Wittmann Cemetery

Location: Wittmann, Maricopa County, Arizona

Recorded by: Virginia McMeans and Sharon Pearson walking the grounds.

Date: November 1996

Directions: This cemetery is east of Hwy 60; about half way (25 miles) between Wickenburg and Phoenix. East onto Center Street, right onto Dove Valley Road, left onto 211th, left onto a gravel road.

Description: Wittmann cemetery has lots of empty or unlabeled gravesites as well as headstones stamped "Unknown." Entrance gate is on the east side of the cemetery. Recorders walked to the far NW corner and began recording the rows. The cemetery is maintained by the Saguaro Janes group volunteers. (To conserve space, we are eliminating stone descriptions.)

Cherokee Heritage

by Sue Sager Williams

From the time I was a small child, I knew I was of Cherokee heritage on my father's side. I did not start to be intrigued with my history until my father and his family were deceased. I vaguely remembered that my father's family was involved with John Brown University in Arkansas. On my computer, I found the University historian's e-mail address. The historian put me in touch with Maggie Smith for information on my great-great-grandfather, Simon Sager. Maggie turned out to be a third cousin, and she told me the history of the German side of my family including my great grandfather's name, Augustus Caesar Sager, and his wife, Amelia, who was Cherokee.

I knew that my father had been registered as to his Cherokee blood degree. I found an Allotment Deed from the Cherokee Nation to my father, which contained his Dawes Roll number. In order to become a member of the Cherokee tribe, this number is mandatory.

A trip to the L.D.S. Family History Library in Mesa, Arizona was my next step. In checking the 1900 census, I found the census packet for Augustus C. Sager. From this I learned that my great-great-grandfather's name was Daniel M. Tittle. His wife was Rosa and their daughter was Amelia.

Looking through James Manfor Carsolowey's Cherokee Pioneers---Early Settlers: My Journal (page 16), I read the following: "Daniel M. Tittle married Rosanna Ward, 1823- February 22, 1900. We found D.M. Tittle's grave in Maysville, Ark. and Rosanna Tittle and son J.M. Tittle in Vinita Cemetery. I knew the Tittle family in Vinita."

Now I had my great-great-grandmother's name. The Wards are very prominent in Cherokee history through Nancy Ward.

The book Old Families and Their Genealogy by Emmet Starr is a good source of information, and I was able to go back another generation.

I am not directly related to Nancy Ward but to her Irish stepson, John Ward.

In her book, Nancy Ward, Cherokee Chieftainess, Pat Alderman states, "John Ward found his stepmother, Nancy Ward, the most influential woman among her people, the Cherokee. John Ward remained in the Cherokee country and married Catherine McDaniel. She was the 17-year-old daughter of a Scotchman named McDaniel and his full-blooded Cherokee wife called Granny Hopper. John and Katie Ward had eight children. Many prominent American families can trace their heritage back to this family."

In Ancestry.com, I found that Chief Old Hop was the father of Granny Hopper. Chief Oconostota (Moytoy, Amatoya) was the father of Chief Old Hop. Through other sources I learned that Chief Old Hop was wounded when he was young which caused him to limp. He was thereafter called Old Hop.

I submitted my application and copies of my sources of proof to the Cherokee National Historical Society (CNHS). It was approved, and I received a membership certificate along with a letter of appreciation for my research which has been placed in the CNHS archives.

If you are able to trace and verify your Cherokee lineage back to the time of the "Trail of Tears," you too may join the "First Families of the Cherokee Nation." I hope that my journey into Cherokee genealogy may help others. (You can e-mail Sue at suew@primenet.com)

Morristown Cemetery

Location: Morristown, Maricopa County, Arizona

Recorded by: Sharon J. Pearson and Virginia L. McMeans walking the cemetery grounds.

Date: November 1996.

Directions: This neat, small cemetery is on Castle Hot Springs and Rockaway roads about 2 blocks East of Hwy 60 about 11 miles South of Wickenburg. (See page 11 for more information.)

Description: Most graves are surrounded with quartz and other white rocks. We recorded the graves beginning to the left (South) of the entrance gate. We did not record the empty gravesites. There appears to be a narrow walking path between each grave.

Eagle Eye Cemetery

Location: Aguila, Maricopa County, Arizona

Recorded by: Sharon J. Pearson and Virginia L. McMeans by walking the cemetery.

Date: November 1996

Directions: This cemetery is East of Hwy 60 four miles out Eagle Eye Road in Aguila, Arizona.

Description: It is a charming cemetery in a gorgeous setting of cacti and palo verde and mesquite trees. It lies at the foot of a large rocky hill covered in saguaros and overlooked by a hole through the hill which is beneath what resembles an eagle's head (therefore the name "Eagle Eye").

The wrought iron entrance gate was created and installed by Leon Powell and Ernest Freeney.

Arija Powell designed and R. Leonard constructed the arch, crowned with an eagle.

Date a Tombstone

One way to figure out the era your ancestor was buried is to examine the material the tombstone is made from.

♦ If your ancestor has a stone made of slate or common fieldstone (except for wooden—used by pioneers) chances are the stone dates from 1796—1830.

♦ If the stone is flat-topped hard marble, the dates are about 1830—1849.

♦ If your mystery stone is round or pointed soft marble with cursive inscriptions, look for a date of 1845—1868.

♦ Masonic 4-sided stones began in 1850 and are still used today.

♦ Pylons, columns, and all exotic-style monuments are usually dated from 1870—1900.

♦ Granite, now common, came into use about 1900.

Meeting Strangers in the Cemetery

Jay Zane and Lithuanian Global Resources have some helpful and humorous advice about meeting people when doing your cemetery research.

"When approached by strangers in the cemetery, be friendly but cautious. I have received much valuable information from visitors. I never had any bad experiences as those depicted in Night of the Living Dead. However use common sense when talking to a stranger in a strange place.

"My favorite line to nosy people who ask me what I am doing is, 'I am registering voters for the upcoming election. It is expected to be close and the cemetery vote will be crucial.' I am trying to tell you that you must not take your work too seriously. It is a hobby and should be fun."
