THE SLATEN BUNCH, A SUPPLEMENTAL SLATON/SLATEN FAMILY HISTORY by Joe J. Slaten, 5475 Coonen Dr., Riverside, California 92503. 8½ x 11, soft cover. No index. No price given.

Apparently this is a supplement to a Slaton family history written by the author's great uncle although the answer to that is elusive. In his Introduction, Mr. Slaten states his work "... is well documented back to 1799," but this reviewer can find little documentation listed other than an occasional casual mention of a census, letter, marriage, etc.

The work is, on the other hand, interesting and folksy. After reading the book one has the feeling he has some insight into each person's personality and character; that person is more than a statistic in a formal genealogy. The author has maintained a great sense of humor about his kin. He has written accounts of the things that happened to family members that are normally lost to future generations. The author is an excellent story teller and makes his relatives come alive to the reader.
