NEWBURYPORT FEMALE CHARITABLE SOCIETY BIRTH RECORDS

By Walter H. McIntosh

The Female Charitable Society of Newburyport was founded in the year 1903, its purpose being to "rescue from poverty and vice, to instruct and train to virtue and usefulness, female orphan children." The children were mostly turned over by widows in dire straits, through the death of their mariner husbands, through desertion, non-support, or other reasons for their impoverishment, including illegitimacy.

The organization was supported by charitable donations, and on every anniversary of its founding, there was a meeting in which a visiting minister cited the needs of the children and the society, in an endeavor to raise funds for its continuance. It was unique in that the management of the society was exclusively entrusted to females!

Two years after its founding it was incorporated by the legislature (the General Court). it was among the first charitable institutions of the town.

A handwritten journal of the entrants for the first thirty years was recently discovered in the archives of the Newburyport Public Library by the writer. In most cases it lists the birth date of the child, and the date received into the asylum. Names with an asterisk seem to match up with those in the Newburyport Vital Records, although in some cases dates do not match up exactly. The others not recorded were probably children born out of town before their mothers resided in Newburyport. Most were eventually placed in families.
