A tip from the Ruddles Fort list at rootsweb.com, by Diana J. Muir, P. G., FRENCH AND INDIAN WAR CASUALTIES

If you're searching for records of ancestors who may have been killed in the French and Indian War, you probably know by now that records of the latter 1700's are difficult to find. Church records may be the only source of information for deaths (as well as marriages and births) during this time. These records might also document immigration routes and early skirmishes between settlers and the Indians. You also may want to search early land and tax records. Applications for land ownership listed the applicants' names and often verified their lineage.
