COATS/TYLER FAMILIES

My mother, Frances Lucille Tyler Ladymon, was born on a farm in what is now Sunnyvale, TX. At that time, 24 Jul 1909, it was just out in the County of Dallas about 4 miles northeast of Mesquite. Her father's farm was located north of what is now U. S. Hwy. 80 and east of East Fork Rd. in what was called Long Creek. She was the 5th of seven children born to Robert Linden and Nancy Jane Anderson Tyler. They were cotton farmers and lived down the road from their father's parents, Mack H. and Isabelle Coats Tyler.

Robert Linden Tyler was born 24 Sep 1880 on this same land, the oldest of six boys. He married Nancy Jane Anderson on 27 May 1900. She was born in Alabama but was reared in Forney, Kaufman Co., TX and was the daughter of Jesse P. and Missouri Dorene Bannister Anderson.

My mother's grandmother, Isabelle, was the daughter of Thomas D. and Mary Ann Paschall Coats. She was born here on her father's land on 13 Dec 1861, the 5th of nine children. Her father, Thomas, was born in South Carolina but was reared in Henry Co., TN. He met his future wife, Mary Ann Paschall, there and they married 17 May 1846 and then moved to Long Creek where his father, Samuel Coats, had already settled. Mary Ann was the daughter of Elisha and Rachel McClain Paschall.

Samuel C. and Nancy Jones Coats had an original Mercer's Colony Land Grant and settled in Long Creek in 1844. This grant consisted of 640 acres, 434 3/4 were located in Dallas County and 205 1/4 in Kaufman Co. Thomas had an original land grant from Charles Fenton Mercer which consisted of 640 acres, all in Dallas County, next to his father's land.

Thomas was the oldest of the ten children of Samuel and Nancy Coats. He and Mary Ann had 9 living children. All of the Coats lived close together on these two farms with other land being purchased in the area as years went by. Samuel and Thomas, along with their neighbors, founded Bethany Baptist Church of Christ in the Long Creek area in 1849, holding services on their land. Thomas served at various times as Justice of the Peace.

After Samuel's death on 27 Sep 1874 his will was contested by some of his children. This suit was in litigation many years. A number of Samuel's heirs died before the case was finally settled. The land was divided into many portions by the Court and none of it is in the possession of a Coats at this time. A portion of Thomas' original grant is

Queries

Dear Researchers:

My married name is Martha Tuton and I am a missing person. You won't see my picture on a flyer or a milk carton but I am missing.

I married Charles A. Tuton about 1857. We lived in Dewitt County, Texas. We owned land, had a family; Rebecca Ann, Mary Catherine, James, Lee, Missouri and Charles.

We lived there until our deaths about 1875 – 1877 and my last four children were sent to live with a family named Henderson as farm laborers.

My great, great granddaughter has been searching everywhere for me. She believes my maiden name is Cannaday or some variation of that spelling.

If you have any information that might locate me please contact Carolyn Parker, 2813 Live Oak, Mesquite, Texas 75150. Her email address is Carolyn_P43@msn.com.

Carolyn is very persistent. She calls funeral homes, county clerks, historical societies and even people in their homes. She just won't give up. So, if you have even a clue, she will contact you.

I hope she finds me soon. I really do want to be taken off the list of missing persons.

Respectively,
Martha Tuton

ABRAHAM TEACHOUT, JR.

Abraham Teachout, Jr., was born in the township of Manchester, Ontario County, New York, August 17, 1817. His father, Abraham Teachout, Sr., with three brothers, John, James and William, one sister, Lovina, and their parents, Jacob Teachout and wife, removed from Herkimer County, same state, about the seventh year of the nineteenth century. The family is of Dutch ancestry.

Early in the sixteenth century two brothers, John and Jacob Teachout, emigrated from Holland to America and settled in the Mohawk valley, and from them have descended all the people bearing their name in this country.

Western New York, at the beginning of the century, was a vast wilderness, broken here and there by a small settlement. The opportunities for acquiring an education were so meager that one was regarded fairly prepared for active life if he could read, write, cipher and spell creditably; and such were the acquirements of this pioneer family. They all became devoted members of the Baptist church, and James entered the ministry in middle life. The father died when the children were young, and the widow and orphans were obliged to provide for themselves without much of this world's goods to start with. They cleared their farm, reclaiming eight or ten acres each year, and gathered the ashes, of which they made black salts, about the only thing that could be sold for money.

FAMILY HISTORY

In the fall of 1811, Abraham Teachout, Sr., married Clarissa Throop, a daughter of Benjamin Throop, Sr., who was a farmer and keeper of a country tavern. The family came from Connecticut and settled in New York about the same time the Teachout family arrived. They were all large of stature and vigorous. The father lived to the age of eighty-nine years, while his wife, who was a well educated and exceedingly intelligent woman, lived to be ninety-four years old. Her maiden name was Rachel Brown, and her family founded Brown University in Rhode Island. Mr. Throop was a soldier in the Revolutionary war, and during his absence his wife performed the necessary labor on the farm. They had four sons and four daughters—Benjamin, Jr., Samuel, Jesse and Azel, Eunice, Martha, Clarissa and Lydia. Benjamin went to sea; circumnavigated the globe several times, and then retired to Palmyra, New York, where he died. Samuel sailed the lakes and in early manhood was swept overboard in a storm. He had two sons, Horatio and Washington, both of whom were sailors on the lakes. Captain Horatio Throop was one of the oldest and best known captains that navigated Lake Ontario, and for years was superintendent of the Ontario and St. Lawrence Steamboat Company, which position he was holding at the time of his death in 1885. The family are held in the highest esteem in Ontario and surrounding counties.

Soon after his marriage, Abraham Teachout enlisted in the war of 1812, and served until the close of that contest. In the autumn of 1822, the family removed to Niagara County, New York, making the journey with an ox team.

TEACHOUT FAMILY

On the way they passed the hillside where the "prophet" Joseph Smith claimed to have dug out the plates of the Mormon Bible. At that time the family consisted of four sons and two daughters—Albert, Charles, Joseph, Abraham, Jr., Susan and Eunice. The mother died in 1824, leaving an infant that died soon afterward. Few can realize the struggle of the father to provide for his family in the wild new country, but the children were too young to recognize any occasion for anxiety. Mr. Teachout was firm in his convictions, expressed his sentiments fearlessly, and vehemently denounced deception and dishonesty. He was held in high respect by all his neighbors. In regard to politics, he was a Whig from 1826 to 1830. During the excitement caused by the disappearance of Morgan, he was an anti-Mason, that issue being the principal one in public estimation. He was once held a witness for several weeks in the celebrated Morgan trial in Orleans County. Possessing a fair education, he took an active part in local politics; was an orator of some merit, and was generally employed as a pettifogger in the lawsuits of his neighborhood. His regular fee was fifty cents for a half day, or seventy-five cents for the entire day. He was never a member of any secret society. In the fall of 1837, the family removed to Ohio and settled in North Royalton, Cuyahoga County. Mr. Teachout finally died at Liverpool, Medina County, Ohio, at the age of sixty-eight years. His remains were interred at Royalton.

Abraham Teachout, Jr., became of age August 17, 1838. He soon afterward went to Cleveland to seek employment, and traveled up and down the docks where nearly all the business was done. The sun was sinking low in the west, and his courage had begun to fail him, when he met a man named Eggleston whose wife was his cousin. Mr. Eggleston was captain of a boat on the canal, and offered young Teachout a position, which was quickly accepted. He began as bowsman, arose to the position of steersman, then captain, and finally became the owner of a boat. At the end of three years he sold his boat, and secured a situation in the first elevator erected in Cleveland, which was owned and managed by William Mittleberger.

Forming the acquaintance of Robert Brayton, foreman of the Cuyahoga Steam Furnace Company, Mr. Teachout entered into partnership with him to build a steam sawmill at Royalton. At the "raising" the usual whiskey was expected. Mr. Teachout's father, a staunch temperance advocate, had always taught his sons the virtue of abstinence as a title to the highest respect. After the neighbors had placed the sills in position, they called for the "bottle." They were informed that this was to be a temperance raising, when good men, even church members, offered to buy the whiskey, fearing that the frame could not be raised without it. Then came the struggle between conscience and custom. The elder Teachout mounted a sawlog and delivered an eloquent temperance address, which he concluded by informing the men that if they were not willing to do the work without liquor they could retire to their homes. They decided after a consultation to try it, but fears were expressed that some one might be hurt, as whiskey was supposed in those days to make men strong, "to keep off the heat in the summer, and the cold out in the winter." The frame went up and no one was "hurt." Then came an abundance of provisions, which were devoured with a relish; and cheers were given for the "cold water" raising. After several games of ball the men went to their homes happy and sober to tell their wives and children how strange a thing had happened at the raising of the steam sawmill. The structure was completed and put in operation Nov. 10, 1845.

Mr. Teachout embarked in mercantile trade at Madison, Lake County, which he conducted in connection with his milling interests. In 1857 he sold out and purchased the mill privilege at Painesville, Ohio, where he built the flouring mill now owned and operated by Mr. Bigler. In 1862 he turned his attention to agricultural pursuits, which he followed extensively until the close of the Rebellion. In 1869 he went South and engaged in the lumber trade and the sale of doors, sash and blinds at Chattanooga, Tennessee. There the foundation of his present business in Cleveland was laid, although it was not in active operation until 1873. In partnership with his son, Albert R., then twenty-one years of age, the firm of A. Teachout & Company was organized. Their patronage extends over several states, and their trade amounts to half a million dollars annually. Albert R. Teachout is the manager of the business here.

Mrs. Teachout died October 16, 1880; her maiden name was Julia Ann Towsley, and her marriage to Mr.

FAMILY HISTORY

Teachout occurred February 22, 1842. Mr. Teachout's second marriage was to Mrs. Laura E. Hathaway of Painesville, the Rev. A. B. Green, who officiated at his first marriage, performing the ceremony. He is now in his seventy-seventh year, is still vigorous and strong, and goes every day to and from business.

Mr. Teachout was converted to Christianity through the preaching of Alexander Campbell, Walter Scott, A. B. Green and the Haydens. He was baptized at Royalton in June, 1851, by Elder William Hayden, at the annual Disciples' meeting, and united with the church at that place. In 1859 he removed to Lake County and transferred his membership to Painesville, where he served as an elder until 1873, when he and his wife and son obtained letters to unite with the Franklin Circle Church in Cleveland. He was elected a member of the board of elders soon afterward, and still holds that office.

He has always taken an active interest in educational affairs. In Madison he served on the Board of Education four years, and filled the same office in Painesville for nine years. He has been one of the trustees of Hiram College for thirty years, and for six years was president of the board. He was chairman of the building committee for the new building, and superintended the construction of the boys' hall. He was intimately acquainted with James A. Garfield, whom he held in the highest esteem. He cast his first presidential vote for William Henry Harrison, and was a Republican until 1882, when he transferred his allegiance to the Prohibition party. He has twice been the candidate of this party for Mayor, once for the State Legislature, and once for Congress. He has been elected to numerous local offices of trust, and has had the settlement of several important estates. He has prepared several addresses which have been sought for publication, and has "dabbled" in poetry, as he himself expresses it. His first production in verse was entitled "Your Father's Growing Old," and was addressed to his son. In this he pays a beautiful tribute to the devoted wife and mother. "This Beautiful World," bringing to mind the strange mixture of good and evil in the world; "Fast Falls the Eventide," and one poem upon the death of President Garfield are among his best efforts.

We append a copy of Mr. Teachout's poem entitled

THIS BEAUTIFUL WORLD.

Oh, this world, what a beautiful world,
 In spite of its sadness, its sorrows and cares,
 Its trials and pains, its shame and its stains,
 Its cruel deceits and its snares.

With all its faults it's a glorious world,
 It's the only one given to man;
 So let us accept it with thanks as it is,
 And enjoy it as long as we can.

We'll say to the one who is complaining of life,
 And wishes his days at an end,
 Never yield to despair, but patiently bear
 Such mishaps as man cannot mend.

For while we are traveling the journey of life,
 We should be humble, contented, resigned;
 Never worry nor fret, take the best we can get,
 And leave the worst behind.

FAMILY HISTORY

We're here to struggle; it's Heaven's decree;
Each man has a mission to fill;
Misfortunes may fret us, temptation beset us,
But we are God's children still.

When sad afflictions meet us, and enmity greets us,
We should then on ourselves most rely;
Be brave, for it takes, when the storm on us breaks,
More courage to live than to die.

This is a glorious world if we look at it right,
And we should be thankful we're in it;
There are blossoms in the grove, there are those we love,
And success if we struggle to win it.

So let us determine that happen what may
We'll stay with the weeds and the flowers,
The friends and the foes, the joys and the woes,
Which make up this great world of ours.

What folly to look on the dark side of life,
While the world is refulgent with light!
Come out of the shade, stand up undismayed,
In the raiment of reason and right.

There is room for us all on this wide spreading ball;
So, with charity's banner unfurled,
Let us join in one cry, while old Time passes by,
Three cheers for this grand and glorious world.

Since the preceding was written, some six years ago, the wife, Laura E. Hathaway, died, and Mr. Teachout married, Nov. 11, 1896, Mrs. Mary Beattie Hamilton, (daughter John and Isabel Beattie,) born Feb. 20 1851, Ruggles, O. She was Principal of the Ladies' Department of Hiram College for two years, and also teacher in the Normal Department at the same time.

TEACHOUT FAMILY

During the few years she has been connected with the family she has endeared herself to the hearts of all its members.

The past year Mr. Teachout has spent much time in superintending the erection of an Observatory and Library building at Hiram, O., which will be completed and turned over to the College, June, 1901. The building is 30 x 70 feet. The Observatory tower is fifty feet high, aside from the dome, which rises sixteen feet above the tower. Rev. Lathrop Cooley, a lifelong friend of Mr. Teachout, contributes the telescope, which is to be a nine inch lens. Including the Observatory, Mr. Teachout has given in all about $20,000 to the College.

of New York. After that he continued teaching school winters for nine years and worked at his trade summers. He then went into the mercantile business in Liverpool, Medina County, where he remained nine years. From there he went to Madison, then to Painesville. In 1868 he moved to McMinnville, Tenn., and in 1874 to Ncwaygo County, Mich. While there was elected Township Clerk, Justice of the Peace and School Inspector. In 1894, moved to Cleveland, where he is living a retired life.

Five years after marriage, Mr. Teachout was converted, and with his wife, who was a Christian before, has ever lived a consistent Christian life, and now, at the age of 86 and his wife 78, who have lived a well rounded life together of 61 years, says: I feel we are like the sailor who, when interviewed, said: "We are rounding the point, and hope to drop our anchor within the harbor."

The above was contributed by Mrs. Helen Corkhill.

FAMILY HISTORY

Following are a few extracts from the last letter written by George Teachout:

WASHINGTON, April 24, 1864.

SISTER MARY:

Here in the midst of conflag and confusion, at 4:30 Sabbath afternoon, I attempt to write you a few lines.

I will give a brief description of our camp first. It is situated in the northeast part of the town about a quarter of a mile from the Capitol building. The dome is in sight and the depot of the Baltimore & Washington R. R. is close by on the west.

Our barracks are made of good lumber, are warm and comfortable, and are divided into rooms that hold a company each. All soldiers sleep on the floor, except a part of our company who found some old bunks. I and my partner have one. We make good use of our bunks for tables to write upon.

This is Sabbath, but one would not know it if he was not told. It is nothing but confusion. Sometimes there will be a few moments of quiet, then all is uproar again; some singing, some laughing, some writing, some playing on an instrument, some playing cards, scuffling, running, jumping, swearing; some reading the Testament or other book. Some washing their socks, handkerchiefs—all sorts of work imaginable.

I am thinking of going into the navy if I can; think I shall like it. I expect you will hear of a big battle in this division of the army before long. It must come, and may God be with those who are engaged in it. I am ready.

G. W. TEACHOUT,

Capt. Van C. B. Vanvaler's Co.,
4th Reg't. Mich. V. I.
