Introduction

to family histories in Saco Valley Settlements

Saco Valley is a veritable treasureland of history. Its rich lodes have produced a wealth of American legend and tradition extending back more than 300 years.

The picturesque Saco River starts in North Central New Hampshire and winds southeasterly. It passes near Fryeburg, Maine, a beautiful resort area today, but where in 1725, Indians brought to a disastrous end Lovewell's expedition against them. Robert E. Peary, the famous Arctic explorer, lived in Fryeburg as a boy and surveyed in the area.

Saco, Maine, is equally famous. Located at the falls of the Saco River, opposite Biddeford, it was settled in 1631. A legislative and judicial "court," the first in Maine, was held in Saco in 1640. Saco suffered Indian raids in the 17th and 18th centuries, raids and massacres vividly described by G. T. Ridlon, Sr., author of the monumental work, Saco Valley Settlements and Families.

Ridlon had personal contact "with relatives whose mothers' slumber had been disturbed by the red man's startling war whoop." The author talked with men who had vivid recollections of the French War and the fall of Louisburg; his grandfather was acquainted with those who served as scouts against Pequawket Indians.

It is only natural, then, that a region so rich in the stuff that Americans cherish should yield noted personages and families, 128 of whom are included in Ridlon's immense work. This family history is reprinted from that work, and is representative of those noted families and sturdy pioneers who were so much in the mainstream of early American history.

Fortunate is the individual whose family tree was included in Ridlon's masterwork, "a conservatory of valuable data, rescued from scattered and frail documents and vanishing traditions of the Saco Valley."

The author has bequeathed rare and authentic Americana to the descendants of those families, who naturally take great pride in their heritage—and in their treasured genealogical heirloom.

Leavitt Family.

John Leavitt was the New England head of this family; he came over with the Pilgrims in 1630, and settled at Dorchester, Mass., where he lived for some time, but finally removed to Hingham, where his grave is still pointed out. Some descendants early settled in Hampton, N. H., and numerous offshoots have become dispersed abroad.

Joseph Leavitt,¹ a tanner, from old York, was the immediate progenitor of those of Buxton nativity. He purchased lands in Narragansett, No. 1, in 1752, but we have no evidence that he settled in the township. He was, however, one of the early mill builders on Little river in 1761. His lands were bestowed upon his three sons, JOSEPH, DANIEL, and SAMUEL. The father d. previous to Mar. 28, 1768, when his other children conveyed a share of his grist-mill in Narragansett, No. 1, to Joseph Leavitt there. Children:

These were buried in the old burying-ground at Pleasant Point, in Buxton. His second wife, to whom m. Oct. 6, 1793, was Hannah Deering. His farm was near Union Falls. He sold his share in the two saw-mills, called "Leavitt's mills," to his brother Joseph in 1791, and the same year to his son John half of homestead and buildings. Children follow:

His residence was on "Beech Plain road," so-called, in Buxton. His second wife, to whom m. Oct. 29, 1765, was Abigail, daughter of Samuel Dennett, of Saco. He d. June 21, 1829. Children by both wives, as follows:

^{ny} From History of Exeter.

Thomas Leavitt reached Boston (from Eng.) July 1637. It is possible that he proceeded at once to Exeter and this would antedate the settlement. This is the tradition.

Another story is that he accompanied Rev. John Wheelwright (founder of Exeter) and that he was a connection of Wheelwright's wife.

He took upland on Eastern side of the fresh river just above the falls, and the same long remained in the possession of his descendants. In the first division of lands he received one of the smaller shares, 4 acres and 20 poles of upland; being then a young man (for he lived till Nov. 28, 1696.) His name was also appended to the Combination. Went to Hampton to live about 1643.

Married Isabella, daughter of Joshua Bland of Martha's Vineyard, who came from Colchester, Eng. (She had married Francis Asten 1st.) She and Thomas had 8 children and numerous descendants.

Three of the sons were probably residents of Exeter.

The Early settlers of Exeter were adherents of the established church and had little sympathy with the Puritans.

FRANCE IN TRIBUTE TO EDWARD TUCK

High Honors Paid at Funeral In Paris

[Boston Herald-N. Y. Times Wireless]

PARIS, May 6.—Honors almost official in their character were paid today by the French state and municipal officials to the late Edward Tuck, American philanthropist, who was a "citizen of Paris."

Minister of the Beaux Arts Jean Zay, prefect of the Seine valley and President Rene Failliot of the municipal council attended services in the American Cathedral and delivered formal addresses, in which they paid tribute to Mr. Tuck's many generousities to the French people in war and peace and for his patronage to French art.

"The Beaux Arts and National Museums are not alone in being in debt to Mr. Tuck," said Zay, "the University of Paris, the Universitaire France-America committee and friends of the Legion of Honor and numerous hospitals and works of charity owe him particular gratitude."

"The friend we have lost showed such noble and discreet affection for France that we shall never forget him. We bow our heads in respect to the memory of this citizen of the United States, who was also a citizen of Paris and a great citizen of the world."

The church was filled with a gathering including most leaders of the American colony and many prominent French personalities and intimate friends of Mr. Tuck, who lived for 48 years in France. Dean F. W. Beekman conducted the service. Among those who attended were former President Millerand, Gen. Gouraud, Gen. Nollet, Grand Chancellor of the Legion of Honor Langeron, Prefect of Police Henriu Verne, Director of National Museums Jean Bourguignon and director of the Malmaison Museum. Burial took place in St. Germain.

Edward Tuck Made Citizen of Paris

High Honor Bestowed on New Hampshire Man for His Many Benefactions

Paris, Oct. 16 (A.P.)—Edward Tuck, a native of New Hampshire, who has made his home in Paris since 1890, today was made an honorary citizen of this city at a ceremony which brought notables from both countries to the City Hall. General Perahing was there, and J. P. Marriner, charge d'affaires of the American embassy, Gabriel Hanotaux, former foreign minister, and Madame Jusserand, widow of his friend the late ambassador.

Baron de Fontenay, president of the municipal council, in bestowing the honor said, "this capital upon which you have bestowed graces chosen among the most authentic masterpieces of French genius salutes you with respect." Edward Renard, prefect of the Department of the Seine, said, "You always have remained a fervent American, but you also have become a Parisian. Your heart is large enough to love two countries with the same affection."

In his brief acceptance Mr. Tuck quoted Benjamin Franklin: "I would rather have it said of me 'he lived usefully' than 'he died rich.'"

In 1921 Mr. Tuck gave a large art collection to the Petit Palais in Paris and announced he was bequeathing the remainder of his collection to the Petit Palais by will, effective at his death or not later than 1931. Also he gave the chateau of Bois Preau and its library founded by the Empress Josephine to the State so that it might be joined with the Malmaison grounds from which it was separated after the death of Napoleon. Mr. Tuck also presented to the Government Gerard's painting entitled "The Empress Josephine at Malmaison in 1807."

The Stiel Hospital and School of Social Economy founded by Mr. and Mrs. Tuck near Paris twenty-seven years ago bears Mrs. Tuck's maiden name. Mrs. Tuck was an officer of the Legion of Honor.

AVENUE NAMED FOR EDWARD TUCK

PARIS, Jan. 12 (UP)—A street in the center of Paris which has the special distinction of having not a single house standing along it has been named to honor the memory of the American banker and philanthropist, Edward Tuck.

It is called the Avenue Edward Tuck, extends from the Place de la

Concorde to the Petit Palais where the fine Tuck art collection which the banker presented to the city of Paris has been housed since his death. The avenue runs through the gardens situated between the Champs Elysees and the Seine, in which all construction is forbidden. Tuck, who died on April 30, 1938, was one of France's greatest foreign benefactors. He went to France first as a vice-consul appointed by President Lincoln.

Among his notable collections were many Napoleonic souvenirs.

Nine historic houses, many of them dating back to the days of Indian raids in Essex County, will be open to the public for the first time on May 19 when Middleton observes Open House Day from 10 to 4:30 o'clock. Dr. Hopkins, Ex-Senator Moses Left $10,000 Each by Will of Edward Tuck

Myriad Bequests Made to Institutions, Friends
By Philanthropist

PHILLIPS EXETER SHARES BENEFITS

NEW YORK, May 27—A myriad of bequests to institutions, relatives and friends, mostly in New England, were bequeathed in the will of Edward Tuck, American philanthropist who died April 30 at Monte Carlo, Monaco, in his 95th year. The will was filed for probate here today.

Dr. Ernest M. Hopkins, president of Dartmouth College, to which Tuck had made gifts totalling more than $6,000,000 during his lifetime, was bequeathed $10,000. Another $10,000 bequest was to former U. S. Senator George H. Moses of Concord, N. H.

AIDS PHILLIPS EXETER

To Phillips Exeter Academy, from which he was graduated in 1838, Tuck bequeathed the Exeter, N. H. homestead of his father, giving the house and lands to the faculty, their families and friends for residences, but not for club houses or dormitories. This gift was subject to the right of his niece, Laura Nelson, to occupy it during her lifetime.

The will gave $3000 and 200 shares each of Chase National Bank and American Smelting & Refining stock, having a total value at current exchange rates of approximately $11,600, to the Society of the Cincinnati of Exeter, N. H. To the New Hampshire Historical Society was given $5000, 400 shares of the bank stock (about $11,200) and 300 of the smelting stock (about $9000).

He bequeathed 500 bank shares ($14,000) 500 smelting shares ($15,000) and 1000 shares of Hudson Bay Mining & Smelting Company, Ltd., to the niece in Exeter (approximately $23,000). To Ellen French Fitzsimmons of Newport, R. I., a niece, the will left 500 bank shares and 2000 Hudson Bay shares.

OTHER BEQUESTS

Other money and stock bequests included:

The Meeting House Green Memorial Park Association of Hampton, N. H., $3000.
Laura Manix of Exeter, 200 shares of American Smelting and $3000.
Dr. Edward Tuck Manix of Lynn, Mass., 100 American Smelting.
Mrs. Ida A. Tuck of Hartford, Ct., $3000 and 200 American Smelting and bank stock.

Dorothy Whitney of Walpole, N. H., $5000 and 300 American Smelting shares.
Frederick R. Batchelder and his brother, Edward R., both of Hampton, N. H., $3000 and $2000 respectively.
Edward Tuck of Auburn, Mass., 200 bank shares.
Edward Tuck Hall of Boston, 600 bank and American Smelting shares.

The residuary estate is left to Amos Tuck French who has 10-32ds interest; to Julia Tuck Firth of New Haven, Ct., who has 11-32ds; and to Thomas, Dorothy, Catharine and Anne Hooker of New Haven and Emily Morgan Hooker who are to share equally in 11-32ds interest. Thomas Hooker also received 300 bank shares.

The will directed that the miscellaneous contents of Tuck's Paris and Monte Carlo apartments be sold at auction and the proceeds divided between his nephew, Amos Tuck French, and his grandnieces, Mrs. Dorothy Brinley Hall and Julia Tuck Firth of New Haven.

George E. Warren, of New York and Stamford, Ct., vice president of the Chase National Bank, and an executor named in the will, was left 1000 shares of bank stock.

TUCK AND DARTMOUTH

Most of the obituary notices and editorials on the late Edward Tuck, who died last Saturday in Paris at the eminent age of 95, have emphasized his cosmopolitanism. He was undoubtedly a most urbane and cultured gentleman and an adornment to the great city where he chose to live most of his long life, and which he reverently regarded as the intellectual center of the world. His many gifts to the French people, which included practical things like hospitals, parks and playgrounds as well as invaluable collections of modern and ancient art, were evidences of affection which was sincerely reciprocated. But he never forgot the state where he was born, or the college from which he was graduated in 1862. The building at Concord of the New Hampshire Historical Society, for example, was his gift. His remembrances of Dartmouth, which took many forms, are estimated to have entailed expenditures of more than $6,000,000.

Thus while he himself was immersed in the variegated life of a European metropolis, his mind was constantly reverting to the scenes of his youth, and he was ever anxious that other New Hampshire boys might share his good fortune in enjoying familiarity with the heritage of a great civilization. President Hopkins has well expressed the strong attachment Mr. Tuck felt for Dartmouth: "The story of his devotion to the college and its high ideals could be told without mentioning a single gift. For his love for Dartmouth and the love which Dartmouth had for him transcended material things to the point of spiritual relationship that is as near eternal glory as may be achieved by mortal man." The naming of a planet for him by a French astronomer assures him of a niche in universal history, but that honor probably did not please Mr. Tuck as much as did his brotherhood with thousands of Dartmouth men.

TUCK, Edward, retired banker; b. Exeter, New Hampshire, Aug. 21, 1842; s. of Amos T.; A.B. Dartmouth, 1862 (LL.D. 1903); m. Julia Steel (Chevalier de la Légion d'Honneur, 1917), 1872. U.S. v. consul Paris, 1864-5; engaged foreign banking many years New York and Paris. Endowed Dartmouth Coll. Tuck Sch. of Administration and Finance, also Foundation for Instrn. in French lang. and lit. Erected N.H. Hist. Soc. Building, Concord. Founded (1908) and maintains Hôpital Stoll, Rouen, near Paris. Officier Légion d'Honneur; lauréat Académie Française; mem. advisory council Am. Red Cross in Europe. Clubs: Union, Metropolitan (New York). Home: 82 Champs Elysées, Paris, France.

the last of the forty-four hostile Gallic tribes; and, as Mr. Tuck truly observed, it marks the beginning of the "Pax Romana," which, "after civilizing the world, gave it three centuries of happy prosperity."

Originally 160 feet high, it was seven years in building. Along the highroad that it overlooks, the legions marched to Spain. Surmounting it, on graded pyramids, was a statue of the emperor, flanked by two captives. Turned into a fortress in the Middle Ages, it was ordered blown up by Louis XIV, but a sufficient nucleus remained to carry out Mr. Tuck's plan. Even the extensive inscription composed by the elder Pliny has been restored to the base of the monument; but its elaborate sculpture and great bronze doors were lost forever when it was despoiled and mutilated successively by Goths, Vandals and Christians after the wane of Roman might.

Mr. Tuck has left his native State imposing evidences of his liberality. Besides endowing the Amos Tuck School of Administration and Finance at Dartmouth (he is an alumnus of 1862), he founded and endowed the New Hampshire Historical Society at Concord and has given freely to other of our institutions, as well as to the American Museum of Natural History in New York City. In France, he established a hospital and school of domestic economy at Rouen-Malmaison; donated the Domain of Bois-Preau and rare Napoleonic relics to Malmaison, and presented to the republic a collection of art works, gems and tapestries valued at $5,000,000. He has been decorated with the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor; and Dartmouth honored him, in 1903, with the degree of LL.D. It may well be said of him, as Johnson observed of Goldsmith: He "touched nothing that he did not adorn."

Mr. Tuck's Last Benefaction

[From the Manchester Union]

Edward Tuck, distinguished son of Exeter and often referred to as the "grand old man of Dartmouth," in his ninety-second year has made still another lavish benefaction to France, the country which he adopted as a residence in 1890. At his initiative and expense, the "Trophée des Alpes"—that great monument erected 120 years ago on the hill of La Turbie, behind Monte Carlo, for Augustus, first of the Caesars, has been restored in the main, and was recently rededicated with ceremonies at which the New Hampshire philanthropist was appropriately lauded for insuring the preservation of one of the most significant historical links between the present and the past.

The Alpine trophy was put up by the Roman Senate and people to commemorate the conquest, under Augustus, of
