The way extending from Central avenue to Lambert avenue and between the lots of Lewis H. Dole and George A. Todd, Rogers avenue.

The way next south of Rogers avenue, Phillips avenue.

The way next south of Phillips avenue, Shepard avenue.

The way next south of Shepard avenue, Payson avenue.

The way next south of Payson avenue, Jewett avenue.

The way next south of Jewett avenue, Bradford avenue.

These names are selected in memory of Ezekiel Rogers, Samuel Phillips, Samuel Shepard, Edward Payson, Jedidiah Jewett and Ebenezer Bradford the first six ministers of the gospel settled over the First Church in Rowley.

The way next west of Central avenue is named Miller avenue.

The way next west of Miller avenue is named Trumble avenue.

The way next east of Central avenue is named Parrat avenue.

The way next east of Parrat avenue is named Leaver avenue.

× These names are selected in memory of John Miller, × Francis Parrat, John Trumble and Thomas Leaver the first four town clerks of Rowley.

The cemetery in Rowley in the Linebrook Parish has not yet been visited by your commissioners and a report thereon must be deferred until another year.

Of the many letters received evincing the interest of the writers in our cemetery and the improvements made therein it seems appropriate that one at least should appear in this report:—

REPORT OF THE CEMETERY COMMISSIONERS.

Since our last report the negotiations, then begun with Mr. John Lambert for a way in the cemetery on the west of the additions of 1830 and 1855, have been completed.

In consideration of fifty dollars, land one rod in width and nearly twenty-two rods in length has been conveyed to the town by Mr. Lambert, as an addition to the cemetery, upon condition of no burials thereon, and its use as a way, and for trees.

This land has been enclosed, the way laid out and gravelled. The purchase money came to us by donation as shown hereafter.

The survey by Mr. J. W. Nourse as ordered by the town is finished and the plan made.

The old gravestones in that part of the cemetery in use before 1830, have been reset. They are decaying and the inscriptions thereon becoming illegible.

For this reason we have caused all the inscriptions in this part of the ground to be carefully copied, without expense to the town, and herewith submit the list as an appendix to this report.

For convenience we have named the several ways in the cemetery as follows:

The avenue extending south from Main street, Central avenue. The new way from Central avenue west to the addition of 1892 and thence south on said addition, Lambert avenue.

283 Clarendon Street,
Boston.

Nov. 5, 1892.

MY DEAR SIR:

In answer to your letter, let me say that, until further notice from me to you or your successors, I shall be glad to bear the expense of cleaning and repairing the monument and burial lot of my ancestor the Rev. Samuel Phillips, second minister of Rowley.

I shall be glad if you can let me know about what the annual expense is likely to be.

Yours sincerely,
PHILLIPS BROOKS.

Geo. B. Blodgett, Esq.

Respectfully submitted,

GEO. B. BLODGETTE.
BENJ. P. MICHILL.
GEO. J. JOHNSON.

Rowley, Feb. 1, 1893.

APPENDIX.

The following list includes all the inscriptions now (1892) to be found in that part of the cemetery in use before 1830.

Two gravestones were last year moved to the addition of 1830.

This cemetery was the only one used by the town of Rowley to 1702, when the burial ground in Byfield Parish was first used.

The first burial in the Second Parish of Rowley, now Georgetown, was in 1732. There is a cemetery in Rowley, within the limits of the Linebrook Parish, used as early as 1747; it is now without inscriptions, is wholly abandoned, and its site known to but few.

The words and figures in brackets above each inscription indicate where the same may be found in the rows of stones on the east and west side of Central Avenue, entering from Main street.

Thus [6 Row West 3] indicates the sixth row from the gate on the west side of Central Avenue and the third stone from the Avenue in that row.

Deceitful world farewell to you,
In heaven may I appear,
I bid you friends a short adieu
And will you meet me there;
And join the saints with angels bright
To praise the Sacred Three,
And dwell with him in realms of light
Who dy'd to make us free.
Then while the grave's before your eyes
Pray give this truth its weight
That on a moment as it flies
Hangs your eternal state.
Haste thou my soul arise and fly
Thro' realms of lasting day
And say there's nought below the sky
To tempt thee there to stay
Here my redeemer reigns with praise
And always from his throne,
He watches all my dust to raise
A body like his own.

The voice of God call'd, anon I obey'd,
 Resign'd my life, & nature's debt I paid
 My fabric now sleeps, my labours are o'er,
 My spirits landed on the boundless shore.
 Nor you friends, can death, God's messenger stay,
 But must repose too, in mouldering clay,
 Then your golden days improve, as they haste,
 Living joys flowing from Religion taste.

That monarch, God; that creed, His word alone.

Down, down to us and ours.

Really Too Many Sarahs: Blackman-Booth Revisited

by Julie Helen Otto

In NEXUS 8[1991]:63-65 I explored some problems of multiple Sarahs in the large Blackman/ Blakeman family, descendants of Rev. Adam<sup>1</sup>, first minister of Stratford, Connecticut. The article examined Sarah Blackman (dau. of Benjamin and Rebecca [Smith]) who married at Stratford 24 Nov. 1737 Joseph Foote; Sarah Blackman (dau. of Ebenezer and Abigail [Curtiss]), born Stratford 3 April 1705, most probably the Sarah Blackman who married Jeremiah Greenman at Stratford [6 Sept.] 1720; and a Sarah Blackman, who married Joseph Booth, perhaps at Stratford, 2 Nov. 1737. Donald Lines Jacobus, in History and Genealogies of the Families of Old Fairfield (1930-32, repr. 1976, 1991, hereafter OF), originally (1:86) married Ebenezer's Sarah to Joseph Booth, then (1:790) gave Joseph's wife as Sarah (Thompson) Sherman (1720-1804). Looking at the similar surnames and close dates between the Booth-Blackman (later "Booth-Sherman") and Foote-Blackman marriages, I suggested a transcriber might have confused them.

Before I suggested this parallax, however, I should have consulted Mr. Jacobus's later work The Genealogy of the Booth Family: Booth Families of Connecticut for Six or More Generations (1952, henceforth Booth), pp. 28-29. This omission was kindly brought to my attention by Lloyd Booth of Old Saybrook, Conn. Two Joseph Booths (father and son) married Sarahs. The 1737 Sarah Blackman married Joseph, Jr., son of his father's first wife, Mehitable Beach. Joseph's father, Joseph, Sr., did marry (3) Sarah (Thompson) Sherman, but long after 1737; Fairfield deeds show that in 1751 the elder Joseph's second wife, Rebecca Morehouse, was still alive and conveying her rights in land.

I think that some earlier writers may have identified Sarah (Blackman) Booth as Ebenezer's daughter Sarah (b. 1705) because the third and last known child of Joseph Jr. and Sarah (Blackman) Booth was an Ebenezer (bp. privately 18 Aug. 1750, "on account of illness", prob. d.y. [Booth, p. 29]). The most serious problem here, however, is that Mr. Jacobus dates the birth of Joseph, Jr. as "ca. 1720." A seventeen-year old husband is a bit young; but for that young husband, a 32-year old wife strains credibility. If he was indeed born ca. 1720, Joseph Booth, Jr. would be about the right age to marry an older daughter of Ebenezer<sup>4</sup> Blackman, Jr. (1693-1753) and Mehitable Adams; but the only daughter mentioned in Ebenezer Jr.'s detailed will and estate papers is Abigail (Blackman) Wooster (1728-1811). Deed indices for Stratford, Huntington (later Shelton), and Fairfield showed no Booth-Blackman exchanges offering further data.

Pre-1737 Sarah Blackmans include

Sarah Blackman, dau. of James<sup>2</sup> Blackman and his first wife — (Stiles?), b. Stratford 25 Sept. 1658, d. Boston 17 April 1694; m. ca. 1677 John Coney (1645-1722), the well-known goldsmith, son of John and Elizabeth (Nash) Coney of Boston. Sarah is mentioned in her father's 1689 will as Sarah "Cunny."

Sarah Blackman, b. say ca. 1652-62, d. New Haven, Conn. 20 Dec. 1688, in childbirth; m. (rec. there) 20 Aug. 1677 John Todd (b. 1642), son of Christopher and Grace (Middlebrook) Todd. She was poss. a dau. of John<sup>2</sup> and Dorothy (Smith) Blackman of Stratford, but much more work on her identification is required.

Sarah Blackman, poss. dau. of Joseph<sup>3</sup> Blackman (d. ca. 1706, son of John<sup>2</sup> and Dorothy [Smith]) and Hannah Hall, who were m. Stratford 14 July 1674; a Sarah Black[man] joined Stratford Cong. Church with "Hanna Blackman wife to Joseph" 26 Dec. [16]87 (TAG 13 [1936-37]: 272).

Sarah Blackman, b. Stratford 3 April 1705, dau. of Ebenezer<sup>3</sup> (John<sup>2</sup>) and Abigail (Curtiss) Blackman; a candidate for the Sarah who m. Stratford 6 Sept. 1720 Jeremiah Greenman.

Sarah Blackman, date of birth not given, appar. dau. of Joseph<sup>4</sup> Blackman (Joseph<sup>3</sup>, John<sup>2</sup>) and either Elizabeth Seeley (m. Stratford 14 Sept. 1697) or Esther Wheeler (m. there 29 Jan. 1704/5, unrec. dau. of Joseph and Mary [Powers] Wheeler); Sarah was liv. 1 Dec. 1714 when mentioned in the will (proved 28 Nov. 1716) of her father's maternal aunt Mary Hall (ca. 1635-1716, d. unm.), who referred to "cousin" Joseph Blackman

(1675-ca. 1738) and "Sarah dau. of my cousin Joseph Blackman" (OF 1:250); had Mary in this phrase meant her bro.-in-law Joseph Sr. (d. 1706) she would have prob. described him as "deceased."

Sarah Blackman, dau. of Benjamin<sup>4</sup> (Joseph<sup>3</sup>, John<sup>2</sup>) and Rebecca (Smith) Blackman, b. ca. 1710-15, living 1758; m. Stratford 24 Nov. 1737 Joseph Foote.

Sarah Blackman, under age on 2 Jan. 1732/3, dau. of John<sup>4</sup> (Joseph<sup>3</sup>, John<sup>2</sup>) and Jemima (Hurlbut) Blackman (m. 1701) of Fairfield; Ephraim Jackson [Sarah's bro.-in-law] was appointed guardian. By 1737 Sarah might have been of marrying age.

Note: In the discussion of the high-toned names given to their children by Timothy and Beula (—) Blackman I mentioned Diantha Blackman, bp. at North Stratford (now Trumbull) Congregational Church 1 March 1758, said by most people (including myself) to have m. Rip-ton (Huntington, now Shelton) 24 May 1781 Nathan Wooster (1757-1820), and d. Huntington 9 Oct. 1846, in 89th yr. (g.s., Huntington Center Cem.) — a date that matches Timothy's Diantha. But two 1789 deeds (Shelton, Conn. Deeds 1:445, 2:510) prove that "Dianthy," wife of Nathan Wooster, was a daughter of Ebenezer and Mary (Judson) Blackman of Ripton, and a sister of Eli Blackman, "Rebecker" (Blackman) DeForest (wife of Nehemiah), Molley (Blackman) Lewis (wife of Everitt), and Ruth Blackman (prob. Ruth [Blackman] Blackman [ca. 1760-1840], widow of her likely first cousin Lt. Elisha Blackman [1760-87], eldest son of her uncle Lt. Nathaniel Blackman [1738-1819] of Ripton and Jericho, Vermont, by his first wife Sarah Davis).

The life of Diantha (Blackman) Wooster was a maze of cousinships: her father (Ebenezer<sup>5</sup>), husband, mother-in-law (Abigail [Blackman] Wooster, sister of Ebenezer) and son-in-law (Philo<sup>6</sup> [Enoch<sup>5</sup>]) were all children or grandchildren of Ebenezer<sup>4</sup> and Mehitable (Adams) Blackman of Stratford and Huntington — Diantha married her first cousin, and Hepsa Wooster (1783-1855), one of their daughters, married Philo, her first-cousin-once-removed. Diantha Blackman (bp. North Stratford 1 March 1758), daughter of Timothy and Beula and third cousin of Diantha (Blackman) Wooster, probably married (as "Antha" Blackman), Elihu Leavenworth at Woodbury, Conn. 6 Oct. 1772 and named her first son Jehiel, probably for his uncle Jehiel (b. 1761), son of Timothy and Beula. "Diantha" indeed was used several times among apparent descendants of Timothy.

Delving in Stratford deeds and microfilmed registers of Christ Church (Episcopal), Stratford, at the Connecticut State Library, I found a bit more data on Benjamin Blackman, Jr., son of Benjamin and Rebecca (Smith) Blackman and brother of Sarah (Blackman) Foote. He was bp. at Christ Church 27 May 1722. On 23 Feb. 1759[/60?] his sister Martha "Dayton alias Blackman" conveyed to Samuel Fulsom her right to land in Stratford "Since Distributed & set to my Brother Benjamin Blackman now abroad in some foreign parts." The younger Benjamin could well have served in the French and Indian Wars.
