

CIVIL WAR VETERANS BURIED IN CEDAR HILL CEMETERY

In the last LANTERN, I referred to the Civil War Veterans who were buried in Cedar Hill Cemetery at Newark. This is the list in 1879 data derived from 'Report of the Great Reunion of Veteran Soldiers and Sailors of Ohio, Newark, OH, 1879,

Of the 76th OVI: William Beddoes; William Rider; George F. Tarr; Franklin Ruff, Charles Luther; Fred Uhule; Jacob Willson; Mervin Culley; Henry McVicker; John Lucas; Jacob Zippery; Thomas Sessor; John W. Gray; Henry Marvin; Jarvis Upham; David Evans; George Veach.

Of the 3rd OVI: John M. Nichols; Leonidas McDougal; Rufus VanBuskirk; Benjamin Readhead; John Francis; Fan. Talley; Isaac Pence; R. Darlington; C. Southard; John Richards; David Bellmier; F. Heeley; Wesley Smith; Franklin Haughey; Albert Knight; Franklin Christian.

Of the 31st OVI: George Haight; Milton Hoover; Thomas Spencer; Samuel Southard.

Of the 27th OVI: George B. Upham

Of the 12th OVI: Michael Connell; William Sayer; John Mertz.

Of the 1st OVC: David Moore; Harvey Ferguson; Corbin Fry.

Of the 10th OVC: John Briton

Of the 95th OVI: George Abbott.

Of the 6th OVI: Franklin Halliday.

Of the 16th OVI: Anson Miller.

In the military books at the library, there is a copy of 'The Great Reunion, Veteran Soldiers and Sailors of Ohio', written by Major Charles D. Miller. It describes in detail the Civil War Veterans reunion held in Newark in July 1878. Many notables were present, including President Rutherford Hayes, Gov. R. M. Bishop, Gen. Wm. T. Sherman, Gen. J. Warren Keifer, Gen. J. A. Logan, and numerous others. It also lists many of the veterans attending the encampment. It is an interesting read especially if you have a Civil War ancestor.

In the summer of 1909, the Grand Army of the Republic held an encampment in Newark, Ohio. A copy of The Newark Advocate, dated 17 June 1909, is in our library. There are many interesting articles relating to the "Great War". One article about Johnny Clem, The Drummer Boy of Shiloh, reads as follows:

"LITTLE JOHNNY CLEM WILL BE THE ONLY VETERAN ON THE ACTIVE LIST IN 1912."

The Army Register for 1909 which has just been issued, shows that only seventeen officers upon the active list of the army were engaged in the Civil War.. After 1912, the only veteran of the Civil War on the active list of the army will be "Little Johnny Clem," the drummer boy of Shiloh. He was carried on the back of the color (bearer) sergeant at the head of the troops in a terrible charge, which has been described in every history of the Civil War, and who was but 14 years of age when the war ended. Mr. Clem was a native of Newark, Ohio.

It was during the Civil War that John Joseph Klem changed his name to John Lincoln Clem. He was born to Roman and Magdalene Klem of Newark, Ohio on 13 Aug 1851. At the end of the hostilities President U. S. Grant appointed John Clem to the grade of 2nd Lieut. John Clem served many years in the military rising to the rank of Brigadier General. He died 13 May 1937 and is buried in Arlington National Cemetery. On 14 Nov 1999 a statue commemorating the memory of Johnny Clem was erected in Veterans Park in Newark, OH. It depicts him as a drummer boy in military attire.

If your ancestor was a Licking County resident and served during the Civil War, either side, you are encouraged to apply for membership in the LCGS Civil War Families. Guidelines and application papers are available on the LCGS web-site or you may call or write to LCGS for same.

J.C. CAMPBELL

Colonel 76th Regiment Pennsylvania Infantry. Enlisted August 6, 1861; discharged January 23, 1865. He took part in the following named battles: Port Royal, Edisto Island, Pocotaligo, Fort Pulaski, Broad river, James Island, Fort Wagner, second attack on Fort Wagner, City Point, Bermuda Hundred, Drury's Bluff, Cold Harbor, Carter's Farm, Dutch Gap, White House and Gaines' Mills. He was wounded November 17, 1864, at Chester Station.

He engaged also in the trenches in front of Petersburg, at the Mine Explosion in front of Petersburg, at Chester Station, Fort Sedgwick and many skirmishes of less note; also in the hard fighting taking the Island on which Fort Wagner was located.

Philip CASSIDY

Private Company F, 3rd Penn. Cavalry. Enlisted in July, 1864; discharged near Richmond, Va., in 1865. He took part in nearly all the battles in front of Petersburg and was at Lee's surrender at Appomattox.

Erwin H. CATHRIGHT

No record furnished. He was a member of Company F, 123rd O.V.I., and served 2 years.

George W. CHASE

First Lieutenant and Quartermaster. Enlisted in Company H, 1st O.V.I. April 19, 1861, as a private and afterwards in the 88th O.V.I. Discharged in November, 1863. He took part in the following named battles: Fairfax C.H., Bull Run, Culpepper C.H., Orange C.H., Frankfort, Nashville, Knoxville and numerous small engagements not called battles. He was wounded August 11, 1861 – not seriously – and was taken a prisoner of war at first Bull Run, and by Morgan at Cynthiana, Ky., but escaped before getting to Libby or Andersonville.

He enlisted in the 1st O.V.I. as Private, was breveted 2nd Lieutenant after the Vienna affair in August '61; was on Recruiting service for the 1st, 2nd, 19th, 63rd, 78th and 85th O.V.I. Regiments; acted as Adjutant in organizing new Regiments and afterwards served as R.Q.M.

Marion CHRISMAN

Private Company H, 76th O.V.I. Enlisted February 7, 1862; discharged July 19, 1865. He participated in all the battles his Regiment was engaged in from Fort Donelson to Bentonville, and was never absent excepting a short time in Hospital at Beaufort, S.C.

Harry A. CHURCH

Sergeant Company K, 52nd O.V.I. Enlisted July 9, 1862; discharged July 6, 1865. He was enlisted originally for the 72nd Ohio, but was transferred with 18 others to the 52nd Ohio and was made 2nd Sergeant. He took part in the following named battles: Perryville, Resacca, Dallas, Buzzards' Roost, Rome, Ga., Franklin, Chattanooga, Chickamauga, Kenesaw Mountain, Peach Tree Creek, Jonesboro, and the capture of Atlanta.

He served with his Regiment from its muster in till the capture of Atlanta, where he was taken sick and sent with a number of others to Nashville, and was detailed in the Government Printing Office till the end of the war.

On the 7th day of August, 1871, he enlisted for the Regular army and was assigned to Company K, 7th U.S.I., stationed at Fort Shaw, Montana Territory. After a short stay at the Fort his company and Company B of the same Regiment were sent out on an expedition and when returning were caught in a terrible snow storm, the mercury falling from zero to 45 deg. below, the result of which was that his feet were so badly frozen that they had to be amputated two inches and one-half above the ankle. There are few soldiers who have made so many narrow escapes, and yet his is alive and well and has set a large share of the type for this book.

Thomas COCHRAN

No record furnished. He was a member of Company I, 121st O.V.I. and served one year and one month.

John T. COLLINS

Captain Company E, 98th O.V.I. Resigned July 29th, 1864. Post Office, Newark O.

M.W. COMSTOCK

Sergeant Company F, 95th O.V.I. Enlisted July 6, 1862; discharged March 13, 1863. He was taken a prisoner of war at Richmond, Ky., August 31, 1862 and paroled soon after.

Richard CONLEY

Private Company E, 12th O.V.I.; served 2 years. Newark, O.

James D. COON

No record furnished. He was a member of Company C, 27th O.V.I., and served one year.

John CROOKS

Second Sergeant Company I, 51st O.V.I. Enlisted April 12, 1861; discharged November 5, 1865. He took part in the following named battles: Stone River, Chickamauga, Lookout Mountain, Mission Ridge, Buzzards' Roost, Peach Tree Creek, in front of Atlanta, Jonesboro, Franklin and Nashville. He was wounded slightly at Lookout Mountain.

He took part in 35 skirmishes and battles, of which the above named are the main ones. He first enlisted with the 16th O.V.I. and served four months in that organization.

Edward T. CROSSE

Fifth Sergeant Company D, 76th O.V.I. Enlisted December 10, 1862; discharged July 19, 1865. He took part in the following named battles: Fort Donelson, Shiloh, Chickasaw Bayou, Arkansas Post, siege of Vicksburg, Lookout Mountain, Ringgold, Mission Ridge, and in two engagements around Atlanta, Ga., and others, making thirty-two battles and skirmishes during the war.

Elliott W. CROSSE

Ensign, South Atlantic Blockading Squadron, U.S. Navy. Enlisted March 4, 1862; discharged October 16, 1865. He served on the war vessels Potomska, Catskill and Massachusetts, and engaged in the Bombardments of Charleston, Pocatigo Bridge and Fort Fisher. He was wounded at Pocatigo Bridge in November, 1864.

W.H. DAVIDSON

Private Company F, 95th O.V.I.; served 3 years. West Zanesville, O.

David DAVIS

Private Company D, 76th Regiment, Ohio Infantry. Enlisted December 17, 1861; discharged with Regiment July 24, 1865. He took part in all the battles and skirmishes in which the 76th Regiment participated and was never in hospital nor missed duty.

At Atlanta, July 22, 1864, in charging to retake a battery he surprised and captured, alone, six Rebels who had three Union men as prisoners, and turned them over safely at Headquarters. This soldier was under age, and under the regulation height when he enlisted, but of such tough material as to stand all the privations and hardships of the war from the beginning to the end.

Samuel DAVIS

Corporal Company C, 6th O.V.I.; served 3 years. Newark, O.

Joseph A. DEAMUDE

First Sergeant Company D, 76th O.V.V.I. Enlisted October 31, 1861; discharged July 16, 1865. He took part in all engagements from Fort Donelson to Bentonville, S.C.

At Lookout Mountain Sergeant DEAMUDE, together with one man of the same company, surprised and captured fourteen of the enemy and turned them over safely at Headquarters.

William P. DEBEVOISE

Private Company E, 135th O.N.G. Enlisted May 1, 1864; discharged May 31, 1865. He was captured at Martinsburg, West Virginia, and was a prisoner of war ten months, from July 3, 1864, to May 1, 1865, at Andersonville, Macon, Albany, Thomasville, Blackshier, Savannah and Millen, in Georgia.

This soldier in describing his prison life, says that he would have preferred participating in all the battles of the war than to have endured the hardships in these prison pens, which he says "were worse than hog pens." He was more than half starved all the time, and upon once occasion lived on one ear of corn for forty-eight hours. He was struck with a bayonet when too weak to walk, and when released from prison life was nearly gone, and he was so exhausted that he could scarcely stand upon his feet.

W.H. DENNING

Private Company G, 74th O.V.I.; served 3 years and 9 months. Newark, O.

George W. DUNN

Private Company F, 135th O.N.G. Enlisted May 2, 1864; discharged January 26, 1865, at Columbus, O. He took part in the following named battles: North Mountain July 3, 1864, in the Shenandoah Valley, Va. and was captured in the same fight on the day above mentioned, by General McCoslin's forces. He was a prisoner of war at Andersonville from July 27, 1864, to December 10, 1864.

He was taken to Charlotte, thence to Lynchburg, Va., thence to Andersonville, where some 30,000 hemmed in by a stockade, with a dead line on in the inside for the purpose of killing the prisoners, for a reward of from 30 to 60 days' furlough, given to kill a Yankee!

James W. DUNN

No record furnished. He was a member of Company A, 76th O.V.I. and served eleven months.

Milligan DUNN

Private Company D, 113th Regiment O.V.I. Enlisted August 31, 1862; discharged July 25, 1865. He took part in the following named battles: Kenesaw Mountain, Ringgold, Ga., Atlanta, Ga., Buzzards' Roost, Knoxville, Tenn., Dallas, Franklin, Lookout Mountain and Peach Tree Creek.

James W. KIRKENDALL

Captain Company D, 1st O.V.V. Cavalry. Enlisted August 5, 1861; discharged September 13, 1865. He took part in the following named battles: Shiloh, Corinth, Perryville, Stone River, Chickamauga, Kenesaw Mountain, Atlanta, Lovejoy Station, Jonesboro, Mission Ridge, Ebenezer Church, Selma, Montgomery, Columbus and Macon. He was wounded at Springfield, Ky., in the hand.

He was in active service during the war; saw and endured more than can be related at present, but there are a few instances that are ever fresh to the memory. At the battle of Stone River a number of Licking's brave sons fell. Among them Major D.A.B. MOORE; also, at Lovejoy Station, Lieutenant Billy SCOTT, another of Newark's sons. He and five others charged a Rebel Battery - SCOTT, with his hatchet (with which we soldiers used to pitch our dog-tents.) They took the Battery, but could not hold it was the Rebels had them surrounded; but they cut their way out with the sabre. SCOTT was fatally wounded by a shell exploding and killing his horse. A comrade took him off the field, when he died. This was a charge of great daring, under the lead of General KILPATRICK, and many other brave boys of Company D fell.

J.W. LATTIMER

No record furnished. He was a member of Company K, 18th O.V.I. and served 8 months.

A DRAFT LIST OF HOPEWELL TOWNSHIP 1845

Every state had militia laws. Most volunteer militia companies had to get permission or authorization and had to conform to the state regulations regarding the militia or volunteer militia. This practice no doubt dates back to the early settlers of this country. The New England Colonies had a list of all able bodied men over the age of 16 that were capable of bearing arms. A list of Hopewell Township males liable to be enrolled according to an act regulating the militia passed in 1844. Submitted by Ronna Eagle

REVOLUTIONARY WAR UNIFORMS*

'By Jim Siegel'

Uniformity of uniforms was hardly the order of the day for the Continental Army during the early years of our yet to be born nation. In fact, one might say that 'dis-uniformity' was more the norm. Prior to 1775, during the Colonial Wars, the North American provinces were British and the volunteer regiments formed in them were recruited to fight the common enemy, the French and Indians. Many were dressed by the British in 'red coats' while others were dressed in plain clothes.

It is recorded that at the battles of Lexington and Concord that 'not an officer or soldier of the Continental troops engaged was in uniform but were in the plain and ordinary dress of citizens'. It is also recorded that during the War, there was little color uniformity of uniform and none whatever in the color of the facings on the frocks. All colors were used for the facings with black, white, yellow, green and blue hunting shirts were worn. During the winter retreat of 1776 across New Jersey, the army suffered greatly from a lack of clothing, so much so that citizens were requested to donate any old clothes to the Army. Gen. Washington distributed these prior to the battle of Trenton.

The first uniformity of dress appears to be in 1775 when a regiment of Virginia infantry, at their own expense, dressed themselves in hunting shirts, leggings and had white bindings on their hats. After George Washington arrived at Concord in July of 1775, things began to change.

In an effort to establish uniformity in distinction of rank, an order was issued directing that field officers should have red or pink colored cockades in their hats; Captains yellow or buff and subalterns, green. Also, sergeants shall have a stripe of red cloth on their right shoulder, and a corporal, one of green. Then in November of 1775, Congress resolved that new uniforms would be paid for by taking a portion from each soldiers pay. Brown was the chosen color with the various colors on the frock coat facings to distinguish separate regiments.

A regimental uniform usually consisted of the following items of clothing and accoutrements, which if the Army could not supply, the soldier would have to supply himself:

- A regimental coat, wool, 12 pewter buttons with cuff and vest facings of contrasting colors.
- Cocked hat with cockade (a cloth rosette or ribbon) designating his military service.
- A stock made of linen or leather, used to hold the shirt closed. (hence the term 'leathernecks').
- Waistcoat with many buttons, usually of linen (summer) or wool (winter) color told the regiment.
- Breeches (pants) which buckled below the knee or 'overalls' which buckled at the ankle.
- Stockings made of wool or linen and shoes (there was no 'right' or 'left').
- A musket, cartridge box, vent pick and brush, bayonet, hatchet, tomahawk or axe, and knapsack.

The Provincial Congress of 1775 requested that the 'Green Mountain Boys' uniform be of green cloth and have red blouse facings. After that, Congress passed many resolutions to standardize the uniforms and insignia of rank, but it was not until 1779 that a resolution (authorized Gen. Washington) to standardize the uniform color, and facings colors. All uniforms were to be blue with each state to have a separate facing color. In 1799, green coats with white facings for the cavalry and blue coats with red facings for infantry and artillery were issued and a year later the cavalry changed to black facings with white vests and breeches.

More changes were yet to come, not just for the regimentals, but officer staff as well, including the familiar 'white crossed belts' so often pictured as part of the Revolutionary War soldier uniform.
