SOME BELDING GENEALOGY.

1807. His wife survived him, and d. 9 Aug., 1810. He was a farmer. Res. Hatfield and Conway, Mass., and Seneca Tp., Ontario Co., N. Y.

The record of his "Colonial War Service" in the Archives of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, is certified by the Secretary of the Commonwealth to be as follows:

"Massts Archives, Vol. 92-131—A Muster Roll of the Company in His Majesty's Service Under the Command of Israel Williams Captain. * * * Noah Belding Centl entered service July 30. Discharged August 19; service, 3 weeks. Endorsed Maj. Williams roll of soldrs Posted at Hatfd 1748." He was then 17 years old.

In Temple & Sheldon's "History of Northfield, Mass.," he is said (p. 292) to have belonged to Capt. Joseph Dwight's Company in 1755, Crown Point Expedition, but no roll has thus far been found that contains his name.

In Mr. Rice's address, at the Centennial Anniversary of Conway, he says: "In 1777, when Burgoyne was marching from the north, every able-bodied man went out to meet him," but "the names are not all preserved," and no record has been found of the service which he doubtless then rendered.

SOME BELDING GENEALOGY.

1. Richard Belding, from Staffordshire, England, was among the early settlers of Wethersfield, Conn., which is situated on a plain on the west bank of the Connecticut River, $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles south of Hartford, Conn., and was founded by colonists from Watertown, Dorchester, and Newtown, Mass., in 1634. The date of his settlement is not known. In Temple's "History of Whately" it is stated that "Belding, Richard, was in Wethersfield, Ct., in 1640; had land grant in New London;" but his name first appears in the Wethersfield town records in an entry on the 2d month and 7th day, 1641, of "the lands of Ric: Bayldon", which include "one piece whereon a house is builded con. three acres one rood, more or less, the ends abut against Broad Street North," subsequently sold by him to Richard Parke. This house was his residence, and in Trumbull's "Memorial History of Hartford County" there is a map on which its location is shown. His ancestry has not been traced, nor is it known what family he brought with him, if any, besides two sons, nor has the date of his death been found.

PREFACE.

THE BELDING GENEALOGY in this pamphlet is that of the direct line of descent from Richard Belding, the first settler of the family in America, to Noah Belding, of the fifth generation, and of some of his descendants. Esther Belding, granddaughter of Noah Belding, married Col. Joel Whitney, a descendant of the Puritan emigrant, John Whitney, and this genealogy has been compiled only to accompany "Whitney Genealogy—Some of the Tribe of Benjamin," and not for publication.

Dear Miss Belding:

Yours of June 30th received and I thank you for the information enclosed, and am sending you in return a complete record of your ancestry back to 1666, which I think you will find very interesting you will see from this record that you are entitled to membership in the Societies of Colonial Dames through Samuel (23) who served in Capt. Turners Co. at the Falls Fight May 19, 1676 in King Phillips War. Stephen (24) who served in Queen Annes War as a Sergeant, also in Capt. Turners Co. in 1676. In the D.A.R. as descendants of Noah (5) and Selah (6) who served in the Revolution

I am from the same branch as far as Samuel, and am very proud of it as I am sure you will be.

Thanking you for your interest and hoping you will inform any of the clan that you may know, about this, I remain
Very Truly Yours

Wm. H. Brown.

13-WILLIAM DE BAILDON son of John. Born bet. 1335-40. died 1417.
Mar. 1- Margaret de Thorner.
2- Isabella

The Belden Family of America originated in England, where they have lived in one place since 865 A.D. The seat of the family is Baildon Common, Parish of Otley, County of York, about six miles from Leeds.

The name was originally De Bailgon, but the spelling on old English documents was very peculiar, the name being spelled no less than seventy different ways. The De was dropped and the name spelled Bayldon by our first ancestor, and it has been variously spelled Belding, Belden, Beldin and Beldon.

Altho the name goes back to 865 in Baildon, the authentic records go back to 1066, and the present Manor House owned by the Baildons was built about 1553.

- 1- OSMUND died about 1066.
- 2- GAMEL son of Osmund living in 1086.
He was the pre-conquest owner of Bradford Manor, Oworm Manor two more in Hazlewood and also Thornhill Manor. He was Kings Thane at Kilnsley-in-Craven.
- 3- ULF son of Gamel. Living in 1086.
He held two Manors in Hazlewood before the Conquest and succeeded Gamel as Kings Thane.
- 4- ESSULF FITZ ULF son of Ulf. Born abt.1080.died abt.1159.
Married Maude----- Three sons.
He was an extensive land owner in West Riding Yorkshire.
- 5- RICHARD FITZ ULF son of Essulf and Maude. Born abt.1120.
Mar.Maude-----
Died abt.1200. Three children.
He was fined in 1194-5 a large sum of money for participating in the massacre of Jews at York. He gave part of Baildon to his son Hugh.
- 6- HUGH DE BAILDON son of Richard and Maude. Born bet.1155-60.
Mar. Margery dau.of Serlo de Poole of Farnley.
