I am not a direct descended of Henry B. Peck, but his son Henry Squire Peck married a second time to Lulie Chenault in 1904 in Hardin Co Ky. Lulie Chenault was also married before to Harvey Cheanult in 1879 Hardin Co Ky. Lulie is my 2nd Great Grandmother. Her child, one daughter Mattie Ann Julian, from the marriage of Henry B. Peck would be half kin to me. Lulie had one son and four daughters from her marriage to Harvey Chenault.

The will lists items 1-6 and item 9. Is it missing items 7 & 8. The will is intact, I transcribed it as it is written. I rechecked it and 7 & 8 are not listed.

The Draper Manuscripts

Henderson, James Weir, the pioneer McAfee family and William Whitley. The amount of information Draper collected was staggering in amount as well as scope. His oral interviews are considered priceless. Among these interviews can be found the stories of the people who settled Kentucky. Eyewitness accounts of Indian raids and sieges, replete with vivid details of battles with both man and nature.

In the Draper Manuscripts the reader can find anecdotes that make history come alive. An example of the realism of the Draper collection is the interview with Daniel Boone's son Nathan. In this account Nathan destroys the myth of Daniel Boone wearing a coon skin hat.

In reality Boone did not like coon skin caps and refused to wear one.

To the genealogist the Draper Manuscripts are a wealth of family history. Tens of thousands of names are listed in the collection. One's ancestors did not have to be famous to be noted in the Draper collection. Many families that would otherwise be forgotten are recorded in the extensive collection of Lyman C. Draper.

Despite Draper's desire to publish books on frontier subjects, he really was more of a collector than a writer. He was terrified of publishing anything that had not been thoroughly researched. At one point he wrote, "I have wasted my life in puttering—but I see no help for it; I can write nothing as long as I fear that there is a fact, no matter how small, as yet ungarnished."

Lyman C. Draper's greatest contribution to history was his collections. By finding obscure sources, interviewing hundreds of people, and preserving his finds, he paved the way for future historians to research and write the history of the frontier.

Many people have wondered why the Draper Manuscripts are not located in Kentucky. The reasons are not difficult to understand. Draper was not a Kentuckian and although he collected materials in the Commonwealth, he did not have a personal connection with the state. If he had left his collection in Kentucky it would have been with the Kentucky Historical Society. Located in Louisville at the time, Draper used the collection of the Society in 1844. He made friends with the Secretary of the Society, Taliaferro Shaffner, who provided him with materials and information on Kentucky history. But the Draper collection was not to be housed in Kentucky. For a number of years Draper had been associated with the Wisconsin Historical Society. Toward the end of his life he asked that his collection be placed and cared for there. It was not very long before historians began to spread the fame of the Draper Manuscripts. Some of the states from which Draper had collected his material now wanted the collection sent to their respective states. Nothing came of these requests.

On August 27, 1891, Lyman C. Draper died. He left one of the most extensive collections of documents pertaining to frontier history in the nation. All told the Draper collection totaled 478 volumes of manuscripts and some 2,564 volumes of historical materials.

Fortunately for researchers, the Draper Manuscripts are readily available to the public. The collection has been filmed, and published guides are available as finding aids. Many of the major library collections in the nation have copies of the Draper Manuscripts, making them one of the most used sources of American history in existence.

The author — Ron D. Bryant serves as Director of the Library Reading Room and Curator of Rare Books for the Kentucky Historical Society. He also serves on the history faculty of Lexington Community College. Bryant graduated with honors from Western Kentucky University, with a B.A. and M.A. in history. He completed his doctoral studies at the University of Kentucky. In 1995, Bryant was named to Who's Who Among Teachers in American colleges and universities.

During the course of his career, Bryant has served as Dean of Academic Affairs for Bowling Green Jr. College, editor of a weekly newspaper and teacher. He has written extensively on the subject of Kentucky History. He is the author of over eighty articles on state and local history in the Kentucky Encyclopedia.

In 1996, Bryant completed a 500+ page book on the Bibliography of Kentucky History to be published by Greenwood Press in 1999. Currently, he is working on a Pictorial History of the Civil War in Kentucky and editing the antebellum Kentucky governor's papers.

Bryant spends much of his spare time giving historical and genealogical lectures. In 1995, he made some seventy-five speeches on various topics. He also serves as historical consultant for a number of authors from around the world.

Bryant's wife, Jame, owns a consultant business in early children development and management. They have a West Highland White Terrier named Fred.

There is a difference between states

Never assume that the records in one state are the same as those in another. If you've researched many families in a certain area, you are probably familiar with the records and what information they typically contain.

Before researching in a different area, learn about that area's records and sources. Researching in Oregon in 1900 is different from researching in Virginia in 1750.

Franklin Pierce Allen, U.S. Postmaster ca. 1900 – Hindman, Ky (1843 – 1935)

Franklin Pierce Allen, a.k.a. "Chick" was born ca. January 1840, to Flurinda (Gayheart) and Archable Allen, one of eleven children. He is descended from the Revolutionary War soldier, John Allen, born 1750, died 1812, who was second cousin to Ethan Allen – according to the D.A.R. Chick's parents were devout Christians. One Allen family historian, Jackson Allen Begley, records that Archable, born 25 February 1800, died 2 October 1888. On that fateful day in October, it is written "he had been down on Henry's Branch to preach in the old school house on his last Sunday. His wife was with him and they went to a friend's house for the night. On Monday morning they started for their house and when almost in sight of their house he fell dead. His wife called a neighbor who lived nearby to aid her in trying to revive him, but he was past reviving."

Chick was the third postmaster of Hindman following Peyton Duke and Fielding Johnson. He was active in Hindman and Knott County's affairs and was staunch republican in politics. He served one term in the Kentucky Legislature. He was living in McPherson (what was then part of Letcher County, Kentucky) when it was renamed Hindman in 1884. His place of business (a grocery store) was located on Lots N. 4 and 5 in the vicinity where Hindman Floral is presently located. On 2d March 1886, an act of incorporation in the Law of Kentucky, Chapter 392, incorporated Hindman as a 6th Class City, which provided that the municipal affairs of the town were to be managed by five trustees elected annually by the citizens of the town. Franklin Pierce Allen was appointed one of these Trustees along with George Hays, Benjamin Franklin Richmond, Wilborn Hall, and Ison Slone. In 1887 there was a school annexing his Chick's business. F.P. Allen was defeated by Lewis Hays for the post of Knott County Clerk, in the first county election. On March 8, 1888, F.P. Allen bought this property from Knott's first postmaster, Peyton Madison Duke. In 1880 "Chick's" estate was worth $678..

According to the Act to Establish the County of Knott on 5 May 1884, Section No. 2: "That Thomas Y. Fitzpatrick and S.P. Davidson, of the county of Floyd; W.H. Nickell, of the country of Letcher; G.W. Sewell, of the county of Breathitt, and Robert S. May of the county of Perry, be, and they are hereby, appointed commissioners to locate the seat of Knott County; who shall meet at F.P. Allen's, at McPherson, on the third Monday in June, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four, and, after being duly sworn, shall select a suitable place for the county seat of said county, and make out, in writing, the boundary of said place so selected for said purposes, forward a copy to F.P. Allen, and retain one copy in their possession until a county court clerk is elected and qualified for said county, when said commissioners shall deliver the same to said clerk, who shall record the same in the order-book of the county court of said county.... Section No. 5: An election shall be held in said county on the first Monday in August next for the election of circuit court clerk, county court clerk, a presiding judge of said county court, sheriff, jailer, coroner, assessor of tax, and county attorney, and two justices the peace and one constable in each justices' district in said county, as hereinafter provided. The persons who act as sheriff of election, shall meet at the house of F.P. Allen, on the third day after the election and carefully compare the polls, and shall sign the certificate of the election of persons elected to each office, designating the person who received the highest number of votes, and the office to which he is elected, one of which they shall transmit to the Secretary of State, one to the officers elected, and they shall lodge one in the hands of F.P. Allen, who shall deliver to the county clerk of said county of Knott, after one is elected, to be recorded by him in his office. It shall be the duty of the Governor of this Commonwealth to commission such of said of said officers as are required by existing laws to be commissioned. The officers first elected under this act shall hold their respective offices until the next regular election for like officers, and until their successors are elected and qualified. They shall take the oath and execute such bonds as is required by existing laws of like officers."

Franklin's paternal grandparents were Cynthia (Patton), born 1785 and George Allen, born 1774, died ca. 1850. They migrated between 1800 and 1810 to Beaver Creek, Floyd County, from North Carolina. George was the son of Janet (Coleman) and John Allen. Janet's parents were Sara (Lyons) and Samuel Coleman, both of Virginia. Samuel was also a Revolutionary War veteran.

Franklin's siblings were: Andrew Jackson "Yankee" Jack who married Sarah Gearheart, was a blacksmith and timber man; Arminta, born 5 January 1850, died 22 August 1859, married Solomon Webb – the parents of Marie Webb who married Banker Bill Smith of Hindman; Mary born 25 October 1869, died ca. 1930 married William Stumbo, born 15 October 1855; Susie Ann, born 1865, died 1919, married Sylvester Hayes, born 1847, died 1902; "Black" John Allen, born 1863, d. 15 February 1908, married Minta Saulsberry; Martin Van Buren Allen married Lizzie Gibson; Phillip Allen married a Gearheart; Rhoda Allen married Epperson Sizemore; Rev. Dear Friends;

This is the second issue of PACK/PEEK/PECK PIONEERS.

Because of my limited supply of never-before-published material, I was forced to fill the pages with material that has appeared in print before. However, because it would be impossible for each of us to acquire all the printed books, etc., much of the enclosed will serve a purpose. However, if possible, it would be much nicer to fill the pages with material never before appearing in print. If you have such material, please send it as I will start issue 3 soon. The more people participating, the more information we will obtain, which is our objective.

Also, I would appreciate it if you would let me know what you think of the publication and ways to improve it. I am open to all suggestions.

In the future I hope to acquire a machine that will enable us to print pictures, maps, old papers, etc.

At this time a certain few are doing all the contributing. Please be a doer. Do send your records, family sheets, queries, etc. My biggest THANKS to those of you who are making this publication possible.

Happy Hunting.....

Claudette

IOWA

KEOKUK IOWA NEWSPAPER, 14 Oct. 1955

KANSAS WOMAN IS REVISITING SCENES OF HER CHILDHOOD HERE - Away for 85 years.

(Editors Note: This is too long to print in it's entirety.)

Mrs. Hattie Peck Berry of Manhattan, Kan., now 93, still has a vivid memory of the old steamboat days on the Mississippi and the homes of her father and uncle on Grand Avenue.

Her father, Nathan G. Peck, and uncle, Col. C. K. Peck lived in adjoining houses in the 700 block of Grand Avenue. Her father was engaged in the hardware business here with the firm of Peck and Peck.

Her father took his family to Kansas when she was eight and lived to be 96 years old. Colonel Peck died at the age of 48 in 1879 and is buried here.

Colonel Peck, as president of the Northwest Transport Company operated a large fleet of steamboats, not only on the Mississippi but for a distance of 2000 miles up the Missouri from St. Louis, over which he had the government mail contract.

PECK DAM WAS NAMED FOR HIM.

Colonel Peck was one frontiersman who maintained friendly relations with the Indians, even going so far at one time as to put up ice for them one winter and parceling it out during the summer.

It is from Col. Peck of Keokuk that the huge Fort Peck dam on the Missouri derives it's name, much to the gratification of Union College in Schenectady, NY of which he is an illustrious alumnus.

At the time the dam was named, Union College eagerly sought biographical data on Colonel Peck but all that could be found was in the scrapbooks kept by his brother, Nathan Peck, in Manhattan, Kansas. It is in a search of additional information that his grand nieces are now checking the Gate City files.

PECK OBITUARY

Memoir of Eld. Abijah Peck

Eld. Abijah Peck, uncle of Eld. John Peck, of Cazenovia, N.Y., deceased in Clifton Park, Sara. Co., Nov. 12, 1848, aged 90 years, 7 months and 8 days. This estimable servant of the Lord was long and extensively known as a successful minister of the gospel; and for many years past was regarded as a patriarch in the Saratoga Association.

He was born in Greenwich, Fairfield Co., Ct. April 3, 1758. In 1771, his father, John Peck, died, leaving a large family in destitute circumstances. Abijah, the youngest son, was apprenticed to a weaver soon after his father's death. He entered the Continental Army in January, 1776, and served at various times, under three enlistments, one year and two months. When the army left New York he was one of the guard, and maintained his post until the order was given to escape for life. With others, he threw down his pack but returned and took it with him. He was afterwards in the battle of White Plains, and narrowly escaped death in the retreat --- having reached a fence he laid his hands upon it, and at the instant two musket balls struck the rails, one on each side of him, brushing his clothes as they passed.

He became the subject of divine grace in his twenty-fourth year, and was soon after baptized by Eld. Elkanah Holmes. Almost immediately after his conversion, he commenced exhorting the people upon the great concerns of the soul. In 1784 he removed from Connecticut to Galway, N.Y. which was then a wilderness, with a few scattered inhabitants. After a little time a few Baptists collected and held meetings in his workshop, he taking the load of the meetings. A revival followed, which resulted in the organization of the second Galway church, in 1793. By this body he was licensed to preach in Feb. of the same year. The next year he removed to Clifton Park, then a part of Half Moon. Here he collected a few scattered lambs of Christ, and in 1795, Feb. 12, a church was organized, consisting of thirteen members. At the first covenant-meeting following, he & four other persons united by letter. At the time of his coming to Clifton Park few persons were found professors of religion in the community, and amongst these there existed a decided opposition to the Baptists and their sentiments. When it was known that Br. P. was about to remove into the place, the people were warned of his "dangerous doctrine", and were told that he "would rock them to sleep in the Devil's cradle". But Br. Peck was a man not easily moved from his purpose. He therefore commenced holding meetings in his house, first with his own family. Soon the neighbors came in, and soon the place was too small to accommodate all who were anxious to hear. He then opened his barn, and invited all to come who wished. Here he held his meetings when the weather would permit, until the erection of a meeting-house, which was in the year 1801. On the 12th of March of this latter year, he was ordained to the pastoral office of the church, having for five or six years refused to be ordained on the ground of personal unfitness. His pastorate was a very laborous one, but he discharged its duties with Christian fidelity, and his labors were crowned with the blessing of God. From Clifton Park as a centre during his unusually long ministry, have arisen the churches of Schenectady, Burnt Hills, first and second churches in Half Moon, and one at Scotia, while the surrounding churches have been greatly benefitted by his occasional labors and counsels. It is due to the memory of such a man that some of the more distinctive features of his character be recorded.

His liberality. Through the long ministry of Eld. Peck, he never received a dollar as a compensation for his labors, yet he considered it a duty to support the ministry. His house was always open for the reception of his brethren, and a place of resort for brethren from a great distance, and they always received a hearty welcome. He was a liberal supporter of the different benevolent objects of the day --- education, home and foreign missions, &c. He constituted a number of his grandchildren life members of the A. & F. Bible Society.

He was a great friend to the young minister; he took him by the hand and led him along, giving him encouragement to press forward. To the pastor of his own church he was all that could be asked as a friend, a brother, a counselor and a comforter under the various trials incident to the pastor in the discharge of his responsible duties. How unlovely is the conduct, and how unenviable is the lot of that minister in like circumstances whose conduct forms a perfect contrast with his noble example. Regardless of the march of improvement he holds on upon his pastoral charge, till the church to preserve its own existence, or to prevent the young, enterprising, and well-informed of the congregation from abandoning their place of worship, is constrained to obtain a more efficient and enlightened minister; then he ascribes the conduct of the church to pride and popularity; looks with an envious eye upon his successor; magnifies his faults, misconstrues his motives; indulges a spirit of jealousy and detraction --- tells how little he requires for preaching, and what a salary "this proud young man" demands. Although the brother by whom he is superceded may give himself wholly to the ministry, studying, visiting, preaching, praying, conversing and abounding in the work of the Lord seven days a week, while he receives but a scanty support, he charges him with indolence, love of money, and seems to delight in counteracting his influence, and destroying the peace of the church over which he presides. The very opposite of this was true of Father Peck. The present pastor of the church in Clifton Park had been associated with him at the time of his death for nine years, and can speak from experience of his kind spirit as an associate pastor. He held the permanency of the pastor relation as an important principle, and carried it out both in precept and example. He believed that his relation between the pastor and the people should not be dissolved for trifles.

As a man, the deceased was well known for industry, integrity and punctuality; as a Christian, for consistency, humility and benevolence; as a minister and pastor, for untiring zeal, fidelity and devotion to the interests of the Redeemer's kingdom. With small advantages of education, he acquired a considerable amount of general knowledge, rich stores of spiritual wisdom, and was mighty in the scriptures. His preaching was characterized by plainness and force; a holy unction seemed to be upon him, and he was generally successful in communicating to his hearers. His sermons often displayed much and vigorous thought, and were in a high degree scriptural. His mind was naturally strong, and his judgement correct. He was in truth a peace-maker, not only in his own neighborhood and church, but his influence was felt throughout the country. Such confidence was placed in him that in church difficulties and family contentions he has often been selected as the only judge in the case, and his decision was law. When money was the cause of contention, he would take money from his own pocket and give to one of the parties, after learning that there was a misunderstanding, and long and anxiously would he plead with his brethren to be reconciled to each other.

A very brief notice of some important parts of his history will close this inadequate memoir. He was first married November 13, 1784, to Miss Mindwell Close, daughter of Solomon Close, of North Salem, Westchester Co., N.Y., by whom he had eight children, four of whom survive him. She proved a worthy companion in his labors and responsibilities, distinguished for industry, liberality, fidelity, and all domestic virtues. She died April 4, 1816. After this afflicting event, the subject of this memoir was again united in marriage November, 1822, to Mrs. Lydia Montgomery, of Sangerfield, N.Y., with whom he lived twenty-four years, until her decease, which occurred Jan. 22, 1846. This latter consort was a great blessing to his declining years, as she was a woman of kindness, economy and liberality, and a mother in Israel. At the time of Eld. Peck's decease, he was very pleasantly situated, both in his family and in his church. In this world's goods he was well off. He commenced poor, but by industry and economy as a farmer he gradually rose to affluence. His surviving children are located but a short distance from his home, all members of the church. He lived to see a number of his grandchildren put on Christ --- to one he had the privilege of giving the right hand of fellowship as a minister, after he had carried him through a regular course of study. In the church he was dearly beloved and honored as the father, under God, of the church.

The particulars of Father Peck's last hours are few but interesting. "On the Saturday preceeding his death", says the present pastor of his beloved flock, Rev. F.S. Parke, "I spent some time with him. We conversed on a number of particulars connected with the church; he was calm and cheerful. It was covenant-meeting that afternoon, and he expressed a strong desire to meet with the church once more but did not. The next day a number of the members called to see him; he appeared cheerful. About 3 o'clock, P.M. I called to see him and found him quite weak. He was sitting in his chair. When I spoke to him he gave me to understand that he knew me, but declined talking very much. I saw that he was sinking fast. I said to him, 'You have great prospects!' He raised his head and replied, 'I have prospects --- great prospects.' He then commenced talking with Christ, saying, 'O, my Savior! O, my dear Savior! O, blessed Saviour!' But little was said to him. I took him by the hand; he pressed it, and said, 'O, Br. Parke!' After a few moments of silence he broke out, 'O, glory, glory, glory!' Soon we laid him upon the bed, he placed himself in an easy position, and calmly went to 'sleep', without a struggle or even a groan. He appeared to pass easily and pleasantly from earth to heaven, at half-past 4 o'clock, P.M., Sabbath, Nov. 12, 1848. His funeral took place on Wednesday following. I preached on the occasion, from Isa. 33: 16, 17. After a few introductory remarks, showing the literal meaning of the text, I remarked that my subject would be, The present condition and future prospects of the righteous. The congregation was large and solemn; all appeared to say, 'Truly, a great and good man has fallen'. A number of ministering brethren were in attendance, and took part in the exercises.

But he is gone and we are left to toil on a few days more. O, that we might imitate his virtues in all that he imitated Christ, and like him be successful in winning souls, and establishing saints in the truth. May his mantle fall upon his juniors in the ministry, who have often sat with delight to receive lessons of wisdom from his lips.

"Fallen is the man who long has stood
A pillar in the house of God;
Fallen, did I say? he's raised on high,
And stands a pillar in the sky."

Let us betake ourselves to prayer, "Help, Lord, for the godly man ceaseth, for the faithful fall from among the children of men."

PECK, JAMES PORTER, M.D., deceased, pioneer physician of Omaha, was born in Stow township, Summit county, Ohio, Oct. 11, 1821, and died at Omaha, Nebr., Feb. 20, 1887. He was the second son of Sherman and Anna Peck, and in infancy was taken by his parents to Hudson, and in 1833 the family moved to Cuyahoga Falls. At the early age of fourteen years he entered the office of the Ohio Observer and there began the study and art of printing, in which he was engaged until he arrived at his nineteenth year.

While in the employ of the Ohio Statesman at Columbus he commenced the study of medicine, giving to it all the time he could spare from his duties on the paper.

In 1842 he moved to Chillicothe and studied in the office of Dr. Wills.

In the fall of 1842 due to health conditions he abandoned his studies and went to Cincinnati and purchased an outfit for the establishment of a newspaper, and during that campaign published a paper at Chillicothe called the Ancient Metropolis.

In the spring of 1848 he removed to Akron and resumed his studies under D. D. Evans, M.D.

During the never to be forgotten cholera epidemic of 1849 he evidenced his love for suffering humanity and heroism in the course of duty, as God gave him to see it. In Sandusky, where the disease was so very severe and fatal, the local physicians became panic-stricken and fled. The way of duty was clear to him. Knowing well the danger, he did not shrink, but accompanied Dr. Evans to this plague stricken city.

In June 1850 he wed Miss Elizabeth H. Ames, the daughter of Elisha Ames, of New London, Connecticut. Two sons were born in Akron, William Ames who died young and Edward Porter now living, a prominent citizen of Omaha. In July, 1856 he removed to Omaha.

He died Feb. 20, 1887 surrounded by those near and dear, in the communion of the Catholic church, in the confidence of a certain faith in the comfort of a reasonable religion and holy hope in favor of God, and perfect charity with the world.

"Jeremiah was born in the city of London, England, or its vicinity, in 1623, from whence, in 1637, he came with his father to this country. Little is known of his early history, except that he had a good education, acquired in part before he left England. He is said by Cotton Mather to have been bred at Harvard College, but, though probably a student, his name does not appear in the catalogue of the graduates of that institution. He married Johannah Kitchell, a daughter of Robert Kitchell (footnote: Robert Kitchell came to New Haven in the company of Eaton, Davenport and others, in 1638, and in 1639 settled in Guilford, Conn., being a prominent man and one of the first planters of that town. He was one of those who migrated from the New Haven Colony to Newark, N.J., in 1666, where he died about 1672. His only son, Samuel, migrated thither about the same time, died there April 26, 1790 and was a man of high standing and respectability. The wife of Robert Kitchell died in Greenwich, Conn., in 1682, while residing there with her dau., the wife of Rev. Jeremiah Peck.), of Guilford, Conn., Nov. 12, 1656. He was then, and for some time previously had been, preaching or teaching school at Guilford, and he continued to be thus engaged until 1660, when he was invited to take charge of the Collegiate School at New Haven, Conn. This was a colony school and had been instituted by the General Court, in 1659. It was open to students from other colonies, and in it were to be taught Latin, Greek and Hebrew, and young men fitted for college. He accepted the invitation, and removing from Guilford to New Haven, entered upon his duties as its instructor and continued to discharge the same until the summer of 1661, when the school was temporarily suspended for want of adequate support. It was revived, however, after a few years, and has continued and flourished until the present day under the name of the Hopkins Grammar School. In the autumn of 1661 he was invited to preach at Saybrook, Conn., where there is much reason to suppose that he was ordained, and where he settled as a minister, succeeding Rev. James Fitch; the agreement of settlement being dated September 25, 1661. After a few years there was some dissatisfaction with his ministry, and a misunderstanding as to the provisions of his agreement of settlement, which being amicably arranged he left Saybrook removing to Guilford early in 1666. He was then, and for some time had been; together with numerous other ministers and churches in the New Haven and Connecticut Colonies, decidedly opposed to what was called the "Half-way Covenant", adopted by the General Synod of 1662, and with many of the leading ministers and the people of the New Haven Colony was especially and irreconcilably hostile to the Union of the New Haven and the Connecticut Colonies under the charter of Charles II., which, however, after a protracted struggle, was finally effected in 1665, and he resolved to emigrate from the colony. Removing from Guilford in 1666, he became one of the first settlers of Newark, N.J. His home lot and residence in Newark were on the northeasterly corner of Market and Mulberry streets. He does not appear to have officiated as a minister at Newark. He preached to the neighboring people of Elizabethtown soon after his removal to Newark, and finally settled there as their first minister in 1669 or 1670. In 1670, and again in 1675, he was invited by the people of Woodbridge, N.J., and in 1676 by the people of Greenwich, Conn., to settle with them in the ministry, but he declined these several invitations. In Sept., 1678, he was again invited to settle as a minister at Greenwich, and in Oct., 1678, he had a similar call from Newtown, Long Island, N.Y. He accepted the last call from Greenwich, and removing thither late in the autumn of 1678 from Elizabethtown, N.J., he became the first settled minister in Greenwich, Conn., where his pastorate was a very quiet and useful one, and only disturbed by his refusal in 1688 to baptize the children of noncommunicants, allowed by the "Half-way Covenant", the introduction of which still agitated the churches in Connecticut. Though sustained by a majority of the members of his church, the dissatisfaction of the minority probably led to his resignation in 1689. He then commenced preaching in Waterbury, Conn., and having received and accepted the unanimous invitations of the residences of that town to settle with them in the ministry, he removed thither early in 1690, and became the first settled minister of the church in Waterbury in 1691. He was then nearly seventy years of age. In a few years his health gradually failed, but he continued the pastor of the church and discharged the most of his official duties until his decease at Waterbury, June 7, 1699. He seems to have possessed considerable energy and ability, and to have been a man of much usefulness, both as a teacher and minister in the frontier settlement, among the early colonists of this country. His wife survived him, and died in Waterbury in 1711. His Will, dated Jan. 14, 1696-7, and that of his wife, dated Oct. 7, 1696 (in the form of Deeds of Gift) are recorded, the former at page 6 and the latter at page 103 of Volume I. of the Waterbury Land Records."

Anderson, Joseph, ed., The Town and City of Waterbury, Connecticut, from the Aboriginal Period to the Year 1895, has much information on Jeremiah in Vol. I, pp. 224f. JA

"Rev. Jeremiah Peck, son of Deacon William and Elizabeth Peck, was born in London, England, or its vicinity, in 1623, and died in Waterbury, Connecticut, June 7, 1699. He came to America with his father and mother. He was well educated and is said by Cotton Mather to have been bred at Harvard College; he was probably a student there but his name is not in the list of Harvard graduates.

"He preached or taught school at Guilford, Connecticut, until 1660, when he was given charge of the Collegiate School at New Haven, a Colony school instituted by the General Court in 1659. It was open to students from other Colonies, and instruction was given in Latin, Greek, and Hebrew, and young men were prepared for college. Jeremiah Peck continued as instructor in the school until 1661, when it was closed for lack of adequate support, though it was reopened later.

"In the autumn of 1661 he was invited to preach at Saybrook, Connecticut, where, it is supposed, he was ordained and where he succeeded Rev. James Fitch as minister. Early in 1666 Rev. Jeremiah Peck removed to Guilford, Connecticut, but being opposed to the "Half-way Covenant" adopted by the General Synod of 1662, he resolved to leave the Colony. In that same year, therefore, he became one of the first settlers of Newark, New Jersey, where he owned a lot and residence on the northeasterly corner of Market and Mulberry streets. He does not appear to have officiated as a minister at Newark. He preached to the people of Elizabethtown soon after arriving in Newark and eventually settled there as their first minister in 1669 or 1670. He declined invitations to settle in Woodbridge and Greenwich, Connecticut, at that time, and a later one from Newton, Long Island, New York. In September, 1678, he was again invited to settle as minister at Greenwich, Connecticut, and accepted. He removed there from Elizabethtown late in the autumn of 1678, becoming the first settled minister in Greenwich.

"In 1690 Rev. Jeremiah Peck removed to Waterbury, Connecticut, where he accepted the unanimous invitation of the residents to settle with them as their first minister of the church in 1691. Here he continued his duties until his death in 1699. He was a man of energy and ability, and seems to have given valuable service both as teacher and minister. His will was dated Jan. 14, 1696-97.

"Rev. Jeremiah Peck married, November 12, 1656, Johanna Kitchell. Children: 1. Samuel, born in Guilford, Connecticut, January 18, 1659, died April 28, 1746; married, November 27, 1686, Ruth Feires, who died September 17, 1745. 2. Ruth, born in New Haven, Connecticut, April 3, 1661; married, June 1, 1681, Jonathan Atwater. 3. Caleb, born in Saybrook, Connecticut, in 1663, died March 10, 1725, probably unmarried. 4. Anne, born in Saybrook, in 1665, died May 23, 1718; married, in May, 1690, Thomas Stanley. 5. Jeremiah, of whom further. Joshua, born in Elizabethtown, New Jersey, in 1673, died, unmarried on February 14, 1736.

"Deacon Jeremiah Peck, son of Rev. Jeremiah and Johanna (Kitchell) Peck, was born either in Guilford, Connecticut, or Newark, New Jersey, in 1667. He came to Waterbury, Connecticut, with his father in 1690, made it his home and resided there until his death. He was a highly respected citizen, a collector of town rates in 1703, constable in 1713, 1717 and 1723, a deputy to the General Court of Connecticut in May, 1720 and in 1721, and appointed one of the first deacons of the Northbury Church in Waterbury in 1739, serving until 1746. He was also a man of wealth.

"Deacon Jeremiah Peck married June 14, 1704, Rachel Richards. Children, born in Waterbury, Connecticut: 1. Joanna, born April 12, 1705, died in Woodbury, Connecticut; married Joseph Calpin. 2. Jeremiah, born November 9, 1706, died in 1750; married, January 14, 1740, Mercy Northrup, who married (second), March 3, 1754, Joseph Luddington. 3. Rachel, born May 10, 1709, died June 12,

"Robert Kitchell, progenitor of the family in America, was born in England in 1604 and died at Newark, New Jersey, in 1672. He was from Rolvenden, County Kent, England. He came to Connecticut in 1632, and in 1666 removed to Newark, New Jersey. He was the first signer of the famous 'Plantation Covenant' of Guilford, Connecticut, in June, 1639. He lived in Guilford for twenty-seven years, and was one of the most active and prominent of the planters, a man of both education and means. He was five times deputy to the General Court at New Haven and for many years served as treasurer of the Plantation. When Robert Kitchell went to New Jersey, he has a house-lot in Newark on Mulberry Street, between Centre and Market. He was regarded as an old man when he landed on the banks of the Passaic. He was then about sixty-two years of age, and his wife, Margaret, about sixty-four years.

"He lived only six years after coming to Newark. After his death his widow went to Greenwich, Connecticut, where she made her home with her son-in-law, Rev. Jeremiah Peck.

"Robert Kitchell married, January 9 or July 21, 1632, Margaret Sheaffe. Children: 1. Harman, baptized at Rolvenden, County Kent, England, April 27, 1634. 2. Samuel, baptized at Rolvenden, December 6, 1635, died at Newark, New Jersey, April 26, 1690; married (first), in 1657, Elizabeth Wakeman; married (second) Grace Pierson. 3. Johanna, of whom further. 4. Sarah, died in Guilford, Connecticut, May 10, 1651.

"Johanna Kitchell, daughter of Robert and Margaret (Sheaffe) Kitchell, was born about 1636, and married in Guilford, Conn., Nov. 12, 1656, Rev. Jeremiah Peck."

"At a meeting of the Committee for the Schoole, 28th June, 1660.

"There was present, the Governor, ye Deputy Governor, Mr. Treat, Mr. Davenport, Mr. Street.

"It was agreed that Mr. Pecke, now at Guilford, should be schoolmaster, & that it should begin in October next, when his half yeare expires there; he is to keepe ye schoole, to teach the schollers Lattine, Greek and Hebrew, & fitt them for the colledge; & for the salary, he knowes the allowance fro the colony is 40 li a yeare; and for further treaties they must leave it to Newhaven, where the schoole is; and for farther orders concerning the scoole & well carrying it on, the elders will consider of some against the court of magistrates in October next, when things as there is cause may be further considered.

"Mr. Crane & Mr. Peirson came after the business was concluded, & what is above written was read to them & they fully approved of it, & after that, being read to Mr. Gilbert, he approved of it also."

--Records of the Colony or Jurisdiction of New Haven, p. 377. CJH2

"Jeremiah Peck, afterward an ordained minister, was school-master from 1656,--in which year he was married to a young lady of Guilford,--to 1660, when he removed to New Haven to take charge of the grammar school established in that year by the colony."

--Edward Atwater, History of the Colony of New Haven, p. 269. EA

"Rev. Jeremiah Peck (born in London, Eng., 1623, died in Waterbury, 1699), who married Joanna, or Hannah, daughter of Robert Kitchell, Nov. 12, 1656, taught school in Guilford from 1656 to 1660. He removed in the latter year to New Haven, where he also acted as school-master until Sept. 25, 1661, when he made an agreement to be the minister at Saybrook, which engagement he terminated Jan. 30, 1665-6. 'Returning to Guilford, he with his father-in-law, joined Pierson and the Branford and Guilford people who settled at Newark, New Jersey, in 1666-7, where he probably preached until the arrival of Pierson, 1 October, 1667.' He afterwards preached in Elizabethtown, Jamaica (L.I.), Greenwich (Conn.), and Waterbury,--Sibley's Harvard Graduates I, 569, 570."

--Ralph D. Smith, The History of Guilford, Connecticut, p. 81. RDS

"On June 28, 1660, the magistrates and elders of the colony engaged Jeremiah Peck, son of William Peck of New Haven, from 1653 to 1656 a student at Harvard College and, since leaving Harvard, schoolmaster at Guilford, to conduct the colony school, teaching Latin, Greek, and Hebrew, and preparing boys for college at a salary of L40 a year. On the occasion of a visit of Peck to New Haven, on July 11, 1660, the town of New Haven agreed to add L10 to the salary voted by the colony, but refused to grant the income from the oyster shell field to the work until a college was actually under way at New Haven.

"In October, 1660, the colony grammar school at New Haven opened its doors. On the recommendation of Jeremiah Peck, in the following year the schoolhouse was enlarged and a more detailed agreement was entered upon between the colony and the schoolmaster. From the start the school was a failure, however, and it never developed into a college of which Davenport had dreamed. Only five or six scholars from the town of New Haven appeared for instruction, and they were hardly of a caliber to justify the expenditures undertaken by colony and town. Loitering away their spare time in the home of Goody Spinage, they caused that estimable lady to be haled before the particular court at New Haven. On September 25, 1661, Peck entered into an agreement with the people of Saybrook to become their minister. Reluctant to admit failure, Davenport urged the town of New Haven to send more pupils to the school, but the colony was entering upon its two-year struggle for survival, and on November 3, 1662, a general court from the jurisdiction voted to abandon the enterprise."

PECK FAMILIES OF HARFORD

OCCGS REFERENCE ONLY

Peck family

In the nineteenth century there were three Peck families living in Harford Township at the same time. They were not related. They were all from New England and were farmers. Each had very strong religious ideas and were active in church affairs. Recently their ancestry has been explored to determine just who they were and where they came from. They will be recorded one by one to show something about their background and their contribution to Harford community.

In the family of JOSEPH PECK, the immigrant, who was the ancestor of Daniel H. Peck of Harford, has been added the account of the YAW family which was a collateral line of this Peck family.

Another ancestor of Daniel H. Peck of Harford was NANCY CARPENTER, first wife of Amos Yaw junior. The Carpenters were a distinguished New England family and worth being included in this account.

Further information on Daniel H. Peck and family may be found in the Commemorative Biographical Record of Northeastern Pennsylvania, page 351.

THE PECKS OF SOUTH HARFORD

(From the PECK GENEALOGY, a Genealogical History of the Descendants of Joseph Peck and others of the name of Peck who came early to the United States. By Ira B. Peck, 1868. Printed by Alfred Mudge & Son, Boston).

pages 13 and ffl., 203, 204, 207, and 210 & 220

1 JOSEPH PECK was the 21st generation of that name descended from John Peck of Belton, Yorkshire, England. The pedigree can be traced through title to a landed estate at Belton, Yorkshire, that was bequeathed to the oldest male descendant in each generation. [given fully in the book]

Joseph Peck was a son of Robert Peck who died in 1593, aged 47 years, and his wife, Helen, daughter of Nicholas Babbs of Guilford, England. Robert Peck lived at Beccles, Suffolk, England, where Joseph Peck was baptized 30 April 1587.

Joseph Peck lived in Hingham, Norfolk county, England. He married Rebecca Clark at Hingham on 21 May 1617. She was buried 24 October 1637 and was the mother of five of his eight children. In 1638, he and other puritans, his brother, Robert Peck, their pastor and others fled from the persecutions of the church in England, to the United States. They came over in the ship "Diligent" of Ipswich, John Martin, master. Daniel Cushing, then town clerk here at Hingham, Norfolk county, New England, in speaking of his arrival in this country says: "Mr. JOSEPH PECK and his wife with three sons and two daughters; two men servants and three maid servants, came from Old Hingham, and settled in New Hingham."

Children of Joseph Peck & Rebecca Clark Peck were:

1. Anna Peck bapt. 12 March 1617/8, buried 27 July 1636
2. Rebecca Peck bapt. 25 May 1620
married a Mr. Hubbert
3. Joseph Peck bapt. 23 August 1623

4. John Peck born about 1626
5. Nicholas Peck bapt. 9 April 1630 in Old Hingham, England.

6. Samuel Peck bapt. 3 February 1638/9
7. Nathaniel Peck bapt. 31 October 1641
8. Israel Peck bapt. 4 March 1644

Joseph Peck died at Seekonk, Massachusetts, 23 December 1663, in the 77th year of his age.

11 NATHANIEL PECK was born at Hingham, Massachusetts, and baptized there 31 October 1641. He removed with his father, Joseph, to Seekonk, Massachusetts. Later he lived in Rehoboth, Massachusetts. He died at an early age and was buried 12 August 1676, and his wife, DELIVERANCE had been buried 1 May 1675. They left three children, two sons and a daughter, but the name of the latter was not recorded.

1. Nathaniel Peck born 26 July 1670
2. Elisha Peck born 19 April 1675

111 NATHANIEL PECK junior lived on lands of his father in Barrington, Rhode Island. He is called Lieutenant and also Deacon. He was twice married: first on 8 March 1695/6 to CHRISTIAN ALLEN of Swansey, Massachusetts; second on 18 July 1705 to JUDITH SMITH of Rehoboth. His wife died 8 June 1702; his second wife died 10 November 1743; he died 5 August 1751 in the 82nd year of his age.

1V. DAVID PECK, son of Nathaniel Peck junior and his second wife, Judith Smith, was born in November 1707, and was baptized 17 April 1709, in Taunton, Massachusetts. He lived on part of the homestead of his father, where he died 4 March 1771.

David Peck was married 20 September 1744 to SARAH HUMPHREY who was the mother of his twelve children:

31 March 1752

10. John Peck born 12 May 1763, married Susan Jones
11. Noah Peck born 31 March 1765
12. Sarah Peck born 7 March 1767, married Caleb Spencer

V. NOAH PECK, son of David Peck senior and Sarah Humphrey Peck, was born 31 March 1765, in Barrington, Rhode Island. He lived there until 1786, when he settled in Clarendon, Vermont, where he lived until his death, 19 August 1842.

Noah Peck was married, in 1792, to his first wife, ANNA SPENCER, who died 1 January 1811. He married for his second wife, in March, 1812, MEHITABLE YEAU (YAW), daughter of Nancy Carpenter and Amos Yaw junior, born 1788/90 in Guilford, Vermont, and died in Clarendon, Vermont, 18 September 1835. [The Peck Genealogy incorrectly gives her surname as You, probably a misprint].

Children of Noah Peck and Anna Spencer:

THE YAW-YEAW FAMILY

(From THE YAW-YEAW FAMILY IN AMERICA with the 1970 supplement. Published by the Yaw-Yeaw Family Society. 1962-1970. Compiled by the Rev. C. Arthur Phillips of Wooster, Ohio).

Pages 2, 3 ffl. 36, 37, 43 and 207 ffl.

1 This family may descend from RICHARD YEA whose will was filed 25 July 1548. In it he mentions a David Yea. In 1726, a David Yeau was High Sheriff of Somersetshire. (See: History of the Family of Yea by Alfred James Monday, published in 1885, by G. Vincent of Taunton, England).

DAVID YAUGH is first found in Marblehead, Massachusetts, in the records of St. Michael's Anglican Church, when his oldest son, Joseph was baptized 8 September 1728. David usually spelled his surname YEAW.

David Yeaw removed to Scituate, Rhode Island, 1 April 1735. He had a wife, Jane or Jean and four sons. He was made a freeman in Scituate in April 1745 when he purchased eighty acres of land in Scituate, which he bought from Thomas Angell.

In 1760, the oldest son, Joseph Yeaw was appointed guardian of his father David Yeaw because the latter was blind. The will of David Yeaw was dated 19 May 1752. In the will he mentions his wife and six sons. David died 14 July 1764; his widow, Jane died 20 January 1794. The children were:

1. Joseph Yeaw baptized 8 September 1728 at Marblehead; died 17 November 1764 in Scituate, only a few months following his father's death.
2. Mary Yeaw who was buried at Marblehead, 12 May 1729
3. David Yeaw junior baptized 25 April 1731 at Marblehead
4. Philip Yeaw baptized 11 November 1733 at Marblehead

5. Amos Yeaw baptized 17 November at Marblehead, and died in 1786 in Guilford, Windham County, Vermont; married Mary Franklin
6. John Yeaw born 1737/8 at Scituate; died 3 February 1827, aged 89 years.
7. William Yeaw born 1738/40 in Scituate; died 28 August 1810 in Rehoboth, Massachusetts.

11 AMOS YEAU, the fourth son of David and Jane Yeaw, was born in Marblehead, Massachusetts, where he was baptized 17 November 1734 in St. Michael's Anglican church. He was raised in Scituate, Rhode Island. During the Revolutionary War, he removed to Vermont. When New York State claimed sovereignty over Vermont, Amos and his two older sons favored the claim of New York. They enlisted as Vaugh but most generally wrote the surname Yaw. Amos Yaw is listed in the DAR Patriot Index, volume two, as a private in the Vermont Militia.

Amos Yaw married about 1758, in Rehoboth, Massachusetts, MARY FRANKLIN, third daughter of Rachel Horton and Philip Franklin. She was born in 1735 and died in 1813. She is not mentioned in her father's will; but she is mentioned in his family Bible and is called Mercy or Marcy Franklin. Philip Franklin was a private in the Vermont Militia, during the American Revolution, and is listed in the DAR Patriot Index

Amos Yaw lived in Scituate, Rhode Island, from 1735 to 1777, when the family removed to Guilford, Windham County, Vermont. He died at Guilford, between 29 April and 17 September 1786.

Children of Mary Franklin and Amos Yaw were:

1. Moses Yaw born in 1759 in Scituate; died 5 October 1850; married Lydia Jones
2. Amos Yaw junior born 6 November 1761, married Nancy Carpenter
3. Patience Yaw born 24 May 1764 in Scituate; married Stukely Stafford. He was an ensign in Thomas Rice's Company, under Colonel John Waterman, Massachusetts Militia, Revolutionary War.
4. Mary Yaw born about 1768 in Scituate, married Joseph Gallup; 2nd Charles Bowler
5. Joseph Yaw born 1772 in Scituate; died 1827 at Concord, Erie County, New York; married Sarah (Fay) Ures or Ewers, widow of John Ures, and daughter of Joseph and Abigail (Twitchel) Fay, born Athol, Massachusetts and died in Minnesota.
6. John Yaw born 1775 in Scituate; died 20 September 1828 in Columbus, Chenango County, New York. He married Sarah Ethridge.

111 AMOS YAW junior, the second son of Mary Franklin and Amos Yaw senior, was born 6 November 1761 in Scituate, Rhode Island, and died 24 December 1835 in Ira, Vermont. (This record is from his Revolutionary War pension papers in the National Archives, Washington, D.C.) His estate was inventoried 3 March 1836.

Amos Yaw jun. removed from Scituate with his parents, to Guilford, Vermont. He purchased land at Ira 11 April 1811. During his life he lived at Guilford, Clarendon and Ira. He sold his land in Guilford in 1812.

Amos Yaw married first about 1785, Nancy Carpenter, daughter of Edward Carpenter. She died in 1816, leaving five children.

Amos Yaw married second 17 May 1817 in Castleton, Vermont, Eunice Belknap, married by Rev. Elihu Smith. Eunice died 7 January 1856, in Pelham, Massachusetts with her daughter, Patience Cutting.

Amos Yaw jun., his older brother, Moses, were actively engaged in the struggle between New York and Vermont against the Ethan Allen party who supported Vermont. This is known as the "Guilford War." Amos Yaw jun. made application for a pension on his service in the Revolutionary War, 16 July 1832, at age seventy years. He stated that he enlisted 13 March 1781 at Guilford in Capt. Blakesley's Co., Col. Fletcher's Regiment of Vermont, served nine months. Both Amos Yaw jun., his brother, Moses, and their father, Amos sen. were awarded lands in New York State in compensation for their losses in behalf of New York in the Vermont struggle. This may account for the fact that two of the sons of Amos Yaw sen. settled in New York State.

Children of Nancy Carpenter and Amos Yaw jun.

1. Nancy Yaw born about 1786, died before 1835, married a Horton. Her five Horton children are mentioned in the will of Amos Yaw sen. Their uncle, Lemon Carpenter, guardian.
2. Mehitable Yaw born 1788/90, married NOAH PECK
3. Amos Yaw third born 1791/3, died before 1835; and married Alma Davis.
4. Mercy Yaw born about 1794. She is called Mercy Beach in her father's will.
5. Awinda Yaw who is called Awinda Smith in her father's will.

Children of Eunice Belknap and Amos Yaw jun.

6. Patience Yaw born in 1818, and died in Pelham, Mass., married Joseph Cutting
7. Eunice Yaw born 27 June 1824; died 14 November 1892; is called Eunice Snow in her father's will.

1V MEHITABLE YAW, the second daughter of Nancy Carpenter and Amos Yaw jun., was born 1788/90 at Guilford, Vermont, and died there 18 September 1835. She married in 1812, NOAH PECK, as his second wife. Her three children are mentioned in the will of their grandfather, Amos Yaw jun. They are:

1. Lewis Peck born 10 February 1813, married Harriet H. Brown
2. Daniel H. Peck born 29 January 1815, married Melissa B. Tower
3. Alphonso C. Peck born 1 January 1817

In the Yaw Genealogy, page 209, it is stated that the first wife of Noah Peck was AURA SPENCER, not Anna Spencer as given in the Peck Genealogy. Also that the children of Lewis Peck, oldest son of Mehitable, were quite distinguished:

Harrison J. Peck was a lawyer in Minnesota

Charles W. Peck was a medical doctor

Simon L. Peck wrote the history of Ira, Vermont

Daniel H. Peck removed from Ira, Vermnt, to Susquehanna County, Pennsylvania. He was dismissed from the Baptist Chrch in Ira, on 14 December 1853, and carried his church letter with him to Pennsylvania.

HENRY YEAW jun. was one of the very few persons of that surname ever to live in Susquehanna County at any time. He came to Lathrop Township in 1874, where he lived for nearly two decades. His descent is as follows:

1. David Yaugh found first in Marblehead, Mass., in 1728, with wife Jane. They settled in Scituate, R.I., in 1745, where he died 14 July 1764.

2. Joseph Yeaw, the oldest son, baptized in Marblehead, 8 September 1728 and died in Scituate, 17 November 1764, only four months after the death of his father. He settled in Scituate, where he married Martha Thornton.

3. David Yeaw born in March 1761 in Scituate, R.I., and died there, 20 December 1793. He was a soldier in the American Revolution. He married in 1786, Lydia Blackmar, daughter to Sarah and David Blackmar.

(for this line, consult the genealogy of the Yaw-Yeaw Family as mentioned above, pages 3, 4, 5, & 6)

4. Henry Yeaw senior is found on page 8. We had the family Bible records and from it is stated that Henry Yeaw was born in Scituate, R.I., 22 December 1788. He died there 1 April 1845. He was a mariner. He was married 6 February 1823 to Almey Knight, daughter of Olive Blackmar and James Knight. Almey's name is given in the record as Amey and was born 10 April 1798 in Scituate, and died there 30 December 1861, aged 63 years. They had ten children. The family record corrects many errors in this family.

5. Henry Yeaw junior, the fifth child, according to the family record, was born in Scituate, 20 May 1829 and died in Virgil, Cortland County, New York, 8 September 1898, aged 69-3-19, buried in the Virgil, New York, Cemetery. (The Genealogy states that this Henry Yeaw was a sailor and died at sea, which is a gross error). Henry Yeaw jun. was married in Scituate, R.I., 31 October 1874 to Mercy (Westcott) Harrington, widow of Loyd Harrington, and daughter of Abigail Albro and Nathaniel Westcott. She was born in Coventry, Washington County, Rhode Island, 2 September 1822 and died in Virgil, N.Y., 17 January 1901, buried Virgil Cemetery. Loyd and Mercy Harrington came to Lathrop Township in 1855, built a log house and raised seven children. The log house was standing as late as 1930 and was the last log house standing in the township. The Yeaws moved to Virgil in 1890. Henry Yeaw jun. left no children.

This family was consistent in using the spelling for their surname as Yeaw rather than Yaw.

THE CARPTENTER FAMILY

(From A Genealogical History of the Rehoboth Branch of the CARPENTER FAMILY in America by Amos B. Carpenter, 1898, Press of Carpenter & Morehouse, Amherst, Mass. Tracing the Carpenter Family from 1300 A.D.)

pages 38 ffl., 45, 58, 74, 125, 128, & 243

1 WILLIAM CARPENTER (the fourth generation of the same given name, and the eighth generation from John Carpenter born about 1300 A.D.) was born in England in 1605. Came to New England, in the ship Bevis with his wife, Abigail, their three children, and his father, William. The latter returned to Old England on the same vessel in which he came over, reason for his return is unknown. William Carptenter was a freeman of Weymouth, 13 May 1640. He settled in Rehoboth, Massachusetts, where he died 7 February 1659. His widow, Abigail died 22 February 1687.

11 JOSEPH CARPENTER was born in England in 1633. He married Margaret Sutton, daughter of John, on 25 May 1655. Joseph Carpenter was buried 6 May 1675 in Rehoboth, Massachusetts. He defied church authorities in Massachusetts, being a founder with six other members of the first Baptist Church to be organized in the entire state of Massachusetts, at Swansea.

111 BENJAMIN CARPENTER was born 19 January 1658 and died 22 May 1727. He married Renew Weeks, daughter of Elizabeth and William Weeks of Dorchester, Mass. She was born in 1660 and died 29 July 1703. Their twelve children were born in Swansea, Mass.

1V EDWARD CARPENTER was born in Swansea, 8 December 1700 and died there, 12 December 1778. He married 12 August 1724, Elizabeth Wilson, daughter to Elizabeth and Benjamin Wilson of Rehoboth. She was born 8 July 1706 and died 24 April 1791. They had seven children.

V EDWARD CARPENTER was born 7 May 1727 in Swansea, Massachusetts. He moved to Guilford, Vermont, in 1767, and later to Ira, Vermont. He was given a grant of three hundred acres of land by the New York State government for his service in the American Revolution. However, he was fined by the Supreme Court of the government of Vermont for opposing Vermont in the claims of the disputed area, and supporting the claims of the state of New York and that he claimed to be a subject of New York State and not of Vermont. The collection of the fine was suspended and finally remitted by the governor of Vermont and the council. It was considered settled 27 October 1784.

Edward Carpenter married Mary Lippitt on 19 November 1749. She was a daughter of Mary and John Lippitt of Scituate. Mary was born 19 April 1728 and died in 1792, aged 65 years.

V1 NANCY CARPENTER born 28 April 1762. She married Amos Yaw junior and lived in Ira, Vermont. She left five children, including Mehitable Yaw who married Noah Peck, and thus became the parents of Daniel H. Peck of Harford.

ORANGE COUNTY CALIFORNIA
GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY

PRESIDENT HARDING'S SUSQUEHANNA COUNTY ANCESTORS

The late Henry W. Felton, longtime Montrose editor, had a vast knowledge of our county's history. He had lived through much of it himself, and his recall, when joined with that of persons he had known, could take us back as much as 140 years, to the 1840s. When Henry died, I was reminded that he had been my link to his Jackson neighbor Hosea Benson, who saw the Starrucca Viaduct being built.

After Henry retired, he continued to write a weekly column on the county's past. In one of his last columns he recalled the interest of a mentor in newspapering, William C. Cruser (a founder of this Society), in the fact that ancestors of President Warren G. Harding had been early settlers of Clifford. Some of their Harding kin settled in South Harford and New Milford.

A leading county genealogist, Clara Gardner Miller, made a thorough study of the Presidential connection, and corrected some statements that had appeared in a genealogy, "The Hardings in America," published by Wilbur Judd Harding, an Iowa newspaperman and a descendant of the Hardings in Clifford. Mrs. Miller's study was published by the Wyoming Historical and Geological Society in 1928, five years after President Harding's death. Our Society has a reprint copy that was presented to William C. Cruser by Mrs. Miller.

Because history gives President Harding low marks, a definitive biography of him did not appear until Francis Russell's "The Shadow of Blooming Grove" was published in 1968. Drawing from Mrs. Miller's work, Russell gives a good account of the Hardings in Clifford. A few years later Rev. Garford F. Williams and others completed a study titled "The Hardings of South Harford."

Thus anyone who now takes up the subject sails in well-charted waters, and can only add some details and bring the story up to date for generations that have not heard it.

The first American Harding in the Presidential line was Richard, a mariner and fisherman who, with his brothers Joseph and Abraham, joined the Puritan migration to New England in 1623, and settled in Braintree. Richard's son Stephen, a blacksmith and a Baptist convert, moved to a corner of the Plymouth colony near Rhode Island and then to Providence, where he could pursue his faith without interference.

Stephen had a son Abraham, whose sons Stephen and Israel settled near New London, Connecticut. There the younger Stephen--who had been a tanner, currier, shipbuilder, and sea captain--bought a 400-acre farm. His son Abraham, of the fifth generation in America, was another Harding who moved on. Abraham and his family settled in Orange County, New York, in 1761.

Even before leaving Connecticut Abraham had been interested in that colony's plans for a settlement on the Susquehanna River. He and his brother Stephen signed the original Wyoming land agreement with the Indians in 1754. Stephen spent time in the Wyoming Valley in 1769 and settled there in 1774, at Exeter, after troubles with Indians and with the colonial government of Pennsylvania temporarily quieted down.

Abraham remained in Orange County, where he was a successful farmer and community leader and eventually a militia major. But his sons Lemuel, Oliver, and Abraham joined the migration to the Wyoming Valley. The younger Abraham settled at Pittston in 1772 and became prominent in local affairs.

When Tories and Indians mounted an attack on Wyoming during the Revolution, the younger Abraham's uncle Stephen, by now a captain of militia, commanded Fort Jenkins on the west side of the Susquehanna. The first casualties occurred when the Captain's sons Benjamin, Stukely, Stephen, Stephen's son David, and several neighbors, who had been working a field upriver at the place now known as Harding, opposite Campbell Ledge, were surprised by a group of Indians, and Benjamin and Stukely were killed.

Three days later 300 settlers engaged the much larger invading force in the disastrous conflict known as the Wyoming Massacre. Nearly 200 of the defenders were killed in the battle and its aftermath. The rest of the settlers, among them the Hardings, fled Wyoming any way they could. Many died on the journey, including the junior Abraham's young son Joseph.

This Abraham and Amos, his only surviving son, were among the few to brave a

THE PECKS AND THE CARRS

By George Robinson, Jr.

Many people in Pickaway, Ross and other Scioto Valley counties can trace their lineage back to families who came from Hardy, Hampshire, Grant and Pendleton counties in Virginia--now West Virginia. This area is usually referred to as the Valley of the South Branch of the Potomac. This tributary of the mighty Potomac begins in a spring near the tiny crossroads hamlet of Hightown, Virginia and continues clean and pure throughout its 133 mile length until it merges with the North Branch 18 miles southeast of Cumberland, Maryland. The valley is as beautiful as the Scioto (See National Geographic, October 1976 p. 433: "The Nation's River") but is not as fertile. The surrounding hills are also considerably higher than the Ohio counterparts. Circleville, West Virginia is located in Pendleton county not far from Spruce Knob (4,860 ft.) the highest point in the state.

One reason given for the large migration from West Virginia to the Scioto Valley was that many families in that area had a member who was a captive of the Shawnee Indians. The outdoor drama, Tecumseh, by Allan W. Eckert, clearly portrays the truth of this statement in the dramatic prisoner exchange scene between the white settlers and the Shawnees.

Two early Deercreek families who came from Hardy county were the Pecks and the Carrs.

George Peck served as a ranger on the Virginia frontier during the American Revolution. He was married to Mary Lancisco, daughter of Henry and Clara (Shobe) Lancisco and they had nine children.

1. Henry Peck (See under Carr)
2. Jacob Peck (See under Carr)
3. Jesse Peck (See under Carr)
4. Enoch Peck
5. Anija Peck (probably a nickname for Adonijah)
6. William Peck
7. Daniel Peck
8. Lancisco Peck
9. Betsy (who married Gideon Carr)

Conrad Carr was also a Revolutionary War soldier. He married Magdalene Shobe, daughter of Martin Shobe Sr. and Elizabeth (Hyer). Mrs. Carr was thus a first cousin of Mrs. Peck's mother.

Mr. Carr served in Captain Harness' Company of Rangers from Hardy county and his name appears on its payroll, which is preserved in the Virginia State Archives in Richmond. His father, Henry Carr, also gave aid and furnished supplies in the war. As a result, all the descendants of both Mr. Peck and Mr. Carr are eligible for membership in the DAR and other patriotic societies of that war period.

Mr. Carr had scarcely gotten to Ohio when he died. His affairs in Virginia were not entirely concluded and Hardy county contains records of the settlement of his estate there.

1. Elizabeth: married Henry Armentrout; born Sept. 24, 1771 and died Sept. 6, 1828 aged 55 y 11 m. 12 da. Children: Christopher, Daniel, Mary and Susan.

5. Magdaline: married Jonas Propst; she was born June 26, 1784 and died June 26, 1856 aged 72; left 5 children: William, Rachel, Henry, Mary and Elizabeth. The town of Atlanta was known in the Civil War days as Propstville, probably for this family.
6. Christina: married Jesse Peck; born May 7, 1786 and died May 30, 1834; she left 8 children: Conrad, Isaac, Alfred, Magdalene, Catherine, Mahala, James and Amos, all of whom left heirs.

Sterling and one little crossroads in that area was called "Henpeck" for him.

11. Amos: married Margaret Jackson; he was born July 20, 1798 and died Oct. 14, 1842; had 11 children: Gideon, Amelia, Hagar Mogans, Conrad, Jackson, Amos, Margaret, Catherine, John, Mary and Louisa.

It is interesting to note that, as was often the case with neighboring families, there were four marriages between Peck and Carr children. This fact, coupled with the previous relationship between Mrs. Carr and Mrs. Peck, should have caused a family historian to pause and consider!!

Some of the Pecks are buried in the Baptist Cemetery, as well as at Brown's Chapel and Williamsport but a great number of the Pecks and Carrs, including George and Conrad, are buried together in a little cemetery just off the Williamsport-Chillicothe Pike near the Ross County line. The road, labeled "Dead End", going west to Deer Creek, is known as Peck's Road and it used to lead to a ford in the creek known as Peck's Ford. The old cemetery is located here on the north side of the road. A smaller cemetery, located on the south side of Peck Road, is named for Alexander Smith, another Revolutionary War soldier. "Smith Cemetery" is the more noticeable of the two because it is a bit nearer to the main road and has a very tall stone in it.

John and Margaret Jackson, who married Catherine and Amos Carr, were probably closely related to Peter Jackson, who was living not far from Peck's Ford as early as 1800. He and his wife are buried in the so-called Baptist Cemetery across the creek about a mile or so west of Peck Cemetery. Sometimes this burial ground is called the Ater Cemetery because more than half the people in it carried that surname.

After the death of her husband, Jacob Peck, Amelia Carr Peck, his widow, decided to divide her estate among the Carrs and Pecks, since she had no children. However, before this could be done, she too died. She had entered into a bond and so the bond held even after her death. Mr. John J. Peck, the youngest son of Henry and Hagar (Carr) Peck, was one of these administrators. He kept a small notebook of his findings as to the heirs of each of the children and often said where they lived. The accounts of this estate show many trips made to Delaware County, Ohio and to Indiana and Illinois to try to locate various heirs. Mr. Peck noted that all the Carrs and Pecks of the older generation were dead as of 1885 and that only 23 or the 57 nieces and nephews were still alive. He was able to locate all but two of the heirs and they were the grandchildren of Henry and Elizabeth Armentrout, the children of their son, Daniel Armentrout. The names of the two ladies were Rebecca Leslie and Eliza Ashbury.

In 1952, my daughter Becky and I and the Misses Clara and Louise Mark went to Peck Cemetery to check the tombstone inscriptions against an earlier copy. Clara Mark was especially interested in the undertaking because she was an authority on families of the South Branch of the Potomac who had come to Ohio.

We were joined by Mr. Ward Peck, a grandson of John J. Peck, who brought the notebook of his grandfather; Mr. Ralph Stitt, who was a Peck descendant and Mrs. Charles Steinhauser, Sr., who was raised in the immediate vicinity.

The following list of Peck's Cemetery burials combines the 1898 and the 1952 copies. Those with an asterisk were found only by Mr. Thomas H. Tipton of Williamsport, in 1898, when he copied the cemetery. His work was published in the Old Northwest Genealogical Society Quarterly Volume 13 in 1910, along with other cemeteries of the area.

This story of the Pecks and the Carrs has been compiled from several sources, almost any one of which will amplify what appears here. The records compiled by Miss Clara Mark have formed the basis for the genealogy shown here. In addition, The Shobe Family by Frank Shobe, 1854 Revised Edition, The 3rd Roster of Soldiers of the Revolution Buried in Ohio, Judy's History of Grant and Hardy Counties, West Virginia, the court records of those counties, as well as of Ross and Pickaway Counties have been searched and used. It is hoped that these things will be helpful to anyone searching for these families as well as helping to tell WHY there is a Peck Road and a Peck's Ford.

ONE UNION SOLDIER: JOHN BURTON 1842-1925

By Harry E. Sark

OCCGS REFERENCE ONLY

In the early morning hours of April 26, 1842, there was born to the Jacob and Mary Burton household a son, named John Burton. This boy, in his later years, was to become my grandfather on my mother's side of the family. The Burton home was located on what is now the East Ringgold and Red Bridge Road, barely one-quarter mile east of the Columbus-Chillicothe Pike, recognized for many years as U.S. Route 23.

Nothing out of the ordinary was manifested in the early life of this boy as he attended a one-room school near his home. The learning of the three R's, with the occasional aid of a hickory switch, constituted his formal education. It was necessary for him to begin work on the farm early in life to supplement the family income, as his father was sick much of the time. When a young boy a little older than grandpa moved into the neighborhood, the two became great friends immediately and were always together at work and play. Boys grew up rapidly in the 1850's and the days passed quickly. This boy, named John Cahill, had moved into Walnut Township with his parents from a far Eastern state and he was destined to play a very important part in the future life of my grandfather a few years later on the battlefield of Stone's River at Murfreesboro, Tenn. and again, nine months later, on the battlefield of Chickamauga, near Ringgold, Georgia on September 20, 1863. As the boys grew older, each had a horse and they would ride down the pike to Circleville, north to South Bloomfield and as far away as East Ringgold.

A two-story brick building occupied a space on the west side of the street in South Bloomfield. It was used as a hotel with a tavern on the first floor and sleeping rooms above. Here the boys spent much of their leisure time and became acquainted with many people. Grandpa told me that on several occasions darkies, as he called them, could be seen in the dining room with strange white people and always during the night hours. If this hotel was a station on the Underground Railroad in 1859, such a thing was far from the minds of Grandpa and his friend, John Cahill. Young men at sixteen or seventeen years of age had other thoughts to occupy their minds.

Grandpa and Cahill hired out to a cattleman in Circleville to drive livestock from the cattle pen in that town to the stockyards in Columbus. The number of cattle in the herds would vary and at one time he said, "There were about forty head and many difficulties were encountered on the road." There were few fences between the road and the fields and often when the lead cows broke for an open field, they would be followed by the rest of the herd. They had to drive from Circleville to a cattle pen on the south side of the tavern in South Bloomfield on the first day. The second day's journey ended at Shadestown, where the cattle were kept overnight and the drivers quartered in a tavern-hotel, located on the west side of the pike. The third day ended with delivery of the stock at the yards in Columbus. Grandpa told me that, "As we were driving the stock north to Columbus, there would be many places along the way where the limbs on the trees on each side of the road could be reached while riding the horse in the middle of the pike."

It was on one of the cattle-driving trips to Columbus that the boys learned of the beginning of the Civil War. But since these happenings were away off in a distant part of the country, little concern was shown in the communities of Circleville and South Bloomfield. However, as the spring and summer of 1861 passed, companies of soldiers were being organized and young men from Pickaway County were entering the Army. Talk of war was upon the lips of every person.

In August of 1861, Grandpa, with a friend from South Bloomfield by the name of Lemuel Dewey, enlisted in Company E First Ohio Volunteer Cavalry, which was being organized in Circleville. Company E, made up largely of Pickaway County boys, was mustered into the service as part of the First Regiment, Ohio Volunteer Cavalry on August 30, 1861, as the companies from several nearby counties were rendezvoused at Camp Chase, Ohio. Within a few days, a white-bewhiskered surgeon told Grandpa that he was going to let him out of the Cavalry, since he could not stand the rigors of a campaign and would die of dysentery within a month. A dejected young man returned home from Columbus and his father, Jacob Burton, was so infuriated with him for running away and joining the Army that he threw the boy's leather boots into the fire after Grandpa had taken them off and gone to bed. After this discouraging experience, Grandpa worked at a sawmill near the junction of Walnut Creek with the Scioto River in Walnut Township, where Cahill was working. In August of 1862, both boys enlisted in Company C, 90th Regiment, Ohio Volunteer Infantry at Camp Circleville.

The Regiment, comprised of 943 enlisted men, was mustered into the Federal Service on August 26, 1862, and left within a few days on the Cincinnati and Muskingum Valley Railroad for Camp Dennison, near Cincinnati, Ohio. Here the regiment remained for several days, being supplied with equipment, drilling and getting more homesick as the days passed. Grandpa said to me, "Our Captain Caddy tried to comfort us but seemingly made things worse. It was awfully hard to sleep at night,
