SUPPLEMENTAL LIST OF PENNSYLVANIA SOLDIERS IN THE REVOLUTION

PA
MBC
3.

From the Militia, Flying Camp and Rangers from Pennsylvania who were applicants for State annuities, giving residence at the time, with statement of service during the Revolution. Taken from the Journals of Assembly. Refr. Pennsylvania Archives 2nd Series Volume 15 pp. 763-771. (Note: this volume is not every-name indexed).

Correspondence from Jonathan Stayer, Head, Reference Section of the State Archives, Harrisburg regarding the following list concerning additional papers which they may hold reads: "I briefly compared the list with our index of Revolutionary War pension records at the State Archives, and found that we hold payment ledger entries for many of the names. Although my brief scan of our index did not locate any actual papers or applications for the men listed, I assume that it is likely that the papers survive for a few of the veterans. Unfortunately, for most of the Acts of the Assembly granting the payment to Revolutionary veterans or their widows, no application-type papers survive - if any were ever submitted. The Revolutionary War pension records in our custody are available for research during our normal public hours. Most of them have been microfilmed. The index is available in our Search Room. We will check the Revolutionary War pension records by mail upon the payment of $10.00 per name search fee. Send a check or money order payable to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to our NEW ADDRESS:

Pennsylvania State Archives
350 North Street
Harrisburg PA 17120-0090

The fee includes the search and copies of records found. Frequently only one or two payment ledger entries will be found per veteran. The ledgers usually indicate the name and residence of the veteran, and the dates and pension payments as well as the name of the person receiving the payment. The date of the veteran's death often is noted because his decease terminated the pension payments."

The Flying Camp is mentioned frequently and your ed. quotes from The Pennsylvania Line: Regimental Organization and Operations, 1775-1783 by John B.B. Trussell, 1993 2d edition, Pa.Hist.Mus. Comm. Harrisburg Pa. pp. vi-vii. The 'Flying Camp' was created in July 1776, as a reserve or pool of organizations, to reinforce the Continental Army on an emergency or temporary basis. It consisted primarily of local, militia-type units called up from the colonies of the Middle Atlantic region. Although the unit structure remained relatively constant, the individual personnel comprising it fluctuated, departing on the expiration of their prescribed limited tours of duty and being replaced by others, until the tours of those men also expired. The members of the Flying Camp, although provided by the individual colonies, were paid by Congress. In the case of Pennsylvania, some units in the full-time service of the colony (as distinct from short-term volunteers or from militia in State service, and from Continentals in the service of Congress) were briefly made available to the 'Flying Camp.' A footnote refers to Eric I. Manders, "Notes on Troop Units in the Flying Camp, 1776," Military Collector & Historian, 24:1(Spring 1974):9-13.

want you to keep for me
nothing more at present.

Alexander Walter to Jacob Walter

Rite from Direct as before

This letter was written on June 9, 1862 to Jacob Walter by his younger brother Alexander Walter.

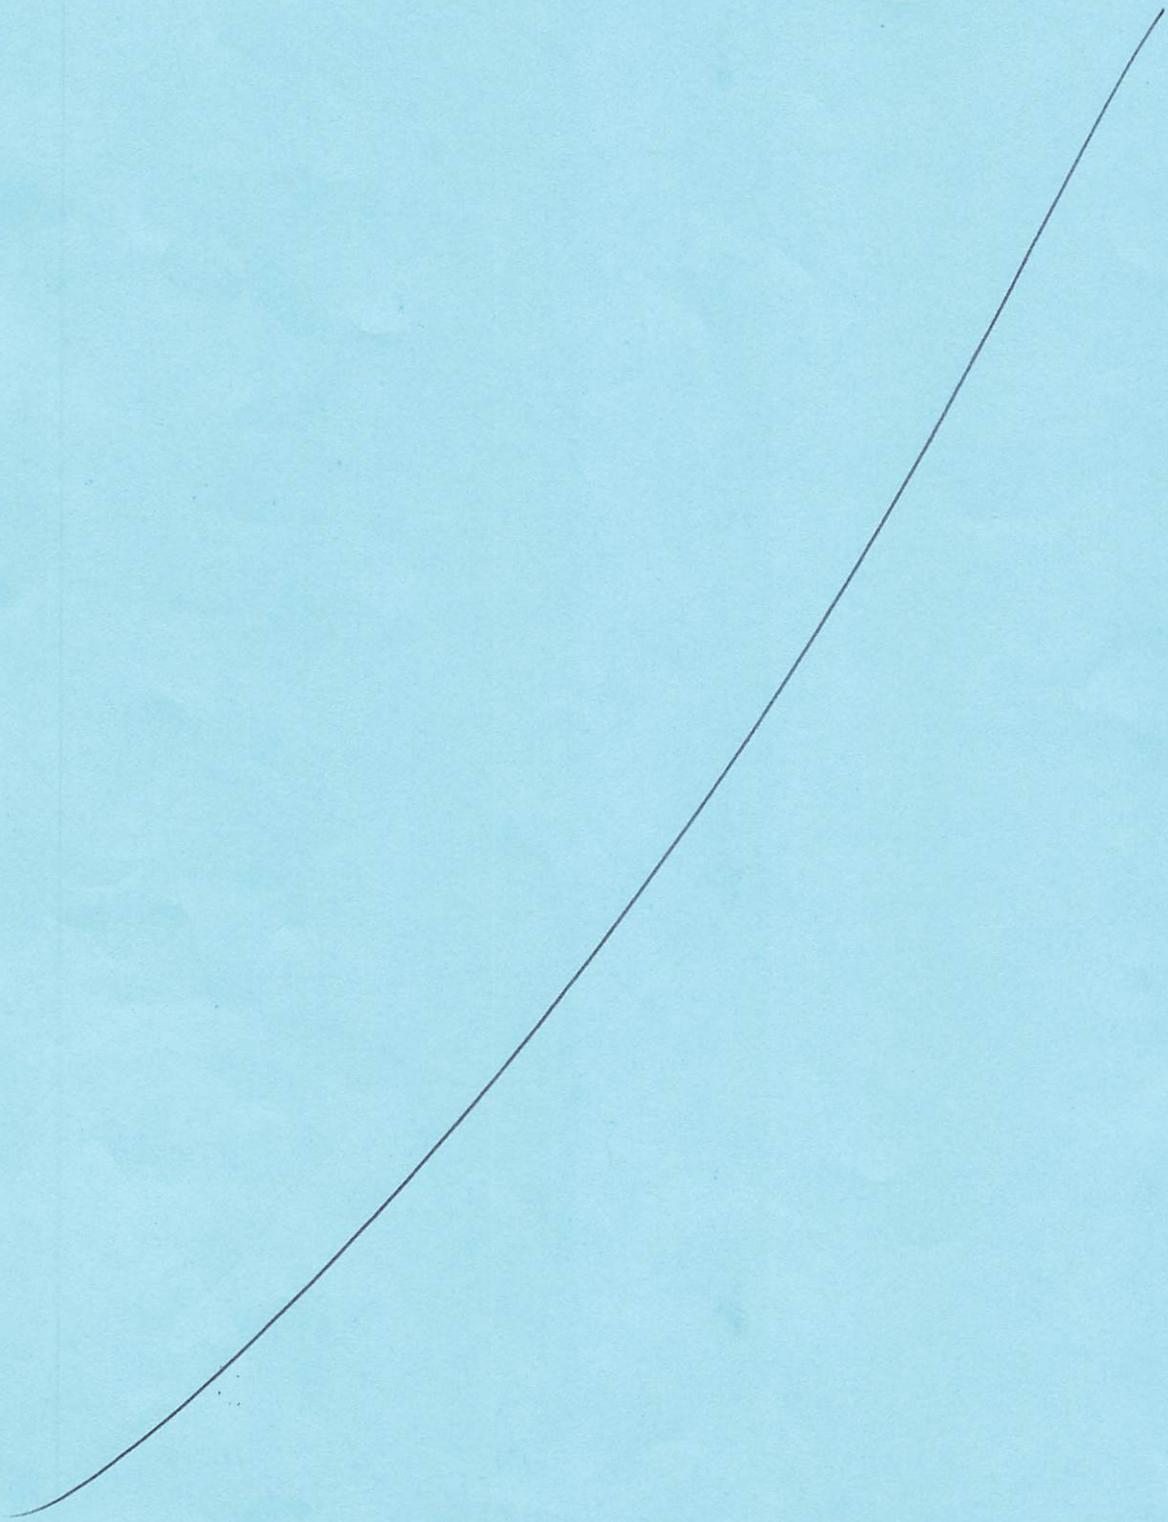

Alexander became ill with typhoid fever at or near Fredricksburg, Virginia, the first day of September 1862. He was taken to Fairfax Seminary Hospital in Virginia, and he died on September 9, 1862 at the age of 20.

Note:

"While the average soldier believed the bullet was his most nefarious foe, disease was the biggest killer of the war. Of the Federal dead, roughly three out of five died of disease, and of the Confederate, perhaps two out of three."

CONGRESSIONAL MEDAL OF HONOR RECIPIENTS

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has the second largest number of Congressional Medal of Honor Recipients from across the United States. Out of a total 3,458 Medal of Honor recipients, fifteen of these recipients were with ties to our county of Washington, Pennsylvania. Currently, there are 143 living recipients. A bronze plaque dedicated to our Washington County men was unveiled at the Tourist Promotion Agency on the Veterans' Walkway last June 15, 2002. We are indebted to Mr. Ed Snarey, Chairman of the Medal of Honor Plaque Dedication Committee, for his zealous efforts in researching and bringing to fruition this recognition so deserved by our devoted servicemen. The Honorees are:
