HUMAN REMAINS FROM VOEGTLY CEMETERY TROY HILL, PITTSBURGH, ALLEGHENY COUNTY PA

This article was published in Smithsonian Contributions to Anthropology 46: 224 pages, 130 figures, 24 tables, 3 appendices, 2003 with cover design a Lithograph of Voegtly Church in 1883. In 1987, stimulated by planned highway construction, an archeological survey located the cemetery associated with Voegtly Church and Parsonage [Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania] which was dated to between 1833 and 1861. An extensive excavation that year located 724 features thought to represent human burials and recovered the remains and associated artifacts. Analysis of the human remains revealed highly variable preservation with extensive weathering, especially among subadults. Cultural alterations on the teeth include evidence for pipe smoking. Living stature averaged about 160 cm (5 ft 3 in) for females and 170 cm (5 ft 7 in) for males. Pathological conditions included trauma, infection, extreme arthritis, and tuberculosis. Dental health was generally poor, with high frequencies of dental caries, alveolar abscessing, antemortem tooth loss, and dental hypoplasia. Mortality rates were high and life expectancy was generally low, especially among infants and children.

Information from the Voegtly Cemetery records about specific individuals interred in the cemetery, translated by Dzodin and Luff (1989), is presented below in tabular form. Not all information could be included because of space constraints, but the name, maiden names, spouse's name, dates of birth and death, and place of birth are presented. Each burial is numbered as it was by the pastor; thus there are some inevitable mistakes, such as duplications or omissions of numbers. Those members of the parish not buried at Voegtly were not included. Every effort has been made to copy the information accurately. The first two pastors (or their translators) did not use traditional German characters and discritics, such as ß or the umlaut (e.g., "elsass" rather than "Elsaß"). These were transcribed as they appeared in the records. The records following do tend to use the German characters and diacritics, which are reproduced here.

Many of the dates of birth had to be calculated from the information provided by the pastor. For example, the pastor gave the date of death, and then how many days, months, and years the person lived. Some inaccuracies may have been introduced into birth dates because of errors in the information provided. As noted by the translators, illegible letters were indicated by "" to indicate that information is present but is not decipherable.

Some individuals were not given birth dates or other information by the pastor, but baptism dates indicated they were probably infants. Others did not have first names. In some cases, the pastor noted that an individual was unbaptised; in other cases it is clear from the age that the individual was an infant. In some cases the pastor simply wrote "the child of...." Infants who were stillborn were noted as such. These types of designations have been added in brackets ([]).

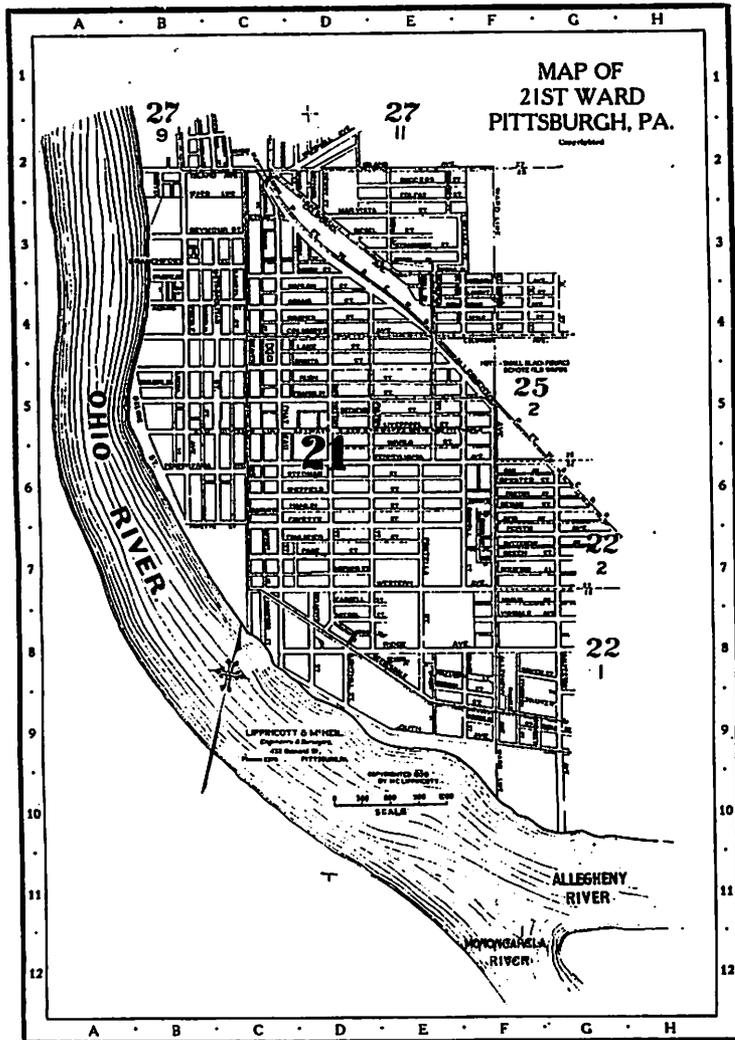

Spouses who were widowed and remarried show both their birth names and their first husband's names, which are in parentheses. Their children tended to keep the name under which they were born.

The names are presented in alphabetical order, rather than temporal order, with the pastor's record number to the left. At least three of the individuals can probably be identified based on information given in the burial records and their placement in the cemetery. Burial #15, which archaeological field notes reference as a leg buried east-west (all other burials were oriented north-south), may be the limb of burial #50, which appeared to represent an adult with an amputated leg. These may be the remains of Johann Jakob Babst (burial record #210), who, "during the night of the 13th to 14th of Sept., 1842, he broke his left leg when he

This Map is taken from Atlas of the City of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania 1911 with new and old ward numbers and street name guide published 1992 by WPGS and available from them. The Manchester area of old Allegheny was the 21st (old 5th) Ward in 1911 and we have located Chateau C5, Metropolitan C3, Fayette B6 and Franklin D5. The Ferry mentioned in number 25 was then located at the foot of Ferry St. later Beaver and the Ohio River, e.g.; the map on the following page is taken from the same volume and shows Greater Pittsburgh showing location of Wards (in large letters) and old Ward numbers shown in small numbers, so the reader can identify the 21st Ward in 1911.

Two other identifications may be the adjacent, very small coffins of burials #219 and #224, which may represent the stillborn Dierdorf children (burial records #378 and 379).

SALEM EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCH
FAYETTE, WILMINGTON TWP., LAWRENCE COUNTY PA
ORGANIZED 1850 – CLOSED 1922

This history is taken from a newspaper article, c1925+, entitled "Document from Dismantled Church Reveals Fay/Fayette/Fayetteville Was Once Thriving Town." written by a Mr. Beerbower who wishes to acknowledge 3 people from whom he got valuable information: Miss Emma Hamm, Mrs. Fred Seley and Miss Ruth Seley.

Situated on the old stage coach road leading from New Castle to Mercer, Pa., is the little village of Fay with its few brick homes and more modern structures. The village does not give the passing tourist any evidence of having been a thriving town 100 years ago.

Soon after the Revolutionary War, on 21 June 1786, a surveyor named Evans started his survey of this area of the western Pennsylvania Donation Lands for which certificates were given to Pennsylvania soldiers and officers who served in that war. The land surrounding the village of Fay was surveyed for 4 privates, namely Henry Walker, Henry Maxwell, John McMullen and John Akely, each purchasing 200 acres. The Walker tract was what is now the Ralph Watson [1925+] farm, and the land which was given to the church by Jamison Watson for the use of the church, cemetery and parsonage.

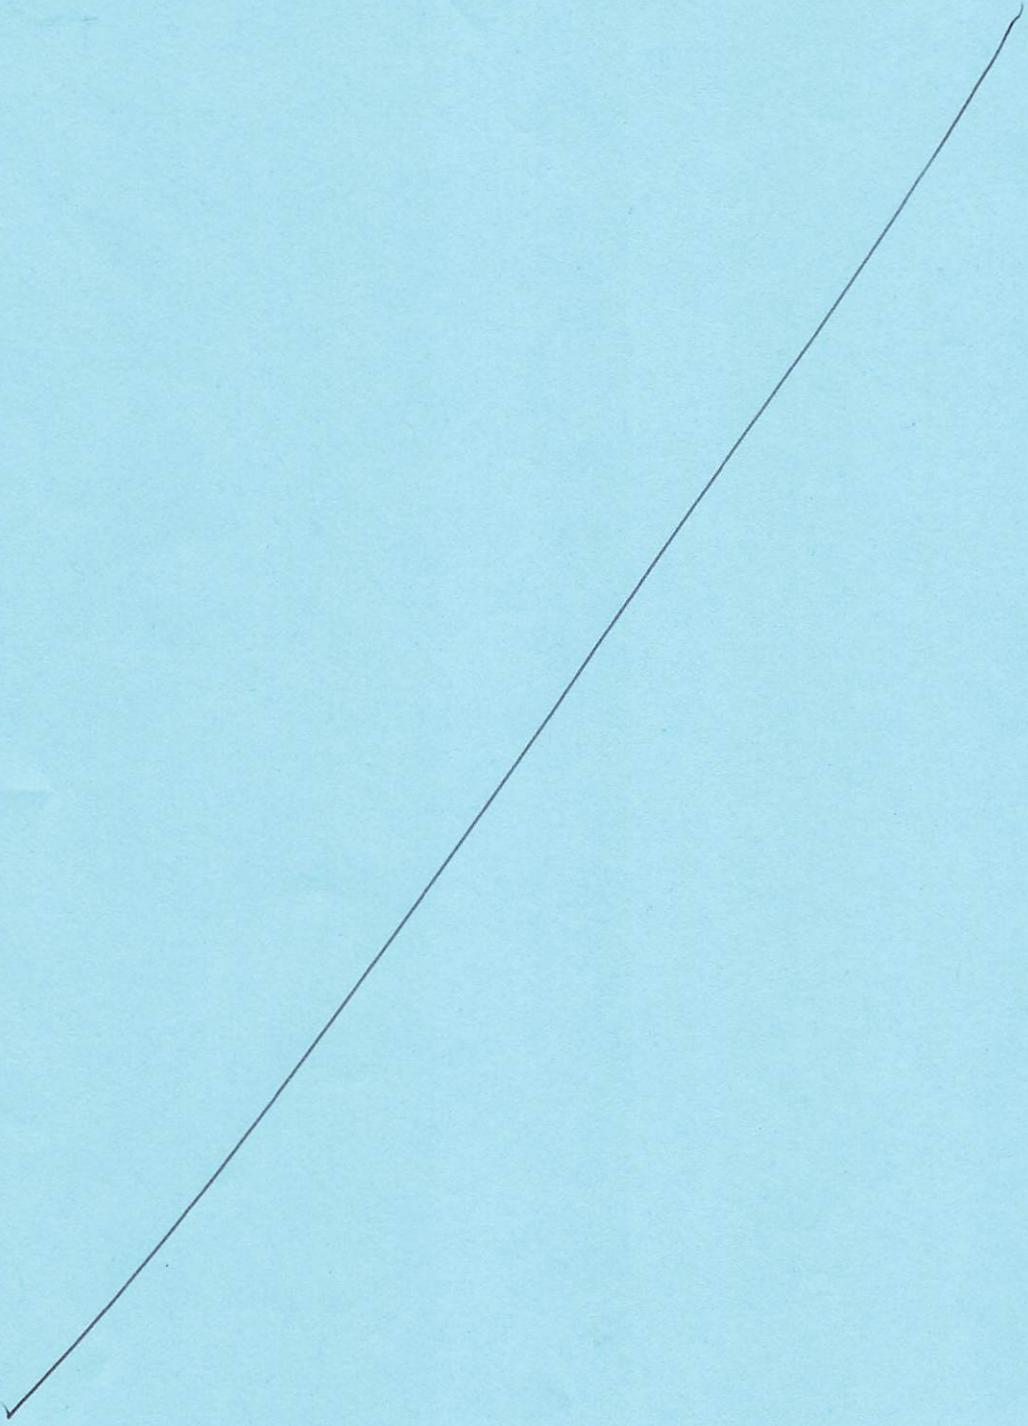

Also, at that time, Ely Woods, a wagon maker, who could have purchased 15 acres and a cabin on Washington Street in New Castle, preferred to settle in Fayetteville as there was much more business in that community.

Rev. Ellis Beaver Burgess, in his Memorial History of the Pittsburgh Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church, 1925, says "The first Lutherans to settle in this community were from Mifflin County Pa. They were organized by Rev. S.D. Witt with 13 members 19 Aug 1850. A number of English families also settled in the village and these also became members of Salem Church. Ground for a church and cemetery was donated by Jamison Watson, and a frame building was dedicated 14 January 1855. The parsonage was built in 1867 at a cost of $1,700. For many years this was one of the most prosperous rural churches and then came an Amish immigration which bought all of the available farming land and gradually expelled the original families. Salem Church perished with the expulsion. Before disbandment, the church and parsonage were deeded to the Pittsburgh Synod. Both properties were later sold, but some of the furniture was given to the Sharon Mission, and the church bell was given to the Bethay Church at New Castle, Pa."

In 1925 the Pittsburgh Synod, Evangelical Lutheran Church, Ellis B. Burgess, President deeded the land to William Lehman and others. The church was dismantled, the lumber and stone used to erect a dwelling on the Lehman land. In taking out the cornerstone, a box was found which contained a copy of The Lawrence Journal published in New Castle 9 Sept 1854, some coins, and a written account of the laying of the cornerstone 26 Sept 1854. All were in good condition.

Names of the church officers contained in the above history were: Rev. J.H. Brown, pastor. John Hoser, William Hime, elders: Lewis Ogden, Jared Ham, deacons. Building committee: John Hoser, Thomas Ashmore, Isaac Miller, William Harrah, Jared Ham. Names of members of the church were: John Hoser and wife; William Hime and daughter; Jared Ham and wife; Lewis Ogden and wife; Isaac Miller and wife; Joseph Ort and wife; John Axe and wife; Robert Barr and wife; J.P. Conrad and wife; Isaac Peters; Charles Maffit; John Hemp and wife; Jacob Young; George Weaver; Mary Peters, Margaret Peters; Mary Jane Gephart; and Mrs. May Ort.

Names of the citizens of the village: William Hodge; Adam Warefield; Jno. Robinson; J.H. Brown, pastor; Thomas Ashmore Jr.; Francis Ashmore, Sr.; James Clarke; James Palmer; John Jones; H. Chatfield; Adam Detwiler (abolotionist); Daniel McLane; Dr. A.J. Pyle; Henry Broadbent; John Pearson; Isaac Miller;

BURIALS IN LOBBS CEMETERY, JEFFERSON TWP., ALLEGHENY COUNTY

From Abrahams Funeral Home Records

A reading of Lobbs Cemetery, Jefferson Township, Allegheny County Pa was presented in WPGSQ 21:1(Summer 1994):4-12 edited by Jeanne Will, 118 Neilson Dr., Jefferson Hills PA 15025-3324 who is also compiler of this material.

The following additional burials were found in the J.B. Abrahams Funeral Home Records which are held by the Elizabeth Twp. Historical Society, 5811 Smithfield Street, Boston PA 15135, 412/754-2030. Dates included in this volume begin 1 August 1883 and end 13 Sept 1905. J.B. Abrahams Funeral Home was located at 816 Fourth Street, West Elizabeth Pa (across from the now Harry Drum Funeral Home, and is now a parking lot). If a reader is interested in a copy of any of these readings, it is suggested that they contact the Elizabeth Twp. H.S. and send a $10.00 donation for each request. The xxxx were probably items x'd off (copied exactly as in the original).
