JOSEPH (1) PAULL (1657-1717)

JOSEPH (1) PAULL born July 14, 1657, died June 1717, a Sargemaker of Ilminster, Somerset County, England, emigrated to Oxford Township, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania, in the fall of 1685, shortly after William Penn founded the City of Philadelphia.

Ilminster is in the southwestern part of Somersetshire, about ten miles from Taunton and near to the boundary lines of Devonshire and Dorsetshire. Pauls live in Ilminster today, and have lived there since early Tudor times, and probably longer. The name in the old records is spelled indifferently, Pol, Poole, Polle, Pawle, Pall, Palle, and no doubt in other ways. Among Germans who came from the Rhine country to Ilminster during the reign of Edward VI, was Peter Meyer of Sesslingen, Bezirksamt Stockach, Oberrhein.

In 1587, Peter's daughter, Maria, married William Paull, also of Ilminster, who was the Great Grandfather of Joseph (1). This William Paull was a "clothier," as was his son John. His Grandson William, and Great Grandson Joseph (1) were both "sergemakers." William Paull was a Church Warden of Ilminster Church during the reign of Charles II.

At Weston, Combe St. Nicholas, five miles distant from Ilminster, lived Henry Bonner, J.P. He entered in his registry that on Tuesday, October 23, 1655, he went to Ilminster and there married William Paull and Mary Townsend (spelled Townesind), "both of Ilminster." At this marriage were born a number of children, including Joseph Paull (1). After the death of this wife, William Paull married on December 9, 1669, as his second wife, Petronella Somers.

Quakers were numerous in Ilminster even before the Restoration of King Charles II. In the year 1659 the Ilminster Meeting numbered 290 persons and among them is found William's brother Thomas. In "Besse's Sufferings" there is a detailed record of the hardships to which his religion subjected Thomas Paull.

Joseph (1) Paull was born at Ilminster July 14, 1657, and the influence of his uncle Thomas is sufficient to account for his presence as a boy at the Ilminster Quarterly Meeting on 9/4/1674 and 7/4/1675. His name does not again occur in the Ilminster records until 1681. During this interval he was residing at or near Barliscombe in Devonshire. At this time he must have contracted his friendship with Robert Welsh, a well known Quaker of considerable means who lived about one mile away at Ufculm, and who, when he afterwards wanted an agent to manage his land in West Jersey, chose Joseph Paull, then living in Philadelphia.

At the age of twenty-three Joseph (1) Paull chose a wife. His marriage certificate is recorded in the records of Collumpton (Devon) Meeting dated the second day 3rd mo. commonly called May 1685. There were 25 witnesses. (Holcomb Rogus which is given as the residence of Joseph Paull at the time of his marriage is very near Barliscombe.)

Shortly after this, Joseph returned with his wife to Ilminster and is there recorded among those present at the Ilminster meeting continuously from 1681 to 29/5/1685. This date in the Quaker calendar corresponds to July 29, 1685, and is the last occurrence of his name in the Ilminster meeting records.

It is also recorded that Petronella Paull, the wife of William, died 9th, 8 mo. 1678. From other records it appears that "William Paull, sergemaker obiit June 3, 1683."

Edward Blinman of Shepton Mallet, a Clothier, on May 10, 1682, obtained from William Penn a deed for 1000 Acres to be laid out in Pennsylvania. Edward Blinman (or Blendman) never came to Pennsylvania, but his town lots in Philadelphia were designated by his name on Holme's map, and his purchase was subsequently made over to his fellow-prisoner, Joseph Paull.

Nine prisoners of the name Paull were convicted of treason, six of whom were executed. Four Pauls from Ilminster suffered death, their names being Thomas Paull, John Paull, George Paull, and William Paull, the son of John. Of these, Thomas Paull was the uncle of Joseph.

We now come to the year 1685 in which Joseph Paull transported himself and his family to Pennsylvania and became a citizen of Philadelphia, and our inquiry naturally is, why he did so. The influences which led to this step are not difficult to determine. The harassing persecution of his sect must be reckoned with, but this alone does not account for what occurred, for persecution was markedly relaxed in 1685, as soon as James II came to the throne.

Perhaps a further factor encouraging emigration from Ilminster at this time was the great distress into which the woolen trade in the West of England fell, which reached its culmination in the year 1685.

But the altogether dominant event which suddenly changed the life of all the people of Somersetshire in the summer of 1685 was the rebellion of the Protestant Duke of Monmouth, who on June 11 landed at Lyme Regis, only fifteen miles from Ilminster.

The ties binding Joseph Paull to the town of his ancestors had suddenly snapped. His parents, including his stepmother, had died some time since. His collateral family had been ruined as the result of the Rebellion.

At all events we have little difficulty in picturing why on September 10, 1685, he secured a deed from his old friend, Edward Blinman, for a one-quarter interest in the latter's thousand acres in Pennsylvania, and made immediate preparations for a journey across the ocean. A day's journey brought him and his family to Bristol, where doubtless, accompanied by friends and acquaintances all bound for Pennsylvania, he set sail. By what ship we do not know, but it is likely to have been the "Unicorn," Thomas Cooper, master, sailing from Bristol, which reached Philadelphia December 16, 1685; for this vessel carried among others the Broadwell family, of whom the daughter Mary was married to Yeamens Gillingham, whose daughter Ann married Henry Paull (Penna. Mag., Vol. 8, page 338). By this ship, or one sailing about the same time, heart-sick from the judicial murder of many of his family and friends, but accompanied by his wife and two little children and with high hopes for the future, he made the voyage and reached the Quaker City, already numbering 2500 inhabitants.

The record of Joseph Paull, the earliest on this side of the Atlantic, occurs in the records of Philadelphia Quarterly Meeting, first day, first month, 1685-6.

Arriving, as Joseph Paull did, with the winter coming on, he and his family must have lodged for a time in the city while making arrangements to take up his land and build his home. Perhaps he stayed at the Pewter Platter on Front Street, then owned by Robert Adams, from whom at this time he purchased his land. For although possessed of a deed entitling him to 250 acres of Edward Blinman's land, he did not at once proceed to have this allotted to him. It was as yet unlocated, and by this time all the available land within a dozen miles or so of the city was taken up. He must, therefore, either live in the city on the town lot to which he was entitled, or remove far away into unsettled land not as yet purchased from the Indians, or buy land from those who had taken up their rights at an earlier date nearer the city. He chose the latter alternative. A little way up Frankford Creek it is joined by what is called Little Tacony Creek. Joseph's land formed the lower part of what was then known as Oxford Township, Philadelphia County. It became part of the City of Philadelphia in 1854.

The only road in the neighborhood was the dirt road following the old Indian trail up the river and known as the "King's Way" from Philadelphia to the Falls of the Delaware. The little creeks which it crossed were not bridged as yet, but must be forded by the traveller. Map printed in HNP.

A little nearer the mouth of the creek lived some Swedes owning Taconing Township, a very unhealthy low lying tract. The Swedes had built a saw mill there before the coming of Penn which was called Frankford Mill.

Just north of Henry Waddy's land was a larger tract of 195 acres owned by the Robert Adams who kept the Pewter Platter Inn in the city. The portion nearest Frankford Creek he would keep for himself, but the rest he was ready to sell. The purchasers were Joseph Paull and William Buzby who bought respectively 90 and 100 acres apiece. The deeds are dated June 2, 1686. For his 90 acres, constituting the central part of the Adams tract including both banks of Little Tacony Creek, Joseph Paull paid 18 pounds.

Upon this land he settled probably before the date of the deed, employing the fine weather of April and May in erecting his log house, for on June 7, 1686, the delegates from Oxford Meeting to Philadelphia Quarterly Meeting were Joseph Paull, Robert Adams, John Hart and John Barnes. Indeed, there was need for haste in preparing the new home for the minutes of Oxford Meeting further record that on June 23, 1686, "Henry Paul, son of Joseph and Margaret Paul was born in Oxford."

We may, therefore, safely assume that during the summer of 1686 the family, now increased to five, were living in their own home in the beautiful little valley through which ran the head waters of Little Tacony Creek.

The homestead thus established on the west bank of the creek remained in the family for three generations until just before the Revolutionary War. The elder Joseph Paull added 150 acres to it by later purchases, and his son Joseph added 200 acres more. The succeeding purchaser named the place "Glenfield Farm" which name it carried for a hundred years. It was until lately a farming tract owned by Frank Fisher, but it has now passed into the region of the rapidly developing building operations, induced by the opening of the Northeast Boulevard which runs diagonally directly through the tract. On the map of Philadelphia its bounds may be identified roughly by the lines of Castor Avenue on the west, Battersby Street on the east, Unruh Street on the north and Devereux Street on the south. The old mansion was north of the Boulevard where it crosses the tract and near where Levick Street bridges Little Tacony Creek (or Tackawanna Run).

The sole surviving letter of Joseph Paull was written when he was thirty years of age to an elderly friend in Somerset. It is preserved in the Friends' Library at Devonshire House, London (MS. Portfolio 24, No. 11). (Copy printed in HNP.)

Thus far we have referred only to the purchase of the homestead. But in addition to this, Joseph purchased 116 acres in Dublin Township from Richard Busby. Also 500 acres in the same township from Samuel Allen. He further acquired 492 acres in Bucks County. This latter was on account of his purchase from Edward Blinman, in connection with which he also owned two town lots and 15 acres of Liberty land. The first of these transactions is evidenced by a deed dated November 15, 1695, by which Richard Busby conveyed to Joseph Paull, 100 acres of (unsurveyed) land in Dublin Township.

In those days Dublin Township was a long strip of land on both sides of the Pennypack (which was at first named Dublin River). It was in 1700 divided into Upper Dublin, Abington (called for a few years Hilltown), and Lower Dublin Townships, of which the two former are now in Montgomery County, while the latter is part of the City of Philadelphia.

On Holme's map is shown Robert Fairman's grant in Dublin Township, covering what is now Fox Chase. The 116 acres thus purchased was the southernmost part of the tract bordering on the shoulder which Cheltenham Township there makes with the City Line.

His next purchase was made March 4, 1698, and is shown by a deed of that date from "Samuel Allen of Philadelphia, Cordwainer, to Joseph Paull of the City of Philadelphia, Yeoman." It covers a tract on "Pennipoca Creek". (Exemplification, Bk. 7, 194; Do., Bk. E-3, 146.) This large tract of land is now in Abington Township, north of Jenkintown, crossing the valley. He gave it in 1710 to his youngest son James.

In tracing the purchases thus far described, no reference has been made to the outcome of his original purchase from Edward Blinman. It must now be explained what became of this.

Purchasers of one thousand acres of land in Pennsylvania were entitled to claim in addition thereto two city lots and sixteen acres of Liberty land. These latter were laid out in Northern Liberties and were in lieu of the liberty of pasturage there originally contemplated.

On October 26, 1686, Joseph Paul recorded his deed from Edward Blinman and on November 22 following obtained in regular course a warrant for a survey of the 250 acres therein called for in Bucks County. On January 7, 1688, he sold to Robert Turner of Philadelphia, Merchant, the four acres of City Liberty lands to which he was entitled "proportionable to Joseph Paull's 250 acres" purchased from Blinman.

In the meantime he had been in correspondence with Blinman looking towards the purchase of the balance of the latter's 1000 acres. By securing this he would obtain the two choice town lots which on Holme's City Plan stand in the name of "Edward Blardham". These are lot No. 23 running from Front to Second Street, one lot south of High (Market) Street; and lot No. 71 at the northwest corner of Seventh and High Streets. He found that Blinman had already conveyed (probably without receiving the consideration) 250 acres to Thos. Dickerson, and 250 acres to Nathaniel Bryan. But Blinman made an endorsement on his counterpart of the original Deed, under date of January 23, 1688, undertaking to convey to Joseph Paul the whole of his 1000 acres. At the same time he secured an instrument from Nathaniel Bryan transferring his right to 250 acres to Joseph Paull; but the remaining one-fourth interest outstanding in Thomas Dickerson he apparently could not secure. A tract in Bucks County bears the name of "Thos. Dickerson" on Holme's map. Consequently Joseph Paull was never able to obtain legal title to more than 750 acres of the 1000 acres which Blinman sold him.

Apparently the warrant of 1686 had not been executed, for on May 3, 1688, he secured another warrant for 246 acres in Bucks County. This he sold in 1697 to George Willard, Sr. (246 acres in Southampton Township).

On February 22, 1690, Joseph made formal application for warrants to take up "the lotts, Liberty land and 492 acres." And the same day warrants issued, one granting him 492 acres to be surveyed in Bucks County, another for 8 acres of Liberty land, and another for a city lot. The first thing to be secured was the city lot. On March 1, 1690, Commissioners ordered "that Joseph Paul have his lott laid out on the front where it fell." But there was further delay and he did not get his patent for over two years. The original document granting him this lot is dated June 28, 1692, and describes the lot as in width 20 feet and in length 396 feet running from Delaware front to Second St. It was separated from Front and Market by one "vacant" lot. He shortly afterwards sold this lot to "John Jennett of Phila., Taylor." The deed is dated November 24, 1693.

But it was not until June 15, 1702, that Joseph took further steps to secure his as yet unsurveyed and unlocated tract in Bucks. On this day he explained to the Commissioners that his warrant was not yet executed and asked for a new one. This was ordered accordingly "if the other be not surveyed." Two years later the warrant issued - April 19, 1704. On June 5, 1708, twenty years after he had paid Blinman for the land, the patent issued to him granting 492 acres in Bucks County at what was called "Plumstead". This land in dividing his estate he gave to his sons Henry and John.

Joseph also succeeded in getting his other town lot. Minute Book G of the Commissioners records under date of February 26, 1705, as follows: "The Commissioners granted to J. Paul a warrant dated 22, 12 mo- 1690 for taking up the Lotts, which was executed in Front Street and returned, and in High Street also tis said but not returned. J. Paul craves a new warrant on the High St. lott." On April 23, 1705, a return was made to him for this lot. It was at the northwest corner of Seventh and Market. He ultimately gave it to his son Henry.

Why there was this long delay in perfecting his titles can only be surmised. In the end he got the 750 acres of land (with the Liberty lots) to which he was clearly entitled; and both town lots to which, although equitably belonging to him, his legal title was not so clear.

There is on record in New Jersey a power of attorney dated March 2, 1692, from "Robert Welsh, late of Uffculm, now of Kentisbeere, County of Devon, Gentleman, to James Jacob, cordwainer, and Joseph Paull, clothier, both of Philadelphia "constituting them his agents to dispose of his one-tenth of a share in West Jersey. This one-tenth share had been conveyed December 24, 1684, by Edward Bylling of London to "Robert Welsh of Uffculm Co. of Devon, gent." (Uffculm is quite near Barliscomb, where Joseph Paull had lived as a young man.)

Under this Power of Attorney on August 23, 1697, a warrant was granted "to Jos. Paul ye attorney of ye within mentioned Robert Welsh for 1000 acres being the whole quantity of ye within written deed for the 1st & 2nd taking up." (NJA 21:498, 512, 679).

The first and only public office which fell to Joseph Paull was membership in the General Assembly of the Province. This was the year after he arrived. He attended the Assembly which was held at Philadelphia on the tenth, eleventh and twelfth days of May, 1687. He was present throughout the session. (CWNJ).

Throughout his life Joseph Paull was, with one enforced intermission, actively connected with the Society of Friends, chiefly as a member of Oxford Meeting, then connected with Philadelphia Quarterly Meeting. He was a delegate from Oxford Meeting to Philadelphia Quarterly Meeting on June 7 and December 6, 1686; March 7, June 8, September 3 and December 5, 1687; May 25, 1691; February 27, 1693; November 25, 1695; August 31, 1696; February 22 and August 31, 1697; May 27, 1700; August 31, 1702; August 30, 1703. (The meeting had been held often at the house of John Hart, who established near his house a burying ground where all the early interments of the Paull family, including the father, were made.)

Many times must the delegates have jogged over what is now Nicetown Lane on their way from Oxford to Germantown in the settlement of business.

The Pennypack was at this time called "Dublin Creek" and had given its name to the large township in which it lay. Just at this time the Oxford Meeting (which embraced also Friends from the adjoining Dublin Township) was often called Dublin Meeting, as we may learn from an entry (September 3, 1687) which reads: "Friends from Oxford alias Dublin Meeting - Jos. Paull, Henry Waddy, Richard Waln"

On January 7, 1695/6, Joseph Paull was at Burlington Meeting (N.J.) intending to visit Friends in New England.

In February, 1700, Joseph Paull and his eldest son were in Philadelphia, and were present (February 19th) at the marriage of Samuel Powell and Abigail Wilcox. Both he and his son, Joseph, signed the certificate. It is interesting to notice that the certificate was signed first by William Penn. It was also signed by Hannah Penn.

The first wedding in Joseph Paull's own family was that of his only daughter, Ann, to John Knowles, a thriving young carpenter of Philadelphia. This took place at Oxford, fifth day of the fourth month, 1705.

Four years later in May, 1709, John Paull married Mary Livezey.

On July 4, 1710, Joseph Paull made a general division of his considerable real estate among his sons. The six deeds are dated the same day. They were executed by Joseph Paull of Oxford Township, yeoman, and Margaret, his wife, to their several sons "in consideration of love and affection."

Two deeds convey "to their son and heir apparent, Joseph Paul, the younger, all that message or tenement and plantation whereon the said Joseph Paul, the elder, now dwells in Oxford Township with the three tracts thereunto belonging," amounting in all to 235 acres.

Another deed, dated July 5, 1700, conveys to their son, Henry Paull, carpenter, 392 acres in Bucks County, part of the 492 for which Joseph Paull had obtained the patent two years previously. This is the tract in Plumsted. (Deed H5:84).

Two more deeds convey to their son, John Paull, the remaining 100 acres of the Bucks County grant and the tract of 116 acres in Dublin Township, near Fox Chase purchased in 1695 from Richard Busty.

The remaining deed conveys to their son, James, the 500-acre tract in Abington Township on the Pennypack, purchased in 1688 from Samuel Allen.

The only real property which Joseph retained was his lot in Philadelphia on High Street.

On May 3, 1711, Joseph Paull, and Margaret, his wife, transferred to Henry Paull, the property in Philadelphia, measuring 26½ feet by 306 feet, bounded on the south by High (Market) St., on the East by a line 26½ feet from the 6th street from the Delaware and parallel thereto, on the north with the ends of Mulberry Street lots, and on the west by a vacant lot (PaD F9:393).

The parents continued to live in the homestead with their eldest son, who, however, very soon chose a wife. The marriage took place at Philadelphia Meeting March 28, 1711.

There were two sons of Joseph (1) Paull as yet unmarried. Their weddings followed in quick succession. Henry Paull married Ann Gillingham April 26, 1716, at the meeting house in Oxford Township "many friends being present." She was the daughter of Yeamans Gillingham, who owned the greater part of the tract of Thomas Fairman.

James Paull, the youngest son, married on May 31, 1716, Joan (Jane) Wilmerton, daughter of another neighbour, Atwell Wilmerton.

In June, 1717, Joseph Paull was "very sick and weak of body," and accordingly made his will. The exact date of his death is not recorded. His will is dated June 4, 1717, and he died before the end of the month, for among Oxford burials recorded at Abington Meeting is:

"Joseph Paul dec'd 4th mo. 1717."

Reference to the widowhood of Margaret Paull occurs in a deed dated December 11, 1717. It is not known how much longer she survived.

There appears to be no personal memoir of Joseph Paull, the Quaker immigrant; but the public documents and minutes of the Friends' Meetings reveal much interesting information.

The above constitutes excerpts from "Joseph Paull of Ilminster, Somerset, England, and Some of His Descendants who have resided in Philadelphia, Penna." by Henry N. Paul (1933), which contains other data and is well documented. I have made some additions and done some editing, as can be seen. Joseph Paull's deed of 1685 and his will of 1717 are set forth in full in HNP 126, 128.

A picture of the home of Joseph Paull, the immigrant, erected on land purchased in 1727, and still standing in 1924 (reproduced from a photograph), is contained in "Hallowell-Paul Family History" by Mary P.H. Hough and Anna H. Penrose (1924), opposite page 55.

JOSEPH PAULL'S CHILDREN

Many prominent Philadelphia lawyers, doctors, financiers, and insurance executives in the family are mentioned in NA (note a). Walter Moses born in Trenton in 1872 was a descendant of Ann Jones (CWNJ #242). |

Henry (2) Paul, born at Oxford, Pa., June 23, 1686, died at Oxford, in April, 1775, son of Joseph Paul and Margaret, his wife, wed on April 26, 1716, in Oxford Township, Ann Gillingham, born July 8, 1644, died after Dec. 6, 1766 (PaD 13:527), daughter of Yeamans Gillingham, and Mary Brodwell, his wife (PMHB 77:466; W&H 2:73; HEG). Mary Friends attended the wedding ceremony. The Marriage of Henry (2) Paul was reported as "Accomplished" at the Abington Meeting held on May 16, 1716/17. Regarding Gillingham see SFC 144.

Mary Brodwell born Dec. 10, 1667, arrived in America on Dec. 16, 1685, aboard the ship "Unicorne" from Bristol, Eng. She was the daughter of Richard Brodwell, buried at Tewksbury, May 27, 1673, wed at Ashelworth, Gloucestershire, England, on May 24, 1663 to Mary Freeman. Mary Freeman, as a widow, came to America, died in Jan. 1729, and left a will dated Jan. 8, 1727, in which she named her granddaughter, Ann, wife of Henry Paul, and Henry's children, Joseph, Mary, et al. (PMHB 8:338; Descendants of Robert Taylor by A. R. Justice).

On July 5, 1710, Henry Paul, carpenter, of Bucks County, Pa., received from his father, 392 acres in Bucks County, at Plumstead; and on May 3, 1711, Joseph (1) Paul and Margaret, his wife, of Philadelphia County, transferred to their said son a lot in Philadelphia on the north side of High Street (Market) 26½ feet west of 6 Street, being 25½ feet by 306 feet (PaD H5:84; F9:393).

Henry (2) witnessed the marriage of his brother, James, to Ann Jones on Dec. 6, 1723.

Henry (2) Paul, having died intestate, administration upon his estate was granted on April 20, 1775 unto his son, Joseph Paul, and to a son-in-law, Abraham Leech, and to John Burgum.

Henry (2) Paul and Ann Gillingham, his wife, had children (order not known):

- 301 i. Joseph, the eldest son, yeoman, Oxford Twp., wife Margaret.
- 302 ii. Mary Bartholomew (widow before 3, 23, 1779).
- 303 iii. Margaret, wed before 3-23, 1779 to Abraham Leech, cordwainer, Oxford Twp.
- 304 iv. Yeamans (3) Paul, died before 3-23-1779.
- 305 v. Henry Paul, yeoman, Oxford Twp., per deed of 3-23-1779.

On 3-23-1779, Joseph Paul, Mary Bartholomew, Abraham Leech, and Margaret, his wife, Shivers Paul, acting with the consent of Josiah and Mary Paul, made a deed to Henry Paul, for 7 acres, 150 perches, on Frankford Meeting Road (PaD D-23-187). On 5-11-1786, Josiah Paul, and Mary Hodges and Samuel Hodges of full age, executed a release unto Joseph Paul, which was witnessed by Mary Paul, R. Whitehead, and Mary Ashbridge (PaD D-59-259). He was on the Muster Roll from Oct. 31, 1775 to Jan. 17, 1776. He again enlisted Nov. 24, 1776, for the war, and served as a private in Captain Henry Luce's Co., Second Regiment, 2nd Establishment, N. J. Continental Line (SJR 84). (Note b).

One Josiah was in the militia in Philadelphia, in 1786 (PAA 6-3: 1154).

Josiah Paul and Jesse Smith (both under 45 years of age) were among the exempts of the militia, Newton Twp., Gloucester County, Aug. 12, 1794 (OGC 3:56).

Administration of the estate of Josiah Paul was granted in Philadelphia; and later, on Oct. 5, 1795, his estate was appraised, including a horse, carpenter's tools, and household furniture. The appraisers "affirmed", hence they were Quakers (Note a).

Josiah (4) Paul and Mary Cassel, his wife, had children:

- 309 1. William Atkinson (5) Paul. Note h.
- 310 ii. Yeamans (5) Paul, born Nov. 20, 1792 in New Jersey.

Henry died intestate leaving heirs, including 3 children of his son, Yeomons Paul, namely Shivers, Josiah, and Mary Paul. On May 11, 1786, Josiah Paul, Mary Hodgson, and Samuel Hodgson released, the latter being of full age (PaD D23:187).

On May 11, 1786, Josiah Paul, Mary Hodgson, of full age, and Sam. Hodgson released to Joseph Paul their interests, establishing and confirming the title, and reciting that Mary had married Samuel Hodgson. The witnesses were Mary Paul, R. Whitehead, and Mary Ashbridge (PaD D59:259).

Jesse Smith requested membership in Haddonfield Monthly Meeting in 3rd. month, 1795 (GMNJ 4:80).

On Sept. 13, 1795, at Haddonfield Meeting, Mary Paul, widow of Josiah, and Jesse Smith, son of Thomas, deceased, declared their intention to marry; hence Josiah Paul had died some time before that date. On the same day, Mary requested that her two children be taken into membership (GMNJ 4:16). On October 10, they were received into membership, but the "children were not entitled to rights under their father". On Oct. 20, 1795, Jesse Smith, born Aug., 1763, son of Thomas Smith and Rebecca Smith, and Mary Paul, widow of Josiah, both of Newton Township, were married; and on Nov. 14, 1795, it was reported that the marriage had been accomplished. Among the witnesses were William Smith, Arnold and Lydia Casell, Josiah Atkinson, and John Cathcart. (It does not seem probable that this Jesse Smith was identical with Jesse, son of Thomas, mentioned in SDV:6.)

a. I have a photocopy of the document.

b. Henry Paul related a tradition that the father of Yeamons Paul had a shipyard near Cooper's Point, Camden, closed it, and went into the Army and became an officer. I can find no record thereof. Josiah is distinguishable from James Paul, lieutenant in 2nd Regiment of N. J. Continental line (SJR 34, 92). John D. F. Morgan, Esq., tells me that the Coopers had boats, were importers, and had shops for the sale of merchandise. At one time there were three of their yards. They may have rented some waterfront for the building of small boats in which very little equipment or facilities were required.

c. Henry Paul thought that Elizabeth Simmerman was of German or Dutch ancestry, and that an ancestor had a title or wore an uniform.

d. Henry Paul believed that Martha Bowls was of English extraction. She had an older brother, Henry.

e. Emily (8) is a member of The Huguenot Society of New Jersey and of The National Society of the Colonial Dames of America in the State of New Jersey.

I was awarded the degree of Bachelor of Laws in 1912 by Temple University Law School, which was converted in 1968 to the degree, Juris Doctor (J.D.). The Honorary Degree, Doctor of Laws, was conferred in 1934 by Grove City College, Grove City, Pa. (SDV 25).

f. Jesse Thomas Robbins was born May 1857, near Point Pleasant, Bucks County, Pa., and Mary Elizabeth Grosscup was born July 10, 1873 in Camden. Jesse Thomas was a son of Amos Jackson Robbins (buried in Odd Fellows Cemetery, Princeton, Texas), and Margaret Nunamaker. Amos was a son of Peter Robbins; William Grosscup was born in Dresden, Germany, and wed Frances Chew. The Robbins Genealogical Society, Burtis F. Robbins, M.D. President, is located at 403-06 Medical Arts Building, Salt Lake City. See Bible records compiled by F. D. Andrews, Vineland, page 36. Florence was a member of The Huguenot Society of New Jersey.

g. Maria (Tidmarsh?), buried at Williamstown, wed William Earley, and had a daughter, Velma Earley, who wed Winfield Scott Crane, son of Charles Pitman Crane, and Sarah Lorena Money, his wife. Velma died in 1922, before her husband, and is buried at Clayton. There were four children of the marriage:

- i. Veda, who wed George Green, of Vineland. No children,
 - ii. Lorena, who wed Paul Patumas, of Penna. No children,
 - iii. Doris, who wed Frank Lloyd, of Glassboro, and has Betty and Lee,
 - iv. William E., born 1917, who wed Mary, of Vineland. They have an adopted daughter, Joann, who married on June 21, 1969, and two sons, Stephen Scott, age 17, and William Gilbert, age 13 years.
- Charles Pitman Crane, son of Benjamin Crane, married twice, and had children by the second wife.
- Winfield Scott Crane had a brother, Charles Elwood Crane, and a sister, Harriet Elizabeth (Hauck).

- h. I feel certain that Mifflin was not a brother of Yeamans (5). He might possibly have been a son of William Atkinson (5) Paul.
- i. Isaac Dayton (7) Paul, son of Yeamans (6) Paul, and Martha Paul, was born February 13, 1860, at Williamstown, N.J.

ADDENDUM

Rev. Charles S. Paul, of Williamstown, a Methodist minister, born in 1886, is the son of James Graven Paul, and grandson of James Paul, and Mary Ann Trexler, his wife. Rev. Paul had a brother, James McCauly Paul, of Port Richmond, and he has a son in Texas.
