The North Washington Prairie Lutheran Church was built in 1890 as a result of a split with members of Washington Prairie Lutheran Church over the predestination issue.

The WASHINGTON PRAIRIE LUTHERIAN CHURCH traces its roots to the Little Iowa Congregation. Pastors Nils Brandt and C.L. Clausen were instrumental in organizing Washington Prairie as one of the first Norwegian Lutheran congregations west of the Mississippi River. Ulrick Vilhelm Koen, recent graduate of University of Christiania, Norge, accepted the congregational call and arrived with his wife, Elisabeth, December 22, 1853. The Koenes were delayed for a time on the east side of the Mississippi River until the river was frozen and safe for travel. The Koenes shared the Egge cabin (now at Vesterheim Museum grounds) and other cabins until a parsonage was erected in 1854. This parsonage was destroyed by fire November 24, 1872, but most of the church records were saved. The congregation built the present parsonage--completed in 1874. (Taken from W.P. Bulletin)
