

PETER LIVENGOOD-Sr. had warrented to him June, 5, 1786, a tract of land as "Peter's Purchase" was a very old man when he settled on this side of the Monongahela. His land was situated on Upper branch of Muddy Creek, near the ridge where Jack Morris lives. Most of his children had married in Fayette Co. and were living there at the time of Peter Livingood's death in 1814. His son-in-law Smith served as his exec. and as such sold the land on August, 4, 1826 to William Kincaid. His will was probated Jan. 14, 1814, and no wife named. John Lemley, named as executor, did not serve.

I have listed the children & etc--all this from "Ten Mile--" 1790 census--Washington Co. Pa--

JACOB LIVENGOOD-and his wife Catherine,were warrantees of "Green Bush"on Feb,13,1789.They sold out in 1806 & disappeared from local records.It appears they had a daughter Catherine Livengood among their children and she married James Lucas,a neighbor on a branch of Big Whitely Creek. That they had other children is indicated by the census record of 1790 when Jacob Livengood ~~had~~ head of house a family of 1-2-4.

BENJAMIN LIVENGOOD in the same neighborhood had-1-2-1-,& could have been the son of Jacob & Catherine.

the NICHOLAS LIVENGOOD family say that this Jacob was a brother of their ancestor...

There is a very old field ^{stone} marker in the Livengood section of the Fort Garrard Cemetery on which is carved in very plain letters, July 19, 1785---May, 1766. There are no initials or other marks to identify this burial, the earliest dated marker we have seen in this county. It might well be the 1st local ancestor of the Livengood family, as there are traditions which indicate the family was represented in Fayette Co. as early as 1753. No definite records are uncovered to the relationship of the three early settlers of the "Ten Mile" Country. They may have been brothers as claimed by some descendants, or they may have been separate individuals.

Dear Mrs Forbes:

I have a minute before starting lunch so will start this & add more later.

I had your letter and Data here in a pile of letters to write to again, and just noticed you had a note at the end of the note that you had many Washington Co. Pa. cemetery records...As of this month we have been welding that missing link we have hunted for years...My GGGgrandfather's home, parents & etc...Well, we found our george on the will of his sisters father--so it has to be his. The previous one we had from Leckey's "Ten Mile Country & Pioneer families" didn't have any George on it BUT I had a strong feeling we were on the right track as our George had sold out in Ky. and disappeared!!! just at the time the father of the gal whom we were sure was his sister as they bought land from the same Warrant in Ohio, in samw Twp & etc...So I wrote for a copy of the will of this Peter Livingood, of Green Co (Formerly of Washington Co) recorder & sure enough there was George on the end of the list of kids...They had been a n earlier will a gal tolk me--from 1808 and then this one, so maybe he wasn't listed on that one tho I wouldn't know why--unless George wasn't there at the time...Anyway he was on this one...

Now..perhaps you would be so kind as to check your Cemetery rec. for the names of Livingood-Levengood-

We have Peter Levingood (Livingood) Sr. with children mentioned: no wife mentioned (& we wonder if she might have been Eva Lindeman

Just to give you an idea of what I have on this family.
 - - Are you still so busy with volunteer work?? After getting me over the Centennial last fall I proceeded to have a light heart flare-up which put me on the shelf for a while--THEN my crazy bladder troubles caught up with me for the winter-Am some improved--I suppose one gets run down trying to work both ends of the candle like I did all last yr...Then late winter found me volunteering to catalogue the local cemetery--I thot IF I used the Secty's records I could do it in 3 dayssilly me!! it took a full month of part time..but am about all done.The guy has misplaced the earliest certificate of Death book-so I'll have to read the stones for the earliest ones.The lot #,name of owner and people buried thereon is there but no dates & of course no parents & etc like the cert. has.
