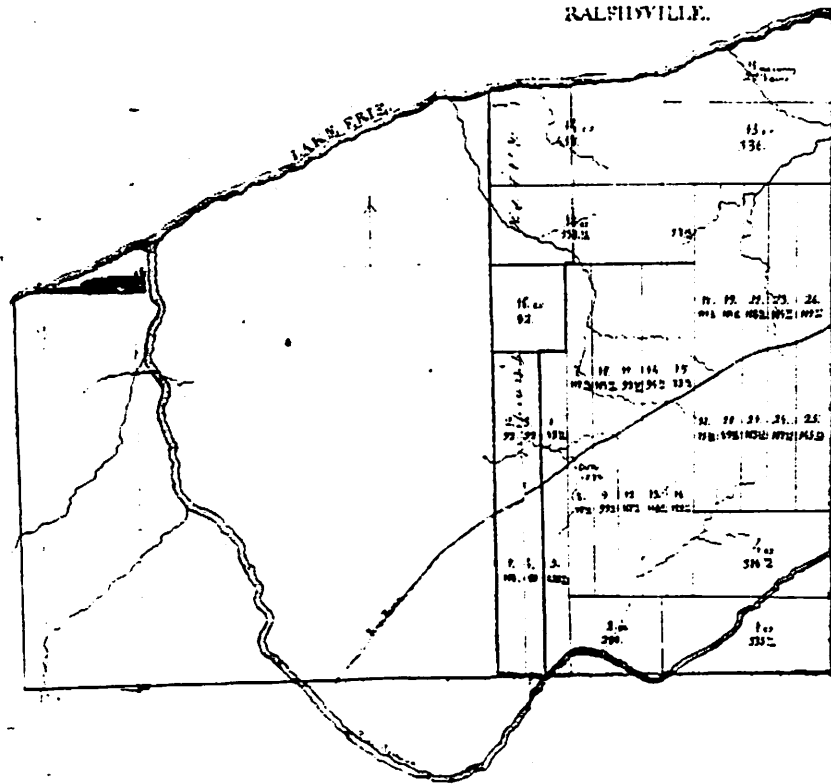

He was quite prosperous at this time but got into litigation with a Mr. Reed of Erie, and for some reason transferred the title of his property to Anan Harmon of Ashtabula. Unfortunately, Mr. Harmon failed in business, and the property belonging to Ebenezer Duty, including it seems, his home and farm, passed into the hands of Mr. Harmon's creditors.

Mr. Duty then moved his family back to Painesville and resumed the manufacture of brick there. In 1818 all the children but Persis contracted typhoid fever, and later the mother developed the same disease and died 1 September 1818.

The youngest child, Chloe, was fourteen years old when her mother died, and in March 1819, her father remarried.

He later lived with his son, Andrew W. Duty, who had a fine farm near Cleveland. In 1852 he was tall, stalwart with square shoulders and was straight and slim. He was a very strong man and was said to resemble the old drummer, the man in the middle of the picture, in Willard's painting of the "Spirit of '76".

Mr. Duty was considered the strongest man in that part of the country in his time. A vessel had come ashore on Lake Erie, nearby, laden with salt, which it was essential to unload and move to the top of the bank. It appears that it was found impractical to roll the barrels up, or to use teams. In their quandary, Mr. Duty suggested to the men gathered about that they shoulder the barrels and back them up. As a barrel of salt weighing some two hundred pounds is no child's load, his proposition was laughed. He, however, wagered that it could be done; and it is said he actually shouldered and backed up the bank himself two barrels of salt in succession. (3)

1812 Ebenezer Duty land in Ashtabula, OH, No. 8 and 9.
Then called Ralphsville.

8. DANIEL⁷ WARREN (Moses⁶) born Acworth NH 7 Mar 1786, died 13 Oct. 1862, Warrensville Twp., OH. (1)

He married Acworth 1807 MARGARET PRENTISS of Langdon NH born 1784 died Oct 1869 at home of dau. Paulina Beebe; dau. of James and Jeanette (Morrison) Prentiss. Both buried Woodland Cem. Cleveland Sec 13 Lot 21 (2). James Prentiss was Hogg when children were born. [See Appendix for name change and ancestry]

Daniel Warren came to Ohio from Acworth with his wife and children, his father Moses Warren and his sister, Sarah Duty and her children. They stayed in Jefferson for a year (3).

When Gideon Granger offered Daniel Warren $300.00 worth of land of the property he owned in the Western Reserve as payment for making brick for the first courthouse at Jefferson with Ebenezer Duty, Daniel chose, sight unseen, Lot 42 in Twp. 7 Range 11, of the original survey of the townships of the Western Reserve, and it was on this lot in 1809 that Daniel Warren built his cabin, the first in the township.

"He was very poor in this world's goods. Had a few household goods but not an elaborate outfit. A barrel set on end, covered with the end board of the wagon had to serve as a table at first. The cooking and baking was done in a five quart iron kettle. The next year he moved to Newburgh. Here the family remained while he built a log cabin on his farm in the new township, walking back and forth to his work, two and a half miles. It was built without the use of a single nail, a commodity quite useful and much used in later years. He moved on January 4, 1810. The moving is thus described by himself: "I procured a horse on which Mrs. Warren and her three weeks old babe rode, the boy of two years I carried on my back, while a neighbor, with an ox team, hauled our few household things. This trip was over two and a half miles through the woods, and Mrs. Warren remarked, 'We left New Hampshire to go into the wilderness, and I guess have made it out.' "The first run of sledding" after the Warrens moved to their log cabin, a happy party of friends from Newburgh and Cleveland, to the number of fifty, came out for a 'house warming' and crowded the little cabin. They had a jolly time and among other things held a formal meeting and proposed to name the new township. As Mrs. Warren was the first and only woman residing in the township it was suggested she select the name. She proposed Warrensville and her choice was adopted by acclamation. Thus township 7 of range 11 was named, and when the civil township was organized the name was retained.

Her husband was a bricklayer and followed his trade in addition to clearing the farm. Thus she was often left alone with the children. Bears and wolves would come around the cabin at night, rather disquieting callers for a lone woman in a wilderness miles away from any other human habitation."Mrs. Warren once came home from Newburgh and was followed closely, on all sides, by a full pack of wolves for it was getting dark when she reached her door in breathless fear." (4)

He had a tavern on the Northeast corner of Milverton and Kinsman Roads. He was elected the first Justice of the Peace in Warrensville Township in 1817. (6)

About 1838 he was appointed one of the Associate Judges of the Court of Common Pleas of the county. Mrs. Margaret Warren lived with her daughter and her husband, Julia and George Clancy for a year 1862-1863. Then she went to her daughter Paulina Beebe 1864-1866 in Cardington. Then in East Cleveland to live with the George Clancys 1868-1869 when they must have moved to Madison, Lake Co., OH where she died. Daniel W. Duty made the funeral arrangements. (10)

She left her personal property to her niece Julia Beebe, inheritance to various nieces and nephews and the bulk of the estate to go to the orphanage. (8)

"Julia Warren Shunk passed from this life on the twenty-ninth day of December 1915. Thirty-seven years of her life, with untiring devotion she gave to the Cleveland Protestant Orphan Asylum. She became the Matron of the Asylum in 1870. In 1907 she retired from active service and was made Honorary Matron.

Mrs. Shunk felt that the work of the orphan asylum was a sacred trust to which she was distinctly called. To this trust she set apart her life, and bestowed upon it her innate powers, her instinct for leadership, her gift for preparedness in plans for the future, her far-seeing judgment, her remarkable quality of self-command, her ability to inspire loyalty and confidence. She was an earnest student of the Bible and insisted that thorough instruction from the Bible be given to the children in the orphan asylum. One who knew intimately of her work has spoken of her as having a genius for universal motherhood. She regarded the children who came under her care not in the mass, but every child as an individual body and soul for whose welfare she did her best. Many lives have been blessed by her full rich years of service for children." (10)

11 MOSES⁷ WARREN JR. (Moses⁶) born Acworth NH 6 June 1803, died Cleveland 13 Jul 1898.

He married Warrensville 1 Mar 1826 (3) SARAH NOURSE HUBBELL born Vergenne VT 10 May 1805, died Warrensville 21 Mar 1861, both buried West Cem. Warrensville, dau. of JEDEDIAH AND HANNAH TURNER HUBBELL (1)

Arriving in Warrensville when 12 years old, Moses received a fair education. Later he shrewdly acquired much property south of Doan's Corners on the old Newburgh Road. On 26 Mar 1826, he married Sarah N. Hubbell of Warrensville. Six children were born. In 1861 they moved to their tract in the eastern part of Cleveland. Their real estate lay south of Cedar Avenue between Doan Street (E. 105th) and what later became Woodland Hills Avenue. He filled public positions, and was the township trustee in 1841.

In a few years, the first East Cleveland was incorporated. It included all the territory from Willson Avenue (E. 55th) to Mayfield Road, between Cedar Avenue on the south and a line cutting through St. Clair Street on the north. Horse cars began running to Doan's Corners and Warren's land became valuable. He had built a home on the east side of Doan Street and started selling lots. The south line of East Cleveland was extended to Quincy Street and he sold most of his parcel, retaining only a lot deep strip from Doan through to Woodland Hills. Old Frank Street formed its northern border and many homes were built on the street. Forest crowned Ambler Heights overlooked the choice allotment.

About 1879 Warren was able to retire. Many East Cleveland residents will remember the aging settler as he sauntered about the famous "Corners" in his declining years, recalling pioneer days in Warrensville. He died 14 Jul 1898, after a life of nearly a century from log cabin days to electric city and suburban railways, electric light and telephones. Mrs. Sarah Hubbell Warren died about 1878. (2)

EIGHTH GENERATION

12 ANDREW⁸ WOODBURY DUTY (Sarah⁷, Moses⁶) born Acworth NH 18 Sep 1804 died Cleveland OH 8 Apr 1885. (8)

He married Waterville, Oneida Co., NY 17 Nov 1828 ELIZA HAVEN (8) dau. of Elias and Dillah Desmond Haven (Mrs. Justus Tower), born Waterville 15 Jan 1809, died Cleveland OH 13 Mar 1886. Both buried East Cleveland Cemetery.

Mr. Andrew Duty and family lived on a fine large farm in what is now part of Cleveland Heights. His comfortable square brick house stood at the corner of the present Coventry and Edgehill Roads. (2) Andrew and his sons cultivated the farm for many years in addition to their manufacturing brick. Mr. Andrew W. Duty and his sons had a large brick yard on what was then the State Road, now Mayfield Road, just under the hill and opposite where Alta House is now. (3)

The Dutys, while resident "way up on the hill", were, however, active in all matters of public interest at Doan's Corners, where they got their mail and attended church.

Mr. Duty was a successful brickmaker whose product was of the highest quality and who had an unexcelled reputation for honesty and reliability (4).

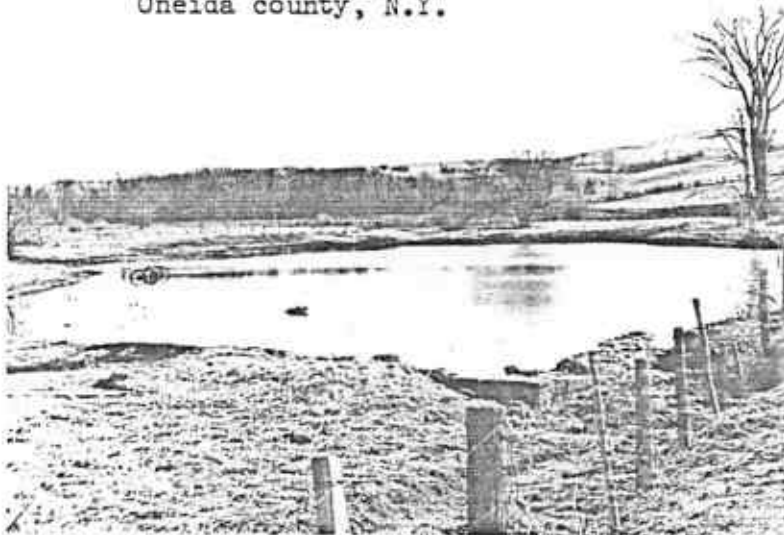

It is certain that Ebenezer Duty was one of the earliest brick makers in Cleveland. He had a small yard where bricks were made in 1830. In 1856 the first hydraulic press for making brick was installed in the yard of A.W. Duty in East Cleveland.

In 1832, Andrew W. Duty applied for a patent on a brick machine. The next year he received his patent which was signed 8 Mar 1833, by President Andrew Jackson, and by Roger B. Taney, then Attorney General. Years later, as Chief Justice of the Supreme County, Mr. Taney handed down the Dred Scott decision, which was one of the immediate causes of the Civil War. The patent has descended to successive generations to the present day and is now owned by his great great grandson, Spencer B. Duty. (5)

At the annual meeting of the Euclid Avenue Congregational Church, 4 Jan 1849, Mr. Andrew W. Duty was elected one of the trustees. Mr. Duty furnished all the brick needed for the new church and delivered them on

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Mrs. Eliza Duty.

By the Editor of the Leader.

It is less than a year since I wrote for your paper, a notice of the death of the husband of this most estimable lady; little thinking then how soon the time would come for writing a similar notice of her, whose death occurred yesterday after a brief illness. Only two hours before the fatal stroke of paralysis I spent a short time with her, and congratulated her on her apparently improved health, and expressed a hope that she would be present at the next annual meeting of our Early Settlers' Association; which she said she would like to do, and if able, probably would, as she felt much interested in its objects.

Mrs. Duty, formerly Miss Eliza Haven, was born in Waterville, N. Y., January 15, 1809, and married her late husband, Andrew W. Duty, in 1828. As a wife, mother, and friend she was a social woman, and her gentle kindness was always to be relied on in every sphere and under all circumstances, so far as was physically possible. For several years she was an invalid, and on that account the knowledge of her true character was in a measure limited to the circle of her family and intimate friends, by whom alone it could be properly appreciated. In my last interview with her she said that her journey of life was nearly ended, and her greatest anxiety was to be prepared for the end, which she undoubtedly was to an eminent degree. While her relatives and friends cannot but mourn on the sad occasion, it will be a great consolation to think that their present loss is her eternal gain, and they may well say, in the words of a favorite old-time hymn:—

"O why should we weep o'er the dust
Of friends who have fallen asleep?
Their graves will soon open, we trust,
And yield us the bodies they keep.
How gloomy the thoughts of the grave,
If darkness enveloped the tomb!
But oh, what a triumph we have Since Jesus has banished the gloom!"

The surviving relatives of Mrs. Duty, and especially her family, will have the deep sympathy of her friends, who can measurably appreciate their irreparable loss, and will earnestly hope that we may all be as well prepared for the end of life's eventful journey as we have good reason to believe she was.

WELL-KNOWN BRICKMAKER DEAD.

Daniel Duty, an Old Resident of Cleveland, Passes Away.

Daniel Duty, one of the oldest brick manufacturers of Cleveland, died at his home, No. 2577 Euclid Avenue, Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Duty was sixty-eight years old at the time of his death and had spent his entire life as a resident of Cleveland. He was a brother of Edwin Duty, the well-known street railroad man, who died recently.

 Shaker Heights 22, Ohio

Dear Mrs. Duty,

Your name was given to me by Miss Virginia Robinson, Librarian of Shaker Heights. Stating that you have a genealogy of the Warren family of Warrensville.

My interest in the Warren family is this. We are attempting to locate the heirs of Jennie Dusenbery, nee Sweet, deceased since Dec. 14, 1938 while living in Chicago.

Her mother was Jennie Sweet, nee Warren, and her father's name was James Warren and he was married to a Bushman, first name not known. She was born in Milwaukee, Wisconsin on November 24th 1848. Both of her parents came from Warrensville.

Any information that you can furnish me on any members of the family will be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely yours,

Richard Cook
 Richard Cook

[Somehow a Mrs. R.D. Boydill claims she descends, as she signed 1869 as one of the two surviving heirs of James M. Morrison, deceased, see under No. 8 Daniel Warren.]

1. FRANCIS¹ NURSE b perh Wenhaston, Suffolk, England ca 1618-1620 d Salem MA 22 Nov 1695 ae 77. (1); m Salem ca 1645 REBECCA TOWNE bpt Great Yarmouth, Eng. 21 Feb 1621, hung as a witch 19 Jul 1692; dau William and Joanna (Blessing) Towne. (2)

Francis came to Salem 1640 where he was a tray maker. He was constable, served on trial juries and grand juries - Yeoman.

In 1678 Francis Nurse bought the great Bishop farm for $400; there was much litigation over this, but Francis and his wife lived in the house which had been built in 1636; now in Danvers, and still standing as a memorial to Rebecca Nurse. In 1692 the witchcraft delusion came to Salem Village. Rebecca Nurse was 71 yrs old, of a fine family, and had brought up eight children, was a member of the Salem Church. She was also an invalid and deaf. She thought to help those in prison by bringing food to them, but was herself accused of being a witch by her maid (who three years later was declared insane). Because she was deaf, she didn't hear all the questions at her trial and was declared guilty, and was hanged from a tree on Gallows Hill.

An interesting sequel to her witchcraft trial is that 300 yrs later the MA legislature passed a special act declaring that from the evidence Rebecca was not a witch. (5)

HOGG-PRENTISS

In 1808 James Hogg and brothers William, John and Samuel had the name of Hogg altered to Prentiss by a special act of the New Hampshire Legislature. "Of six or seven brothers Hogg, four altered their name to Prentiss; the others refused to. One took the name of Huntley, one the name of Hall, one said he was born and lived a Hogg and he determined to die a Hogg."

They were supposed to have taken the name from a relative of that name in Ireland. They were of Scotch descent from the North of Ireland. (1).

Dear Rhonda:

Thanks for your letter, but I don't think that I can help you with no more information than you have. The likelihood of a connection based solely on persons having the same name is very remote. However, here is a résumé of what I have on one Lydia Carpenter.

Peter Warren b. ca. 1837 in Ohio; d. in Civil War. He m. 7 Apr 1857 in Coldwater, Branch Co., Mich. Lydia Carpenter, b. ca. 1840, parents unknown. They had two girls. Lydia remarried several years after Peter was killed.

Sincerely,
