1840 CENSUS 5 INDEX FOR LOGAN COUNTY, VIRGINIA

(later West Virginia)

Edited by Agnes B. Pearlman

INTRODUCTION

Located within the state of Virginia in 1840, Logan County had a total population of 4,307 including 140 slaves and one free colored. William Hinchman, Assistant to the Marshal of the Western District of Virginia, certified 14 September 1840 that his enumeration had been "ascertained by an actual inquiry at every dwelling house or a personal inquiry of the head of every family or some of the family over sixteen years of age" in conformity with the provisions of the act to provide for taking of the Sixth Census of the United States.

According to a statement signed by Hinchman, many families did not answer the special questions regarding slaves, disability, etc., "not willing to have the same attached to their families." Thus, whether there were at that time more than the three Revolutionary War pensioners identified on the listing is uncertain. The residents certainly were given an opportunity for making desired corrections and additions. A certificate filed by Charles A. Smoot and Anthony Lawson verified that a correct copy of the schedule had been "set up at two of the most public places within the County of Logan open to the inspection of all concerned."

For the benefit of genealogical researchers, this edition contains several convenient features: numerical listing, alphabetical index, and map. Households in the original, handwritten schedules were neither numbered nor alphabetized so that locating a family was tedious and time-consuming. In this transcription each name appears in its original order but is printed, numbered, then indexed in a separate section for ease of reference. In addition, following a brief description of the county's evolution, there is a map inside the back cover showing Logan's boundaries as of 1840 and at present.

With any handwritten, deteriorating, or microfilmed records legibility sometimes poses problems, and these enumerations proved no exception. To indicate that an entry was difficult to decipher, a question mark precedes the name or names in this volume. More than one choice is listed if the penmanship was open to various interpretations. Otherwise, only the singular spelling for head of family entered by the census taker is given—even though it is possible another version might have been in current use by the family. Categories under column headings "Males" and "Females" are identical to the original and refer to number of free, white inhabitants of the county in each age group.

Although extreme care has been taken to assure accuracy in copying the records and in preparing the index and map, errors may have occurred. It is hoped, however, that any inaccuracies will be outweighed by the advantages of having these records available in this form.

FORMATION

Logan County, which was formed in 1824 from parts of Cabell, Giles, Kanawha, and Tazewell Counties, covered a geographical area which at various times previously had also been under the jurisdiction of Monroe, Wythe, Greenbrier, Montgomery, Fincastle, Botetourt, and Augusta Counties. Logan subsequently had sections allocated for other counties: Fayette in 1831, Boone in 1847, Raleigh and Wyoming in 1850, McDowell in 1858, Lincoln in 1867, and Mingo in 1895.
