introduction

A study of tax lists can yield a great deal of genealogical information. Especially useful are the chattel, or personal property, schedules, which are included in the Ohio tax duplicates beginning in 1826: many persons who were not landowners did own horses or cattle and thus appear only on the chattel lists.

Using the chattel lists, it is sometimes possible to discover names of widows who might not appear on census returns because they resided in the households of relatives. It is also sometimes possible to find names of sons who might be "summarized" on the censuses as living in their parents' households and yet owned livestock and thus appear on the chattel lists. Clues to relationships may be found by studying adjacent landowners or successive owners of a parcel of land. The appearance of a reference to a landowner's heirs may help to pinpoint the date of his death. The value of tax lists to genealogical researchers should not be underestimated.

This index to more than 4,000 Scioto, Lawrence, and Pike County taxpayers is based on the following tax duplicates:

- for Scioto County
 - 1823: land-tax list
 - 1826, 1828: both land and chattel lists
- for Lawrence County
 - 1822: land-tax list
 - 1828: both land and chattel lists
- for Pike County
 - 1823: land-tax list
 - 1826, 1829: both land and chattel lists

The original tax duplicates, which were submitted to the Office of Auditor of State by county officials, are now in the custody of the Ohio Historical Society, Columbus. This index was prepared from microfilm copies.

In the original tax lists, certain idiosyncrasies appear. For example, of the documents indexed, only the 1822 and 1823 lists differentiate residents and nonresidents, but no lists for these years indicate township of residence.

The Scioto County duplicates present a special problem in that the official apparently recorded some of the names in completely inverted form [e.g., "Smith A. John" for "John A. Smith"]. This practice, which appears to be inconsistent, presents obvious problems in transcription, since it is often impossible to determine the initial's proper position. Consequently, the reader is warned to check all names under a surname and not to be misled by a possibly misplaced initial.

Many of the lists, especially those for Lawrence County, are extremely difficult to decipher. The compiler has rechecked names when possible or feasible, but readings are often open to various interpretations. Particularly difficult instances are indicated by question marks [?] following the names in question. Readers are advised to look under as many possible variant spellings as their imaginations might devise.

In the index which follows, entries for each name are consolidated and include the following information:

- name, spelled as in original
- county and year

5/2/96 - Charlotte Taylor - 8.00

land location (range/town/section), if given township, if specified
page number of land-tax reference, if applicable
page number of chattel-tax reference, if application

It should be noted that this is an index to names, not to persons. That is, as is common, all references to a given name have been merged into one entry; therefore, more than one person (but with the same name) might be represented by the entry. Too, if a name appears more than once on a page of the list, perhaps indicating more than one individual, it has been entered only once in the index (a number in parentheses after a page number indicates that more than one separate entry for the name appears).

As noted, illegible names have been checked, when possible, against lists for other years. The fullest form of the name has been used, whenever possible, to avoid the use of abbreviations or initials. An entry such as "Dan(ie)1" means that in one year the name appeared in abbreviated form ("Dan¹") but was written out in full in another.

As was noted above, the names are spelled as they appear in the original -- they have not been "corrected" to conform to modern usage, even when the modern form was known. However, some surnames were spelled one way in one year and another way in another year. When feasible, entries for such names have been grouped under one spelling, and cross references have been provided from the variant spellings (unless very similar). A few other cross references have been provided, but readers are again urged to search for all possible spellings.

Only "current" taxpayers have been included in this index, under the year(s) in which they were assessed: original proprietors, indicated in some early lists, have not been indexed, unless, of course, they were liable for taxes also in the years indexed.

Finally, it is almost inevitable, especially when numbers are involved, that some errors in transcription will occur, despite careful checking. For any which appear in this index, the compiler sincerely apologizes.

Note: This is the second in a series of indexes to tax lists for southern Ohio. The first, Southern Ohio Taxpayers in the 1820s: Gallia and Jackson Counties, was published in 1979 and contains approximately 3,000 names.

sample entries

Following are sample entries, with explanations:

A. BEAMAN/BEEMAN, Cha(u)ncey

PIK 1826 ch SF /44

1829 VMD SF /41; ch SF /44

In this entry, both the surname and the forename were spelled differently in different years; therefore, both spellings are presented. (No cross reference is needed since the two forms are very similar.)

A person by this name was listed on the 1826 personal-property (chattel) list for Sunfish Twp., p. 44. No one by the same name appears on the land-tax duplicate for that year.

A person by the same name (perhaps but not certainly the same person) appears on both land and chattel lists for Sunfish Twp., Pike Co., in 1829. The land for which taxes were assessed was located in the Virginia Military District, and the entry appears on p. 41. The entry on the chattel list appears on p. 44.

B. BECKLEY?, Solomon

LAW 1822 17-1-2 /1

1828 BN 1t FA/21; ch FA/31

In this instance, the spelling of the name is uncertain (probably because of illegible handwriting or faded ink), but the best guess is BECKLEY; it perhaps could be BEEKLEY or BERKLEY.

Here, the person appears on p. 1 of the Lawrence Co. tax duplicate for 1822 and is assessed for land located in Range 17, Town 1, Section 2. In 1828 a person by this name is entered as owning a lot or lots in the town of Burlington, Fayette Twp., and also as owing tax for personal property in the same township. The entries appear on pp. 21 and 31.

C. JACKSON, William

SCI 1823 18-4-18 /7

1826 s1 BL /78; ch BL /79

1828 s1 BL /86; ch BL /87

In this entry, a person named William Jackson appears on the 1823 Scioto Co. list as owning land in Range 18, Town 4, Section 18. The reference appears on p. 7.

Persons of the same name (probably but not definitely the same person) are listed as owning land in the same location (18-4-18) on the duplicates of both 1826 and 1828 (pp. 78 and 86, respectively) and also appear on the chattel lists for the same two years (pp. 79 and 87, respectively).

D. DUNLAVY, James, hrs

PIK 1823 (N) VMD /12

In this entry, the heirs of James Dunlavy, who are not residents of Pike Co., are listed on p. 12 of the Pike Co. tax duplicates for 1823 as owning land in the Virginia Military District.

NOTE: A list of abbreviations used in the index appears on the next page.

Several maps of all or part of the area included in Pike, Scioto, and Lawrence Counties are available and are helpful in locating the land for which taxpayers were assessed.

Probably the most useful of these may be purchased from the Ohio Department of Natural Resources. C.E. Sherman's Original Ohio Land Subdivisions, Volume III of the Final Report, Ohio Cooperative Topographical Survey (1925), which has been reprinted, contains several relevant maps, as well as discussions of the various surveys, and should be consulted by anyone doing research in Ohio counties. The accompanying wall map, which shows the surveys and indicates ranges, townships, and sections, is indispensable and is available in either color or black and white.

Walling's Ohio Atlas of 1868, which contains maps for all sections of the state, as well as other useful information, has also been reprinted and is available for purchase from the Bookmark, Knightstown, Indiana.

More recent maps of the counties and of many townships are sold by the various county engineers' offices, the Ohio Department of Transportation, and the U.S. Geological Survey.

Place Names in Warren County, Ohio

Place names are frequently a source of local history. Named for persons, locations or events that concerned the pioneers, these places assume new interest when the name is explored.

This list contains the more familiar names but many early ones have been lost to the present generation.

The name Ohio was of Indian origin and was given to the River which had its beginning trickle at Pittsburgh and became the highway to the west for thousands of pioneers.

The name Ohio became prominent after a meeting of Revolutionary War veterans at The Bunch of Grapes Tavern in Boston, Massachusetts, in 1781 and organized the Ohio Company to open the western territory to settlement.

The river was the southern boundary and gave its name to the State of Ohio which was established in 1803.

Warren County was established by an act of the First General Assembly of the new State of Ohio and was passed on March 24, 1803. It was named for the first great martyr in the cause of American independence, General Joseph Warren, who died at Bunker Hill. The name, chosen to honor this great man and a great cause, is of interest in this collection of place names.

Warren County was made up of the Virginia Military Land, given for military service, which was all of the county east of the Little Miami River; the Symmes' Purchase, west of the Little Miami and south of an east-west line passing about a mile north of the present city of Lebanon; and the Congress Lands, which were transferred immediately to the occupant or purchaser by the officers of the Government, comprising all the land west of the Little Miami River and north of the Symmes' Purchase. The Symmes' land was named for John Cleve Symmes who purchased this land from the U. S. government for resale to settlers.

The names of the waterways in the county record many historic facts. The Great Miami and the Little Miami received these names from the tribe of Indians who roamed this area when it was first occupied by pioneer settlers.

Turtle Creek was named for the great Chief Little turtle of the same tribe.

Caesars Creek is said to have been named for a faithful colored slave who was buried on its banks.

Todds Fork carries the name of Robert Todd who came from Kentucky to survey that section.

Other creeks bear the names of pioneers who located along the waterways. One such is Reeder's Run where David Reeder purchased 320 acres of land west of Lebanon in 1797. Other such names are Ertle run, Jonahs Run, Cottle Run, Newman Run, Martin Run, Hall's Creek and Linton Ditch.

In recent years more family names have been used, occasionally substituted for older names, as shown on modern maps. Most of them are familiar to Warren County natives: Dearth's Run, Wolfe Creek, Miller, Baker, Fannie Tullis, Weaver, Green, Dugan, Roser, Riley, Emley Satterthwaite, Dakin, Cook, Rich, Cowan, Mulford, Irons and Foley are a few.

The Shakers, who established their community west of Lebanon in 1805, lent their name to Shaker Creek where their mills were located, and Shaker Swamp, whose treacherous land and waters played havoc with the Warren County Canal.

Station Creek was so-name after William Bedle established Bedle Station and built the only block house in Warren County in the autumn of 1795.

Clear Creek was named for its clear waters. Muddy Creek and Little Muddy, obviously less clear. Dry Run for its condition at certain seasons and Salt run for the same reason.

The names of Twin Creek, First Creek and Second Creek, as well as Flat Fork seem justified.

Other waterways incite wonder or curiosity, such as Turkey Run, goose Creek and Gander run, Dog Run, Bear Run, Hen Run, and perhaps Lick Run. To be added are: Coon Run, Bitter, Bee Run, Plum Run, Bull Run, and Rat Tail Branch.

Sugar Creek probably slashed a sugar maple grove, but how did Grog Run happen to have its name?

Conocoche Creek was named by Samuel Walker who came from that area in Pennsylvania. There must certainly be other place names reminding the historians of "back home" locations.

In the early years of our nation when less than half of the population could read, a law was passed making it necessary for all taverns to display a picture sign. Even the most unlearned traveler could see such a sign and understand that he had reached this destination. The most colorful chapter in the history of place names in our county is the result of that practice.

Among the taverns of Warren County with picturesque signs were: The Black Horse, The Golden Lamb, The Red Lion, The Black Bear, The White Horse, Two White Horses, The Black Hawk, The Bull's Head, The Red Buck, The Blue Ball, The Green Tree, The Crossed Keys, The George Washington, Goddess of Liberty, Andrew Jackson and many others.

The township names are of interest too. Franklin Township was established May 10, 1803. It took its name for the town within its borders and was one of the four original townships in the county.

Wayne Township, also established May 10, 1803 was named for the settlement within its borders, and was one of the original four.

Deerfield Township was organized at the same time, May 10, 1803, and its name derived from the many salt licks where deer came to lick the saline waters.

Hamilton Township, another of the original four, was established May 10, 1803, and named for Alexander Hamilton.

Turtle Creek Township, established August 15, 1804, was named for Chief Little and the creek of that name which crossed it.

Eaton Township was established in 1806 and was a large area in the north-east section of the county. This township was in the land granted to Clinton County in 1810 and is the only township name lost to the County. It was named for Jonah Eaton who made his home in a large sycamore tree.

Salem Township was formed from a part of Hamilton Township in June 1813. In 1860, it was briefly called Corwin Township but soon returned to the original name.

Salem Township was formed from a part of Hamilton Township in June 1813. In 1860, it was briefly called Corwin Township but soon returned to the original name.

Union Township was established January 3, 1815. It embraced land from Turtle Creek and Deerfield Townships.

Clear Creek Township was established October, 1817 and named for the large creek which stretched across the township.

Washington Township was established June 8, 1818. Named for George Washington who died as the first settlements were made here.

Massie Township was established October 10, 1850 and was named for General Nathaniel Massie who surveyed the area in 1792.

Harlan Township was established March 16, 1850. It was the last of the Warren County Townships to be established. Formed from part of Salem Township it was named for George Harlan, an early settler.

There are many crossroads, cemeteries, hills and valleys that bear interesting names and could be added to this list.

Spook Hollow, a low valley running from Rt. 48 to East 73, through an old cemetery, has long been associated with spooks. Summer breezes down this valley carry whispers of ghosts--winter gales carry wailing shrieks. Thus nature itself lends reality to names.
