THE WILLIAM J. LUNSFORD FAMILY BIBLE. Submitted by Mr. Charles R. Hencely, 5242 Hencely Rd., Marianna, FL 32446. This Family Bible was owned by William J. Lunsford, and wife Mary Frances Adams Lunsford. It passed to their son William S. Lunsford, and his wife Sarah Blanche Hencely. After their deaths it was in the possession of Their daughter Sarah Blanch Lunsford Williams. Some family members told Charles Hencely that it was removed from Sarah Blanche Lunsford Williams' home by Thelma Blanch Roquemore, who was a daughter of Effie D. Lunsford and Charlie Roquemore. The Bible is now the property of Mrs. Guy (Bernice) Johnson of Rt. 3, Forsyth, GA 31029. These people all are from Monroe Co., GA. (1994)

15th ANNUAL FAMILY REUNION BOOKLET of the HENCELY FAMILY, 1992. This Reunion was held at the Monroe County Club House in Forsyth, GA on Sunday, June 7, 1992. This booklet contains pictures and article which appeared in the Forsyth, GA paper of Aug. 21, 1991 on their placing a marker in the old family cemetery located off Highway 18. Those attending the reunion are descendants of Major Wesley T. and Susan Tabitha Taylor Hencely. This cemetery is on the old family plantation which contained 670 acres stretching to Dames Ferry Rd.

Major Hencely came to Monroe Co. in 1840. He served in the Indian Wars. He and his wife had 9 children born between 1843 and 1860, of whom 3 are buried in the family cemetery. The three buried in this cemetery are: John Samuel Hencely, a Confederate soldier who died of measles at Guinea Station, VA, and Frances Ann and Elihu Thomas Hencely who died in their teens.

Major Hencely's mother, Frances Thompson Hencely, lived with them and helped raise the children. The Major died in 1861. Frances went blind but lived into her 80s and at her death was buried in this same cemetery.

The other children who lived to grow up, marry, have a family, and were buried elsewhere are: Wesley Decale Hencely, the Rev. Benjamin Lewis Hencely, Elizabeth Cynthia Oregon Hencely Thigpen, Patrick Henry Hencely, William Jeremiah Hencely, and Sally Tabitha Hencely Chambliss.

Booklet also contains obituary for Henry Troy Hooper, born May 20, 1917, died Dec. 3, 1991, taken from the "Masonic Messenger." The Program for the Reunion gives a picture of John S. Hencely, oldest son of Major Wesley T. Hencely, born 1843 and Died July 18, 1862 at Guinea Station, VA.

There is a page of obituaries: Albert Watson Hencely (2 obits.), Bessie Thompson Chase, and William Cullen Lunsford.

Following the obituaries is a page titled: "First Three Generations of the Hencely Family in Georgia" starting with Major Wesley T. Hencely, son of Samuel Hencely and Frances Thompson, who married Susan Tabitha Taylor, dau. of John Taylor and Eady Broadaway, b. Nov. 15, 1821; and had 9 children (see below). Each of the nine children are given with each of their children listed with their birth and death dates. The next 7 pages contains biographical information on each of the children along with numerous small pictures of them, some showing them from youth to elderly in age.

Maj. Wesley T. Hencely - son of Samuel Hencely & Frances Thompson, b. ca. 1813 in Laurens Dist., SC, d. Sept. 3, 1861 at his plantation home on the Dames Ferry Rd. in Monroe Co., GA. He m. Dec. 30, 1841 in Monroe Co., GA Susan Tabitha Taylor, dau. of John Taylor & Eady Broadaway, b. Nov. 15, 1821 in Edgefield Dist., SC, d. July 11, 1886 at her plantation home in Monroe Co., GA. Children were:

- I. John S. (Samuel?) Hencely - b. ca. 1843, d. July 18, 1862 at Guinea Station, VA, CSA casualty.
- II. Wesley Decale Hencely - b. Apr. 25, 1845, d. Feb. 14,

CHAPTER 3

MARTHA HOLLINGSWORTH

Martha Hollingsworth, daughter of Vincent, is identified on his probate record only as Mrs. Lemuel Lunsford. Her name, Martha, comes to us by way of family tradition passed through her son to Abraham's daughter, Alabama, and from her to her grandson Ronald Couch.

Since there is no official record that names the children of Martha and Lemuel, a family list has been constructed using the censuses of 1800, 1810, 1830, and 1840. The author believes that all the Lunsford men listed with Lemuel on the 1830 Clay County census except Jacob, namely Ephraim, John, Isaac, Hiram, and Silas, are sons of Lemuel and Martha. As well as being present in the same location as Lemuel these five men fit the enumerated categories on the censuses for his male children. The same men with the addition of the name David are also on the 1840 census. Jacob is too old to be a son, but could be Lemuel's brother. He does not appear in censuses of Clay County again.

The only son of Martha and Lemuel whose name appears in a legal document is James. His name is in the Clay County Deed Book "B" in an entry dated September 29, 1837, stating that Lemuel Lunsford bequeathed to James, his son, "three cows and calves, one horse, and all of the present crop." James married in 1843, so his first census as head of household was in 1850 in Clay County, Kentucky. Listed with James' family were John and Elizabeth Lunsford, ages 85 and 80 respectively. John may be the same John Lunsford listed near Lemuel on the 1800 census of Ashe County, North Carolina. The author believes John and Elizabeth are the parents of Lemuel, James' grandparents.

Descendant Ronald Couch identifies Abraham as a son of Martha and Lemuel. Abraham lived in Laurel County. He married in 1843 and is head of household on the Laurel County census of 1850. It is said that some of the family could not agree with Abraham's views about states' rights. After an unpleasant argument one day, Abraham decided to leave Kentucky. He moved his family to Missouri far away from relatives and joined the Union Army.

Only one daughter, Mary Lunsford, can be identified with any certainty. Mary married Jordin Cornett in 1833; the marriage record names Lemuel as her father. Elizabeth Lunsford, the third wife of Squire Hollingsworth, son of Martha's brother Beasley, fits the description of the youngest daughter. The other two daughters are yet to be identified.

Hiram and Silas, sons of Martha and Lemuel, both married their cousins, two daughters of Martha's brother, William Hollingsworth. Hiram married Lydia; 21 months later, Silas married her sister Nancy. One of Martha and Lemuel's grandsons married Permelia Hollingsworth, a granddaughter of William. All of their families belong equally to Martha's chapter and William's chapter of this book.

LUNS福德 TRAILS

Hiram Lunsford (1805, NC) and Lydia Hollingsworth (1806, NC) were married and raised their eight children on farms in Kentucky. Reports differ about how Hiram met his death. According to his death certificate, he died of consumption (tuberculosis). A second account, given by his granddaughter Martha Lunsford Wilkey says "he was burning brush on his farm in Jackson County, Kentucky when his pant leg got caught in the brush and he couldn't get loose. Lydia called him to dinner and finally went out to see why he hadn't come. She found him badly burned, and he lived only a few days."

After Hiram's death, Lydia lived with Hiram, Jr. in Lee County, Kentucky. Mary Jane Lunsford Williams remembered her grandmother Lydia, sitting "by a certain window, knitting and doing patchwork," and remarked about her "beautiful, black eyes." Granddaughter Martha, who believed Lydia to have been one-quarter Indian (of an unknown tribe) recalled how Lydia's pet dog had run after them as they took Lydia's body to the cemetery.

Hiram, Jr. (1836, KY) and his wife, Nancy, (1838, KY) had a total of ten children. They had been married about four years when Hiram enlisted in the Eighth Regiment, Kentucky Infantry in 1861 at Estill Springs. Much of his three years of service was spent in hospitals. Family tradition says that "he got so thin that his wife, Nancy, a small woman about five feet tall, could lift him, even though he was . . . nearly six feet tall." Nancy moved with the children to Indiana to protect them from the war, but she was known to leave them there with a friend while she and another lady rode horseback a great distance to visit their husbands.

Hiram and Nancy's first two children were born in Kentucky; the next three, in Indiana. The next two were born in Kansas after the Civil War where they homesteaded near Lawrence. Finally the last three children were born back in their native Kentucky. Their daughter Lucy remembered their returning to Kentucky by covered wagon some years after the Civil War. They lived on a 1,000-acre farm deeded to them by Nancy's father, Davis Arvin. The cedar log house, built by Nancy's parents, was two-story in the front. The farm was "all virgin timber, and included a grist mill and sawmill about 10 miles out of Beattyville, Kentucky in Lee County. The Kentucky River flowed right by the house.

The land was mountainous with steep cliffs. Their family made a living buying land and logging the timber. Trees were trimmed, branded, slid over the cliff into the river, and floated downstream to sawmills. Lucy, daughter of Nancy and Hiram, Jr., married Clayton Reynolds. Their children played on stumps that were 6 feet across. Lucy's brother George, according to stories originating with George's daughter, Martha Lunsford Wilkey, relate that "Papa (George) grew up near Beattyville, going to school and helping on the farm. He worked on the Kentucky River, helping take rafts of logs down the river to Frankfort and other markets. Sometime he cooked for the loggers on the shanty."

Lucy told how her parents reared their family with prayer, reading the Bible each day. Pappy, as she called Hiram, was great to "sing the songs of praise to his Maker." According to granddaughter Mattie Walton, Hiram and Nancy, who were Methodists, opened their Kentucky farm to host the periodic camp meetings conducted by traveling ministers. About the end of June or early July, when the crops had been "laid by," meetings were conducted daily for two to four weeks. People came from miles around and camped out, sleeping in wagons and on the ground. Poles were situated and branches cut to provide a "brush arbor" for the meetings. In typical fashion, Hiram and Nancy provided food, including fresh corn and apples from their farm.

Hiram served as a judge in Lee County, but in 1913, Hiram and Nancy moved to Arkansas with six of their children: Jessie, Josie, Hiram III, George, Lydia, and Mary Ann. Hiram died of a stroke and was buried on his farm near Leslie, Arkansas in 1917.

A FAMILY HISTORY POEM

By Mary Jane Lunsford

One day in the springtime,
When I was fourteen,
Sister and I and the boys between us
We moved back to our home
Where we lived before mother left us.
We were lonely at first
Our uncles and grandparents were lonely, too,
But we went to see them often.
At the close of day we would sing songs,
And my father would read a chapter
In the same little Bible that I now read.
There we would kneel while papa asked God to keep us
And thanked him for our blessings.

Those days have gone forever,
But not the memory of them.
I often go back in my dreams and daydreams
To the places where we spent so many hours together,
The swing on the double apple tree,
The hillside where we coasted in the snow,
The big pines where we went to get wintergreen and tea berries,
And in the springtime
We found the first snowdrops and sweet williams.

THE HOLLIN BRANCH

(Rosa May Lunsford [Smith] born in 1909, contributed the following story recalling her childhood on Laurel Creek in Clay County, Kentucky, six miles from Manchester.)

When I was a child, all the families on the "Hollin Branch" were related. Our ancestors, William Hollingsworth and Martha Hollingsworth Lunsford, children of Vincent of North Carolina, came to Kentucky in the early eighteen hundreds. William moved on to Indiana, and later to Missouri, but some of his married children stayed in Clay County. On the Hollin Branch we were descendants of Jonathan and Nancy, son and daughter of William, and of Silas, Nancy's husband, who was the son of Martha.

Hollingsworth is an old Saxon family name. In speech many old English words and phrases were used. For example: The fences around the house and garden were called "palings" (pickets); all green leafy vegetables were called sallet (salad); the word booger was used in two ways: (1) an imaginary thing feared, (2) used with another word, that is, a big booger, a little booger, or a wild booger.

Our way of life in Clay County had changed very little over the past one hundred years. One exception was that log cabins were replaced with frame cottages. In addition to farm tools, we had carpenter tools, cobbler tools, and a blacksmith shop. Food was from the farm and hills. We cured meat, dried beans and apples, raised popcorn to pop over the open fire and peanuts to roast in the oven. We had wild berries, papaws, persimmons, walnuts, and hickory nuts. Near the Hollin graveyard there was a big chestnut tree. At one place along the branch (creek) an old russet apple tree leaned over the watergate (a gate fastened to posts at the top so that it could move with the water). In some places the branch was only a few inches deep, running over smooth slate rock--a wonderful place for children to wade.

The head of the family was Grandpa John, Jonathan's son, who had a long white beard. He was over eighty years old, but had a lively interest in everything concerning the family. Everyone worked, but each had different skills and talents. Each fall for several weeks Tommy and Bill, John's sons, went to work in a small local coal mine to get coal for the fireplaces in their homes. Another son of John, Woodson, died in a coal mine accident in 1906. Tommy, who was good with the butchering and with bees, gathered delicious wild flower honey. Bill had a cellar in the side of the hill where he stored apples. He would open a barrel of big red apples at Christmas and New Year's. Fred, Nancy's grandson, made hogsheads (large barrels) which were used to ship tobacco to market; he was also a carpenter. Frank, Woodson's son, was in charge of sorghum making. We children loved what we called the stir-off. When the sorghum was almost finished cooking, Frank would skim off the sweet golden foam into a pan, and we would eat it warm.

The women made soap, quilts, feather beds, and knitted socks. A lovely red, white, and blue quilt made by Tommy's mother-in-law, Martha Hambrick, is displayed in the Kentucky History Museum at Frankfort. Maude, Fred's wife and foster child of Tommy and Sophronia, sewed everything from baby clothes to wedding dresses. Sophronia was the best cook, making pound cake for special occasions and communion bread for church (Baptist). Sarah, Bill's wife, was the one called in sickness. She could deliver a baby if the doctor didn't arrive in time. On one occasion while the doctor was gone to the barn to see a new colt, Aunt Sarah delivered the child.

The small children received lots of loving attention from the older cousins. Years later, one said, "Mae was two years old before she walked." Cousin Garrett, Bill's son, replied, "Why should she walk? There was always someone to carry her, and most of the time, it was me." When Garrett came home from France after World War I, he didn't let anyone know when he would arrive. He passed our house first. I, May, was the proud, happy little girl that helped carry his luggage up the Hollin Branch to his home.

After the war, the younger generation moved, as many of their ancestors had. Bill's sons and daughters went to Ohio. Fred (my family) moved to Indiana. After 1920, we only had visits to the Hollin Branch, but always referred to the visits as "going home."
